Ms. Marsha Berry
Press Secretary To The First Lady
Room 10, OEOB
The White House

Marsha,

I am writing to request a sit down interview with the First Lady. While this request has been made before, I believe the timing of this week's "listening tour" could provide better timing for Ms Clinton and give her the ability to deliver her message to hundreds of thousands of local residents all at once.

I have two propositions, both of which I believe work for the station and offer Ms. Clinton a tremendous amount of visibility, airtime and opportunity to interact with residents.

- Ms. Clinton would take part in a special edition of Eyewitness News at 5:30, one of our weekday afternoon newscasts. We would break format, Mrs. Clinton would join co-anchors Kathleen Leighton and Keith Radford in our talk studio where the three would talk over issues and Mrs. Clinton's hopes, aspirations and agenda. We would have a live audience of roughly 20-45 people in studio as well. They would also be allowed to ask questions and give Mrs. Clinton ample opportunity to speak to their questions and concerns. Edited portions of this event would air within other newscasts.
- Mrs. Clinton would make herself available for a 15 minute, one on one interview with anchor Kathleen Leighton. The conversation would be videotaped and would touch on many issues and topics. This interview would playback within the 5:30 newscast in its entirety and be edited down for use in other newscasts.

I believe the first option has more give and take, plays better to Mrs. Clinton's style and gives the impression of being a bigger event for viewers. Our intent with both of these offers is not to sandbag Mrs. Clinton but instead, to give her ample time to explain her positions in a comfortable environment.

WKBW-TV has long been Western New York's #1 rated TV news organization, often garnering more viewers than the other stations combined. I look forward to your reply ASAP and hope that we may be able to work something out.

Sincerely,

Dear Marsha,

I know you'll be inundated with press travel requests once arrangements are made for the First Lady's planned trip to Israel this fall.

I wanted to get in touch with you before the clamor begins to let you know that I would like to join you and Mrs. Clinton on the trip to Israel, to represent the Times Union, Albany, N.Y., as well as the broader nationwide audience of Hearst Newspapers.

The Hearst Newspapers' Washington bureau is offering readers extensive coverage of Mrs. Clinton's exploration of a Senate campaign. We're staffing each campaign-related trip to New York. Our coverage, distributed to 600 newspapers via the New York Times News Service, is being showcased in the Times Union in Albany, N.Y.

I look forward to working with you in the weeks ahead to make arrangements to accompany Mrs. Clinton on her upcoming trip.

Thanks very much for your help.

Sincerely,

To Whom It May Concern:

Earlier today I spoke with a member of the First Lady's press relations corps who instructed me to send a fax of my request to speak with Mrs. Clinton.

I am working on a special project that involves interviewing various public figures on a wide range of issues. I am interested in speaking with the First Lady about politics and opportunities for minorities and women to participate in politics in the future.

In no way will my questions be controversial or intended to stump Mrs. Clinton; rather, they are more in the way of interesting "food for thought" type inquiries regarding issues about which I thought Mrs. Clinton might have some interesting and valuable things to say. The interview would probably take between one and two minutes of the First Lady's time.

I can be reached by phone at 212.416.3242 or by e-mail at aaron.cohen@wsj.com.

Thanks so much.

Sincerely,

Aaron Cohen

Mrs. Hillary Rodham Clinton
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mrs. Clinton,

I am writing to introduce myself and to explore the possibility of a feature-length documentary about your campaign, should you decide to run for the U.S. Senate seat that will be vacated next year by Daniel Patrick Moynihan.

For the past year, I've been on staff at ABC News, producing a program on Martin Luther King's involvement in the 1968 Memphis garbage strike for "The Century" series with Peter Jennings. Prior to this, I was on staff for 14 years at WGBH, the flagship PBS station. I made documentaries for NOVA and THE AMERICAN EXPERIENCE. I developed a mini-series about the global economy, called MADE IN AMERICA. I have won numerous awards, including two Emmys, two Emmy nominations and a National Headliners Award for best documentary of the year.

Every project I have undertaken, I have loved more than the rest. And now, I cannot think of anything I'd rather do than to document your campaign. Quite simply and without hyperbole, you are making history. And I would like to come along for the ride.

If you decide to proceed with your campaign, there will be no shortage of news coverage. But what I am proposing is a more thoughtful and intimate look. I would like to produce an engaging and educational film that will thoroughly capture, for all time, one of the more intriguing events in modern politics.

Documenting events as they unfold—producing verite films—is my passion. I was just awarded one of journalism's highest honors, a DuPont Gold Baton, presented by Columbia University, for using this approach on my most recent film for NOVA. Called "Coma," it was a New York story, as it turns out. You may have read news reports several years ago about a woman severely beaten in Central Park. She suffered unimaginable head trauma, and when neurosurgeon Jam Ghajar saved her life, the press called it a miracle. But Dr. Ghajar said it was just basic care, and that, surprisingly, many neurosurgeons neglect to provide it, because it's labor-intensive.

To illustrate Dr. Ghajar's views, a film crew and I went "on call" with him, waiting for a new coma patient. And we managed to document a case, 9-year-old Alex, from the moment he arrived in the emergency room, to the emotional resolution six months later.

In order to accomplish this task, I teamed up with top-notch film crews who are accustomed to working unobtrusively, sometimes in tense or sensitive situations. My primary cinematographer, Tom Hurwitz, has won every possible award for his verite camera work—including the highest honor at Sundance for "Wild Man Blues," a documentary about Woody Allen's band tour throughout Europe. He and I have worked together on nearly every film I've produced.

On "Coma," Tom and I worked closely and collaboratively with the family of the patient, as well as with the medical teams. Every single participant was impressed with how professionally and sensitively we handled the process. The program was well received critically--and has been saving lives around the world ever since.

I would very much like the opportunity to discuss working with you in a similar fashion, should you choose to go forward with the campaign. I imagine you are flooded with requests and proposals from the two hundred reporters and television technicians who are already covering your exploratory trips. But I believe my work sets me apart. I enclose "Coma" for your review, and I would happily send other examples. Thank you for your consideration.

THE NATIONAL LAW JOURNAL
1730 M St. N.W., Suite 802
Washington, D.C. 20036

July 14, 1999

Marsha Berry
Director of Communications
Office of the First Lady
Old Executive Office Building
Room 103
Washington, D.C.

