

TALKING POINTS FOR HRC VIDEO FOR THE 50th ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION
OF CITIZENS' COMMITTEE FOR CHILDREN OF NEW YORK: April 24, 1995

GREETINGS

o HRC sends greetings from the White House. Sorry cannot be with you in person tonight. Possible segue for this remark -- CCC's 50th anniversary theme KIDS FIRST... and HRC putting her daughter first, to be with Chelsea at her school's parent event.

o KIDS FIRST, NEW YORK is a citywide movement initiated by a growing sense of urgency among New Yorkers to "do something" to improve conditions for children, a concern for children and what is best for them. Our goal is to reach out to New Yorkers more than ever before, raising their awareness, educating them and bringing to the forefront of public debate, the serious challenges facing children in New York City. We seek to create the change needed to make children, their education, safety and well-being a priority in New York City. Members of KFNy are New Yorkers from all walks of life who share a common interest in making New York City a good place to be a child. KFNy member act as a child advocacy team working to convince the Mayor, City Council Speaker and Councilmembers, Governor, State Legislators and other policymakers to act on behalf of children as they pass laws, enact budgets and develop programs for children.

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT AWARD

o I am delighted to be the first recipient of the Eleanor Roosevelt award for children's advocacy. Improving conditions for children has been my passion since the earliest days of my career. I have studied and learned much from the work of Eleanor Roosevelt and she has long been a hero of mine.

o Eleanor Roosevelt was an activist first lady and an avid volunteer in all kinds of community services but especially in developing social programs and community solutions to the problems facing children. When she began her work, children were living in conditions not all that different from today-- too many children were born small, too soon and dying early, many children were going hungry and were not receiving immunizations and other kinds of health care, there was little safe child care for young children and virtually no afterschool care for school age children whose mothers worked in the war industries, too many children were poor, and many children were orphaned or abandoned and growing up in institutions. But Mrs. Roosevelt knew then what we all know today-- that active volunteers, citizens in their own communities, can turn their individual concern about children into a force for social good that can improve the future for all our children.

Mrs. Roosevelt knew that citizens banding together with a common purpose could shape the future for children. It was this knowledge and the insight derived from her own personal experience that prompted her remarks to Trude Lash and that created CCCNY. On the eve of her retirement from CCC more than 25 years ago, Trude Lash recounted a story about Mrs. Roosevelt to a New York Times reporter. The story goes like this: Reflecting on her tenure as Director of CCCNY, Mrs. Lash remarked on her own reluctance to take on the job at first. She had a host of reasons why she should not take on the job-- she wasn't ready, the timing was bad, etc -- and noted that it was Eleanor Roosevelt's words to her that cinched her decision to take on the job. Mrs. Roosevelt said, "if we wait until we're ready, we'll never do anything and then it will be too late". And it is exactly this sentiment that created CCCNY and sustains it as the premier child advocacy organization in the City. And it is exactly the force that drives CCC today, and has driven it over the last fifty years, to keep a focus on the child, on the family and on the community.

O It is a great honor to have been chosen to receive CCCNY's first Eleanor Roosevelt award. Because I cannot be there with you tonight, I have asked David Roosevelt, the grandson of Eleanor Roosevelt, to accept this award on my behalf. I would like to thank the Board of Directors, Members and staff of CCCNY for this great honor. I would like to especially thank Blair Brown who will present David with my award, Samuel Peabody, chairman of CCC who is inaugurating the Samuel P. Peabody awards this evening commemorating his achievements making a future for children. I'd like to send my best wishes to the three recipients of the Peabody awards-- Geraldine Laybourne, Anna Quindlen, and Laurie Midgette --I hold you in the highest regard, first for your great professional achievements on behalf of children and for your cutting-edge strategies to make a better future for all our children.

