of America, Inc.
Suite 461
1120 Connecticut Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20036

Dear Ms. Zuckerman:

On behalf of First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton, I am writing to invite you to a meeting on June 13, 1996 to discuss follow-up activities to the United Nations Fourth World Conference on Women. This September will mark the one year anniversary of the Conference. I know that we share the belief in the importance of continuing to work to carry out the Conference's goals to improve women's lives.

To oversee the implementation of the Conference Platform for Action in the United States, President Clinton established at the White House an Interagency Council on Women that is chaired by Secretary of Health and Human Services Donna Shalala. To celebrate the Conference anniversary, the Interagency Council plans to convene a National Satellite Conference. The Conference will link for one day all Americans working to improve the lives of women and girls and will enable them to share information on local projects and ideas.

In recognition of your organization's commitment to the goals of the U.N. Conference, you are invited to join the First Lady and Secretary Shalala for a briefing and discussion on the Satellite Conference and other follow-up activities.

The briefing will be held on Thursday, June 13th at 3:00 pm in the Vice President's Ceremonial Office in the Old Executive Office Building. Please respond at your earliest convenience by calling the Office of the First Lady or by returning by facsimile the attached form. For additional information, you may call either Nicole Rabner or Katy Button at 202/456-6266. I hope that you will be able to join us.

Sincerely yours,

Melanne Verveer

Women remain the primary caretakers of the world's children and elderly, and families throughout the world rely on women for emotional support and increasingly for outside income. In a time when the pressures of consumption and technology place a burdens on family life in virtually every country on the planet, women will be relied on even more to sustain and protect the family unit. And investing in those women will ensure that they have at least an even chance of being able to do that.

However different we may be, there is far more that unites us than divides us. We share common future. And we are here to find common ground so that we may help bring new dignity and respect to women and girls all over the world - and in so doing, bring new strength and stability to families as well.

By gathering in Beijing, we are focusing world attention on issues that matter most in the lives of women and their families: access to education, health care, jobs and credit, the chance to enjoy basic legal and human rights and participate fully in the political life of their countries.

What we are learning around the world is that if women are healthy and educated, their families will flourish. If women are free from violence, their families will flourish. If women have a chance to work and earn as full and equal partners in society, their families will flourish.

And when families flourish, communities and nations will flourish.

The great challenge is to give voice to women everywhere whose experiences go unnoticed, whose words go unheard.

Women comprise more than half the world's population. Women are 70 percent of the world's poor, and two-thirds of those who are not taught to read or write.

I believe that on the eve of a new millennium, it is time to break our silence. It is time for us to say here in Beijing, and the world to hear, that it is no longer acceptable to discuss women's rights as separate from human rights.

Women must enjoy the right to participate fully in the social and political lives of their countries if we want freedom and democracy to thrive and endure.

Now it is the time to act on behalf of women everywhere. If we take bold steps to better the lives of women, we will be taking bold steps to better the lives of children and families too.

Let us heed the call so that we can create a world in which every women is treated with respect and dignity, every boy