Dear Ms. Berry,

A decade ago, The National Law Journal, the leading national publication for lawyers, named Hillary Clinton to its annual list of the nation's 100 most influential lawyers. We are writing on behalf of the Law Journal to request an opportunity to speak with Mrs. Clinton about the law and the legal profession, and about how her views of both have changed during her tenure in the White House.

Her thoughts on these subjects are obviously relevant given her consideration of a U.S. Senate candidacy, but the Law Journal is interested in talking to her regardless of whether she decides to run. Mrs. Clinton is not only the first First Lady with a law degree, but she arrived in Washington already unusually knowledgeable about the legal world. Few lawyers can match her range of experience, which stretches from high-level advocacy work on the state and national levels to a partnership at a corporate law firm. And of course she now has the extraordinary experience of more than six years in the White House – six years in which legislation affecting the legal system and how it serves everyone from prisoners to injured plaintiffs has often been at the top of the congressional agenda, six years in which the law has expanded its reach into all facets of American life.

The National Law Journal, as you may know, is a weekly newspaper owned by American Lawyer Media, which has regional publications throughout the country as well as a national electronic newswire. Over the course of its 15-year existence, the Law Journal's Washington bureau has won numerous journalism awards, including the prestigious Polk Award, for its in-depth projects. Among those projects: "Fatal Defense: Trial and Error in the Nation's Death Belt," which examined the quality of lawyers appointed to represent indigent defendants facing the death penalty, and "Unequal Protection: The Racial Divide in Environmental Law," a ground-breaking examination of racial disparities in the government's cleanup of hazardous waste sites. President Clinton subsequently issued an executive order on environmental racism, directing all federal agencies to be sensitive to the racial impact of their decision-making.

I and my colleague, Harvey Berkman, are lawyers who have cumulatively spent more than 30 years in journalism. I have been based in Washington for the past 15 years and have been bureau chief for the Law Journal since 1992. If we can provide any additional information, please feel free to ask. We are certainly aware that Mrs. Clinton keeps a busy schedule that has in recent weeks gotten even busier, but we hope something can be worked out in the near future. Thank you for your time. I look forward to hearing from you.

Sincerely,

Marcia Coyle

Re: An interview with Mrs Clinton

Dear ms Berry,

We would highly appreciate your help in coordinating a short interview with the first lady Mrs Clinton.

The interview will be held by one of the most famous anchors in Israel - Mrs Ilana Dayan

The IDF radio station broadcasts to the relatively young share of the population (ages 18-50) and is the most popular station in Israel.

The interview will be recorded in advance, at Mrs Clinton's convenience.

Our phone numbers are: 972 - 54- 400358 or 972-3-6320906 (home no.) or fax: 972-3-5126760

We thank you for your time and help, and we will be in touch with your office next week.

TY newsy letter

July 1, 1999

Dear Mrs. Clinton,

I'm looking at two recent photos (one autographed, thank you) of the two of us -- one is the tree-lighting at Rockefeller Center and the other from the Arts in Education program in Queens in May. You scrambled my software for a moment when you introduced me there as "the daughter of a musician." I was nearly in tears when I realized you were talking about my mother! I'd never done her the favor of giving her lifelong avocation (church organist) its public due -- she was in fact 'a musician'. It helps to see things from a fresh perspective.

And I think when you head upstate (Garry calls it "upperstate" - his hometown is Saranac Lake) you'll see very quickly what some pundits have no doubt missed -- that upstate New York has much more in common with Arkansas than with New York City! A local editor up there laughed with hearty agreement at that assessment -- you'll feel surprisingly at home. What a spectacular place for an interview -- and against such breathtaking scenery.

My son Ross is up at Wellesley right now -- a three week program for teenagers -- he's loving it. Being there got me dialing back to the days when you were preparing yourself to take on the world and then fast-forwarding to today -- how for the first time in your public life, it's you and your own agenda again. This would be the underlying theme of our story, your defining moment; the turning point from your role as 'First Lady' to... well, to what? That's what makes your story so compelling...you alone can fill in that blank. Our story would be comprehensive, yet simple in its objective. But it would also be a chance for you to speak to the news of the day, to cast off old baggage, define your goals, clarify your image. You made me see myself as the 'daughter of a musician'. I hope you'll give our viewers a chance to get a fresh perspective on you; if you give me the chance, I would count it a privilege to have waited this long for an interview.

I look forward to our next photo-op.

With Best Wishes,

P.S. Garry and I are meeting an architect next week who's building a house for us in Pound Ridge (50 minutes from NYC).

MARSHA BERRY
PRESS SECRETARY TO THE FIRST LADY
THE WHITE HOUSE
WASHINGTON, D.C.

DEAR MARSHA:

THANK YOU FOR AGREEING TO PASS ON TO MRS. CLINTON SUNDAY MORNING'S INTERVIEW REQUEST.

OUR EXECUTIVE PRODUCER, MISSIE RENNIE HAS PROPOSED A STORY ABOUT HILLARY RODHAM CLINTON AS SHE TAKES THE NEXT STEP, AS SHE EDGES IN THE DIRECTION OF BECOMING A CANDIDATE AND DETACHES HERSELF FROM HER ROLE AS FIRST LADY. MISSIE SUGGESTED, FOR EXAMPLE, THAT PERHAPS MRS. CLINTON MIGHT CONSIDER GRANTING US HER FIRST INTERVIEW WHEN SHE MOVES INTO A HOUSE OR APARTMENT IN NEW YORK. WITHOUT HAVING ANY IDEA WHEN THAT MIGHT HAPPEN, WE WOULD BE OPEN TO OTHER SUGGESTIONS, HOWEVER.