ABOUT CITIZENS' COMMITTEE FOR CHILDREN OF NEW YORK

O CCC's role in the development of highly effective advocacy strategies and techniques

O The basic ingredient of our success over the years is our reliance on staff/volunteer partnerships and coalitions with concerned New Yorkers as the vehicles to get the work done. CCC depends on the opinions, recommendations, advice and participation of a diverse group of New Yorkers who help us frame our priorities and carry out our agenda. The goal of our work is to engage more New Yorkers in ensuring that every child has access to health care, housing, education and has the opportunity to grow up in a safe and nurturing environment.

O Over the years we have attempted to reform government and voluntary child services and expand the reach of public and private services. We pioneered many techniques now in use all over the country-- Community Leadership Course now Child Watch by CDF; State of the Child Reports now Kids Count and its newest evolution-- community-by-community indicators-- Keeping Track. These techniques understood by activists everywhere who live and work in their own communities sought to achieve a balance between children's needs and the interests of the human service community, parents, community and civic groups and policymakers in New York City.

Dear Mr. Link and Ms. Nayowith:

Please accept my apologies for the confusion in regard to the First Lady's acceptance of the Eleanor Roosevelt Award of the Citizens' Committee for Children. It is my understanding that Mrs. Clinton has been asked to be the honoree at the April 24 event rather than to serve as honorary chair.

As Mrs. Clinton wrote to Jane Condon, she is pleased to accept the award. We are, however, unable to make a commitment this far in advance that she will accept the award in person. Please know that the First Lady will certainly understand should the Committee decide to name another nominee. If you would still like to make the award to her, Mrs. Clinton would be honored to receive it. We will, of course, keep the date of the Anniversary Gala in mind and our scheduling office will contact you if the First Lady is able to attend.

I know that the First Lady would want me to thank you for considering her for this honor and I would like to apologize again for any confusion we may have caused. Please do not hesitate to call if we can be of assistance to you in the future.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Ms. Williams:

We are writing to follow up on a letter sent by Mrs. Clinton to Jane Condon Bartels regarding Citizens' Committee for Children's (CCC) 50th Anniversary Gala. CCC was founded in 1945 by Eleanor Roosevelt and other distinguished New Yorkers. We are pleased that First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton has agreed to accept the First Annual Eleanor Roosevelt Award at our gala. We received this great news from Betsy Bergreen, one of our members, who made contact with Mrs. Clinton through Jane Condon Bartels. Mrs. Clinton advised us to write to you to confirm her acceptance, and to provide the details of the event. The gala will be held:

On Monday, April 24, 1995, from 6:00 until 11:00 pm, at
The Plaza Hotel (Grand Ballroom)
Fifth Avenue at Fifty-Ninth Street, New York City

We appreciate your help in this matter and urge you to call if you have any further questions. Of course, we will work the evening schedule and logistics around Mrs. Clinton's needs. We can be reached at (212) 673-1800. Ms. Bergreen, as per Mrs. Clinton's instructions, will be calling you on September 8 to follow-up on the details.

We look forward to presenting Mrs. Clinton with the Eleanor Roosevelt Award, and believe she is the most appropriate recipient, given her dedication to children.

Thank you.

Thank you very much for your kind letter inviting the First Lady to serve as the honorary chair for the 50th Anniversary Gala of the Citizens' Committee for the Children of New York on Monday, April 25, 1995. Mrs. Clinton is pleased to accept your gracious invitation. ←

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

Two First Ladies have played a significant role in Citizens' Committee for Children's 50 year history. Eleanor Roosevelt, one of our earliest Board members, actively helped shape its mission and Ladybird Johnson was the Guest of Honor at our 25th Anniversary Gala.

As you may be aware, we will be celebrating half-a-century of advocacy for children in April of 1995. A final date has been set: Monday, April 24, 1995 at New York City's Plaza Hotel.

We are writing to ask if you, on that occasion, will accept an award from us so we may thank you publicly for the dedication you have consistently shown in meeting the needs of children.

