Subject: Proclamation: Law Day, 1999

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release April 30, 1999

LAW DAY, U.S.A., 1999

BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA

A PROCLAMATION

America's founders recognized that the rule of law is the greatest guarantor of freedom and justice, the crucial barricade protecting civilization from chaos, democracy from tyranny. Among the chief grievances they enumerated in the Declaration of Independence were that "the present King of Great Britain . . . has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public Good. . . . He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the Tenure of their Offices, and the Amount and Payment of their Salaries."

The Constitution and Bill of Rights reflect our founders' reverence for and faith in the rule of law, and they stand as an enduring charter of freedom and equality that continues to protect our fundamental rights today. But only the passage of additional laws over time has fulfilled the promise of justice enshrined in that charter. Amendments abolishing slavery and guaranteeing due process and equal protection to everyone came only after the Civil War -- nearly 80 years after the ratification of the Constitution. It took almost another century, and the courageous and persistent efforts of lawyers such as Thurgood Marshall, to establish that the equal protection clause prohibits governments from enforcing segregation in schools and other public arenas. Women did not gain the right to vote until the ratification of the 19th Amendment in 1920.

During the past 4 decades, our Nation has continued to pursue the ideals of justice and equality. President Kennedy and President Johnson fought to enact what would become the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and the Voting Rights Act of 1965, laws that safeguard the rights of citizens to vote, to work, to use public accommodations, and to attend school free from illegal discrimination. In 1967, President Johnson signed the Age Discrimination in Employment Act to protect older Americans against discriminatory treatment in their jobs.

In 1990, President Bush signed into law the Americans with Disabilities Act, landmark legislation that recognizes the right of people with disabilities to have equal opportunity for employment and equal access to public services. Building on the Americans with Disabilities Act, I announced a new initiative in January of this year to remove significant barriers that prevent people with disabilities from joining the work force. We will invest more than two billion dollars over the next 5 years to provide tax credits to offset critical and expensive transportation costs, increased funding for assistive technology research, and greater access to health care for people with disabilities.

In May of 1998, I was proud to sign Executive Order 13087, which amends Federal equal employment opportunity policy to prohibit discrimination based on sexual orientation in the Federal civilian work force. My Administration is working with congressional leaders to pass the Employment Non-Discrimination Act (ENDA), which would prohibit most private employers from firing good workers solely because they are gay or lesbian. And we must secure equal pay legislation to ensure that women and minority employees receive fair compensation for their work.

America's trust in the rule of law and our continuing quest for equality under the law have defined our history for more than 200 years. Now, as we look forward to a new century, we must renew our commitment to the spirit of our Constitution and the strong foundation of civil rights laws that guarantee both our freedom and our security. We must reaffirm our goal of building an America where all people have an equal opportunity to reach their full potential and where no American is denied his or her rights because of race, national origin, gender, sexual orientation, religious beliefs, or disability. By doing so, we will fulfill our founders' vision of a Nation where all citizens share equally in the blessings and protections of the law.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. CLINTON, President of the United States of America, in accordance with Public Law 87-20 of April 7, 1961, do hereby proclaim May 1, 1999, as Law Day. I urge the people of the United States to consider anew how our laws protect our freedoms and contribute to our national well-being. I call upon members of the legal profession, civic associations, educators, librarians, public officials, and the media to promote the observance of this day with appropriate programs and activities. I also call upon public officials to display the flag of the United States on all government buildings throughout the day.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this thirtieth day of April, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and ninety-nine, and of the Independence of the United States of America the two hundred and twenty-third.

WILLIAM J. CLINTON

A few weeks back we staffed around a notice/letter to Potus from Sec'y Daley, dated March 19, identifying Italy under the High Seas Driftnet Fisheries Enforcement Act as a country whose vessels and nationals are conducting large-scale driftnet fishing. According to Daley's letter, such an identification under the Act triggers a series of events (e.g., Treasury is supposed to deny entry to U.S. ports of certain Italian vessels; if consultations with Italy to resolve the issue are unsuccessful after 90 days, Treasury is supposed to prohibit the importation of Italian fish and sportsfishing equipment, etc.) Can we get an update on where this stands; might be worth a couple-paragraph info memo to Potus with Daley's letter attached; please advise.

