My dear Mr. and Mrs. Hatteras:

Your nice letter has been received by the President and he wants you to know that your friendly holiday greetings and your expression of confidence in his leadership mean a great deal to him. He is delighted to have that beautifully knitted sweater and the scarf and has asked me to tell you that he deeply appreciates the friendly thought which prompted you to send them to him.

The President extends his very best wishes to you for your welfare and happiness.

Very sincerely yours,

Dear sir:—

I am presuming in writting to you and in sending this little book, But I want you to accept it in the spirit that I send it.

My wife and I have always felt that you are a God sent man sent to lead our beloved country though this troubled time and we feel that if you as our leader will call upon our country as a whole to Seek God's Face and turn from our wicked ways that He will hear and answer our prayers, and I believe He will help us win the Peace that we all seek.

May God preserve and keep you, giving you wisdom and knowledge to lead our people not only in war and peace but back to God Himself.

"Small Voice", under separate cover, comes to n protest against what its author feels, rather than ns: the history of our country, brightly patterned in oetry and song of its people, is losing some of its music.

When I began teaching in high school, the emotional, moral, and integrating value of song was recognized as educational indeed. I have watched that value fade from recognition, until the student now graduates without his having heard the best voice of his democracy, its poetry.

The business for food, shelter, and clothing is to become the end, the all of education too ? And the citizen of tomorrow will he think, not in terms of human well-being, but of the machine ? Will he do nothing without profit in cash ? Will the money changer become the very temple ?

To the good things that our President has done to rebuild the music and the dream may he add many more; and may his shepherding be long, lengthening out to the fullness of far off days.

Dear Dear President:

I am sending you my book for Christmas of which I spent over five years trying to write with only the use of my left hand on my typewriter.

my parents have both passed on and I lived alone with only my maid in the little house where I have lived forty-four years. I have traveled quite a bit for one of my type as I have been in 20 states.

my father was an M.D. for over sixty years and he said I might have had Infantile paralisis before I was born and I have thought lots of times I would like to go down to your hospital at Warm Springs. I am the picture of health and if I could de-benifited it would be a wonderful thing but as I have to be so careful with my little income,

I went up to the Station twice when you went thro here hoping very much to see you but was disappointed.
Why don't you and Mrs. Roosevelt drop down to see me some day and make me noted.
I am going to mention something to you which I am quite ashamed of as you have had so many worries but I just want to say that after the awful war is over I feel like that if any one deserves a pension it is one of my type who have been all their lives unable to earn a penny or take care of themselves. It is fine for the aged to get a pension but they have had their day and those like myself have had no day.
Wishing you and yours much more happiness in the years to come and a healthful Xmas. I am your friend always.

Dear Mr President,

I am taking the liberty of sending you a copy of my husbands, Lt. Com. Robert Hichens' book, as I read in the newspaper how much you liked books about the sea.

My mother is an American, coming from an old family in Philadelphia. Her father's name was Dulfus, from Charleston; her mother a Baldwin, of locomotive fame. Her father died when she was three, her mother when she was seven, and her Guardian, Mr Gilpin, of Philadelphia, became responsible for her. However she came to England as a young woman & married my father, a Cornishman, who eventually succeeded to the Keys property, near Falmouth. My father died just before the War and the Dutch took over the house as a naval College.

I married my third cousin, Robert Dickens, nephew of the Author.

A young connection of my mothers Louise Morris, married a Roosevelt.

Several copies of "We fought them in Gunboats" have been sent to the United States by my mother and I have heard from a young Dutch Marine, who recently returned from Washington that there is a growing demand for the book.

Canada is also demanding more copies; but, through my agent's American associate, Sidney A. Sanders, of 522, Fifth Avenue, New York, has done all he can to get an American publisher to take the book, he is informed that no American firm will publish epics concerning the British. This attitude seems somewhat strange to us, considering that the obvious solution to World politics is for the United States, and the British, to get to understand each other. So many Americans, in this district alone, are marrying British girls, and there is no question that American + British blood makes a very good mixture - one might cite the example of Winston Churchill!

If only more Americans and British could inter-marry perhaps the race of "Homo Saparius" might evolve - a hope for the future - the old & the new blood mixing to the advantage of both.

