JAN 18 1990

MEMORANDUM

TO: Dr. D. Allan Bromley
Assistant to the President

FROM: Admiral James D. Watkins James D. Watkins
Secretary of Energy

William K. Reilly W. K. Reilly
Administrator, Environmental Protection Agency

SUBJECT: Presidential Speech to the IPCC

The meeting of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change during the first week of February offers the President an important opportunity to reaffirm his leadership on international environmental issues. Attached is the outline of a speech that he might give (Tab A).

We believe that it is a positive statement of: (1) his concern for the environment in general and about global warming in particular, (2) his commitment to lead international efforts in these areas, (3) the significant U.S. efforts to fulfill this commitment and (4) U.S. support for the IPCC as the proper forum for addressing the climate change issue. We also believe that the statement is fully consistent with existing Administration policy.

Also attached is an issue paper outlining options for carrying forward and expanding in the IPCC the cost and economic impact analysis of measures to limit greenhouse gas emissions (TAB B). Although not linked to the speech, the issue needs to be carefully considered. Such work must be continued in the IPCC or the international debate will continue to be based more on bold rhetoric than solid information.

We have shared this outline with the State Department and believe it is, in essence, supported by them. We would like to explore these ideas with you and our colleagues in the rest of the Administration. To this end, we would appreciate your circulating these documents in preparation for a discussion which you might lead. We would welcome your advice on how to move the inter-agency review process forward expeditiously given that the date of the speech is fast approaching.

Proposal for Presidential Speech before the
Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Control (IPCC)

1. General statement of commitment to and concern for the global environment and economic development.
  - Reiterate determination that the President will take active role in addressing concern about global climate change.
  - Reiterate Secretary Baker's approach (spelled out in January 1989).
  - Reiterate Noordwijk commitment to greenhouse gas stabilization as soon as possible, consistent with the requirement for global economic growth that can enhance the quality of life for people everywhere.
  - Stress strong U.S. commitment to environment; e.g., domestic programs, leadership in forging international agreements on environment, assistance to and cooperative efforts with developing countries and current or former centrally planned economies.
2. U.S. Supports the IPCC Process
  - Stress need for international cooperation.
  - Congratulations to IPCC sponsors, the United Nations Environment Program (UNEP), the World Meteorological Organization (WMO) and to Dr. Bolin of Sweden, IPCC Chairman.
  - Establishment of the IPCC has filled the need for an orderly, intergovernmental process to assess scientific understanding, evaluate potential impacts and develop appropriate response options.
  - Welcome IPCC reports due in August.
  - U.S. is committed to playing a leadership role through our chairmanship of the Response Strategies Working Group (RWSG) and supporting IPCC as best forum for global climate change policy development.
  - Support for UK proposal at UN to continue IPCC.

3. Past and Ongoing U.S. Contributions and Views on Key Issues of Convention and Emissions Limiting Agreements

-- Science

- o U.S. budget is the largest in the world and is rising, nearly $500 million in FY 1990 and to increase to almost $1 billion in FY 1991.
- o Importance of all countries, no matter what their level of development or economic system, contributing to understanding of the science. This cooperation needs to take several forms:
  - cooperation in assessment of state of the science; and
  - cooperation in monitoring and analysis of climate change.
- o Periodic international reassessment of the science at fixed intervals to aid in our decision making.

-- Technology Development

- o U.S. has active technology development programs to improve the efficiency of both supply and demand side technologies, and reduce greenhouse gas emissions.
  - More efficient fossil fuel generation technologies.
  - Renewable and energy efficiency technology initiative.
  - Conservation technology: end-use efficiency.
  - Nuclear: new generation with enhanced safety features under development.
- o Any framework convention should provide for regular assessments of the state of technology development to determine the availability and cost of technologies.

-- U.S. is sensitive to the need for technology transfer to other countries.

- o Clean coal, renewable, conservation, end-use services for technology transfer, and nuclear.
- o A.I.D. appropriation bill.
- o EPA/Peace Corps agreement.
- o Change in World Bank policy.
- o EPA's IETTAB and DOE's CORECT program to examine technology transfer.
- o Policy aid package.

