Dear President Clinton:

I am writing in regards to the International Philosophy Olympiad and the American National Olympiad, taking place next February and next May.

I believe this to be a strong initiative, and one that those of us who value education should support. These competitions give young people the opportunity to share their cultural differences through philosophy.

I am pleased to say that the International Philosophy Olympiad and the American National Olympiad have my strong support and I urge you to consider lending your support. I have enclosed detailed information explaining this project along with several other letters of support.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Edward M. Kennedy

Alexander M. Leeser
President, International Philosophy Olympiad
Executive Director, American Committee of the IPO

30 August 2000

Dear President Clinton and Secretary General Annan:

In 1998, on the occasion of the World Congress of Philosophy, Dr. Katalin Havas, then president of the International Philosophy Olympiad, requested that I assemble an American delegation to attend the VII International Philosophy Olympiad that took place in Budapest in 1999.

Democracy constitutes the core principle of this initiative: Respect, tolerance, reconciliation and mutual understanding constitute the predilections that this initiative seeks to inculcate on a global scale.

A text that may well be the palimpsest of the global epoch, Plato's "Allegory of the Cave" testifies to the necessity of reflection, creative dialogue and imagination to a community that would acquiesce in peace and truth.

The religious and spiritual leaders who have assembled here at the Millennium World Peace Summit aver that a constructive, philosophical approach to religion and spirituality among the world's people is pre-requisite to peace. I believe that a constructive, philosophical approach to ethics, morality, history and politics signifies a sin qua non to the flourishing of human community in our time.

Therefore, I urge you both to unite in supporting the IX International Philosophy Olympiad, From Violence to Tolerance: Towards Reconciliation, Peace and Global Democracy.

Sincerely,

Alexander M. Leeser

The President of the United States
Washington, DC 20500

Sir:

It is a distinct honor, Mr. President, and a great privilege to address you concerning the IX International Philosophy Olympiad, From Violence to Tolerance: Towards Reconciliation, Peace and Global Democracy.

There is much for our nation's young people to contemplate in the theme of the upcoming Olympiad. We must pray that the character of American hegemony becomes so renowned for peace and reconciliation as in the past we have been famous for military and economic prowess.

The centrality of the Philosophical Olympiad initiative to the UNESCO Philosophy and Democracy in the World Project presents our nation with a strategic opportunity to affect a rapprochement between our nation and this important body of cultural diplomats. Your willingness to solemnize the IX International Philosophy Olympiad as honorary chair would have a most ennobling effect upon the occasion of this event in the United States.

I shall be sincerely honored to remain,

Respectfully,

Alexander M. Leiser

The International Philosophy Olympiad for High School Students: Assisting in the Realization of a Philosophical Vision for Human Culture

Introduction:

The IX International Philosophy Olympiad, From Violence to Tolerance: Towards Reconciliation, Peace and Global Democracy will take place in Philadelphia beginning on May 2, 2001. This competition would be the first Olympiad to be officially sanctioned by the International Federation of Philosophical Societies (FISP). The American president of the Olympiad, Alexander Leeser, in conjunction with: Ioanna Kucuradi, president of FISP, Richard Bett, Acting Executive Director of the American Philosophical Society, Tu Weiming, Director of the Harvard-Yenching Institute, and Ashok Gangadean, Chairman of the Greater Philadelphia Philosophy Consortium and Director of the Global Dialogue Institute are actively seeking support for this event from a variety of national governments, foundations, universities and societies.

The Institute for the Advancement of Secondary School Philosophy is also pleased to announce that the American National Olympiad will take place in Harvard University at the prestigious Yenching Institute.

History of the IPO:

The International Philosophy Olympiad for High School students (IPO) has been sponsoring competitions for almost ten years. IPO VIII was held in Muenster Germany in May of this year. Students who have been selected (usually on the basis of their performance in a national competition) to compete in the Olympiad are required to write an essay on a philosophical theme; they are not, however, permitted to write in their mother tongue but must write in one of the three official languages of the Olympiad: English, French or German. The top three essays are awarded cash and a variety of other prizes.

The IPO was initiated by a group of mostly Eastern European countries, namely: Bulgaria, Poland, and Turkey and Romania. Germany, Hungary, Argentina, Italy the United States and a host of other nations have since become involved in this competition. In 1998 the IPO was endorsed by a group of philosophers and educators who were convened at UNESCO headquarters in Paris. At that meeting the following statement was issued by UNESCO:

"We recognize and attest to the importance of philosophy for democracy. The manner in which philosophy should be integrated in education depends on cultural differences, differences in education systems and personal pedagogical choices."

