Mr. President:

Dear Mr. Mrs. Roosevelt:

I'm sure you are too busy to conscider my letter. But I am a pensiond widow and feel the Lord would have me write you and thank you for all you are doing in this struggle for freedom and want you to know I am doing all I can. I am collecting cans cutting the ends, collecting all kinds of scrap, and saving my grease.

We are back of you with our prayers. I sent you a little present before Christmas. Mr. President ask the Lord to guide you and I know he is able to lead us out of this great conflict if we trust Him. Priase the Lord.

I am wishing you and Mrs. Roosevelt a Happy New Year.

Dear Miss DeHand:-

Last May 17th, a ship, on which I was a merchant seaman, was torpedoed and sunk. I lost all my personal belongings, including a letter from you signed for the President.

This letter thanked me for a piece of bead work that I had made for the President and his wife. The letter was dated sometime in October 1940.

I treasured this letter very highly and of course regretted losing it. I would like a duplicate of it, if it is at all possible.

Enclosed is a newspaper clipping giving you some proof of my story. Will you please return clipping as it is the only one I have.

He has been so extremely busy the last couple of weeks preparing the Budget message and his Annual Message to the Congress, that he has not had any leisure. However, he is looking forward with much pleasure to what will be a new experiment for him. We will let you know the results.

The President asks me to send you and Mrs. Bishop his best wishes for the New Year.

THIRTY BEEKMAN PLACE
NEW YORK

December 22, 1942.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President:

To elicit from you a chuckle and a smile as a momentary surcease from your burdens, is the Christmas wish of those who love you.

Be not weary of scattering pearls before people like Bertie, Cissie and Pat. Their editors are probably biological. To them a pearl is really only a tummy-ache, just an oyster's gall-stone gone wrong.

To prove that, I am sending you a dozen oysters. Inoculated ten years ago with a grain of sand, left on an ocean bed of pain to work out the answer, they have each produced a pearl. To some, the result is beautiful ---- others are only reminded of belly-aches and act accordingly. Maybe that's the answer.

And since Mathew 7:6 connects pearls and pork, I am sending you a little Golden Pig for your collection. His name is Henry, for his head is luce. Snap it open and you will have a clever depository for your pearls.

Keep Henry on your desk; and when the storms of dissension swirl amidst the assembled stubborn ones, just idly snap his head open and roll out his pearly innards, pick them up and roll again. The second roll ought to "fade" even a $/yr. man.

Mrs. Bishop joins me in sincere wishes to you and yours for a Most Happy Christmas.

Faithfully yours,

Richard E. Bishop.

THE AMERICAN SOLDIER'S MORAL GUIDE

BY

NAHUM BEN-HORIM
233 WEST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK, N. Y.

January 5, 1943

To His Excellency,
The President of the United States of America,
Franklin Delano Roosevelt
The White House
Washington, D. C.

Mr. President;

This great and horrible World War will be won, under God, by the United Nations, of whom the United States of America is predominant.

The military and industrial prosecution of the war is amply cared for by our Government. The instillation of a spirit of patriotism and heroism in the fighting force, - that they be fully conscious of their sacred mission and of the Divine Providence guarding and shielding them in their difficult, heroic labors, - is largely entrusted to civilian agencies.

The enclosed little book, "The American Soldier's Moral Guide", the first copy of which I am humbly presenting to you, aims, in its way, to fulfill the latter task. In it you will find a reprint of the Atlantic Charter and your historic speech on the Four Freedoms which I am sure will be the highlights of this book as well as the inspiring basis for the new world order.

The book would be enhanced in its spiritual effectiveness by a word of counsel and encouragement from your Excellency in your capacity as Commander-in-Chief of our armed forces.

May this Guide contribute its part to the upliftment of courage and the increase of patriotic understanding which will speed the final Victory.

Very sincerely yours,

Nahum Ben-Horim
