following January, the President, in his State of the Union address, unveiled a child care initiative similar to the one he signed last week. Like the President's proposal, the Children's Health Act includes funds to train child care providers, improve health and safety standards, and strengthen enforcement mechanisms.

Parents hoping to adopt will also be pleased by recent Congressional and administration efforts on their behalf. Earlier this month, the President signed the Intercountry Adoption Act, based on a Hague Convention negotiated by the U.S. and 65 other countries. In response to abuses in the foreign adoption process -- including the trafficking of children -- and, in light of the rapidly increasing numbers of foreign children being adopted by American families, I have been a strong supporter of this convention. It establishes important protections for internationally adopted children, as well as for their birth and adoptive parents.

Congress also passed important legislation that will continue and expand microcredit assistance for the world's poorest entrepreneurs, many of whom are women. My enthusiasm for microcredit dates back to my years in Arkansas, when my husband and I introduced some of the first microenterprise programs in the United States. I have spoken out on microcredit many times, and my enthusiasm has infected my staff, who have worked hard to secure passage of this bill.

Finally, our children and arts education got a boost from lawmakers. A longtime arts supporter, I am a true believer in the importance of arts education, so I was pleased to see approval of the first significant increase in the National Endowment for the Arts budget since the Republican takeover of Congress six years ago.

Over the past seven years, we have seen partisan politics scuttle important legislation -- even a bill as popular as the President's proposal to keep guns out of the hands of children. In these last few days of the 106th Congress, I hope the spirit of bipartisanship is the spirit that prevails -- and that our lawmakers use this time to pass legislation that matters to the American people.

Subject: VAWA/Trafficking signing

We received VAWA/Trafficking late last night and have until the 31st to sign it. I've heard that it's not going to be easy, b/c of the President's schedule, to schedule a signing ceremony, so I hope we can keep pushing (OPL, OLA, and OFL are pushing as well). Thanks!

Subject: STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT: Combating Domestic Violence and Trafficking in Humans

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release
2000

October 6,

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I applaud the House of Representatives for passing vital legislation today to combat trafficking in humans and strengthen and reauthorize the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA). The Trafficking Victims Protection Act will provide important new tools in the campaign to combat trafficking, a modern form of slavery and an insidious human rights abuse. VAWA, which expired on September 30, has significantly improved the lives of thousands of women who are victims of domestic violence, and has assisted state, local, and tribal law enforcement to combat domestic violence and sexual assault. It is imperative that this law be reauthorized this year, and I urge the Senate to pass this legislation without delay.

Here's a draft list of invites for the VAWA/Trafficking bill signing. We've divided it into categories --

- 1) Groups that have come to the WH for VAWA meetings
- 2) The Sexual Assault/domestic violence task force
- 3) Law Enforcement
- 4) The women's community in DC that we'd like to include if possible

I'll need names from the Trafficking community (Wendy or Melanne). We'll also need to add DOJ and HHS reps. (Heather & Ann) Joel is also pulling together the Leg folks. Look forward to seeing you guys at 2pm.
