FROM ADMIRAL HOWE TO UN HQTS.
7 APRIL 1993

1. You have asked us to examine the potential shortfall between the logistics capabilities the US currently intends to retain in Somalia to support UNOSOM II and our own assessment of our requirements.

2. A progress report passed to New York about a week ago reached the following conclusion, "what they are proposing to leave in place is a limited divisional logistic capability with a 25% divisional engineering strength. In our view, this structure will only be able to support fully second line capable self sufficient brigades in the south, with insufficient space capacity to fill missing brigade support elements and no realistic capacity to support the center and north". We are still in the process of validating the concerns expressed in the above assessment, but I want to flag the following issues based on two meetings I have held in the last 24 hours with UNITAF and UNOSOM personnel.

A. Capability in South (Current UNITAF Area). While the US is leaving behind a capability (2300 in number) which they have calculated will support a divisional strength force (10000). This calculation was based on an assumption by UNITAF that the remaining brigades would be complete with their logistic support elements and that the ration support would be field rations (MRE) only.

B. Capability to Expand (Center, North and Kenyan Borders South). In view of the capability gaps in the current UNITAF area it is likely that expansion on the mission can only take place once the southern position has been consolidated. As additional forces arrive, we will only be able to deploy them North if the requisite support elements are available (e.g. engineering).

C. Engineers. Of all the capability gaps, the most acute is in engineering. Early assessment suggests that what UNITAF plans to leave would be barely capable of maintaining the status quo in the current UNITAF area. With the Monsoon imminent even this is questionable. I understand your military staff has already made a request to re-configure the German contribution to a mix of engineers and logistic support companies. This will be essential if UNOSOM it is to be in a position to expand beyond UNITAF confines.

D. Medical. In view of the apparent intention of the Swedish field hospital to withdraw by early July, the Mogadishu area may well have inadequate medical capability. Until the capability of the medical units being contributed by Argentina, Greece, Hungary and Oman is confirmed, there may be some gaps. In addition, we are concerned about restraining adequate Medevac helicopters.

3. The fundamental problem we have is that we are still several weeks away from identifying specifically what we need. At the same time, in the absence of more specificity, UNITAF has taken a "bare bones" approach to our anticipated needs. In view of the limited (in scope and mission) though capable support being left by the US, we should leave open the channels with the US and ask for an option to request assistance to fill any critical gaps which remain once our situation is clearer. The need for more US engineer support is likely.

4. We will work this problem hard and let you know as soon as possible what specific shortfalls must be filled. We also will be assessing other support areas -- communications, special forces, psychological operations, air surveillance, and helo and fixed wing lift.

Best Regards.

PAKISTAN/UNITAF

Q: If Pakistan were made part of UNITAF, could the UN be billed for the furnishing of goods and services directly to Pakistan under the current US-UN 607 Agreement and the UN Fund?

A: Yes.

Q: What agreements must be negotiated in order to authorize the furnishing of the goods and services directly to Pakistan if we want to do so under the existing UN 607 Agreement?

A: -- From a strictly legal standpoint, no agreement has to be negotiated at this time. DOD will be billing the UN for goods and services furnished to other countries since early December even in the absence of bilateral agreements.

-- We are, however, negotiating bilateral agreements through military channels with the eligible UNITAF countries in order to obtain good procedures, appropriate end use assurances, etc. These are sound housekeeping agreements, but do not appear to be required by law.

-- We should negotiate such an agreement with Pakistan also if we provide support to them under UNITAF, but it does not have to be negotiated in advance.

Q: Is a 614 waiver required to furnish goods and services to Pakistan under the UN 607 Agreement?

A: A waiver is not required if we furnish traditional services (e.g., logistics, transportation) and non-Munitions List items (e.g., food, water, petrol). A waiver would be needed if we wanted to provide Munitions List articles (guns, bullets) or technical data under the ITAR.

Q: What has to be done to get things moving to authorize support to Pakistan as part of UNITAF and pursuant to the current 607 Agreement?

A: A cable from Washington that has been properly cleared. If the cable directs USCINCENT to furnish goods and services to Pakistan as part of UNITAF and if no Munitions List articles/technical data are involved, it could go out as soon as the policy clearances are obtained.

Q: Are there any monetary limits on reimbursable support that can be provided under the 607 Agreement?

A: The Agreement and accompanying guidelines preserve at least 85% of Fund proceeds for reimbursement to DOD (approximately $86 million based on donations to date). We do not know how much of this limit has been exhausted by DOD's provision of support to date.