I feel if only I could get my husbands book accepted in the United States it might do something to help an understanding between the two nations. Doubtless it would have to be purged of the somewhat "Naval" language to avoid offending the Non-Conformist element in the "states", and if any of his more pungent views were deemed inadvisable I would give my consent to their deletion. Canada I know, would welcome the opportunity to get copies more easily, the paper situation being such in England at the present time, that this is the last copy I have at my disposal and there are none for export. Only 13,000 were able to be printed, the Ministry of Information having found it impossible to release any paper to help my publishers, Michael Joseph Ltd. They printed the book out of their own ration although the Admiralty had promised them extra, and considered the book good propaganda for the Navy.

I feel I owe you this somewhat protracted explanation to account for my taking the liberty of personally presenting you with this copy, which I hope you will accept, with good wishes for the future relations

Honorable Franklin Delano Roosevelt,
President, United States of America,
White House,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

"VICTORY IS EVERYONE'S JOB!"

Again - as for the years 1942, 1943, and 1944 that, together with the freedom omitted from the original four freedoms, but of equal, if not greater importance - "FREEDOM OF OPPORTUNITY" - is the message our calender for the year 1945 carries forth to our friends, acquantances and fellow citizens not only in words, but portrayed by that inexorable spirit of "YOUTH" dreaming and envisioning "OUR WORLD OF TOMORROW" - for which you, My Dear Sir, and everyone of your fellow beings are now utilizing exhaustive measures in our varied sacrifices that lasting Peace on Earth and Good Will toward Men will flourish and become a reality throughout all Nations of the Universe soon.

Certainly You, Most Honorable Sir, would wish a copy of this calender, and so one is being sent today under separate cover for your personal attention.

Again - we continue to admire the spirit guiding you so untiringly and through which you have so unselfishly advanced your efforts toward breaking the chains of slavery and establishing a World of Opportunity for all.

May God bless you and fortify you with unending strength of body and mind to carry you and your ambition for a "BETTER WORLD" onward to heights of SUCCESS greater than your greatest dreams.

Respectfully yours,

Our World of Tomorrow

Reproduced in full color from a Kodachrome

For I dipt into the future, far as human eye could see, Saw the vision of the world, and all the wonders that would be.
—Tennyson, Locksley Hall (Written 1842).

OUR world of tomorrow is in the hands of the dreamers of today who make their dreams come true. Every boy is at some time a dreamer, for it is the privilege of youth to dream. Some dream the poet's vision of the world and the wonders that are to be. Others dream the scientists' and builders' dreams that make those dreams come true. Here in our picture we see the boy, "Spanky," comfortably seated at the side of a pond, patiently waiting for his red-topped "bob" to signal a "bite," and pensively dreaming "the thoughts of youth" that "are long, long thoughts." In his mind's eye he sees the better world of tomorrow on the farm and in the city, in office, factory and in the home. In his dream he builds a world where everyone has his reasonable share of our common treasure of good homes and roads and recreational opportunities; of education, music, art and religion; of healthier and happier living; and of work not alone for self and family and country, but also for the happiness and good of all mankind. Out of such a possible dream world, it is the dreamers and doers of Spanky's generation who can make the reality.

George Robert Phillips ("Spanky") McFarland was born in Dallas, Texas, Oct. 2, 1928. Famous since baby days as the Typical American Boy and in "Our Gang" and other movies, Spanky is the consummate artist, who has entered wholeheartedly into the spirit of this picture and co-operated effectively with Kodachrome photographer, artist, and engraver to produce this composite and beautifully prophetic "carbroprint" of Our World of Tomorrow.

Prepared in calendar form for our friends and presented with sincere good wishes.

Writes to the President saying that in Sept. 1944, the President sent the Rev. Jarden Guenther, Rector of St. Peter's Church in the Great Valley, a letter in honor of the 200th anniversary of the erection of the present church building. Now wishes to present to the President the enclosed History of the Church. Says that he had the pleasure of seeing the President at a dinner of the editors of the Harvard Crimson, at the New York Harvard Club, before the President was Governor of the State of New York. States that one of their fellow editors, Mr. Louis Wehle, has gone abroad to represent the government in some capacity in Holland and Belgium.--Miss Tully, Feb. 2nd, replied thanking him on behalf of the President and saying that the President has a particularly warm place in his heart for all men who have worked on the Harvard Crimson and that nothing will give the President greater pleasure than to renew association with Mr. Haughton at a Crimson editor's dinner.