AMONG THE ISSUES WE MIGHT WANT TO ADDRESS:

- ..why she would want to run for the Senate
- ..the transition process from First Lady to candidate
- ..how she is going about publicly defining herself as an individual distinct from the Administration
- ..what she would hope to achieve if she won
- ..her experiences so far
- ..how she sees the campaign shaping up..the issues, the nature of the battle
- ..how she is choosing to answer personal questions and questions she might find personally uncomfortable as they come up in the course of a campaign and recur in opinion polls
- ..Chelsea and a campaign..worries that running for office might expose Chelsea to the kind of attention the Clintons have always worked to protect her from..in the event of a campaign, would Chelsea get involved, etc.
- ..other areas as reflected by circumstances at the time of the interview

YOU KNOW THE NATURE OF OUR BROADCAST AND ITS AUDIENCE. WE ARE UNIQUE AMONG MAGAZINE SHOWS IN OUR EMPHASIS ON THE CULTURAL AND HUMAN ASPECTS OF EVEN THE HARDEST HARD-NEWS STORIES. SUNDAY MORNING, AS I'M SURE YOU RECALL, DID PIECES ON THE WHITE HOUSE

COLLECTION OF AMERICAN CRAFTS, CHRISTMAS AT THE WHITE HOUSE, AND THE FIRST LADY SPOKE WITH US AT THE TIME OF THE SECOND INAUGURATION.

WE HOPE THIS TIME, MRS. CLINTON'S WILL ONCE AGAIN SAY YES TO OUR REQUEST.

I WILL BE OUT OF THE COUNTRY ON ASSIGNMENT UNTIL 19 JULY. IN THE MEAN TIME, MISSIE RENNIE CAN BE REACHED AT (212) 975-3496-PHONE, (212) 975-7352-FAX.

Marsha E. Berry
Director of Communications
Office of the First Lady

Dear Ms. Berry,

Received your reply letter dated June 22nd 1999 in reference to my letter asking for Mrs. Clinton to appear on my radio talk show.
I thank you very much.

Knowing the interest the Clinton's have when it comes to Town Hall meetings (Small Towns) I hope Mrs. Clinton can keep up the tradition by appearing on my radio talk show that covers Westchester County, the Bronx and parts of Long Island and Conn.

Enclosed please find a letter I sent to the Journal News in which I entered the contest
why the Clintons should move to your Town.

I think my reasons are all the reasons the Clintons will move to the Town of Harrison, N.Y.

Thank you very much for your time.

Sincerely yours,

Dennis Nardone

THE MORNING BRIEFING

YOU CAN HAVE 'EM: DAY ONE

Want fries with that, Mr. President?

Bill looks right at home at the Red Rooster burger stand in Brewster, oblivious to the vanilla ice cream Allison Testone got on his suit. But despite the fine food and the good-humored staff, the place may not be to Hillary's taste. So let us know why the house-hunting Clintons should live in your town. Meanwhile, we'll track the first couple daily in this corner.

The best entry wins a night in a deluxe suite at The Castle at Tarrytown. Send to: Bill and Hillary, The Journal News, 1 Gannett Drive, White Plains, NY 10604. Fax: 696-8122 or e-mail to news@westches.gannett.com

The house hunting Clinton family should live in the Town that brought the first family to Westchester in the first place. That Town/Village is the Town of Harrison. Harrison has all the right reasons for the Clintons. We are in proximity of all there needs that I will outline for you and the Clintons and show you why the Town of Harrison is the right choice for choosing were to live in New York State.

Neighborhoods

1) Part of the most affluent neighborhoods of all Westchester, N.Y. State and even the U.S. States of America. Homes of Congresswoman Nita Lowey, Westchester Cty. District Attorney Jeanine Pirro, many CEO's, Doctors, Attorneys, Judges...Home of N.Y. Yankee manager Joe Torre...Mrs. Clinton can make Harrison the home of the most powerful woman in N.Y. State.
(3) Herself/Nita Lowey/Jeanine Pirro.

Living-House

A beautiful picturesque estate that will be safe and secure. Complete with Horse-back riding trails, pool, tennis court, running trails lined with greenery never seen before.

Transportation

Minutes from the Westchester County Airport in which parts of it are in the Town of Harrison. A linear jet can be waiting for them in minutes. Minutes from (4) major highways for there driving needs. highways - 287 West X-way/95 New England Thruway/Hutchinson River Parkway/684 and only minutes away from 87 the N.Y. State Thruway.

Work

What kind of work for the President when he leaves Office. Well its been said he can teach/Lecture at Purchase College and Manhattenville College in Harrison, again only minutes from his new estate.

Recreation

For all his Golfing needs, the President is in the middle of the Golf Mecca of America. Bounded by the most oldest and most beautiful Golf Courses anywhere. ex. Westchester Country Club, Appawanis, Purchase, Century, Willow Ridge, Old Oaks plus minutes from Wing Foot and Quaker Ridge Golf courses.

For all his boating needs, the President and first lady are only minutes from the Long Island Sound, also if they wish a quick drive to Montauk or South Hampton.

For work outs, Harrison has a fine rec center at a minimum fee of $60.00. For full body workouts that includes free weights, cardiac work and work out machines that had the likes of actress/model Kim Alexis and Hockey Star Ron Greshner....Also Purchase College has join in work out and recreational programs.

Politics

Be part of the Democratic party that is the majority of the Town of Harrison's Town board, led by Mayor/Supervisor Ron Bianchi.

Eaterys

A Town full of wonderful restaurants in either Downtown Harrison, West Harrison or Purchase. Again minutes from there favorite restaurant in Manhattan.

Leizure

The Clintons can go to the N.Y. Knicks or Rangers practices right in the Town of Harrison. They are in the middle of there gambling needs. Go north to Conn. or south to Atlantic City. Yankee Stadium and the Mets are a drive away. Football right down the road. They can also be guests of the Mara family for the football Giants (Since the Maras live in Harrison, Or Guests of the Fugazy Family for the Yankees since they live in Harrison.)

I think that summes it up why the Clinton family should live in the Town of Harrison.

The Town is rich in history led by the Towns first Town supervisor Major General Thomas Thomas who later became a Revolutionary war hero. In 1870 Harrison built a red stone railroad station that is still in use today.

Today Harrison is the home of many entertainers, politicians, writers, CEO's, musicians etc.

The Town is rich with military veterans, led by veterans affair officer Alfred Di Lauria. The Town has many parks recognizing the vital role the veterans of Harrison has produce for the U.S. military .

In closing I would like not to forget the Clinton family will always be welcomed on my radio show (Harrison Home Radio Talk Show) That is broadcast from (New Rochelle) WVOX - AM 1460.