PRESIDENT WILLIAM J. CLINTON

STATEMENT ON THE CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL FOR ROSA PARKS

THE WHITE HOUSE

May [x], 1999

I am proud to sign this bill awarding the Congressional Gold Medal to Rosa Parks.

Forty-three years ago, in Alabama, Rosa Parks boarded a public bus, took a seat, and began a remarkable journey. Her action that December day was, in itself, a simple one; but it required uncommon courage. It was a ringing rebuke to those who denied the dignity and restricted the rights of African Americans. And it was an inspiration to all Americans struggling together to shed the prejudices of the past and to build a better future. Rosa Parks , short bus trip, and all the distance she has traveled in the years since, have brought the American people ever closer to the promised land that we know it can truly be.

Draft 05/03/99 7:45pm

PRESIDENT WILLIAM J. CLINTON
STATEMENT ON THE CONGRESSIONAL GOLD MEDAL FOR ROSA PARKS
THE WHITE HOUSE

May [x], 1999

I am proud to sign this bill awarding the Congressional Gold Medal to Rosa Parks.

Forty-three years ago, in Alabama, Rosa Parks boarded a public bus, took a seat, and began a remarkable journey. Her action that December day was, in itself, a simple one; but it required uncommon courage. It was a ringing rebuke to those who denied the dignity and restricted the rights of African Americans. And it was an inspiration to all Americans struggling together to shed the prejudices of the past and to build a better future. Rosa Parks, short bus trip, and all the distance she has traveled in the years since, have brought the American people ever closer to the promised land that we know it can truly be.

OKLAHOMA CITY (CNN) --

Tornado Alley residents began another grim day tallying losses Wednesday as the scope of deadly tornadoes that ripped across the U.S. heartland began to become clear.

Oklahoma Gov. Frank Keating, who spent much of Tuesday surveying shattered neighborhoods around Oklahoma City, on Wednesday visited several smaller, outlying towns that appeared to have been almost wiped off the map by Monday's furious storms.

A similar scenario played out in Texas, where Gov. George W. Bush toured the scene of a tornado that killed a 77-year-old woman in Titus County on Tuesday.

Tornadoes and devastating winds have killed at least 44 people and injured hundreds in the southern Plains since Monday, when 76 twisters swept through five states. The death toll includes at least 38 people in Oklahoma, five in Kansas and one person in Texas.

Winds topped 260 mph in Oklahoma City

One tornado, at least a half-mile wide, struck parts of Oklahoma City with winds topping 260 mph, the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration said. The tornado was classified an F5, the most powerful. The storm carved a 19-mile gash through the area, demolishing about 2,000 homes.

At least 1,500 Kansas businesses and homes were destroyed or heavily damaged.

Monday's tornadoes were the nation's deadliest since 42 people were killed last year in Florida.

In Oklahoma, the last F5 on record hit Broken Bow in the southeastern part of the state in April 1982, but no one was killed. Monday's twister F-5 twister was the deadliest in the state since April 9, 1947, when 113 died in the western Oklahoma town of Woodward.

Insured losses in Oklahoma City alone could reach $225 million, according to a preliminary estimate from the Southwestern Insurance Information Service, an industry trade group in Austin, Texas.

National Guard troops
help prevent looting

In Oklahoma City's hard-hit southern suburbs, police and National Guard troops enforced an all-night curfew to prevent possible looting.

Officials also feared that some storm-struck residents might risk poking through wreckage, including downed power lines and broken gas lines, in attempts to find personal possessions.

Crews using dogs and heavy equipment continued to sift through wreckage on Tuesday, a slow process that likely will take much of the week.

