Sean, this is in response from Friday inquiries from the press that the Y2K bill was sent to us on email and folks at the Capitol were trumpeting this "accomplishment." We told the press that we recieved a hard copy of the bill because no one in your office or on the Web Team knew of any document emailed from the Hill.

What the hell were they thinking?! :-) If they don't have the foresight to contact us and get the correct email address, they might as well have stuck the bill in a bottle, announce its intended recipient, and thrown the damn thing out to sea.

I just found an E-mail from Julia which indicates the mail was sent to clerk@whitehouse.gov. To my knowledge we are not supporting this address. A test message fails.

Subject: 07/16/9 - Congressional Mail to president@whitehouse.gov

Deborah, Jason, Steve, Nanda:

The Friday evening ABC TV news noted that the Congress attempted to send an E-mail to the President/ The subject of the E-mail was apparently a recently passed piece of Legislation. The segment further noted that the White House had not received the E-mail.

I called the Press Office for details as I suspected that Storm had denied the E-mail. The reason for the denial was that the message would most likely exceed the maximum size for E-mail sent to president@whitehouse.gov. Julia of the Press Office indicated that they were aware of the E-mail but did not know the subject or content.

I searched the President's E-mail for mail from Congress but was unable to find any. Steve may be able to find the mail on Monday.

If there is a need from Congress to send mail to President@whitehouse.gov, we will have to modify Storm to allow this.

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate Release
1999 -- DRAFT

July 19,

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

Today I sign the Year 2000 Readiness and Responsibility Act (the Y2K Act 8). This is extraordinary, time-limited legislation designed to deal with an exceptional and unique circumstance of national significance ) the Y2K computer problem.

In signing this legislation, I act in the hope and belief that companies in the high technology sector and throughout the American economy have been serious in their remediation efforts. Many have worked hard to identify the potential for Y2K failures among their systems and products, taken reasonable measures to inform those who might be injured from Y2K failures of steps they could take to avoid the harm, and fixed those systems and products, where feasible. If there are significant failures or disruptions as we enter the Year 2000, plaintiffs will turn to the courts seeking compensation for harm both real and illusory. Responsible companies fear that they will spend millions or more defending Y2K suits, even if they bear little or no responsibility for the harm. Frivolous litigation could hamper our courts and slow progress for those with legitimate claims. Firms whose productivity is central to our economy could be distracted by the defense of unwarranted lawsuits.

My Administration sought changes to make the Y2K Act balanced and fair, preserving important protections for litigants, who are injured and deserve compensation. The Y2K Act includes additional protections for public health, safety, the environment, and plaintiffs that my Administration negotiated. One example is that the Y2K Act expressly exempts Y2K actions involving private securities claims from all provisions of the bill except for Section 13(b). See Section 4(I). (Actions by the Securities and Exchange Commission are not implicated by Sections 4(I) or 13(b) because they are excluded from the definition of Y2K Action. 8 See Section 3(1)(C).) Section 13(b) in turn applies only to claims that involve an element of actual or constructive awareness. Accordingly, Section 13(b) does not reach private claims arising under the Securities Act of 1933 and other Federal securities laws, such as claims under Section 11 of the 1933 Act, that do not involve actual or constructive awareness as an element of the claim.

This is narrow, time-limited legislation aimed at a unique problem. The terms of the statute should be construed narrowly to create uniform Federal rules for Y2K actions, where specified, and to leave in place State law not in direct conflict with the bill ,s provisions. Moreover, my signature today in no way reflects support for the Y2K Act ,s provisions in any other context.

The Y2K Act does not contain nearly all the protections that I would have liked to see or would have required under different circumstances. The Department of Justice and I will be watching closely to see how the Y2K Act's provisions are used in practice. I hope that we find that the Y2K Act succeeds in helping to screen out frivolous claims without placing insurmountable barriers before legitimate suits. We will be watching to see, however, if instead its protections are invoked by parties who did little or nothing to remediate in order to defeat claims brought by those harmed by irresponsible conduct.

In the remaining 165 days before the millennium arrives, I hope that the business community redoubles its efforts at remediation. Preventing problems before they start, and developing contingency plans when necessary, is still the best solution to the Y2K issue.