Fr: Todd Levett
Education Editor, NEXT

Dear Marsha,

I will be staying in Washington D.C. from July 3rd through August 6th, working on a series of articles for publication in the Cleveland Plain Dealers feature teen section, NEXT.

The Plain Dealer (Ohio's largest newspaper, Sunday circulation close to 500,000) will be hosting a yearlong teenage violence prevention series for the 1999-2000 school year. Throughout this period of time, several article segments will be published involving teen violence, prevention and school safety.

During my Washington visit, I would request a 15-20 minute, in-person interview with Mrs. Clinton regarding her ideas about school safety and teenage violence, as well as her plans for action as a perspective Senator in New York.

Thank you for your cooperation and I look forward to hearing from you. Unfortunately I do not yet know of my phone number in Washington, but have activated my pager for Washington access. Please feel free to page me at any time to set up a convenient interview slot at (216) 506-9121.

Respectfully yours,

Dear Sid,

The request is the expectable one, but heartfelt. I don't have the faintest idea what Hillary is going to do, but I dearly hope that if she is going to talk to anyone at length in print, it will be The New Yorker. I don't need to sort our bona fides next to one or another magazine. Betsy Kolbert has asked about an interview and I know she's been in contact with Harold Ickes in a "I'll put you on the list" sort of way. Maybe that will come through, but I smell doubt there. I would prefer the sort of access that leads to a larger written piece, a Profile, but if Mrs. Clinton is wary of that, if you are, what of a Q&A? The New Yorker has never done that before, but life changes. Betsy could do it, I could, if you prefer. I'm open to suggestions.

Can we talk it over when you get a chance? I'm at 536-5774 at the office, 496-0126 at home, and David.Remnick@newyorker.com for the cyber-inclined.

Love to Jackie and the boys.

David

Marsha: I know it's too late but, for the record, the NE Dairy Compact, endorsed by the First Lady, is a real clunker. It's bad for consumers, worse for low-income consumers, and it doesn't help the SMALL dairy farmers -- that is, the ones who are in trouble.

The Boston Globe just backed away from its previous support for the Compact, saying now that what's needed is a means-tested program that targets the farmers who need the help. See attached...

Consumer Federation of America

CONSUMER IMPACTS OF INTERSTATE DAIRY COMPACTS

by ARTHUR S. JAEGER ¹

Dairy compacts are regional milk pricing agreements designed to boost income for dairy farmers. They allow a regional commission to set a price paid to farmers for milk that is above the price set under the federal dairy program. This so-called "over-order" price under the two-year-old Northeast Interstate Dairy Compact is $16.94 per hundred pounds of milk.

While the Northeast compact has provided additional income for New England dairy farmers, it also has triggered substantially higher milk prices for New England consumers.² Essentially, the higher price for milk received by New England dairy farmers is passed along as an added cost by processors and retailers. This pass through began immediately after the Northeast compact went into effect in July 1997. Initially, New England milk prices rose 15 to 21 cents per gallon. While the price increases later moderated, the cost of the Northeast compact since its inception has averaged 15 cents a gallon or a total of $65 million through June 1999.

Though much of 1998, record high milk prices muted the impact of the Northeast compact on consumers. Federal milk prices remained well above the $16.94 per hundredweight compact price, eliminating the consumer-paid compact subsidy. That changed earlier this year, however, when the Agriculture Department announced a 37 percent drop in the federally set "basic formula price" for milk.

The basic formula price affects the price paid to farmers for milk, and consequently the retail price of milk, across the nation. In non-compact states, this drop in the basic formula price should result in substantial savings for consumers on retail milk purchases for much of the rest of the year. In compact states, however, the compact price will negate potential savings, causing retail milk prices to remain at the high levels

² Evidence of this pass through is seen in a comparison of retail milk prices for New England and the Mid-Atlantic states from supermarket scanner data provided by the International Dairy Foods Association. Prior to the beginning of the Northeast compact in July 1997, the data show, average retail milk prices in the two regions were virtually identical. Once the compact went into effect, however, New England retail milk prices increased and remained at or near those higher levels. Retail prices in the Mid-Atlantic region, on the other hand, did not increase when the compact began and actually declined substantially on a number of occasions. In short, the Northeast Dairy Compact prevented consumers from experiencing retail milk price declines that occurred outside of New England.

The Northeast compact covers six states and was authorized under both federal legislation and an administrative decision of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. Originally, the Northeast compact was scheduled to sunset in April 1999. Last year, however, Congress extended the life of the compact six months, to October 1999. Also since formation of the Compact, six Mid-Atlantic states have expressed an interest in joining. In addition, 15 states in the South and Southwest have passed or are considering legislation to form a dairy compact of their own.

Legislation extending the Northeast compact yet again is pending in Congress this year. The same legislation could authorize a Southern Dairy Compact. One vehicle for a compact amendment is the agricultural appropriations bill due back on the House floor soon.

Potential Consumer Costs of Two Compacts

The combined effect on consumers of establishing a Southern compact and of extending and expanding the Northeast compact would be substantial. CFA estimates the cost to consumers for the six months from July to December 1999 in 27 states to be $432 million, or about 22 cents more per gallon of milk. This estimate is based on an $11.40 per cwt. Basic formula price and the $16.94 per 100 pounds ($1.46/gal.) over-order price now in effect in New England. If the Northeast compact raises its price or the proposed Southern compact imposes a price higher than the New England price, costs to consumers would rise accordingly. The maximum 1999 compact price allowed by law is $22.28 per 100 pounds ($1.92/gal.).

Broken down by region, the consumer cost of dairy compacts is $32 million or 20 cents more per gallon of milk in New England; $165 million or 25 cents more per gallon in the Mid-Atlantic states; and $253 million or 21 cents more per gallon in the South.

These higher milk prices make it less likely the trend of declining per capita milk consumption will be reversed. USDA data indicate that, on average, teenagers are only drinking enough milk to receive a quarter of the recommended 1300 milligrams of calcium each day.