Meanwhile, as dazed and weary storm victims gathered in Red Cross shelters and tried to figure out their next steps, other Oklahomans were flooding relief agencies and charities with donations.

After television stations put out an emergency appeal for everything from bleach and batteries to peanut butter and jelly, donations began pouring in at a rate that stunned even relief organizers.

"I just think it is the right thing to do," one volunteer said as he unloaded paper bags full of groceries at a city donation drop-off point. "Oklahoma is showing the true Oklahoma spirit."

Storms move into Texas and Arkansas

Later Tuesday, new storms struck Texas and Arkansas. One tornado tore through nearly 100 buildings and injured at least 11 people in the northeastern Texas town of DeKalb.

"The only thing I remember is that the lights went off and the roof came off," said James Sckittone, 18, a student at DeKalb High School. "Everybody started crying and praying. It looked like an atomic bomb fell."

In southern Arkansas, thunderstorms also spawned tornadoes, large hail and heavy rain, leaving thousands of people without electricity. Several houses and a church were damaged. No injuries were reported.

Thanks for your memo to potus responding to his question about PUHCA repeal - - I had planned to give it to him this weekend. Sorry for not telling you sooner, but I just focused on the fact that he separately asked NEC some related questions on the same issue, and they've been working on a response, too - - the substance of which I've attached. Rather than give him two memos, it'd be great if your staff could coordinate with NEC (Sally Katzen/Ron Minsk) to produce a single PUHCA issues update covering all the questions the President has. Please let me know if you think that's a problem. Thanks.

Subject: PUHCA Question

Here is why we would not support a straight PUHCA repeal bill.

Substantively:

The straight PUHCA repeal bills on the Hill also include provisions for access to company books, by both FERC and states. That, however, is not enough to offer protection to consumers. FERC also needs the authority to review mergers of holding companies and concentration of market power.

Currently, FERC reviews mergers and purchases of utilities. It does not, however, have the authority to review the merger of holding companies (of which there are sixteen registered with the SEC under PUHCA). If PUHCA is repealed without giving merger review authority to FERC, holding companies could merge without review, increasing concentration and lessening competition. Likewise, without ability to review market power, FERC would be unable to address market concentration that developed unexpectedly after approved mergers. Further, after PUHCA repeal, it is expected that companies will get bigger. To the extent that increased size increases the risk of concentration, FERC needs the authority to oversee that risk.

Moreover, FERC currently only has authority to review mergers of companies that have transmission lines, but not of generators without transmission capacity. If PUHCA was repealed, and FERC was not granted broader merger review authority over generators, a holding company might be able to develop market power without being subject to FERC by purchasing generation facilities without ever purchasing transmission facilities.

Tactically:

We need PUHCA repeal, which generally has broad support, as leverage to obtain more comprehensive reform.

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: LYNN CUTLER
BRUCE REED
MARY SMITH

SUBJECT: MEETING WITH NORTHERN PLAINS TRIBES ON MAY 12

On Wednesday, May 12, you are scheduled to drop by a meeting held by John Podesta in the Roosevelt Room with about 20 Northern Plains Tribes from Montana, North Dakota, and South Dakota (see attached list). Senators Daschle (D-SD), Baucus (D-MT), Conrad (D-ND), Dorgan (D-ND), and Johnson (D-SD) are also expected to attend as well as Secretaries Babbitt, Cuomo, Riley, and Deputy Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) Kevin Thurm, Assistant Secretary for Indian Affairs, Kevin Gover, and the Indian Health Service Director, Michael Trujillo.

The main topics to be discussed at the meeting are health care, education, and housing. Even though the unemployment rates and poverty rates are high for Native Americans in general, the Northern Plains tribes are in even worse condition because of factors such as geographic remoteness and harsh weather conditions. This memorandum outlines the format of the meeting; provides some background on the health care, education, and housing needs of Native Americans in general and these tribes in particular; and describes some of the actions the Administration is taking to address these needs. This meeting is primarily a listening session to hear about the issues of concern to these Tribes.