-- Economics

- o Follow-up on Administration commitment to develop real data on costs of various response strategies and assess new response measures.
- o Challenge others to do the same.
- o Offer technical support to those who need it.

-- Policy

- o President should encourage consideration of truly innovative responses including:
  - comprehensive approach: all major greenhouse gases are included; and
  - trading of emission permits.
- o President should define general criteria for future agreements to limit greenhouse gas emissions:
  - market mechanisms such as "integrated resource" planning and consistency with economic growth in all countries; and

- need to work with industry to ensure that response actions do not adversely affect economic growth around the world.

- U.S. Clean Air Act Legislation

- o Encourages emissions trading.
- o Use of efficiency energy supplies; e.g., new clean coal technology and conservation technologies.

- National Energy Strategy

- o Comprehensive blueprint for addressing future energy needs with consideration to climate change and other environmental issues.
- o As first step, take those steps which contribute to other goals, but also reduce greenhouse gas emissions; e.g., clean coal technology, DOE conservation programs.

- Energy efficiency programs: lighting, appliance efficiency standards, model building codes, industrial process improvement, encouraging utilities to provide the service of electricity demand reduction, transportation research and development, etc.

- Alternative energy sources are being developed.

- o Renewables: hydro, solar, biomass, geothermal.
- o Nuclear: new reactor design.

- Reforestation: Trees for U.S.

- Phase-out of CFCs by 2000 providing safe substitutes are available.

- o U.S. contribution to: development of safe substitutes, assessments of needs by other countries.

4. Reiterate Malta Offer to Host Convention Negotiations when IPCC is Ready

- Express commitment to finding global solutions.

-- Demonstrate U.S. willingness to facilitate the process.

-- To further the debate, U.S. will host international environmental meeting composed of senior science, economics and environmental officials from all nations.

Issue: How to carry forward and expand in the IPCC the cost and economic impact analysis of measures to limit greenhouse gas emissions?

Discussion: The IPCC's Response Strategies Working Group (RSWG) must conclude its work in the next couple of months for its report to be written on schedule. Consequently much of the cost and economic analysis that is beginning to emerge will not be included in the report. Without an ongoing analytical effort, the international discussion of emission targets and timetables will be dominated by the countries who are prepared to make substantial political commitments without much information on how they will fulfill those commitments.

To move the debate over commitments to limit greenhouse gas emissions away from bold rhetoric to a realistic assessment of what is possible over different timeframes, the IPCC's work on cost and economic impact analysis must be continued and expanded. Furthermore, because targets and timetables, especially for CO<sub>2</sub> are likely to be a major focus of attention at the fourth IPCC plenary next August and at the Second World Climate Conference (SWCC) next October-November, a means must be found for an ongoing effort over the next 5-7 months.

There are three major options for proceeding. The first is to request individual countries such as the U.S., Japan and the FRG to conduct studies and continue to provide results to the IPCC even after the conclusion of the RSWG's report. A second is to instruct the RSWG's Energy and Industry Subgroup (EIS) led by Japan to continue its analyses beyond the Spring and prepare a supplemental report. The third is for the U.S. to offer to lead, under the auspices of the RSWG and perhaps in collaboration with EIS, a special effort and produce a supplemental report in time for the fourth IPCC plenary. The latter option might entail a significant commitment of resources but may be most likely to result in substantive output. The latter option also offers the possibility of bringing a number of developing countries more fully into the process, because of a cooperative project already underway in ten developing countries.

Position: The U.S. should promote an ongoing effort to analyze the costs and economic impacts of a variety of targets and timetables for limiting greenhouse gas emissions. This should include the production of a supplemental report for consideration by the fourth IPCC plenary. The U.S. should favor a leadership role for EIS but be prepared to offer to lead the effort if discussions at the February IPCC meeting suggest it would be necessary to ensure meaningful output.

