Subject: directive

We believe this is the final version of the directive. We've taken the majority of comments/edits from ONDCP and Justice but made sure to keep some of the stronger language preferred by Rahm. Also, while General McCaffrey has seen the directive and is generally pleased, he is insisting on seeing the the absolute "final" version before he personally signs off. He doesn't expect to do this until tomorrow morning.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

SUBJECT: Zero Tolerance for Drug Use and Availability for Offenders

Crime rates in this country have dropped significantly for 5 years, and the number of Americans who have used drugs is down nearly 50% from its peak 15 years ago. Also, drug-related murders have dropped to their lowest point in a decade, and recent drug use surveys indicate that -- for the first time in years -- teen drug use is leveling off, and in some instances, modestly decreasing. All of this news is encouraging.

Nonetheless, much more can and needs to be done to continue to bring down drug use and increase public safety. With more than half the offenders in our criminal justice system estimated to have a substance abuse problem, promoting coerced abstinence and treatment within the criminal justice system is critical to breaking the cycle of crime and drugs. My Administration consistently has promoted testing offenders and demanding the treatment they need to get off drugs, and stay out of trouble in the future. We have worked to expand the number of Drug Courts throughout the country, increased the number of federal arrestees and prisoners who are tested and treated for drugs, and launched an innovative "Breaking the Cycle" initiative, which is a rigorous program of testing, treatment, supervision, and sanctions for individuals at all stages of the criminal justice process. And under your leadership, the Federal Bureau of Prisons provides models of excellence in drug detection, inmate testing, and drug treatment.

We can do still more to promote coerced abstinence and treatment among state prisoners, probationers, and parolees. When a drug user ends up in a state prison, we have a chance to break his or her addiction. Convicted offenders who undergo drug testing and treatment while incarcerated and after release are approximately twice as likely to stay drug- and crime-free as those offenders who do not receive testing and treatment. But when drug use inside prisons is ignored, the demand for drugs runs high. In this environment, corrections officials struggle to keep their prisons drug-free. Often drugs are smuggled in by visitors; sometimes even by compromised correctional staff.

To maintain order in our prisons, to make effective treatment possible, and to reduce drug-related crime, we can not tolerate drug use and trafficking within the nation's prisons. Thus, I direct you to:

- (1) Amend the guidelines requiring states receiving federal prison construction grants to submit plans for drug testing, intervention, and treatment to include a requirement that states also submit a baseline report of their prison drug abuse problem. In every subsequent year, states will be required to update this information in order to measure the progress they are making towards ridding their correctional facilities of drugs.

(2) Draft and transmit to the Congress legislation that will permit states to use their federal prison construction and substance abuse treatment funds to provide a full range of drug testing, drug treatment, and sanctions both during incarceration and after release.

(3) In consultation with states, draft and transmit to the Congress legislation that moves towards enacting stiffer penalties for drug trafficking into and within correctional facilities.

Subject: "Final Drug Directive"

To the best of my knowledge and efforts this has been signed off on by DOJ, ONDCP and WH Counsel. Some of the added language on "enforcing coerced abstinence" are Rahm's rhetorical flourishes. The new language also alludes to including probationers in bullets #1 and #2 (mine and ONDCP's addition; Justice is okay though).

This version was forwarded to General McCaffrey tonight for one "final" eyeball. I told ONDCP he'll have to speak to Rahm tomorrow if he has any serious concerns.

Rahm: I'll drop the other paper off to you tonight before I leave.

To maintain order in our prisons, to make effective treatment possible, and to reduce drug-related crime, we can not tolerate drug use and trafficking within the nation's prisons. Thus, I direct you to:

- (1) Amend the guidelines requiring states receiving federal prison construction grants to submit plans for drug testing, intervention, and treatment to include a requirement that states also submit a baseline report of their prison drug abuse problem. In every subsequent year, states will be required to update and expand this information in order to measure the progress they are making towards ridding their correctional facilities of drugs and reducing drug use among offenders under criminal justice supervision.

(2) Draft and transmit to the Congress legislation that will permit states to use their federal prison construction and substance abuse treatment funds to provide a full range of drug testing, drug treatment, and sanctions for offenders under criminal justice supervision.

(3) In consultation with states, draft and transmit to the Congress legislation that moves towards enacting stiffer penalties for drug trafficking into and within correctional facilities.

Subject: "Final Drug Directive"

To the best of my knowledge and efforts this has been signed off on by DOJ, ONDCP and WH Counsel. Some of the added language on "enforcing coerced abstinence" are Rahm's rhetorical flourishes. The new language also alludes to including probationers in bullets #1 and #2 (mine and ONDCP's addition; Justice is okay though).

This version was forwarded to General McCaffrey tonight for one "final" eyeball. I told ONDCP he'll have to speak to Rahm tomorrow if he has any serious concerns.

Rahm: I'll drop the other paper off to you tonight before I leave.

January 12, 1998

MEMORANDUM FOR THE ATTORNEY GENERAL

SUBJECT: Zero Tolerance for Drug Use and Availability for Offenders

Crime rates in this country have dropped significantly for 5 years, and the number of Americans who have used drugs is down nearly 50% from its peak 15 years ago. Also, drug-related murders have dropped to their lowest point in a decade, and recent drug use surveys indicate that -- for the first time in years -- teen drug use is leveling off, and in some instances, modestly decreasing. All of this news is encouraging.