I. Purpose and Structure of the Meeting

This meeting grew out a December 1998 letter to you from several Senators on behalf of several tribes in North Dakota, South Dakota and Montana which had declared "states of emergency" on their respective reservations. The letter requested that you meet with these tribes to address dismal housing, severe overcrowding, homelessness, and extreme poverty on these reservations. The letter also noted that the consistently poor health issues threatening these communities are a direct result of "unmet housing needs." The tribes have since agreed to discuss their education needs as well.

Senator Daschle is expected to give a brief introduction, followed by Senator Dorgan. Tex Hall of the Three Affiliated Tribes of Fort Berthold will then give a brief introduction to the concerns of the tribes, and other designated speakers will follow with discussions of the specific topics of health care, housing, and education.

II. Discussion of Housing, Health Care, and Education for Native Americans

The following discussion outlines some of the issues concerning housing, health care, and education, and the efforts taken by the Administration to address these problems.

A. Housing Needs

1. Scope of the Housing Problem

While economic conditions in Indian country have improved in recent years, American Indian and Alaska Native communities continue to lag behind the rest of the United States with respect to social, economic, and educational attainment levels.

- Income levels of American Indians and Alaska Natives are substantially below those of all other Americans, and, in 1989, about 31 percent continued to live below the poverty level. In comparison, in 1989, about 13 percent of all Americans lived below the poverty level.
- According to Interior, 50% of the work force in Indian Country is unemployed. On the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota, almost 75% of the labor force is unemployed.
- 30% of the employed in Indian Country live below poverty guidelines.

Many American Indian and Alaska Native (AI/AN) communities are in remote locations subject to harsh weather conditions in both the summer and winter. Under such conditions, inadequate housing can be a matter of life and death. The 1990 Census revealed that there were 234,400 occupied housing units in Indian country, and that housing problems of AI/ANs are considerably more severe than those of other Americans.

- The percentage of AI/AN households that are overcrowded or lack plumbing or kitchen facilities (28%) is over 5 times greater than that for other Americans (5.4%).
- Nearly 21% of all AI/AN households in tribal areas, or 49,224 households, experienced overcrowding.
- According to HUD, approximately 87,600 out of the 812,400 AI/AN households in the entire United States (not just in Indian Country) are either overcrowded or without kitchens or plumbing; 40,400 AI/AN households pay more than 50% of their income for housing; and over 142,000 units of affordable housing is needed in AI/AN households.
- Between 1992 and 1996, lenders made only 91 conventional home mortgages to Native Americans on trust land.

2. Administration Efforts on Native American Housing

The Department of Housing and Urban Development is the lead federal agency responsible for the provision of housing and community development assistance to Indian tribes and tribal members. The enactment of the Native American Housing Assistance and Self-Determination Act of 1996 (NAHASDA), now called the Indian Housing Block Grant program, transformed the way in which HUD provided housing assistance to Indian tribes and Native American families. Unlike previous programs which were competitive grants, the Indian Housing Block Grants are formula grants based on need that go directly to tribes or their tribally designated housing entity. Indian Housing Block Grants (formerly NAHASDA). The Administration's FY 2000 budget maintains funding for this program at $620 million. This program provides a needs-based formula grant for housing and housing-related assistance either directly to eligible Indian tribes or through their tribally designated housing entities (TDHE).

One-Stop Mortgage Center. At the Native American Economic Development Conference, you announced this initiative which would streamline lending procedures and coordinate the work of federal agencies that provide mortgages on reservations. This initiative has pilot programs on the Navajo Nation and the Pine Ridge reservation.

Empowerment Zones. For the first time, a tribe was selected as the lead entity for an EZ -- the Oglala Sioux Tribe on the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota. In total, eighteen American Indian and Alaska Native tribes were selected to participate in the Round II Empowerment Zones (EZs) and Enterprise Communities (ECs).