Draft Guidelines for U.S. Delegation to IPCC Plenary

Background:

The Third Plenary Meeting of the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC) will take place in Washington from February 5-7, 1990. While the meeting will focus on the status of efforts to complete the IPCC's Interim Report (Revised Provisional Agenda Item 3), a number of additional issues will also form the basis for plenary discussions. These include:

- o Possible additional tasks that should be undertaken by the IPCC based on recent international meetings (e.g., Noordwijk) (Revised Provisional Agenda Item 2)
- o Preparations for the Second World Climate Conference (Revised Provisional Agenda Item 3)
- o Preparations for Negotiation of a Climate Convention (Revised Provisional Agenda Item 4) (Note: We understand that this item has been deleted from the final agenda, but that Dr. Bolin will raise it in his opening remarks and at the RSWG Officers' Meeting on February 2)
- o Report of the IPCC Special Committee on the Participation of the Developing Countries (Revised Provisional Agenda Item 5)
- o The IPCC's 1990 Budget, specifically shortfall between anticipated expenses and funding pledged to date (Revised Provisional Agenda Item 6)
- o The future of the IPCC after submission of its Interim Report next fall (Revised Provisional Agenda Item 7)

DECL:OADR

DECLASSIFIED

PER DOS WAIVER, November 6, 2015

By MM NARA, Date 2/22/2018

In addition, it is possible that the President or a high-level alternate will address the opening session of the plenary and restate the President's proposal to Chairman Gorbachev at the Malta Summit (that the United States is prepared to host a conference next fall to negotiate a framework treaty on global climate change, after the working groups of the UN-sponsored IPCC submit their final report).

The following provides guidance to the U.S. delegation on each of the items identified.

Additional IPCC Tasks

The United States successfully steered the Noordwijk Ministerial Meeting to the IPCC as the international forum for consideration of issues related to global climate change. In so doing, the Noordwijk Declaration mentions a number of issues for further consideration by the IPCC. These "remands" to the IPCC are likely first to be discussed at the RSWG officers' meeting on February 2 that will precede the plenary. At that meeting and in the plenary itself, the United States should:

- 1) Agree that the IPCC should examine estimates of reductions in global anthropogenic greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions, based on the best scientific knowledge as to the options for containing climate change within tolerable limits (see Noordwijk Declaration, para. 8); the United States should propose that such examination take place by the RSWG, specifically by the EIS;
define tolerable limits by WGI
- 2) Agree that the IPCC should consider the necessity and efficiency of the introduction of the concept of CO2 equivalence (see Noordwijk Declaration, para. 10); the United States should stress that this is a high-priority task and propose that it be taken up by Working Group I;
- 3) Agree that the IPCC should investigate the feasibility of achieving targets to limit or reduce CO2 emissions including for example a 20 percent reduction of CO2 emission levels by the year 2005 (see Noordwijk Declaration, para. 16) but [propose] that this investigation be extended to the feasibility of achieving such targets with respect to all GHGs; the United States should also propose that, in addition to the specific target of a 20 percent reduction by 2005, the net ( IPCC also should investigate the feasibility of stabilizing current GHG emissions by the year 2000; the United States should further propose that this investigation take place by the RSWG, specifically by the EIS;

- and AFOS*
- 4) Agree that the IPCC should consider the feasibility of achieving a world net forest growth of 12 million hectares a year in the beginning of the next century as a provisional aim (see Noordwijk Declaration, para. 21); the United States should propose that such consideration be undertaken by the RSWG, specifically by the AFOS;
  - 5) Defer to determination by the EIS and the RSWG whether an analysis of target options resulting from further investigation of quantitative emission targets to limit or reduce CO2 emissions (and, as will be proposed by the United States, emissions of all GHGs) can be included as a practical matter in the IPCC's interim report due in 1990 (see Noordwijk Declaration, para. 15) or presented to the Second World Climate Conference in November 1990 (see Noordwijk Declaration, para. 18).

Preparations for Second World Climate Conference

Under this item, the Revised Provisional Agenda notes that, "The Chairman of the International Organizing Committee and the Co-ordinator for SWCC will be invited to inform the Panel of the preparations for, and the activities planned during, the Conference."

A specific U.S. response is thus not anticipated.