Perhaps you have seen Keeping Track, Citizens' Committee for Children's much-heralded publication, which documents the risks to New York City's children. New York City has some of the highest numbers of children in foster care, detention, psychiatric hospitals and special schools. Few children in need receive support services and many die of violent causes. In short, children are slipping through the cracks in record numbers.

CCC is the oldest independent child advocacy organization in the United States and one of only three city-based multi-issue organizations in the country. We have been fighting tirelessly for 50 years to even the odds-- and make New York City a better place to be a child.

We would be privileged to have the opportunity to thank you publicly for the dedication you have consistently shown in meeting the complex needs of children. In addition, your presence at our 50th anniversary gala will help turn a national spotlight on the needs of children in a compelling way.

We earnestly hope you will accept our invitation. It not only would mean a great deal to us, but, most important, to the children we serve.

Dear Mrs. Rodham Clinton:

On Monday, April 17th, 1995, the Citizens' Committee for Children of New York (CCC) — the oldest independent child advocacy organization in the United States and one of only three city-based multi-issue organizations in the country — will host its 50th anniversary celebration gala at the Plaza Hotel in New York City.

On the occasion of this historic milestone, CCC will present the first annual Eleanor Roosevelt Awards to honor national figures, as well as those in the New York community, who are contributing significantly to improving health, welfare and well-being of children. We would be honored for you to be the first recipient of this award.

As one of CCC's earliest board members, Eleanor Roosevelt was instrumental in shaping CCC's mission. We find it especially appropriate that you — as the First Lady who best exemplifies the Eleanor Roosevelt ideal with your unflagging commitment to children, families, and complex social issues — be honored by receiving the first award issued not only in Mrs. Roosevelt's name, but in her spirit as well. You would also be in the distinguished company of Ladybird Johnson, who was CCC's special honoree at our 25th anniversary celebration.

CCC's 50th anniversary will not only celebrate our untiring efforts on behalf of children, but will also help us to launch the next half-century of advocacy we intend to undertake. For, as you know, the need to make New York City a better place for children is more urgent than ever.

According to Keeping Track, CCC's much-heralded publication documenting the risks to child well-being, New York City has some of the highest numbers of children in foster care, detention, psychiatric hospitals and special schools. Few children in need receive support services and many die of violent causes. In short, children are "slipping through the cracks" in record numbers.

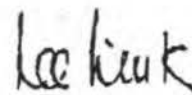

To ensure the future of our children — and our city — CCC works with parents, professionals, policymakers, educators, public officials, and community leaders to even out the odds. Through substantive policy work, publications, research, program monitoring, grassroots organizing, and advocacy, CCC addresses the most pressing issues facing New York City children: health, mental health, education, child care, housing, homelessness, income security, child welfare, community life, juvenile justice, and youth development.

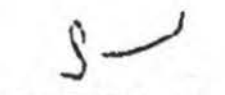

We would be privileged to have the opportunity to thank you publicly for the dedication you have consistently shown in meeting the complex needs of children. In addition, your presence at our 50th anniversary gala will help turn a national spotlight on the needs of children in a compelling way.

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

We are willing to ask you to participate in the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration of Citizens' Committee for Children of New York (CCC). Eleanor Roosevelt was one of CCC's earliest Board Members, and was instrumental in shaping CCC's mission. We find it especially fitting that you, as the First Lady who perhaps best exemplifies the Eleanor Roosevelt Ideal with your unflagging commitment to children, families and contemporary social issues be honored with a Founders' Award. We have selected two possible dates for the event: Wednesday, May 3 or Wednesday May, 10, 1993. We hope this will fit into your schedule.

The need to make New York City a better place for children is more urgent than ever. The data tells us that New York City has 1.68 million children, more than any other city in the country, double the number of Los Angeles. Forty percent of this population grows up in poverty; 360,000 have no health insurance; 9.3% are born with low birthweight; 11.6 per 1,000 die before their first birthday; 19% live in single-parent families; over 50,000 are in foster care; over 32,000 are reported as abused or neglected; and nearly 700 are murdered each year. Citizens' Committee for Children has worked for nearly fifty years with parents, professionals, policymakers and citizens, to even out these odds.