Shared Visions--Pine Ridge Building Summit. The Shared Visions initiative is a comprehensive effort to build more affordable housing and increase homeownership on American Indian reservations across the country. The Summit has a goal of building 50 new homes on the Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota and will enlist volunteers to begin building homes sometime this year.

B. Health Care

1. Health Care Needs

Native Americans have particularly poor health status, and it is widely recognized that the Indian Health Service (IHS), the main resource for Indian tribes who deliver health programs to their communities, is not sufficiently funded. As the Native American population increases (by 2050, the Native American population will more than double to 4.6 million) there is increased demand for services from a system that is not sufficiently funded to meet current needs.

- American Indians suffer from diabetes at three times the rate of the non-Native population.
- American Indians are over two times more likely to have a child die from Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS).
- AI/AN women have the worst survival statistics for breast cancer than any other ethnic groups because of late detection.
- Native Americans, particularly in the Northern Plains, often have life expectancies that rival third-world countries. The average life expectancy for the Oglala Sioux men at the Pine Ridge Reservation in South Dakota is 56.5 years, and for women, it is 66 years.

- Substance abuse, especially alcohol, among youth is a serious problem in many Indian communities. The problem is already manifesting itself through alcoholism death rates for Indians, 15 to 24 years of age. The Indian rate is 5.5 deaths per 100,000 population compared to 0.3 for the entire population.
- Indian youth are also more likely to die from accidents and suicide than youth in the general population.
- Death from traumatic injury is the leading killer of Indian people from the early age of 7 months to age 44. Native Americans die of injury death at 2-3 times the rate of other Americans.

IHS estimates that its per capita appropriations are about $1,800 (approximately $1,400 personal services and $400 Medicaid/Medicare/private insurance collections) compared with the approximate $3,000 per capita expenditure for Medicaid. While these figures have not been adjusted for comparability and for substantial differences in population and services, the tribes will argue that these figures demonstrate that we are not meeting our trust responsibility.

2. Administration Health Care Initiatives

Indian Health Service. Your budget proposes $2.4 billion, an increase for the Indian Health Service (IHS) of $170 million or 8 percent over the FY 1999 level. This increase would enable IHS to continue expanding accessible and high-quality health care to its 1.4 million Native American service users. The budget enables IHS to further enhance current levels of direct health care services, including providing 34,000 breast cancer screening mammographies to Native American women between ages 50-69; creating 44 new dental unit teams to provide an additional 25,000 dental visits; reducing the incidence of complications related to chronic diseases such as diabetes through clinical monitoring and health promotion on life style changes; and enabling approximately 100 new community-based public health nurses to provide outreach activities, including home visitations, well-child examinations, immunizations, prenatal care, health fairs, follow-up visits, and missed clinical appointments.

Montana-Specific. The FY 2000 budget provides $8 million for the phase-in of staff and related costs for newly-opened outpatient facilities, including the Lama Deer, MT Indian Health Center ($2.4 million).

C. Education

1. Lack of Educational Opportunities for Native Americans

There is generally not high educational attainment for Native American children.

- The Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) funds 185 schools that serve more than 50,000 students on 67 reservations in 23 states. Overall BIA funds about 120 day schools and 65 boarding schools and several dormitories.

- Of the 185 BIA-funded elementary and secondary schools on reservations today, approximately half of the buildings are over 30 years old, and approximately 20 percent are over 50 years old. Many of these schools require replacement or much-needed health and safety-related repairs and improvements that together comprise a roughly $700 million backlog.
- Specifically in the Dakotas and Montana, the BIA funds the operations of 35 elementary and secondary schools.
- About 90 percent of American Indian children attend local public schools, while only about 10 percent attend BIA-funded schools.
- Approximately 50 percent of American Indian fourth-graders scored below the basic level in reading and mathematics.
- Native Americans have some of the highest high school drop out rates.
- Less than two-thirds of Native Americans are high school graduates compared with 75 percent of the rest of the population.
- Less than 10 percent of Native Americans have bachelor's degrees compared with 20 percent of the total population and studies show that only about 35 percent of Native Americans who enter mainstream institutions as freshman graduate.