Costs Fall Heaviest on Low-Income Families

The cost of regional dairy compacts falls heaviest on low-income consumers. Low-income families spend more of their income on food and more of their food budget on dairy products. For the most part, low-income families can be expected to pay the higher compact price for milk. But the extra dollars these families spend on milk aren't available to purchase other items. This is referred to as lost purchasing power. Low-income food stamp recipients in the 27 states looked at by CFA stand to lose an estimated $61 million in purchasing power over six months under the Northeast and Southern compacts. Put another way, this is a $60 million tax on low-income families in compact states. If the government increases food stamp benefits to reflect the increase in the cost of the Thrifty Food Plan caused by these higher milk prices, this burden of the compact will fall on U.S. taxpayers.

Small Farms Receive Little Help

Advocates of compacts argue that they help keep small family dairy farms afloat. The loss of family farms of all types is a particular concern of the Consumer Federation of America. They add much to the economic and social fabric of the nation and efforts should be made to save the remaining family farms in the Northeast and elsewhere.³ But raising the price of milk to consumers is not the solution, as the following numbers show.

Compacts assess benefits on every gallon of milk sold. So the farms that produce the most milk receive the most benefit. This gives enormous subsidies to those who least need it—the largest dairy farms. The smallest, most vulnerable farms receive only a minute proportion of the total subsidy. In most cases, this is not enough to ensure their financial viability.

In New England, according to CFA calculations, the smallest dairy producers, those with less than 20 cows, will receive an average of only $650 from the Northeast compact over the last half of this year. At the other end of the scale, dairies with 200 to 500 cows will receive an average benefit of $29,000 per farm over six months. Those with more than 500 cows will receive an average of $67,000 for the six-month period.

Estimated average benefits in the Mid-Atlantic states and the South show a similar pattern. Average benefits for small farmers over six months are $800 in the Mid-Atlantic and $950 in the South. Those for 200-to-500 cow dairies are $34,000 and $36,000, respectively.

The competitive position of large producers is enhanced under compacts, since these producers receive such large subsidies under compacts. Put another way, dairy compacts benefit large producers at the expense of small producers. As a result, contrary to the stated intent, the likely result of compacts is that big dairy operations will get even bigger while small and mid-sized dairies continue to steadily leave the dairy business.

June 10, 1999

³ CFA stands ready to work with all sides in finding a rational solution to this problem and would not rule out a means-tested program to support small family farms.

Support for dairy farms

By U, 07/19/99

Dairy farming in New England, especially in Massachusetts, has been a chancy proposition for small, family-run operations. Attempts at shoring up these farms, largely through a multistate pricing compact, have slowed but not stopped the decline. Congress, which must soon decide whether to extend the system's enabling legislation, should modify it to focus more closely on smaller farms rather than lavishing money on larger operations that are fully capable of competing in a tough economic environment.

Congress should also resist the temptation to expand the system to other parts of the country.

In Massachusetts, only about 330 dairy farms have survived, down from 450 as recently as 15 years ago. Most of these farms are run by husband-wife, father-son, or other close-knit units. Typically, two people can maintain a herd of 50 or 60 cows in a grueling operation that runs 365 days a year, and very long days at that.

The charm of dairy farms is universally recognized. The idea of fresh milk coming from local herds is widely cherished, and the spectacle of cows grazing on rolling New England pastures is picture-book material. For many of the farmers, however, it is a losing proposition when they have to compete with larger, semi-industrialized, low-cost operations elsewhere in the Northeast and the mid-Atlantic states.

The rescue effort now in place is a federally sanctioned system of mandated price supports, which amount to about 14 cents a gallon. In Massachusetts this generates $40 million annually, but only $2 million goes to Massachusetts farmers, with most of the balance going to Vermont farms, many of which are larger and have lower costs.

Massachusetts's agriculture commissioner, Jay Healy, has proposed limiting the subsidy to a fixed level of production, about 1.5 million gallons of milk annually, which is typical for smaller farms.

Another sensible step would be to fund the program with general revenues - state, federal, or a combination - rather than a regressive consumer charge, since the program has multiple objectives, including preservation of open space as well as protection of nearby milk sources.

Healy has sponsored a number of programs designed to improve the economics of smaller-scale dairy farming by encouraging farmers to add value to milk by processing it into cheese or ice cream and marketing it directly to consumers. Also, he has encouraged dairy farmers to use agricultural land in other ways to preserve it as open space without having to keep up the relentless demands of tending herds.

on Globe Online: Print it!

wysiwyg://114/http://www.boston.com/usat...ationalsupport_for_dairy_farmers.shtml

He defends continued support of New England dairying on grounds that it, along with similar operations in eastern New York, provides a steady supply of milk for processors, especially ice cream and cheese makers, who produce high-value products that cost a lot to transport. His concern is that without the subsidy, milk production here will decline and processors will migrate to lower-cost sources elsewhere - western New York, Pennsylvania, Virginia - taking with them as many as 30,000 jobs.

Meanwhile, Congress must decide whether to extend authorization of the dairy compact system, which is currently limited to the New England states. Congress has been asked to expand the original group by six states, including New York, and even to add 15 more states, primarily in the Southeast. Milk operations in these areas are not as small in scale and are not in conspicuous need of subsidies. It would be a mistake to adopt a program that fails to target small, family-run farms.

Even the New England system provides more subsidies than are needed to achieve its objective. The funds that now go to larger farms would be more effective if they were used to increase small-farmer subsidies, typically $3,000 to $4,000 per farm.

New England dairy farms are a singular asset economically, environmentally, and aesthetically. Small farms are endangered, even though they perform useful functions and support other sectors of the economy. Crafting an appropriate form of help to keep them alive will be difficult - but well worth the effort.

Dear Marsha,

I am writing to request an interview with Mrs. Clinton during her visit to New York on Monday.

On-going request.

I've enclosed a copy of my letter to Mrs. Clinton.

The request follows up on one submitted by the Times Union, Albany, N.Y., about six weeks ago. The request to Mrs. Clinton came from Jeff Cohen, editor of the Times Union.

I am planning to cover Mrs. Clinton's visit to New York on Monday. If an interview can be arranged, I'd be happy to link up with her at any point during the day.

Thanks for your help.

Dear Mrs. Clinton,

I want to thank you for coming to the White House Correspondents' Association dinner at the Washington Hilton on May 1.

It was great to see you -- and to share an inspirational evening with Aretha Franklin. I just wish I could relive the evening in slow motion with full sound.

