April 24, 1996

Dear Ms. Verveer,

At the suggestion of Sidney Blumenthal, I am writing to you to express the deepest interest of the New York Institute for the Humanities in having Hilary Clinton, the First Lady, as a guest speaker this spring '96.

Although our regular schedule for this season has been completed, it would be quite easy for us to assemble an audience of 40-50 of our Fellows for such an occasion. It would be most appropriate if the First Lady chose to make her remarks for ten to fifteen minutes and then accepted questions from the audience. For your information, I am enclosing a copy of the Institute's spring program, as well as a copy of our Fifteen Year Report for background information on the Institute and a listing of our current Fellows.

Our ideal dates for Mrs. Clinton's talk would be Friday, May 17, Friday, May 24 (although that is the Friday of Memorial Day Weekend), and Friday, May 31. While Fridays are the customary day for Institute lunches, any weekday in mid- to late May could also be scheduled. We could also schedule a lunch in June, but by then, many of the Fellows may have already departed for the summer.

The New York Institute for the Humanities is represented by: Tony Judt, our Director on leave until September, Anne Hollander, our Acting Director, and Michael Massing, our Program Director. As Associate Director, I organize and coordinate all Institute events. Please advise us as soon as possible about Mrs. Clinton's available dates, and I will be delighted to arrange this eagerly awaited visit from another Wellesley alumna!

Sincerely,

Jocelyn Baltzell

THE WHITE HOUSE
Office of the Press Secretary

EMBARGOED UNTIL TUESDAY/SEPTEMBER 20

PRESIDENT CLINTON NAMES NEW MEMBERS TO THE PRESIDENT'S COMMITTEE ON THE ARTS AND THE HUMANITIES

President Clinton today announced he is revitalizing the President's Committee on the Arts and the Humanities and named Dr. John Brademas to chair the Committee. The President also named 32 private citizens to serve as members of the Committee, and he announced that First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton will serve as Honorary Chair.

In making these appointments the President said, "The federal, state and local governments together provide only a small percentage of the support essential to our cultural life. These appointments underscore the vital partnership between the government and the private citizens who do so much to enrich and preserve the arts and humanities in our country. I am pleased that John Brademas, who has been a vigorous champion of learning and culture both in Congress and as a university president, has agreed to chair the Committee. At a time when our society faces new and profound challenges, when we are losing so many of our children, and when so many people feel insecure in the face of change, the arts and the humanities are fundamental to our lives as individuals and as a nation."

The President's Committee, created by Executive Order in 1982, is charged with advancing public understanding of the arts and the humanities and establishing new partnerships between the private sector and federal agencies to address critical issues in cultural life.

The Committee will hold its first formal meeting with President and the First Lady on Wednesday, September 21 at the White House. The President will charge its members to support cultural programs that reach at-risk youth, expand private philanthropic assistance for the humanities and the arts, encourage international cultural exchanges and develop new private sector resources to aid cultural organizations.

Dr. John Brademas, who will serve as the Committee's Chairman, is President Emeritus of New York University and a former U.S. Representative in Congress from Indiana's Third Congressional District (1959-81).

Said Dr. Brademas of his appointment, "What we do in the arts and the humanities tells who we are as a people. Our educational and cultural institutions are indispensable to the quality of our lives, the strength of our communities and the vitality of our democracy. For the arts and the humanities to thrive now and into the next century, we must have the support of both the government and the private sector."

Dr. Brademas was an original cosponsor of the National Arts and Humanities Act of 1965, the legislation that created the National Endowment for the Arts and the National Endowment for the Humanities, and for 10 years he chaired the Congressional subcommittee with jurisdiction over the Endowments. He was co-author, with Senator Claiborne Pell, of the Arts and Artifacts Indemnity Act and the Museum Services Act, that created the Institute of Museum Services. In 1990 he co-chaired, with Leonard Garment, the Independent Commission mandated by Congress to study the National Endowment for the Arts.

Ellen McCulloch-Lovell, a former director of the Vermont Arts Council, was named Executive Director by President Clinton in February. Before her appointment to the Committee, she previously served as Chief of Staff for Senator Patrick Leahy of Vermont for ten years.

The President also named three vice chairs for the Committee:

Peggy Cooper Cafritz of Washington, D.C.

Ms. Cafritz is a long-time advocate of the arts in Washington, a past chair of the D.C. Commission on the Arts and Humanities, and she currently heads the Ellington Fund, the fund-raising arm of the Duke Ellington School of the Arts in Washington, D.C.