2. Administration Efforts Related to Native American Education

The Administration is continuing its commitment to education by expanding the BIA school construction initiative and by including a new initiative to train 1000 new Native American teachers.

BIA School Construction and Repair with New Bonding Initiative. The Budget provides $108 million (80% over FY 1999 enacted) to replace at least two of BIA's oldest and most dilapidated schools, as well as numerous major facilities improvement and repair projects. Within this amount, up to $30 million may be used to ensure the repayment of principal on school modernization bonds. The Administration's FY 2000 school modernization initiative includes a $200 million set-aside in bonding authority for FY 2000 and FY 2001 and tax credits to be paid to bond holders in lieu of interest payments.

Class Size Initiative. This new initiative includes a $7 million set-aside for territories and for BIA-funded schools located on or near reservations.

Native American Education Executive Order. At the Native American Economic Development Conference in August 1998, you signed an executive order which is designed to improve the academic performance of American Indian and Alaska Native students in grades K-12.

1000 New Native American Teachers. The FY2000 budget proposes $10 million to begin training and recruiting 1000 new teachers for areas with high concentrations of American Indian and Alaska Native students.

American Indian Education Foundation. Just last week, the First Lady announced the Administration's support for legislation to create a nonprofit entity called the American Indian Education Foundation, similar to the National Park Foundation, in order to help leverage private resources for the education of Native American children.

Tribally Controlled Community Colleges. TCCCs are predominantly two-year institutions, primarily located on remote reservations. The colleges address the needs of some of the most economically depressed regions in the country and often serve as community centers, libraries and career centers, economic development centers, or public meeting places. More than half (16) of the TCCCs are located in ND, SD, or MT. The FY 2000 BIA budget includes, $38.4 million ($7.1million or 23% over FY 1999 enacted) for the TCCCs.

III. Options and Recommendations

While the above statistics demonstrate that more needs to be done with respect to improving the lives of Native Americans living on reservations, particularly in the Northern Plains, you have made a number of important announcements for Indian Country, most notably at the Native American Economic Development Conference last August. We should emphasize the some of the initiatives already announced by the Administration:

- An executive order to improve the academic performance of American Indian and Alaska Native students in K-12;
- The first-ever comprehensive technology infrastructure study which will be completed this summer;
- A plan to direct $70 million to assist seven tribes to establish small start-up technology companies to obtain government contracts;
- A project to streamline the mortgage lending process in Indian Country and to improve access to mortgage loans on Indian reservations with pilots at the Navajo Nation and the Pine Ridge Reservation; and
- The EZ at Pine Ridge and the participation of other tribes in EZ/ECs.

In addition to emphasizing some of our accomplishments, we should call upon the Senators and the tribes to help us pass our budget and pass some of our legislative initiatives such as:

- Funding the $10 million for 1000 new Native American teachers;
- Fully funding our $2.4 billion request for the Indian Health Service;
- Funding our request for BIA-school construction and repair;
- Funding HUD's request for its Native American housing initiatives;
- Passing legislation to enable the leveraging of private funds for the federal BIA schools on reservations through the Administration's bonding initiative; and
- Passing legislation for the American Indian Education Foundation in order to leverage private resources to improve Native American education.

Dear Bob,

I want to thank you for recently hosting a meeting with several key Agriculture Committee Senators, Secretary Glickman, Undersecretaries Eizenstat and Loy, and members of the agriculture sector, to discuss climate change and the agriculture community. I understand this was a very successful meeting and I appreciate your continued leadership on this critical issue.

Working together with the agriculture sector is absolutely crucial to addressing the challenge of climate change. My Administration is committed to working with farmers to both minimize the impacts of climate change on farming and identify the opportunities that carbon-absorbing activities may provide for the agriculture sector.

Thank you again for your efforts, and I look forward to continuing our work together on this and other important issues.

