HEADLINE: Chelsea Clinton to skip term at school to help mom run

BYLINE: BY ANNE GEARAN

DATELINE: WASHINGTON

BODY:

Chelsea Clinton plans to skip the start of school at Stanford University this fall so she can campaign for her mother, Hillary Rodham Clinton, who is running for the Senate from New York, the White House said Thursday.

Chelsea Clinton, 20, is due to begin her senior year at Stanford. She plans to return to the Palo Alto, Calif., campus at midyear, ...

She also wants to spend more time with her father as he closes his two terms in office, said Mrs. Clinton's spokeswoman, Lissa Muscatine.

"Chelsea is taking off the fall quarter to experience and enjoy the final months of her father's presidency, and to support her mother and father in their various activities," Muscatine said.

Chelsea Clinton has accumulated additional credits while at Stanford and still will graduate on time next spring, Muscatine said.

... Stanford students to sit out an academic quarter to do volunteer work or pursue other interests.

It is not clear whether Chelsea Clinton will campaign separately from her mother or whether she will assume any formal speaking roles in campaign events.

Although she has appeared alongside both of her parents at political events and official functions, Chelsea Clinton has lived a mostly private life during her father's presidency. President Clinton has said he wanted his daughter to have as normal a childhood as possible.

But Chelsea Clinton has maintained a higher profile as she has matured, often traveling with her father on foreign trips and acting as hostess at a few White House events this year while her mother was away campaigning.

Chelsea Clinton accompanied her father to the Camp David peace talks that ended inconclusively this week, and to the Group of Eight economic meeting in