Preparations for Negotiation of a Climate Convention

On November 17, 1989, UNEP Executive Director Tolba and WMO Secretary General Obasi sent a letter to foreign ministers outlining their own thoughts on possible elements of a future convention on climate change and asking for national views on this issue by January 15. The U.S. response indicated that substantive exchanges on possible elements of a framework convention should take place in the IPCC and noted that the response to Obasi/Tolba

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

-4-

RSWG has already begun an extensive review of this issue and is seeking to develop an international consensus on possible elements of a convention. The U.S. response further indicated that U.S. views on this question were delivered to the RSWG last October and that additional comments were provided in December 1989.

The U.S. response to the Tolba/Obasi letter also welcomed the input that will be provided to the RSWG from the UNEP/WMO Task Group by the RSWG observers Mr. Beetham (of the U.K.) and Mr. Cordeiro (of Brazil).

At the IPCC plenary, the United States should:

- o Support the effort of IPCC Chairman Dr. Bolin to have representatives of WMO and UNEP inform the IPCC of the activities to date of the UNEP/WMO Task Group, and of their plans for further activity;
- o The United States should also encourage that the work of this Task Group be provided to the RSWG as soon as possible so that the RSWG, specifically the Topic Coordinators on Legal Measures, may take it into account in finalizing their report.

It is our understanding that the Legal Measures Topic Coordinators (the U.K., Canada and Malta) will submit a paper for initial consideration at the RSWG Officers' Meeting on February 2 that will identify elements that may be required in a future convention on climate change, as well as various options for dealing with such elements in a convention text. Given the lack of consensus with respect to legal measures at the RSWG October Workshop in Geneva, the United States has informally encouraged efforts on the part of the Topic Coordinators to move forward on this issue.

At the RSWG Officers' Meeting, and in the IPCC Plenary, the United States should:

- o Support the efforts of the RSWG Legal Measures Topic Coordinators to refine further the Legal Measures Paper, making sure that the recent U.S. comments are included;
- o The United States should remain within the bounds of the U.S. legal measures paper prepared for the

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

-5-

Geneva Workshop (copy attached), including the U.S. position that it is currently premature to consider the subject of possible protocols and other agreed response measures, the order in which they might be taken up, and whether there will be linkage between various agreed measures.

In this latter connection, questions may arise with respect to the additional U.S. comments submitted to the IPCC Secretariat and the Topic Coordinators of the RSWG October Legal Measures Paper. In the comments, the United States proposed to add additional ticks in section 3 (General Obligations). Specifically, the United States proposed to add the following:

"-- Development as soon as possible of a protocol addressing all adequately scientifically understood greenhouse gases, their sources and sinks (with appropriate treatment of substances subject to control under the Montreal Protocol), in a comprehensive approach to controlling net emissions of greenhouse gases through national performance targets, leaving to each country the choice of domestic policy responses to achieve its net greenhouse gas emissions target; keep under continuing review the set of greenhouse gases, their sources and sinks, and revise the set, according to evolving understanding of the science, economics, and technological advancement. (This approach is further elaborated in Appendix __.)"

Should the question arise in the RSWG Officers' Meeting or in the IPCC Plenary as to whether, in light of the additional U.S. comments, the United States is now prepared to consider possible protocols, the United States should:

- o Make clear that the call for development as soon as possible of a protocol in the U.S. additional comments must be read in the context of the Legal Measures Paper that grew out of the RSWG October Workshop;
- o Indicate that, by including its proposed additional language as an additional tick in the General Obligations Section of the Legal Measures Paper, the United States sought to preserve the comprehensive approach to GHGs as an option for further consideration by the RSWG and the IPCC; and

- as a part of*
- o Reiterate that the United States continues to believe that it is premature to consider possible protocols ~~that would follow~~ conclusion of a framework climate convention.
- Confore*

LDC Participation

At the IPCC Plenary, the Chairman of the Special Committee on the Participation of Developing Countries, Mr. Ripert (of France), will be asked to present the report of the Committee for consideration by the Panel.