Nonetheless, much more can and needs to be done to continue to bring down drug use and increase public safety. With more than half the offenders in our criminal justice system estimated to have a substance abuse problem, enforcing coerced abstinence within the criminal justice system is critical to breaking the cycle of crime and drugs. My Administration consistently has promoted testing offenders and requiring treatment as a means of reducing recidivism and drug-related crime. We have worked to expand the number of Drug Courts throughout the country, increased the number of federal arrestees and prisoners who are tested and treated for drugs, and launched an innovative "Breaking the Cycle" initiative, which is a rigorous program of testing, treatment, supervision, and sanctions for offenders at all stages of the criminal justice process. And under your leadership, the Federal Bureau of Prisons provides models of excellence in drug detection, inmate testing, and drug treatment.

We can do still more to enforce coerced abstinence among state prisoners, probationers, and parolees. When a drug user ends up in a state prison, we have a chance to break his or her addiction. Convicted offenders who undergo drug testing and treatment while incarcerated and after release are approximately twice as likely to stay drug- and crime-free as those offenders who do not receive testing and treatment. But when drug use inside prisons is ignored, the demand for drugs runs high. In this environment, correction officials struggle to keep their prisons drug-free. Often drugs are smuggled in by visitors; sometimes even by compromised correctional staff.

To maintain order in our prisons, to make effective treatment possible, and to reduce drug-related crime, we can not tolerate drug use and trafficking within the nation's prisons. Thus, I direct you to:

- (1) Amend the guidelines requiring states receiving federal prison construction grants to submit plans for drug testing, intervention, and treatment to include a requirement that states also submit a baseline report of their prison drug abuse problem. In every subsequent year, states will be required to update and expand this information in order to measure the progress they are making towards ridding their correctional facilities of drugs and reducing drug use among offenders under criminal justice supervision.

(2) Draft and transmit to the Congress legislation that will permit states to use their federal prison construction and substance abuse treatment funds to provide a full range of drug testing, drug treatment, and sanctions for offenders under criminal justice supervision.

(3) In consultation with states, draft and transmit to the Congress legislation that moves towards enacting stiffer penalties for drug trafficking into and within correctional facilities.

Meant to tell you - - I went down and spoke to Glyn about the little melt down I had on those NSC letters (as you predicted the McCain/Iraq letter needed significant editing, which I took a stab at). I tried to put it in context for Glyn (i.e., wanted to touch base with him because the letters weren't the usual, well-written NSC product; I thought my edits went a little overboard, so I had asked you to review my changes, etc.). Glyn was fine with it (though I think he was a little taken aback to see the amount of red ink on the McCain letter when I was done with it. FYI.

Subject: Re: White House Staffing Request - Annual Report for HUD, CY 1996

Clarification: The Executive Clerk's office says that HUD erroneously sent the report directly to them without first going through OMB for clearance (which has caused some confusion). The report was then forwarded to OMB as a White House Staffing Request, by the Staff Secretary's office, for review and comment. Adam Hoffberg cleared comments (edits) through Michael. His comments were approved and given to me to send back to the Staff Secretary ... which I did on November 25. The Staff Secretary's office contacted me today to inquire regarding the progress HUD is making in revising their report. They have had the report on hold awaiting receipt of a revised final report. According to procedure, OMB is required to contact HUD and have the revisions made. The Staff Secretary's office wants the final, revised report forwarded to them, via OMB, as quickly as possible. Please contact HUD to request the revision and provide (and track) an appropriate due date. Please let me know the due date. Thanks to everyone for your help.

Here's the deal. I talked to Phil last night. I suggest a two-track approach to your problem. He's going to call Malone to prod him to move things along through Laura Crabtree et al. (Track One) I'm going to raise it with Ginny Apuzzo when I see her next and ask her to mention it to Mike. (Track Two). This'll give Mike a chance to get it going on his own and give us a method to insure it gets done soon.

Subject: Exec Order 12606

I understand there is a letter in the works regarding the executive order that revoked a Reagan EO providing environmental health and safety risks to children. I think the number of the Reagan order is 12606. We have numerous Congressional offices (over a dozen) looking for a response. Can you please forward the letter to us when it is ready? TEXT:

So, last month we staffed a conflict-of-interest waiver memo from Chuck Ruff to the President concerning a person named Marca Bristo, who's Chair of the Nat'l Council on Disability and also serves as an unpaid board of directors member of the Rehabilitation Institute of Chicago - - a waiver-begging technical conflict. Can we get John's okay to forward Chuck's memo to the President; bet you'd like another copy, wouldn't you?

So, Waldman called to say the SOTU books look great with their solid blue covers, which apparently he voted for, but . . .

he's now concerned that the President's signature wont show up on the front and that we'll have to use gold- or white-colored pens, etc. I told him we'd work it out. FYI.

Last week I sent you over a letter from some school kids asking for the President to sign their "peace wall" - - the teacher is a friend and I found out today that their deadline is February 13 to receive the letter. Do you think we could get them a response before then; I'd appreciate it. Thanks.
