RE: Additional names for 10/14 medals ceremony

Here are a few additional names for the medals ceremony on 10/14. The list of names from Jane are people from around the country who have been helpful on her trips. Only a few of these are likely to come but an invitation would mean a lot.

Yes...the NEA staff list can be reduced if necessary. I can do this by phone before we meet next week if you like.

I spoke with Martha Chowning again today to push for the NEH list. She is still working on it AND says that Sheldon has not yet chosen the Frankel Prize winners. Her list will be prioritized.

*We will also need to reserve
4 places for each medal/prize winner and 4(?) places for each of 9 sponsors.*

THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON

National Arts and Humanities Month
October 1993

The moral strength of our great nation is rooted in our rich cultural traditions and in a profound appreciation for the diversity of the people, values, and beliefs that make us Americans. For more than 200 years, the quality of our civic life has flowed not only from our industrial, agricultural, and technological ingenuity, but also from the creative vision of our artists and the wisdom of our humanists.

Through the arts and humanities we gain a deeper understanding of ourselves as individuals and as a society. The arts and humanities remind us that whatever our differences, we share a common heritage that binds us together as a nation.

Music, painting, sculpture, architecture, dance, theater, film, and the folk arts all awaken our minds and our senses. They allow us to express our emotions, impressions, and attitudes about the human condition and the human experience.

History, literature, and philosophy allow us to explore and understand ourselves and others through collective reflection and learning.

The arts and humanities enable Americans from every walk of life to respond to both their individuality and their shared experiences in ways that make the human spirit soar.

We are a nation called to artistic and intellectual responsibility at a critical time in the history of the world. Our major authors are read in every language, our films are shown in every capital, and our music never lacks listeners. Our traditions of free inquiry and expression help to shape political attitudes and cultural values around the globe.

As we become an increasingly diverse society, the arts and humanities will help us deepen our understanding of one another, honor our differences, and celebrate our shared experiences and values as Americans.

The month of October has been designated as National Arts and Humanities Month. I urge all Americans to join me in recognizing the special role the arts and humanities play in fortifying our unique heritage.

National Arts and Humanities Month is a time when we recognize the contributions of artists, scholars, museums, theaters, libraries, schools, foundations, government agencies, and other organizations and individuals who work to keep the arts and humanities a vital part of our lives. Throughout the month of October, let us reflect on the breadth of artistic and humanistic endeavors that blossom freely across our nation, and let us rejoice in the eloquence and meaning they give to our ideas, hopes, and dreams as American citizens.

On this occasion, I voice my deep respect and pledge my continuing support for the arts and humanities as essential ingredients of our American way of life. I look forward to celebrating National Arts and Humanities Month this October at the White House and with you in your communities throughout the United States.