The United States should:

- o Support the broadest possible participation of developing countries in the work of the IPCC, so as to make the IPCC truly representative of the world community of nations, lending legitimacy to its Interim Report;
- o The United States should reaffirm U.S. commitment to the two-track (phase) approach developed in Geneva and endorsed at Noordwijk on financial measures;
- o In addition, the United States should point out, either under this agenda item or at an appropriate point elsewhere in the IPCC Plenary, that developed countries alone will not be able to limit or reduce emissions of GHGs so as to prevent or slow to adaptable rates potential global warming;
- o The United States should emphasize the need for global action to deal with potential climate change, particularly in view of projections of likely increases in emissions on the part of developing countries in the near future; and
- o The United States should also point out that the need for global action to deal with potential climate change should be as much a matter of self-interest among developing countries as it is among developed countries, particularly in light of the potential impacts of climate change on many developing countries and the difficulties they may experience in seeking to adapt to such impacts.

IPCC's 1990 Budget

The IPCC Secretariat projects 1990 expenses totaling SFR 1,363,000 (approximately $681,500 converting SFR to U.S. dollars at a ratio of 2:1). The IPCC Secretariat further projects receipts in 1990 to total SFR 864,000 (approximately $432,000). Of the receipts anticipated, SFR 538,000 (approximately $269,000) constitute pledges from members, including $150,000 from the United States.

(FYI: The United States has not yet transferred its pledged amount, but should be able to do so later this spring, both from the $100,000 that the Department of State has sought to collect from U.S. agencies to support the IPCC Trust Fund and from additional amounts contained in the budget for the Bureau of International Organizations. End FYI.)

The IPCC Secretariat thus anticipates a shortfall of SFR 499,000 (approximately $250,000) in 1990.

Under Revised Provisional Agenda Item 6, the Secretary of the IPCC will summarize the expenditures for 1989 and present the budget request for 1990 for the consideration of the Panel. To date, it would appear that only the United States and the following countries have made pledges to the IPCC for 1990: Japan, Italy, Finland, FRG and France.

In the plenary discussion under this item, the United States should:

- o Await indications from other members of the IPCC who may be willing to pledge amounts to help meet the 1990 budget;
- o If appropriate, point to the rather significant pledge made by the United States for 1990;
- o Make no further U.S. commitment to help meet the IPCC's 1990 budget at the plenary, although it is possible that, the United States may ultimately exceed its pledge if: (1) all U.S. agencies who have been asked to contribute to the IPCC Trust Fund by the Department of State ultimately do so; (2) the Department of State's authorization and appropriation for FY 1990 ultimately include the amount requested for the IPCC; and (3) the United States receives credit toward its pledge from providing interpretation for the IPCC plenary and subsequent meeting of the IPCC Bureau.

CONFIDENTIAL

Future of IPCC

Under the IPCC Plenary discussion of this item, the United States should:

- o Note that, following submission of its Interim Report, the IPCC will continue such work as is necessary to support the negotiation of a framework climate convention; and
- o Further note that, eventually, we anticipate that the IPCC will become the Conference of the Parties.

IPCC Endorsement of President's Proposal

If appropriate in the view of the U.S. delegation, it may be useful to seek endorsement by the IPCC of the President's proposal to host the first negotiating session toward a framework treaty on global climate change, after the working groups of the IPCC submit their final report.

Informal reactions solicited to date from foreign governments indicate, however, that there may be some confusion with respect to the President's offer. Specifically, some countries have expressed confusion at whether the United States plans to host its own conference or simply provide a venue for the first international negotiating session. They have also indicated that it is not clear whether New York, and thus the UNGA, falls within the scope of the proposal.

In addition, at least one country (the FRG) has urged that the United States not seek IPCC endorsement for the President's proposal at the forthcoming plenary, since to do so would risk "politicizing" the IPCC.

At the plenary, the U.S. delegation should make clear in informal discussions with other delegations that:

- o The President's has proposed simply to provide a venue (and thus support) for the first international negotiating session; and
- o The President's proposal contemplated Washington, not New York, as the likely situs of this first negotiating session, and definitely not the UNGA.

explain that is venue and where other than US? seek w/ White House seek IPCC endorsement? IPCC not political way

~~CONFIDENTIAL~~

-9-

If the President or another high-level Administration official should make opening remarks on behalf of the United States at the plenary which reiterate the President's proposal at the Malta Summit, the U.S. delegation may choose to:

- o Seek IPCC endorsement of the President's proposal, which endorsement should be communicated by the IPCC Chairman to the UNEP and the WMO.