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

Today I sign the Y2K Act. This is extraordinary, time-limited legislation designed to deal with an exceptional and unique circumstance of national significance – the Y2K computer problem.

In signing this legislation, I hope and believe that companies in the high technology sector and throughout the American economy have been serious in their remediation efforts. Many have worked hard to identify the potential for Y2K failures among their systems and products, taken reasonable measures to inform those who might be injured from Y2K failures of steps they could take to avoid the harm, and fixed those systems and products, where feasible. If nonetheless there are significant failures or disruptions as we enter the Year 2000, plaintiffs will turn to the courts seeking compensation. Frivolous litigation could hamper our courts and delay relief for those with legitimate claims. Firms whose productivity is central to our economy could be distracted by the defense of unwarranted lawsuits.

My Administration sought changes to make the Y2K Act balanced and fair, protecting litigants who are injured and deserve compensation. We achieved some additional protections. For example, the Y2K Act was modified to ensure that the Federal law leaves intact the State law doctrines of unconscionability that protect unwary consumers and small businesses against unfair or illegal contracts and that public health, safety, and the environment are protected, even if some firms are temporarily unable to comply fully with all regulatory requirements due to Y2K failures.

Section 13(b) in turn applies only to claims that involve an element of actual or constructive awareness. Accordingly, Section 13(b) does not reach private claims arising under the Securities Act of 1933 and other Federal securities laws, such as claims under Section 11 of the 1933 Act, that do not involve actual or constructive awareness as an element of the claim. More generally, actions by the Securities and Exchange Commission are excluded from the definition of "Y2K Action."

This is narrow, time-limited legislation aimed at a unique problem. The terms of the statute should be construed narrowly to create uniform Federal rules for Y2K actions in the areas specified in the bill, and to leave in place State law not in direct conflict with the bill's provisions. Sean --

John asked me to follow up on the POTUS/Podesta memos regarding the September 18th Cabinet seminar on Y2K. He was at Friday's Cabinet meeting and told the group that they would soon be receiving more information about the seminar.

If you or someone else in your office could shoot me a note once the memos have gone, I would be most appreciative.

Thank you.

Jack

Ft. Campbell Hate Crime Update

Holly sent this to me. I happened to catch it at 10 PM as well... Julie

...Did you both happen see Calpernia Addams on tonight's 6 o'clock news on channel 5? As per the news cast and her interview on news channel 5, she was seeing the young soldier who was beaten to death up at Ft. Campbell! Poor Calpernia, she looked so sad, and the news mention that she was an entertainer (female impersonator) at "The Connection." The other soldiers found out about his relationship with Calpernia and apparently began harassing him, which led to his beating subsequent death. The news cast also mentioned that this was the first relationship of this kind for the young soldier.

MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR PFC BARRY WINCHELL
WEDNESDAY, JULY 21, 7:00 - 8:00 P.M.
CENTENNIAL PARK BANDSHELL

Barry Winchell, a soldier at Fort Campbell, died on July 6 of injuries that he suffered during an attack in the barracks at Fort Campbell.

THE ATTACK ON WINCHELL RESULTED FROM RUMORS THAT HE WAS GAY.

The Lesbian & Gay Coalition for Justice calls on all people in the Nashville area to join in memorializing Private Winchell, a casualty in the battle for equality.

We especially encourage the participation of veterans and soldiers.

Hi Sherman,

I'm the new Staff Assistant in Legislative Affairs. I would like to request twenty-five (25) redline copies of H.R. 775, The Year 2000 Readiness and Repsonsibility Act, for various members of Congress who helped secure its passage. I have had this request approved by Lisa Kountoupes in Legislative Affairs. This bill was signed into law on July 20, 1999. Let me know if you have any questions/concerns/queries.

Thanks!

Devanshu

David, I'm trying to get the wheels rolling on a Presidential Proclamation for this year's America Goes Back to School initiative. Dan expressed some legitimate concerns about using Presidential Proclamations and I will help resolve that. However, he implied we might not do one this year. I know Cab Aff, DPC, and DOEd all want to continue the tradition...I think POTUS would too. What are your thoughts?

