"MANAGED CARE"

HEALTH INSURANCE PACS BIGGEST MEDICAL-INDUSTRY GIVERS TO HOUSE WAYS & MEANS COMMITTEE; COMMON CAUSE RELEASES ITEMIZED LIST OF MEDICAL-INDUSTRY PAC CONTRIBUTIONS TO COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Health insurance political action committees (PACs) contributed $2,311,740 to current members of the House Ways and Means Committee — nearly 40 percent of the $5.9 million all medical-industry PACs contributed to these Committee members — during the period January 1983 through June 1993, according to "Managed Care", a Common Cause study released today.

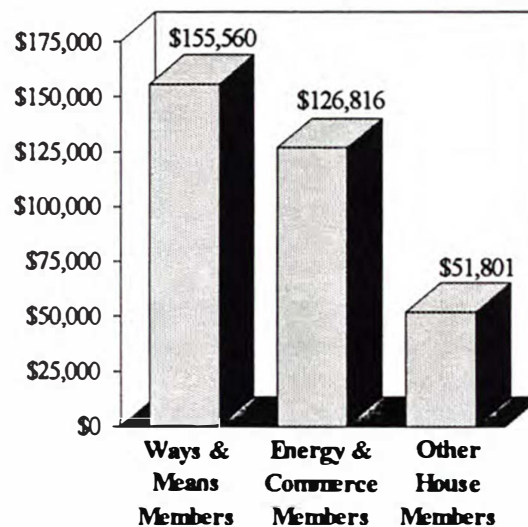

Doctors, dentists and other medical professionals were the second leading medical-industry donor to House Ways and Means Committee members, contributing $2,159,282 during the same period, according to the study.

"Managed Care" is part three of the Common Cause series "Hazardous To Your Health", intended to help the public track the role of medical-industry political money in the battle over health care reform.

“The Ways and Means Committee is a focal point of special-interest PAC money and special-interest lobbying in Congress and will play a central role in crafting health care reform legislation,” Common Cause President Fred Wertheimer said. “As the public debate on health care reform moves ahead, citizens and the media should keep a close eye on Ways and Means Committee members and the millions of dollars in medical-industry PAC contributions they have received over the years.”

The Common Cause study “Managed Care” provides an itemized list of medical-industry PAC contributions for each of the 38 current members of the House Ways and Means Committee covering the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993. The list also includes for each committee member the total PAC contributions received from the health insurance industry, medical professionals, pharmaceutical firms, and hospitals and other care providers.

$5.9 MILLION FROM MEDICAL-INDUSTRY PACS TO WAYS & MEANS COMMITTEE

Overall, the 38 members of the House Ways and Means Committee received a total $5,911,270 from medical-industry PACs during the period, according to the Common Cause study. In addition to the contributions from health insurance and medical professional PACs, the total includes $742,474 from pharmaceutical PACs and $697,774 from PACs representing hospitals and other care providers.

Current House Ways and Means Committee members received, on average, $155,560 from medical-industry PACs during the period 1983 through mid-1993, more than twice the average $60,136 received by all other current House Members during the same period. The 22 current Ways and Means Committee members who were on the committee prior to 1993 received, on average, $218,939, the study found.

The largest individual medical-industry PAC contributors to members of the House Ways and Means Committee were the American Medical Association (AMA), which contributed a total $637,963 during the period January 1983 through June 1993, the National Association of Life Underwriters, which contributed $502,797, and the American Dental Association, which gave $330,600, according to the study.

(See Chart I in "Managed Care" for a ranked list of House Ways & Means Committee members and the total each received from medical-industry PACs during the period January 1983 through June 1993.)

Ten medical-industry PACs contributed more than $100,000 each to members of the House Ways and Means Committee during the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993, according to the Common Cause study. The 10 PACs and the total each contributed to members of the committee during the period, according to the study, are:

American Medical Association	$637,963
National Association of Life Underwriters	502,797
American Dental Association	330,600
American Academy of Ophthalmology	198,174
American Hospital Association	192,774
American Family Corporation	180,250

Metropolitan Life Insurance Company	$161,133
Massachusetts Mutual Life Insurance Company	136,120
American Health Care Association	127,500
American Optometric Association	110,125

FIRST SIX MONTHS OF '93

Medical-industry PACs continued to support House Ways and Means Committee members during the first six months of 1993, according to the study. Committee members, who make up less than 10 percent of the House, received 27 percent, or $552,137, of the $2,036,021 given by medical-industry PACs to current House Members during the period January 1, 1993 through June 30, 1993.

Medical-industry PACs were generous to House Members who joined either the committee or the Health Subcommittee in 1993:

- Medical-industry PACs contributed $213,212 to the 16 new members on the committee, including the committee's only freshman, Representative Mel Reynolds (D-IL), during the first six months of 1993, nearly six times more than the $35,650 contributed to those 16 Members during the first six months of 1991.
- The seven new members of the Health Subcommittee received $133,337 during the first six months of 1993. Medical-industry PACs contributed $55,150 to the seven during the first six months of 1991.

"MANAGED CARE"

The Common Cause study is based on PAC reports from more than 250 medical-industry PACs covering the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993 filed at the Federal Election Commission (FEC). The study does not include the millions of dollars that have been contributed during this period directly to candidates by individuals involved in the medical industry, including doctors, insurance and pharmaceutical company executives, hospital officials and others.