CCC is one of only three city-based multi-issue child advocacy organizations in the country and also the oldest independent advocacy organization dedicated exclusively to children. It was founded to aid children whose mothers worked in the war industry. In addition to Mrs. Roosevelt, those who worked tirelessly to establish a CCC mandate included Mrs. Marshall Field, Dr. Marion Kenworthy, Stanley Isaacs, and Judge Justice Wise Potter. CCC is a non-profit organization supported by individuals, foundations and corporations since 1944 and does not solicit government funds.

CCC's 50th Anniversary will be a two day event. An afternoon conference will be held on the first day to give CCC an opportunity to showcase the substantive policy work it has accomplished for children and families over the past 50 years. CCC views its 50th Anniversary as the ideal opportunity to re-engage interest in the most pressing issues facing New York City children: health, mental health, education, child care, housing, homelessness, income security, child welfare, community life, juvenile justice and child and youth development. To give you a sense of the work we do we have enclosed copies of our latest publications, including Keeping Track of New York City's Children, An Action Guide for New York City Parents, our 1992 Annual Report, and a list of our Board of Directors.

The evening of the following day will be dedicated to a gala dinner dance that will serve to honor those in the New York Community who have contributed significantly to improving conditions for children. It is at this event that we would be privileged to thank you for the dedication you have consistently shown in meeting the complex needs of children.

We earnestly hope you will find time to lend your presence and your thoughts to an important evening for our organization.

Hillary Rodham Clinton, Esq.
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

We are writing to ask you to participate in the Fiftieth Anniversary celebration of Citizens' Committee for Children of New York (CCC). Eleanor Roosevelt was one of CCC's earliest Board Members, and was instrumental in shaping CCC's mission. We find it especially fitting that you, as the First Lady who perhaps best exemplifies the Eleanor Roosevelt ideal with your unflagging commitment to children, families and contemporary social issues be honored with a Founders' Award. We have selected two possible dates for the event: Wednesday, May 3 or Wednesday May, 10, 1995. We hope this will fit into your schedule.

The need to make New York City a better place for children is more urgent than ever. The data tell us that New York City has 1.68 million children, more than any other city in the country, double the number of Los Angeles. Forty percent of this population grows up in poverty; 360,000 have no health insurance; 9.3% are born with low birthweight; 11.6 per 1,000 die before their first birthday; 39% live in single-parent families; over 50,000 are in foster care; over 52,000 are reported as abused or neglected; and nearly 700 are murdered each year. Citizens' Committee for Children has worked for nearly fifty years with parents, professionals, policymakers and citizens, to even out these odds.

CCC is one of only three city-based multi-issue child advocacy organizations in the country and also the oldest independent advocacy organization dedicated exclusively to children. It was founded to aid children whose mothers worked in the war industry. In addition to Mrs. Roosevelt, those who worked tirelessly to establish a CCC mandate included Mrs. Marshall Field, Dr. Marion Kenworthy, Stanley Isaacs, and Judge Justine Wise Polier. CCC is a non-profit organization supported by individuals, foundations and corporations since 1944 and does not solicit government funds.

CCC's 50th Anniversary will be a two day event. An afternoon conference will be held on the first day to give CCC an opportunity to showcase the substantive policy work it has accomplished for children and families over the past 50 years. CCC views its 50th Anniversary as the ideal opportunity to re-engage interest in the most pressing issues facing New York City children: health, mental health, education, child care, housing, homelessness, income security, child welfare, community life, juvenile justice and child and youth development. To give you a sense of the work we do we have enclosed copies of our latest publications, including Keeping Track of New York City's Children, An Action Guide for New York City Parents, our 1992 Annual Report and a list of our Board of Directors.