Sean -- I'm glad to know that they think this a good idea, but in every previous year there has been no apparent use of this proclamation once it has been done. No one has used the copies of it that we have prepared. We're happy to prepare proclamations that get used, but we don't have the resources to prepare documents that aren't utilized. I really need to know the plans for making use of this, particularly in light of the letter that we are doing from the President now on this very same issue. Thanks for any light you can shed on this.

Dan

Hi Dan...Lana called to suggest that we would not be doing a Presidential Proclamation for america goes back to school this year. Education believes it is a good idea to continue doing this, as do we. I believe DPC is on board as well. Should I have Thurgood or Kris give you a call or is there something we need to do to make it easier to get it done and distributed? I'm happy to help in anyway. Please let me know. Thnx. Sean

Sean - Thanks for taking the Dunn letter. If we can't get a personal signature today, I think it would be best to wait until we can. I think that Minyon will agree that Jay is a great guy who has done great work for the President and deserves such treatment.

Subject: Statement by the President: Ninth Anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act

THE WHITE HOUSE

Office of the Press Secretary

For Immediate

Release

1999

July 26,

STATEMENT BY THE PRESIDENT

Today, I join citizens across the country in celebrating the ninth anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA). In the past, many Americans have presumed that disability meant a life of dependence. Now, we recognize that people with disabilities want to ) and can ) lead independent lives and contribute to our nation's prosperity. Throughout our Administration, Vice President Gore and I have endeavored to empower individuals with the tools they need to bring their tremendous energy and talent to the American workforce.

My Task Force on Employment of Adults with Disabilities is building on the foundation of the ADA by developing a coordinated and active employment agenda for people with disabilities. We have taken strong action to promote the employment of individuals with disabilities, including: implementing new regulations that increase the amount of income that over 250,000 Americans with disabilities can earn while still receiving critical cash and medical benefits; instituting new steps to remove Federal hiring barriers for people with mental illness; and directing the Office of Personnel Management to develop a plan for Federal hiring of people with disabilities. And, under the leadership of Tipper Gore, we are beginning to address the stigma and discrimination confronted by people with psychiatric disabilities.

I am proud of the actions that this Administration has taken to fully integrate Americans with disabilities into the workplace. It is now time for Congress to act. In my State of the Union, I challenged the Congress to pass the bipartisan Work Incentives Improvement Act, sponsored by Senators Jeffords, Kennedy, Roth, and Moynihan, which would improve job opportunities for people with disabilities by increasing access to health care and employment services. It was my hope that I could have signed this legislation into law today, but the House has not yet acted on it. I remain committed to enacting this legislation in this Congress.

We should also work together across party lines to enact a strong, enforceable Patients Bill of Rights, provide new tax options to assist individuals with disabilities with their work-related expenses, and double the available funding for assistive technologies that will facilitate employment. We must make this a season of progress, not a season of partisanship. We can achieve this end by passing all three of these critically important initiatives. There would be no better way to celebrate the ninth anniversary of the Americans with Disabilities Act.

TEXT:

mac maclarty will probably be calling president carter today to give him the medal of freedom news; in terms of "doing something special" for the carters, would you try to block a little time the day of the ceremony? Doesn't need to be a lot of time. I'm going to talk to Mac about what makes sense, but to make the President happy, it's got to be something that communicates the significance of carter's post-presidency work - - so, i don't know if just a private lunch will be enough. thanks.

I spoke to Larry Stein this morning. He will alert his staff to the need to give a heads-up and offer a briefing to key Members regarding the draft Federalism executive order we have reached agreement on with the Big Seven and others. I asked that he let us know ASAP if he discovers any concerns because we hope to send this to the President with a recommendation to sign it by the end of the week. I do not yet have Big Seven letter. I will call Don Borut myself later today.

We just got a call from a young man in correspondence, who is busy working on the "goodbye" letter for Waldman. I was under the impression that when it comes to departing senior staff -- especially staff who have been with him since Little Rock -- the President at least looks these over and suggests changes. True? Not true? Thanks!