Contribution totals for current Representatives include medical-industry PAC contributions received for all House campaigns during the period.

The first study in Common Cause's "Hazardous To Your Health" series examines medical-industry PAC contributions to all Members of Congress. "Preferred Providers," the second study in the series, examines medical-industry PAC contributions to members of the House Energy and Commerce Committee. Both studies are available from the Common Cause Press Office.

“PREFERRED PROVIDERS”

DOCTORS, DENTISTS, HEALTH INSURANCE PACS BIGGEST MEDICAL-INDUSTRY GIVERS TO HOUSE ENERGY & COMMERCE COMMITTEE; COMMON CAUSE RELEASES ITEMIZED LIST OF MEDICAL-INDUSTRY PAC CONTRIBUTIONS TO COMMITTEE MEMBERS

Doctors, dentists and other medical professional political action committees (PACs) contributed $2,630,456 to current members of the House Energy and Commerce Committee — nearly half of the $5.5 million all medical-industry PACs contributed to these members — during the period January 1983 through June 1993, according to “Preferred Providers”, a Common Cause study released today.

Health insurance PACs were the second leading medical-industry donor to House Energy and Commerce Committee members, contributing $1,441,818 during the same period, according to the study.

“The House Energy and Commerce Committee will play a critical role in the congressional consideration of President Clinton’s health care reform proposal,” Common Cause President Fred Wertheimer said. “We are releasing this study to help the public ‘follow the dollar’ as the medical industry and its PACs lobby to influence the outcome of health care reform. With health care reform the subject of unprecedented national attention and citizen interest, shining the public spotlight on medical-industry PAC money can limit its undue influence in Congress.”

The Common Cause study provides an itemized list of medical-industry PAC contributions for each of the 44 current members of the House Energy and Commerce Committee covering the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993. The list also includes for each committee member the total received from medical professionals, the health insurance industry, pharmaceutical firms, and hospitals and other care providers.

$5.5 MILLION FROM MEDICAL-INDUSTRY PACS TO ENERGY & COMMERCE COMMITTEE

Overall, the 44 members of the Energy and Commerce Committee received a total $5,579,913 from medical-industry PACs during the period, according to the Common Cause study. In addition to the contributions from medical professionals and health insurance PACs, the total includes $895,927 from pharmaceutical PACs and $611,712 from PACs representing hospitals and other care providers.

The largest individual medical-industry PAC contributors to members of the Energy and Commerce Committee were the American Medical Association (AMA), which contributed a total $904,491 during the period January 1983 through June 1993, the National Association of Life Underwriters, which contributed $422,500, and the American Dental Association, which gave $413,600.

Current House Energy and Commerce Committee members received, on average, $126,816 from medical-industry PACs during the period 1983 through mid-1993, more than twice the average $61,910 received by all other current House Members during the same period, according to the Common Cause study. The 30 current Energy and Commerce Committee members who were on the committee prior to 1993 received, on average, $161,018, the study found.

(See Chart I in "Preferred Providers" for a ranked list of House Energy & Commerce Committee members and the total each received from medical-industry PACs during the period January 1983 through June 1993.)

MEDICAL-INDUSTRY FAVORITES

The House Energy and Commerce Committee members who received the most from medical professional PACs, representing doctors, nurses, dentists, other health practitioners and their trade associations, during the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993, according to the Common Cause study, include:

Cardiss Collins (D-IL)	153,619
Alex McMillan (R-NC), H&E Subcommittee	151,500

Eleven medical-industry PACs contributed more than $100,000 each to members of the House Energy and Commerce Committee during the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993, according to the Common Cause study. The 11 PACs and the total each contributed to members of the committee during the period, according to the study, are:

American Medical Association	$904,491
National Association of Life Underwriters	422,500
American Dental Association	413,600
American Academy of Ophthalmology	243,745
American Hospital Association	194,233

American Optometric Association	133,346
American Health Care Association	130,690
American College of Emergency Physicians	129,845
American Chiropractic Association	106,715

FIRST SIX MONTHS OF '93

Medical-industry PACs continued to support House Energy and Commerce Committee members during the first six months of 1993, according to the study. Committee members received $410,849 — or 20 percent — of the $2,036,021 given to current House Members during the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993.

Medical-industry PACs contributed $98,660 to the seven freshmen House Members on the committee during the first six months of 1993, the study found. The seven freshmen Members received a total $135,050 from medical-industry interests during the entire 1991-1992 election cycle.

“PREFERRED PROVIDERS”

The Common Cause study is based on PAC reports from more than 250 medical-industry

PACs covering the period January 1, 1983 through June 30, 1993 filed at the Federal Election Commission (FEC). The study does not include the millions of dollars that have been contributed during this period directly to candidates by individuals involved in the medical industry, including doctors, insurance and pharmaceutical company executives, hospital officials and others.

Contribution totals for current Representatives include medical-industry PAC contributions received for all House campaigns during the period.

"Preferred Providers" is part of Common Cause's "Hazardous To Your Health" series of studies focusing on the medical industry. A copy of the first study, which examines medical-industry PAC contributions to all Members of Congress, is available from the Common Cause Press Office.