The IPO offers students from countries around the world the opportunity to share their insights and perspectives on the state of world culture. The competition itself consists in a four-hour essay which each student writes on one of the four topics that have been selected by the representatives of the Federation of International Philosophical Societies.

The IPO and Philosophy's Millennial Mission:

The theme of the World Congress of Philosophy: Paidea: Philosophy Educating Humanity, served as a critical platform for discussions concerning the role of philosophy in establishing a healthy and secure foundation for human civilization as we move into the global epoch. Programs designed to involve philosophy in the education of children were prominently featured at the World Congress; indeed this theme was recognized as one of the most critical topics of discussion among philosophers who gathered in Boston for the World Congress.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the Fédération Internationale des Sociétés Philosophiques (FISP) approached the IPO in 1999 with a proposal to have the competition sanctioned and supported by their organization. A set of regulations that will make possible official cooperation between FISP and the IPO was agreed upon by the IPO's founding committee and, pending the assent of FISP's steering committee scheduled to meet in August, will be in place for the competition scheduled for next May. Therefore, the competition scheduled for May 2001 will be the first to take place under the auspices of FISP. This partnership with FISP represents a major development in the history of this competition:

- IPO will now have organizational ties and access to the leading national organizations in countries around the world.
- FISP's oversight and regulation of the competition opens the way for the IPO to advance its mission of promoting the study of philosophy among high school students; in particular, students who score within a given range might be offered academic credit in philosophy, which, for American students, is not possible at present since no Advanced Placement test is offered in philosophy.

Summary:

- The International Philosophy Olympiad (IPO) is a competition for high school students that, pending the agreement of the steering committee, will be sanctioned by The Fédération Des Sociétés Philosophiques (FISP).
- IPO IX: From Violence to Tolerance: Towards Reconciliation, Peace and Global Democracy will be held in Philadelphia from May 2-6, 2001
- In addition to FISP, IPO IX will be supported by the Greater Philadelphia Consortium of Philosophy; the American Philosophical Association, the Global Dialogue Institute and the American Committee of the IPO which consists of the following members: Ashok Gangadean (Haverford College), Jitendra Mohanty (Temple), John Searle (Berkeley), Ernest Sosa (Brown), Sandra Stotsky (Harvard), Bas Van Fraassen (Princeton), Tu Weiming (Harvard), Arnold Wilson (University of Cincinnati), Mark Miles (CEO, Association of Tennis Professionals), Richard Bett (Acting Executive Director, American Philosophical Association), Robert Solomon and Ioanna Kucaradi (President of FISP). The ACIPO is also being assisted by the Global Dialogue Institute that is co-chaired by former Assistant Secretary of the UN, Dr. Robert Muller, and theologian Dr. Ewart Cousins.

Draft of Letter to American Committee of the International Philosophy Olympiad

21 July 2000

Subject: American National Olympiad (February 8-11, 2001)
International Philosophy Olympiad (May 2-5, 2001)

As you will note in reading the attached documents, there have been several important developments in this initiative since I brought it to your attention in 1998. Professors Ioanna Kuçaradi and David Evans were present at the Olympiad that was held in Munster Germany in May of last year, and an agreement was reached between the IPO and FISP. According to this agreement, FISP will officiate, sanction and, in conjunction with UNESCO, will promote future Olympiads. The executive committee of the IPO accepted this proposal and we expect that this arrangement will be approved at the meeting of FISP's steering committee, that is scheduled to take place next month in Mongolia.

Given that the American Committee will sponsor the upcoming Olympiad, Prof. Kuçaradi will represent FISP on the committee. Prof. Richard Bett, Acting Executive Director of the American Philosophical Association, is now a member of the American Committee of the International Philosophy Olympiad; in a letter addressed to Prof. Tu Weiming, director of the Harvard-Yenching Institute, Prof. Bett avers that the American Philosophical Association is "very supportive of the IPO." Mark Miles, who presided over the Pan American Games, and is, at present, the Chief Executive Officer of the Association of Tennis Professionals, has joined the committee and has been of great assistance to this project. I expect that Prof. Richard Bernstein will also be joining our committee.

