File: Somalia attack
6/11/83

The United Nations action In Somalia

The United Nations acted today, in keeping with UN Security Council Resolution 837, to restore order in Mogadishu, Somalia following the brutal murder of 28 Pakistani UN peacekeepers on June 5th. At my direction and in response to a request from the United Nations, the US Quick Reaction Force supporting UNOSOM is engaged in actions to reestablish security.

If the United Nations is to be an institution that can restore and maintain peace and stability, it must be capable of defending itself and of using force when necessary to carry out the will of the international community. Today's action should make clear to anti-democratic, armed gangs that they can not defy that will. I commend Secretary-General Boutros-Ghali and the United Nations forces for this action.

The United Nations seeks not to diminish Somalia's sovereignty, but to restore it. The UN is in Somalia with the support of the Somali people to help them avoid famine, end anarchy, and rehabilitate their political institutions. Indeed, some of the Pakistani peacekeepers were distributing food when they were murdered by those who would preserve the rule of the armed gangs.

The involvement of US forces in this operation supports American interests. It hastens the day when all UN forces, including Americans, can leave Somalia with stability restored. It strengthens the effectiveness of United Nations peacekeeping. It preserves the progress made by the American lead coalition that operated in Somalia from last December to May.

Thanks
our
SAB ✓

The American forces in Somalia, and the other UN forces there, have the thanks of all who support peace, all who would oppose armed thugs. The US and UN forces will also have the full support of the military power of the United States to accomplish their mission.