Sincerely,

The Honorable J. Robert Kerrey

Q I guess at the State Department that Jamie Rubin said today the President is considering whether to move the U.S.
Embassy from Tel Aviv.

MR. LOCKHART: Not that I'm aware of.

Q That he would make a decision soon.

MR. LOCKHART: No, that is a -- whoever listened to that got that jumbled a little bit. There is a legislation about building an embassy in Jerusalem that has particular dates in it. The President has waiver authority on the building of it. There will be some decision on the waiver sometime in the near future, but there's no decision now.

We have identified a provision in law which calls for an exception in the flying of the flag at half-staff on Peace Officers Memorial Day. Per 4 U.S.C. 7 (recodified last year by P.L. 105-225), "the flag shall be flown at halfstaff on Peace Officers Memorial Day, unless that day is also Armed Forces Day." Thus, flags will not be flown at half-staff tomorrow. However, the POW/MIA flag will fly over the White House on Armed Forces Day.

Subject: grambling speech

I need to ask for your help with something. I hate to sound grumpy - - and maybe there's something I don't know - - but it seems we had a pretty big screw up over the weekend. For some reason, Paul Glastris and June Shih sent a copy of the Grambling speech to the President through the situation room at 1:45 a.m. on Saturday without notifying or obtaining clearance from our office. We didn't even know the President had it until we found out about it indirectly this morning.

Sometimes emergencies arise, but it seems fair to say that individual speechwriters should never be sending things through the situation room to the president without clearance. I'd appreciate your help in making sure this doesn't become a habit. Thanks.

I need to ask for your help with something. I hate to sound grumpy - - and maybe there's something I don't know - - but it seems we had a pretty big screw up over the weekend. For some reason, Paul Glastris and June Shih sent a copy of the Grambling speech to the President through the situation room at 1:45 a.m. on Saturday without notifying or obtaining clearance from our office. We didn't even know the President had it until we found out about it indirectly this morning.

Sometimes emergencies arise, but it seems fair to say that individual speechwriters should never be sending things through the situation room to the president without clearance. I'd appreciate your help in making sure this doesn't become a habit. Thanks.

Subject: Rep. Sam Farr

Sean,

I spoke with Delia about a request from Rep. Sam Farr (D-CA) to honor the Giant Dipper roller coaster in Santa Cruz, CA on the occasion of its 75th anniversary. Dan and Delia concurred that this was not a message that we needed to do. This answer was okay with Legislative Affairs and I relayed that information to Rep. Farr's Chief of Staff. Shortly afterward, Rep. Farr personally placed a call to Legislative Affairs on the Giant Dipper request, and prior to returning the call we thought we would give it one last try.

From our end, Rep. Farr is definitely a friend of the Administration's and an ally of ours on the Hill. I know that Janet Murguia is completely in favor of supporting Rep. Farr's request and that the Office of Legislative Affairs agrees that we should follow through with Rep. Farr's personal request. To complicate the picture even more, Marsha Scott has shown interest in this request. I just got off the phone with Skye Philbrick in her office who told me, Marsha wanted to make sure that the Congressman's request was complied with.

I had a great conversation with Delia and it was her suggestion to e-mail you so that you could weigh in on the decision. Legislative Affairs completely supports the position of Presidential Correspondence, but Janet Murguia, myself, or whomever calls Rep. Farr is going to have a tough time turning him down on the basis that the message does not fit the White House requirements, and we fear that even that might not be the end of Rep. Farr's attempts to get this message.

At your convenience, please advise me on whether or not you think we will be able to support the Congressman's request. After hearing from you, we will be happy to support your position and call Rep. Farr to relay the news, whether good or bad. Additionally, I am faxing you the incoming letter from May 3 to the POTUS from Rep. Farr, and a May 13 letter from Rep. Farr to Janet Murguia, both on the Giant Dipper. Finally, Rep. Farr is leaving for the district on Thursday night and would personally like to hand deliver the message to the Mayor of Santa Cruz over the weekend.