You may also glean from the attached that Prof. Tu Weiming has agreed to be the honorary chair of the American National Olympiad that will be held in Harvard University at the Yenching Institute. I am profoundly grateful to Prof. Tu; his immediate enthusiasm for this initiative catalyzed the formation of the American Committee; indeed, on behalf of the executive committee of the IPO, I feel compelled to express my sincere gratitude for your interest in this program. I believe that this initiative grasps the fundamental purport of the theme of the last World Congress: Uruguay, for example, is holding its National Olympiad this weekend and expects to have more than 150 students participate in the event; I am in contact with a Russian philosopher who is Head of the Department of culturology in Petrozavodsk State University. His University has been organizing secondary school Olympiads in Russia for several years. He was elated to be asked to participate in the International Philosophy Olympiad that will be hosted next year by the United States. The support of such accomplished and distinguished committees brings great honor to the young delegates, their teachers, and their countries. In turn, the brilliance, energy, and vision of young people who will gather in Cambridge and Philadelphia next year disclose the seminal, noetic forces that must necessarily shape the art and science of philosophical discourse if it is to be a living concern.

On behalf of the executive committee of the International Philosophy Olympiad I iterate my gratitude for your support. Of course, we would be deeply honored to have as many of you present at the Olympiads as possible. Therefore, I hereby extend an invitation to all of you to attend either or both of the Olympiads.

Sincerely,

Alexander M. Leeser

Dear Friends of the Philosophy Olympiad,

The Harvard-Yenching Institute is pleased to announce that we will host the American National Philosophy Olympiad to be held February 8-11, 2001 at Harvard.

This competition will give to young American high school students the opportunity to prepare essays on the theme From Violence to Tolerance: Towards Reconciliation, Peace and Global Democracy. The winners of this competition will then attend the International Philosophy Olympiad in May 2001.

American educators have begun to recognize the importance of introducing higher order thinking into the education of young students. I am encouraged by these initiatives to incorporate philosophy into the secondary school curriculum and for that reason I was among the first to join in the establishment of the American Committee of the International Philosophy Olympiad.

I ask everyone who shares my conviction that we must encourage an interest in philosophy among high school students to join me in enthusiastically supporting the American National Olympiad to be held at Harvard and the International Olympiad to be held in Philadelphia.

Sincerely yours,

As you will note from the attached, this initiative was originally introduced to the White House by Senator Kennedy's Office. Since then, I have been in contact with Maureen Shea who has forwarded this matter to the office of Lloyd Conn.

Yesterday, I had occasion to speak with Security General L. H. Hansen about this UNESCO initiative. He was very interested to learn of President Clinton's possible involvement in the upcoming Olympic.

You will also note that I have asked President Clinton to serve as honorary chair of the X Olympic. Perhaps, Pres. Clinton and Secretary General Hansen would consider co-chairing this event. May I hear from you?

SUBJECT:

Draft Proposed Presidential Proclamation

The Technology Administration's National Institute of Standards and Technology (TA/NIST) drafted the attached proposed Presidential proclamation to recognize the many contributions of the Nation's small manufacturers to the strength and well-being of the United States economy. Last year, President Clinton issued a proclamation declaring September 19-25, 1999 as Small Manufacturing Week in conjunction with the first National Manufacturing Summit for small manufacturers held September 21-22, 1999.

While no Summit is being held this year, the TA/NIST Manufacturing Extension Partnership (MEP) is planning one for 2001 and would like to maintain a tradition of an annual proclamation honoring small manufacturers. TA/NIST and the nationwide network of MEP centers will publicize the proclamation, and many centers will use it to highlight activities planned for fall and winter of 2000.

Please return the signed Presidential proclamation to Jan Kosko, Public and Business Affairs, NIST, Administration Bldg., Room A903, Gaithersburg, MD 20899-3460, by August 25, so that publicity and MEP center activities can be finalized.

DRAFTSmall Manufacturing Week 2000
September 17-23*BY THE PRESIDENT OF THE UNITED STATES OF AMERICA
A PROCLAMATION

America's free enterprise system is continually energized by the skill, vision, and exceptional performance of our Nation's small manufacturers -- those who employ fewer than 500 employees. Though small in size, these companies make enormous contributions to our economy and provide our society and the world with high-quality manufactured goods. More important, small manufacturers are a source of pride and livelihood for nearly 12 million Americans and their families.

We are in an age dominated by information and technology, where the global marketplace grows ever more complex and interdependent. As large manufacturers expand their reliance on suppliers for parts and services, the performance of small manufacturers becomes increasingly important to the competitiveness of America's manufacturing sector.