I'm writing as well to follow up on a request that I've received from the Hearst Newspapers' outlet in Albany, N.Y. The Times Union has asked me to pursue a pending request for an interview with you that was submitted in a personal letter from the editor, Jeff Cohen, about six weeks ago.

I'm planning to cover your visit to New York next Monday. I wonder if we might squeeze in 15 minutes together during the visit?

The Times Union is interested in issues confronting upstate New York. Among them: How aging industrial cities can rebound economically and compete more effectively for jobs with southern states.

The newspaper also wants to focus upon Clinton administration efforts to combat health care costs, as well as bolstering patients' efforts to win comprehensive coverage from health maintenance organizations.

As you know, an interview on behalf of the Times Union would not only reach readers in the New York state capital area but also readers of 600 other newspapers nationwide that receive Hearst Newspapers' stories via the New York Times News Service.

I look forward to seeing you in New York on Monday.

It is my understanding that the First Lady will in the "upstate" area in the next few days. Would it be possible for me to interview Mrs. Clinton during her trip (I would be glad to meet her wherever she would be visiting).

I am a legislative correspondent in Albany for the Jamestown (NY) Post Journal and a member of the Legislative Correspondents Association at the Capitol.

It would be a ^wonderful gesture by the First Lady to grant an interview to a reporter for an "upstate" daily that essentially covers a rural area. My Editor's name is Christie Herbst and she can be reached at (716) 487 1111. My Social Security # is (b)(6). [002]

P.S. I have attached a bio, for your perusal.

Our senior editor, Scott Christianson, will be in Washington soon to receive Distinguished Honors in the 1999 Robert F. Kennedy Book Award competition for his book, "With Liberty for Some: 500 Years of Imprisonment in America." If, at any time on May 17, 18 or 19 you would have a few minutes to speak with him, it would be greatly appreciated. We are open to discussing any issues you think might be of particular interest to New Yorkers. Dr. Christianson or I would be happy to talk with a member of your staff in advance, if that would be helpful. If these dates are not workable with your schedule, Dr. Christianson would be available at most any other time.

We appreciate any consideration you can give our request. We also are looking forward to receiving your remarks about Judith Hope, chairwoman of the New York State Democratic Committee, for a profile we are running on her in our June issue.

My name is Randy Reid and I am the Assignment Editor at WBNG-TV in Binghamton, NY. We are a CBS affiliate in Upstate New York. Our station covers 10 counties in upstate NY, with about 800,000 people in our viewing area.

We would like to interview the First Lady on her visit to Binghamton with Congressman Hinchey in June. We recently interviewed Mayor Giuliani on his visit to our area and we would like to afford the same opportunity to Mrs. Clinton.

If you have any questions regarding our station please feel free to contact Congressman Hinchey and Senator Schumer's offices. I can be reached at 607-729-9575 or you speak to our News Director Darcy Fauci. Thank you for your time and I look forward to hearing from you soon.

Sincerely,

Randy Reid

Dear Ms. Berry,

The Fox 40 newsteam is eagerly awaiting the First Lady's arrival to Binghamton. After many meetings, we have agreed to broadcast a special edition of our 10'clock news devoted to her visit.

We would like to know if Mrs. Clinton would do us the honor of coming on our set to be interviewed by Fox 40's main anchors, Larry Sparano, and Celine McArthur. Our station, WICZ-TV, is only minutes away from where she will be speaking. Our broadcast is the area's only prime-time news, and Southern Tier viewers count on us to give them the news first.

We could have the anchors interview her live or tape the interview, if she would prefer. We apologize for the short notice, but we wanted to secure complete news coverage before contacting you. We appreciate any time she can give us.

Some of our questions include asking Mrs. Clinton about her decision to run for Senate, what it means to be a woman candidate and what her goals are for New York State.

You may contact me or Kent Garrett, the News Director for WICZ-TV, at 607-798-0070. We look forward to hearing from you and to covering this much anticipated event.

Sincerely,

Dear Ms. Berry,

I wanted to let you know that I appreciated the opportunity to meet you during the First Lady's recent visit to Binghamton. I was happy we had a chance to chat briefly at the Holiday Inn during the fundraising event for Congressman Hinchey.

If the First Lady's future travels bring her back to New York's Southern Tier, you may wish to consider scheduling an interview on WNBF Radio. The station's news-talk format would provide an excellent forum to communicate with many people who live in this region of the state.

WNBF's "Midday Magazine" features a one-on-one interview format which has proved to be appealing to many newsmakers, including Congressman Hinchey and New York State Democratic Party chairwoman Judith Hope, both of whom have been in-studio guests over the last couple of weeks. The program airs from 11 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday.

Should you have any questions or thoughts about arranging an interview in coming weeks, please feel free to call me. I can be reached at (607) 772-8400, extension 358.

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

We have all read with great interest your hope of spending some substantial time in beautiful upstate New York this summer. May we cordially invite you to visit our radio network while you are "in the neighborhood" for an on-air visit on my Oldies Show. This program is extremely popular, playing all of the great songs "of our era"; the 1960's! Each Thursday night, from 7-9pm we beam out the classic sounds of Aretha, The Beach Boys, Motown, Elvis and many more to an audience base of nearly 100,000 listeners. Consider yourself invited to "guest DJ" the show with me on any Thursday night this summer!

Oneonta is the picturesque geographical center of The Empire State. We are the home of Senator Daniel Moynihan (who lives in Pindars Corners, just two miles up the road from our station), The National Soccer Hall of Fame (another Hall of Fame, for baseball, is just 15-miles away in Cooperstown, N.Y.), two of upstate New York's finest universities (Hartwick College and SUNY Oneonta) and several leading-edge, high-tech industries. Our Democratic mayor is a woman in her forties, our radio network owner and general manager is a woman in her forties, and our local government is both progressive and future-oriented. Our historic roots are deep and patriotic. IBM had its infancy in Oneonta, as did the railroad (in fact, the tiny little red caboose where railroad workers founded one of America's first labor unions is still intact, encased in glass in our city's largest park). Country music legend Jerry Jeff Walker is a graduate of our high school, and many celebrities find themselves part-time residents in our gorgeous natural environs (Yoko Ono is among the most famous). Our lakes are clean, our forests are lush, our air is healthy. Our community spirit is unbridled, and the concept of volunteerism is a cornerstone of our daily ethic. Culturally, we are a banquet of diversity. Maya Angelou spoke to an SRO audience in Oneonta recently, and Tony Bennett is opening our new field house in August.

