Subject: Statementby the President re: Climate Change

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary
(New York, New York)

For Immediate Release

December 10, 1997

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

I am very pleased that the United States has reached an historic agreement with other nations of the world to take unprecedented action to address global warming. This agreement is environmentally strong and economically sound. It reflects a commitment by our generation to act in the interests of future generations.

No nation is more committed to this effort than the United States. In Kyoto, our mission was to persuade other nations to find common ground so we could make realistic and achievable commitments to reduce greenhouse gas emissions. That mission was accomplished. The United States delegation, at the direction of Vice President Gore, and with the skilled leadership of Under Secretary Stuart Eizenstat, showed the way. The momentum generated by Vice President Gore's visit helped move the negotiation to a successful conclusion and I thank him.

I am particularly pleased the agreement strongly reflects the commitment of the United States to use the tools of the free market to tackle this difficult problem.

There are still hard challenges ahead, particularly in the area of involvement by developing nations. It is essential that these nations participate in a meaningful way if we are to truly tackle this global environmental challenge. But the industrialized nations have come together, taken a strong step, and that is real progress.

Finally, let me thank Prime Minister Hashimoto and the people of Japan for their spirit and dedication to the task.

Last week, we inquired about "Katzenberg photos." I think the answer was that they went out on November 26th or thereabouts. Turns out we should have inquired about photos taken with Katzenberg's staff during the President's stay at the Katzenberg house on 11/8-9. Specifically, we should check on photo's taken with Doug Johnson, who runs the house.

Can we run this down to see whether they've been sent; Political reports they've not been received. Thanks.

Implicitly, I suppose she's also saying how come we didn't copy them on it either, though she didn't come out and say that. The strategy looked good, but I am not sure how the proposed use of the President's time works with other plans. I would recommend that we put a note on the memo saying that we want to work through the scheduling requests in the scheduling process.

Can we talk about Medal of Freedom issues when you've got a minute - - Phil tells me he's sent you a list of the recipients with contact information. Our office is getting calls from these folks with lots of questions about guests, transportation, etc. We've been telling callers to sit tight and someone from the White House would be contacting them with all the answers (i.e., you). We should coordinate on a couple issue. For example, Rick Muffler the calligrapher, needs the recipients' names as they wish them to appear on the certificates as soon as possible so he can get to work.

Thanks.

On another subject, as you probably know Mardie Murie is receiving the Medal of Freedom in a big East Room ceremony on January 15th. I had to tell him we don't, but tried to clue him in that the were probably groups that'd be willing to fly her out here, or help to fly her out here, to receive an award that highlights her environmental causes/work. Under Notes and New Business . . .

Last week, Ed Rice called to express Sandy's strong desire for the President to recognize "with a medal" the exemplary service of outgoing Haiti Ambassador Swing. I passed the Sandy/Rice suggestion along to Tim and received the attached, predictable reaction. Rice called again at the end of the week to follow up and I pushed back a little (with no effect) on the somewhat unusual nature of the idea and suggested a nice letter from the President. Rice thought Sandy would want more. I suggested NSC prepare a decision memo for the President, and agreed to look into the better-than-letter options to let them know what was possible. Ed raised the recognition Gen. Shelton received after serving in Haiti; I said I'd inquire as to what that was. That's where the issue stands.

(Nice parting gift; attaboy . . .)

The current Ambassador is William Swing, a Career Member of the Senior Foreign Service, appointed by the President as Ambassador to Haiti 10/8/93; per State, he will depart Haiti 1/5/98. I also understand, informally, he will soon be nominated for another ambassadorship -- this time to Congo, I'm told.

I think it would be exceedingly odd for the President to now single out a sitting ambassador for doing his job well or otherwise. In addition, it seems Swing is about to be nominated by the President to the Senate for another post. There are of course honors that the Secretary of State could confer upon him. As Swing is not retiring from Federal service, I strongly recommend holding the Presidential honors until then.

The President could of course send him a nice letter.

Subject: FYI

I am working on the political briefing, but I thought I should give you a heads up on one subject. I understand that New York's two buiggest Hospital systems are about to merge. I was wondering if you could get a memo from the health care people on this issue?

I spoke with Carmen Garufi - - the attorney in Binghamton that Keith Lorenze worked with last summer and the guy had nothing but effusive praise - - e.g., "got paid nothing but worked harder than most of my employees; thoroughly dependable; cautious when he should be; showed initiative, but knew when to ask questions"; etc.)

I'm getting cautiously optimistic.

I called Keith and left him a message to call me; Maria says he should know to report to orientation tomorrow morning; we're supposed to pick him up at noon.