My Administration, working with the Congress and State governments, has strived to ensure that these small firms have access to the resources, technology, expertise, and training they need to realize their highest potential. The Manufacturing Extension Partnership (MEP) of the Department of Commerce plays a pivotal role in that endeavor. Through a network of more than 400 nonprofit extension centers and field offices, the MEP serves small manufacturers in all 50 states and Puerto Rico, providing access to the newest technology, manufacturing processes, and business practices. The MEP's local centers offer personalized guidance to manufacturers on issues ranging from e-commerce assistance, to plant layout, to financial planning. And, because these local centers are linked together through the National Institute of Standards and Technology, an agency of the Commerce Department's Technology Administration, even the smallest manufacturing firms can enjoy instant access to the most advanced national resources.

As we observe Small Manufacturing Week, let us pay tribute to America's more than 385,000 small manufacturing firms whose commitment to hard work and excellence has helped set our country on a steady course for continued growth and prosperity.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, WILLIAM J. CLINTON, President of the United States of America, by virtue of the authority vested in me by the Constitution and laws of the United States, do hereby proclaim September 17 to 23, 2000 as Small Manufacturing Week.

IN WITNESS WHEREOF, I have hereunto set my hand this day of , in the year of our Lord two thousand, and of the Independence of the United States of America.

Dear President Clinton:

This letter is being written on behalf of my son, John M. Bresnahan, a member of the security team for Air Force One.

John enlisted in the Air Force in November of 1982, eighteen years ago. He has two years remaining until his retirement. John has, for the past five years, worked on the security team for Air Force One. Two years prior to that he was on the security team for Air Force Two.

At this time, I am told that John is being reassigned to duty in Korea for a tour of one year. In preparation for that assignment, he will be training for six weeks. John is the father of two young children, Sarah age eight, and J.R. age four. I feel taking him away from his wife and children at this vital time in their lives is not the appropriate thing to do. With only two years of service remaining until completion of his career with the Air Force, and eighteen years of dedicated and loyal service behind him, I feel he should be able to remain with his family and finish out his final two years in a more appropriate assignment.

As you are a man dedicated to both your family and service to the United States, I would appreciate any assistance you can give to this matter.

Sincerely,

Rose M. Bresnahan

Dear Mr. President,

8/29/2000

Thank you so much for your recent exhortation and reminder to the church of the need to pray and support governmental leaders and politicians. We will be doing just that on the Mall on Saturday, September 2, 2000 between 12 noon and 2 p.m. We would be so honored if you would drop by for a few moments so we may bless and pray for you. For once, you won't even have to speak if you don't want to. We would just love to public and collectively do exactly what you have asked, and what we should have been doing all along.

Dear President Clinton,

Watching you address the convention delegates on Monday evening was bittersweet for me. As your journey as our nation's President is ending, I feel like an era in my own life is ending. The same excitement that I felt as a 13 year-old watching you address the Democratic Convention in 1992, I felt watching you this evening. The same optimism that I felt for the future of the nation I feel now because you've crafted policies and legislation that have paved the way for years of opportunities. I know that you haven't done it alone, you've had to fight the Congress the entire way, but in many of the most important legislative battles, your vision prevailed, and for that I am so thankful. I think daily of that magical week that I spent in Washington, DC as one of your "Faces of Hope." That distinction changed my life irrevocably and I have you and Tipper Gore to thank for that incredible honor. I'm now a junior at American University in Washington, D.C. majoring in Visual Media: Filmmaking. My aspirations are no longer to be a public political figure, but rather to influence the populace through mass media. Without the educational programs for student loans that you spearheaded, I would not be attending a university that exceeds $30,000 per year. The vast majority of my financial aid stems from monies made available to American University through the Pell Grant, Federal Direct Loans, Federal Work Study, and Federal Perkins Loans. You see, my mother does not make in yearly income what it costs to attend American University for one academic year. Without these programs, I would not have had the opportunity to spend 5 years at a university that I love and in a city that I adore.

I'm going to miss having you as our nation's President. You presided over the country during the most formidable period my life. I am proud to tell you that I intend to spend two years in Americorps following the completion of my undergraduate studies. I also hope to spend a few years teaching drama to children in an inner city school that lacks adequate funding for arts programs. I feel that I owe a debt of gratitude to you for all that you have done and especially, a debt to my country. As the daughter of a first generation American father who dropped out of college and a mother without a college education that raised two children alone for many years, I have had more opportunities than my parents have ever known.

May God's grace continue to shine on you as you leave the White House next January and embark upon what may be the best years of your life.

With warmest regards and deep gratitude,