Ultimate Broadcasting Network Inc.

P.O. Box 649 Oneonta, NY 13820 Voice: (607) 432-1500 Fax: (607) 432-8952 E-Mail: admin@wsrk.com

We at Ultimate Broadcasting believe you would be welcomed warmly and with open hearts during a visit to our city. I personally have met you on two different occasions; one each at both Democratic Conventions which I attended. I found you to be intelligent, sensitive, caring and creative in your two discussions at both confabs.

I do hope you will join me on "The WSRK Thursday Night Jukebox." I will offer you ANY Thursday night for the entire summer. Whatever your upstate travel plans are, if you can stop by for an on-air chat I would be delighted, as would be our huge listening audience (please feel free to call on-air if your travel plans make it impossible to stop in person). If you want to pick your playlist from the songs of the 1960s in advance, just let me know and I will have them ready for you. Our evening will be informal, fun, and, perhaps, a nice little break from your heavy schedule. It will be just you and I, with no call-ins. I give you my professional word of honor that the evening will be positive, light, breezy and non-confrontational. It will offer you an invaluable opportunity to let 100,000 upstaters see the "informal and personal" side of their First Lady. I have been at this station for ten years, am 49-years old, married and the father of two daughters. Our stations are the leading radio stations within a large three-county area.

I do hope you will visit Ultimate Broadcasting this summer. Please contact Ms. Jan Laytham, the owner, if you have any questions. If you wish, you may also contact me with any questions.

I believe that when you once said, "It takes a village to raise a single child," that you were referring to the spirit and commitment of communities just like Oneonta, New York. Come and visit.....and see for yourself!!

I look forward to hearing from you. Best of luck in your future endeavors.

Sincerely,

Enclosed please find two television news stories about a little girl in Weedsport, New York. Cassidy Thompson was holding the ice cream sign when you stopped your bus here last summer. She told us her life is forever changed.

It is my guess you'll be spending a lot more time in Upstate New York and I'm hopeful we will be able to set up a reunion between you and Cassidy.

Dear Ms Berry:

I understand the First Lady, Hillary Rodham Clinton, will be in New York City on March 3rd for a "Women's Leadership Forum" luncheon. As you know, the speculation that she will run for the U-S Senate seat in New York is a very hot topic.

We will be in New York City at the same time as the First Lady. We are requesting a one on one interview with her. We think Central New York would love to hear first hand what Mrs. Clinton has to say.

We are willing to make whatever arrangements are necessary to make this interview happen. You can reach me at (315) 477-4695.

Dear Ms. Berry,

I am the political reporter for the ABC affiliate in Syracuse, New York. As might be expected, in light of recent speculation, there is great interest in Upstate New York over Mrs. Clinton's political plans.

While I understand the usual pattern of offering interviews to Network news organizations or major market television stations, I would hope that your office would remember that there are those of us plying our trade far from the Beltway or Broadway.

I am requesting that you keep my name and station in mind when deciding how to go about announcing and discussing any bid for U.S. Senate by the First Lady. We would be open to being anywhere at anytime to do such an interview.

I can be reached at 1-315-446-9999, Extension 2304. My fax number is 1-315-446-9283. My e-mail address is Bcarey@ackerley.com. My mailing address is:

A few weeks ago, I forwarded a letter to your office expressing our interest in coverage of any decision by Mrs. Clinton on a race for U.S. Senate in New York State. Obviously, as time has passed, the likelihood of such a race has increased.

There is great interest here in assembling a profile piece on the First Lady, including an interview with her as she arrives at a decision.

I should note that my company, Ackerley Broadcasting, has a cluster of stations in the Upstate New York area that share material on their nightly newscasts. An interview and story done by WIXT in Syracuse would also air on WORK-TV in Rochester, WIVT-TV in Binghamton and WUTR-TV in Utica. That's four markets for the price of one.

Please keep our proposal in mind as developments unfold in the coming days.

I can be reached by telephone at 1-315-446-9999, Extension 2304 or 1-315-446-3333. I can be emailed at Bcarey@ackerley.com. My mail address is WIXT TV, 5904 Bridge Street, East Syracuse, New York 13057.

Dear Ms. Berry,

As per our conversation, enclosed are details regarding my request for an interview with the first lady. We would be proud to feature Ms. Clinton on our cover for the upcoming last Jewish New Year of the millennium.

Laisha (Hebrew for woman), Israel's premiere magazine, boasts the largest circulation of any publication in the country. In addition, Laisha has a wide international distribution catering to a broad range of contemporary international Hebrew readers. Its circulation in New York is among the highest.

Laisha, a weekly publication, is a bold, profound, and fresh magazine on the cutting edge of international journalism. It focuses on women's issues in Israel and the world.

We are truly excited to explore the possibility of Ms. Clinton's appearance on the cover of the magazine followed by an in depth feature article. The article will touch on women's issues in the millenium and Ms. Clinton's future political plans.

Due to these unique circumstances, Laisha is willing to adhere to any of Ms. Clinton's special requests or conditions, weather topical or logistical. Our plan is to send our lead writer Ms. Orit Merlin, and Israel's most prominent photographer, Mr. Ronen Ackermann.

We understand Ms. Clinton's time is extremely valuable and would like to make it clear that we would not take too much of her time.

I will contact your office next week. Naturally, Should you have any questions, please feel free to contact me at 011.972.4.826.6243.

Thank you for your time and consideration. We hope that you share our vision in this great opportunity for Ms. Clinton to reach an important segment of her New York voters.

16th August 1999

Dear Ms Berry

I am writing in connection with a project which the BBC is keen to develop, if Mrs Clinton's Senate campaign goes ahead.

We would like to make a series of programmes following in detail the evolution of the Clinton campaign, with a particular focus on policy, as well as documenting the running of the campaign itself. We would hope to be able to record Mrs Clinton and her associates at work, both in public and in private, in order to present an accurate, insightful record of the campaign.