The evening of the following day will be dedicated to a gala dinner dance that will serve to honor those in the New York Community who have contributed significantly to improving conditions for children. It is at this event that we would be privileged to thank you for the dedication you have consistently shown in meeting the complex needs of children.

We earnestly hope you will find time to lend your presence and your thoughts to an important evening for our organization.

Sincerely,

Samuel P. Peabody

ABOUT CCC

Citizens' Committee for Children of New York (CCC) is an independent voice for New York City's children. CCC champions children who cannot vote, lobby, or act on their own behalf, especially those who are poor, have special needs or are particularly vulnerable. Our goal is to secure the rights, protections and services children deserve. Many of our activities directly affect the lives of individual children but most of our efforts are spent identifying the causes and effects of disadvantage and poverty, promoting the development of services in the community and working to make public and private institutions more responsive to children. CCC is unique among child advocacy organizations in that citizen members and staff work side-by-side assuming the roles of spokesperson, researcher, coordinator and watchdog for the City's children. Our staff and members include specialists in health, mental health, education, child care, housing, homelessness, income security, child welfare, juvenile justice and child and youth development.

CCC educates New Yorkers about children's issues, publishes reports and papers, collects and disseminates data, provides technical assistance and support to policymakers, service providers, parent and civic groups and monitors the implementation of federal, state and local policies. CCC directs its attention to budgets, legislation, regulations and management of children's programs. CCC provides a community presence by monitoring the availability and quality of services to children and families in New York City neighborhoods. CCC creates and joins coalitions, brokers competing interests and develops action plans to improve conditions for children. CCC helps New Yorkers turn their personal concern for children into action through our Community Leadership Course.

CCC is a non-profit organization supported by individuals, foundations and corporations since 1944.

CORRESPONDENCE:

- 3/4/95 from Jane Condon - Lee Link, Chairwoman of Citizens' Committee for Children of NY, called and sounded positively apoplectic because you might not be able to come to April 24 50th Anniversary Gala. Jane really hopes you can come because the invitation reads like a Who's Who of NY (lists some names). Even Eddie Haskell of "Leave It To Beaver." Would you miss a chance to meet him. She pleads with you to do if at all possible - they'd even buy you a new headband or take up a collection to send you and Chelsea back to Tree Tops!

(Scheduling advises Patti has regretted by phone, but has not written.)

Dear Hillary,

I just got a call from Lee Link,
the chairwoman of the Citizens' Committee for Children 50th Anniversary Celebration, and she sounded positively apoplectic because she heard you might not be able to come on April 24th. Yikes!

I really hope you can come because the invitation reads like a Who's Who of New York:

Frank Biondi (chairman and ceo of Viacom)
Parker Gilbert (former chairman of Morgan Stanley)
Andy Tobias and his mom (real people)
Oscar de la Renta (designer)
Tom Freston (Mr. MTV)
Jamie Houghton (head of Corning)
Tom Hoving (the Met and Tiffany's)
Jim Wolfensohn (nice appointment to the World Bank, thanks)

Al Taubman (Mr. Real Estate)
Geraldine Laybourne (Pres. of Nickelodeon)
Charlayne Hunter-Gault (PBS)
Anna Quindlen (New York Times)
and
Edward Haskell (of "Leave It To Beaver"?)

Would the Hillary I know and love miss a chance to meet Eddie Haskell?
And if that isn't the real Eddie Haskell,
I'll find him, O.K.?

Could I buy you a new headband? Would that help?

If you can't come because of a
Chelsea-related event, we understand.
But how about if we take up a collection to send you brch back to Tree Tops.
(Boy, did that look like fun.)

Isn't the Taj Mahal magical?
We really, really hope to see you.
We also understand that you have many obligations. But please come. The kids of New York need you.

Much love always (either way,
but a little more if you come)

Jane