Thanks,
Eli

As I recall you were going to use the first outreach meeting with president on 6/9 for mtg with asian americans. And I think we were also going to get the president to sign executive order on asian american health disparities that same day--I know underwood is interested in having asian american members of congress down here, you may want to coordinate with leg affairs on this so we get all of this done then --so I've asked Stephanie to block more time for us. lastly, Stephanie suggests we get the proclamation signed on monday, white house photo so that at least is done in may. do I have this right?

TEXT:

Here's the thing, almost verbatim, that we did for Todd/Phil, updated with some info on yours truly:

President Clinton has named Sean Maloney as Assistant to the President and Staff Secretary. He served as Deputy Assistant to the President and Deputy Staff Secretary since October, 1998, and as Special Assistant to the President and Deputy Staff Secretary prior to that, beginning in July, 1997. As Staff Secretary, Mr. Maloney is responsible for clearing all written material going to and from the Oval Office, including all presidential briefing and decision memos, executive orders, directives and legislation.

"Sean Maloney has done an outstanding job of managing the flow of information to and from my desk and providing important counsel," President Clinton said. "He is a valued member of my senior staff in a critically important job. I am confident that he will continue to serve with distinction as Staff Secretary."

Mr. Maloney began working for then Governor Clinton during the 1992 presidential primaries and worked on the 1992 Democratic Convention in New York City, and later at the Clinton/Gore campaign headquarters in Little Rock, Arkansas. Following the 1992 campaign, Maloney joined the law firm of Willkie Farr & Gallagher in New York, New York, where he specialized in institutional and criminal investigations, including Major League Baseball's investigation of Cincinnati Reds Owner Marge Schott; U.S. Senator Sam Nunn's Permanent Subcommittee on Investigation's review of Empire Blue Cross and Blue Shield; and the investigation of the preliminary co-executors of the Estate of Doris Duke. During the 1996 presidential campaign, he served as a deputy director of the N.Y. Coordinated Campaign.

Mr. Maloney earned his B.A. in International Relations from the University of Virginia in 1988; and received a J.D. from the University of Virginia School of Law in 1992, where he was the Managing Editor of the Virginia Journal of International Law. From June, 1988, to June 1989, he was a volunteer social worker in rural Peru, where he focused on community development programs.

Mr. Maloney, 32, has a partner, Randy Florke, who owns a real estate, design and restoration firm in Manhattan. They have a 9-year-old adopted son, Jesus.

DRAFT STATEMENT: WORK INCENTIVES IMPROVEMENT ACT

I commend the House Commerce Committee for its overwhelming bipartisan support for the Work Incentives Improvement Act today. By unanimously endorsing this legislation, the House has taken an important step towards removing significant barriers to work for millions of our nation's most untapped resource -- people with disabilities. Today's action by the Commerce Committee under the leadership of Chairman Bliley and Congressman Dingell parallels the overwhelmingly bipartisan support for the Roth/Moynihan/Jeffords/Kennedy version of this legislation received from the Senate Finance Committee.

Americans with disabilities can and do bring tremendous energy and talent to the American workforce, but the unemployment rate of all working-age adults with disabilities is nearly 75 percent. One of the most glaring problems is that people with disabilities frequently become ineligible for Medicaid or Medicare if they go back to work. This puts people with disabilities in the untenable position of choosing between health care coverage and work. The Work Incentives Improvement Act would improve job opportunities for people with disabilities by increasing access to health care and employment services.

Justin Dart, one of the foremost leaders of the disability community, has said that the Work Incentives Improvement Act is "one of the boldest since the landmark passage of the Americans with Disabilities Act." As I indicated in my State of the Union Address, I could not agree more with him. Now that the Committees of Congress with primary jurisdiction over this bill have acted, I call on the Speaker Hastert, as well as Senator Lott, to move promptly to schedule votes for this important and long overdue legislation.