Kathy Keith, our White House Liaison, received a call today from a friend of hers who works for Congressman Ken Bentsen. Senator Lloyd Bentsen's wife called the Congressman's office requesting their assistance in getting some information out of the White House on the Medal of Freedom Presentation to Senator Bentsen on 8/11. Apparently, Leg Affairs has not been helpful to Mrs. Bentsen or to the Congressman's office in figuring out logistics for the day. Specifically, Mrs. Bentsen is trying to figure out what time of day the event will be (morning or night) to figure out how to get the Senator up to Washington (because of his current health, he'll also need to travel with a doctor, which is difficult to coordinate.) They are also trying to find out if the presentation is solely for the Senator or whether anyone else will also be presented with a medal.

If I remember correctly, you have a relationship with the Senator and I thought you might be able to help Mrs. Bentsen out. Kathy can be reached at 586-7922 or at Kathy.Keith@hq.doe.gov.

I know you've got a lot going on and if there's nothing you can do, I totally understand. I just wanted to make sure you were aware that this was going on.

If you have any questions, feel free to call me or Kathy, or page me at 800-946-4645, pin 842-3735.

The President is doing a photo op next week with the NCAA Division I Champion Maine Black Bears. Steven King is a strong supporter of the team and would be at the event, except for his recent accident.

Baldacci has asked, if he brings a get well card signed by the team, if the president would also sign it.

I don't know if we discourage this type of thing, don't care, etc. Let me know when you have a chance.

i would set this up as a statement by the press secretary and make the opening paragraph a quote from potus; i'd take out the comma after "technology" in the last line of the 2nd paragraph; think i'd lose the 3rd paragraph all together.

Statement by the President

I want to express my special gratitude to Professor Chang Lin Tien who begins his service today on the National Science Board. He and other Board members help sustain American leadership across the frontiers of scientific knowledge.

Professor Tien ,s rich background, as a world-class engineer and as the former Chancellor of the University of California at Berkeley, provides him with a unique understanding of the important links between science and technology, and education and society.

The loyalty of our Asian Pacific American scientific community has been wrongly and unfairly questioned following the recent discovery of security problems at our national laboratories. Security matters are of the highest priority in my Administration, but history has shown the damage to the lives of our citizens and to our society that results from the destructive grip of prejudice, suspicion and discrimination. Racial rhetoric and stereotyping have no place in our One America in the 21st century.

Asian Pacific American scientists and engineers have made major contributions to our country, to our national security, and to our unmatched scientific enterprise. In answering the call to public service, Professor Tien carries on the principles and cherished traditions of Asian Pacific Americans who have helped build and strengthen our nation with diligence and determination.

Subject: Asian Pacific Americans -- draft POTUS statement

Jake -- attached, for your consideration, is a draft POTUS statement on Asian Pacific Americans ...

At 3:00 p.m. this afternoon, Neal Lane will swear-in the President's nominee, Professor Chang Lin Tien, to the National Science Board at a ceremony at the National Science Foundation (NSF).

In a conversation last week, Maria Echaveste thought it might be a worthy idea to also have the President issue a statement noting the valuable contributions of the Asian Pacific American community, especially given the suspicion directed at them in the wake of the recent DOE labs issue. I raised it again this morning at senior staff, and she nodded her approval. Once you've edited it... Neal would like to read it, or refer to it this afternoon... if you can clear it.

FYI -- the National Science Board, made up of 24 members appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate, was established by Congress in 1950 to serve both as an independent national science policy body, and to oversee and guide the activities of the NSF. It assists the President and Congress in formulating national policies in science, engineering, and education.

The following journalists are expected at today's NSF swearing-in:

David Hunag (China Today)
Larry Li (China Today)
Man-Yeung Lui (local China newspaper)
Pan Ying-Cheng (local Chinese newspaper)
Alex Wang (local Chinese newspaper)
(Also Radio-TV Hong Kong television crew)
Jeff Brainard (Chronicle of Higher Ed.)
Bill Schulz (C&E News)
Neil McDonald (Federal Technology Report)
Annette Rosenblum (ACS' Capitol Connection/newsletter)
Other S&T trade press regulars: Colin Macilwain of Nature, Jeff Mervis of Science, Irwin Goodwin of Physics Today, and Dave Kramer of Science and Government Report.

Please call if you have any questions. Many thanks.

-- Jeff