No doubt you are inundated with requests from the media. Our own perspective will, I think, be somewhat different from many of the rest, and our methods of working have been developed successfully in some of the most sensitive areas of British and European government and politics.

As Head of the BBC's Political Documentaries Department, I have been responsible for programmes which have resulted from permission to film at the highest levels of the British government, the European Union and British party politics. Having been given access, we have always respected agreements on terms of filming, confidentiality and the final broadcast of the material. Attached is a summary of some of our recent productions of this kind. I can also provide testimony from those we have filmed that they have been happy with both the filming process and the resulting programmes. Currently, among other things, we are filming with Baroness Jay under a strict confidentiality agreement as she steers legislation for reform of the House of Lords through Parliament and are embarking on 'The Blair Phenomenon' for transmission in the New Year.

Mrs Clinton's campaign will be an important and fascinating part of American political history. Our interest is in capturing that for posterity. (In the same way, D.A. Pennebaker recorded the President's first campaign so memorably in The War Room). There is great interest in the campaign here in Britain, and we would no doubt receive many enquiries for use of the finished programmes from broadcasters throughout the world.

If you are prepared to entertain the possibility of working with us, I am sure you will have views on confidentiality, and the timing and other aspects of the broadcasting of a finished series. I am confident we could accommodate any reasonable concerns about those or other issues.

I would hope you would feel confident about working with BBC, not only as a respected broadcasting organisation, but in particular as one which, to some extent, can escape the day-to-day pressures of American media organisations during a political campaign.

My senior colleagues and I would be more than happy to come to the States to discuss this proposal with you. I do hope you will be able to explore this idea with us, for what I am sure would be an important and worthwhile project.

You should know that I am also writing to Howard Wolfson and Melanne Verveer about this proposal.

I look forward to hearing from you.

Many thanks.

Yours sincerely

Many thanks for your letter and your kind remarks.

One always takes a chance in allowing open access to documentary makers. But I think that the trust you so swiftly established with all the holders of my office whom you interviewed was clearly vindicated. I have had so many comments of praise for your film, not least that it was very refreshing that it sought to explain, not hector. So, thank you.

Launch of the BBC TV Presidency Series

Speaking Notes for the Taoiseach,

European Commission Offices,

Wednesday 19th February 4 p.m.

CHECK AGAINST DELIVERY

- It gives me great pleasure to launch this BBC Television Series on the Presidency. The Irish Presidency was a great success and I feel that any television series portraying it can only contribute to the public's understanding of that success.
- The BBC are to be congratulated for devoting considerable resources to making this series of programmes. The staff and the various production crews will be fondly remembered by all who dealt with them during the Presidency for their courtesy and professionalism.
- The Irish Presidency concentrated on the matters that were of most concern to the man in the street in every European member state. These matters remain of the highest concern. They include Economic and Monetary Union, the need for Safe Streets, the need for more Secure Employment and the need to build a Europe which will be at peace with itself and a source for peace and stability in the wider world.
- While everyone will agree that these are important concerns, it is a difficult and torturous process to craft concrete agreements which will meet them.

These programmes show just how difficult negotiations at European level can be. However they also show that with the commitment of all the member states, solutions which are acceptable to all, and effective in achieving the overall objectives can be arrived at.

- More importantly these programmes will show the public how the European Union works. Unfortunately much of the debate on Europe is driven by caricature. On the one hand we have the giant bureaucratic edifice consuming national identity and shackling Europe with unnecessary regulation. On the other we have the beacon of peace and civilisation in an ever more dangerous world. The European Union of course is neither of these things. The European Union is the people of Europe seeking to build institutions that can help us all prosper in an ever changing world. As such it is a very human enterprise. All these programmes demonstrate this in an admirable fashion.
- All that remains to say is Congratulations to the Production Team on the completion of this fine documentary series and to wish it every success.

To whom it may concern,

I am writing to request information pertaining to the First Lady's "Listening Tours" of New York State.

Elle magazine Australia is currently running a series of feature profiles on "the women of 2000". We would like to join one of the First Lady's tours in view of writing a special profile on Mrs. Clinton to appear in our end of year December issue.

I would be grateful if someone could email me all relevant information regarding the tours (dates/press accreditation etc.) to the following address: editorial@elle.com.au

Thanking you kindly in advance,

I am the international correspondent for Vanidades Magazine in the United States and Latin American.

Years ago, during your husband's first presidential campaign, you and I had a very short telephone interview for Vanidades Magazine and know we are looking forward to interview you again, this time and if it is possible, personally.

The theme of the interview would be your work for the state of New York and your plans as future Senator of this country.

Vanidades is a big and important Latin American magazine that runs in the United States and all other Latin American countries (2.000.000 monthly) and we really would be very pleased to have you again in our pages.

Cincerely yours,

I represent "Shalom, Baltimore", a talk show on radio station WJFK, sponsored by Baltimore Jewish Radio, Inc., which concentrates on issues of Jewish interest.

We would like to invite the First Lady, Mrs. Clinton, to speak on our show. We are on Sunday Mornings at 8, but we can record at any time.

Mrs. Clinton may run for the Senate in New York State, a state with a large Jewish population. An appearance on our show would certainly make waves throughout New York.

We would discuss Mrs. Clinton's position on Israel, her recent visit to the Middle East, and her views on social issues and how they affect Jews.

The "talk" portion of our show is 30 minutes, but a visit by Mrs. Clinton of any length of time would be welcome.

Dear Mrs. Hilary Clinton,

May I make a respectful inquiry into the matter of an on-line interview/Chat question and answer brief session for later print with the George Magazine.

The questions would exclusively focus on your Senate Campaign with an educational tone to understanding New York politics. And naturally some fun questions, like are you enjoying the early stages of the race.

I hope this letter finds you intrigued with the possibility of cultivating an audience on-line and a exciting pleasant experience shared with George Magazine.

Dear Marcia Berry,

As the First Lady is spending quite a bit of time in New York these days, we are hoping that she would reconsider an appearance on The Late Show with David Letterman.

Please be assured that our Executive Producer and all of us here at The Late Show would work closely with you and the First Lady to make an appearance an appropriate and enjoyable experience. We can make the segment as scripted or improvised as the First Lady prefers.

If a guest appearance were not possible at this time, we would of course be more than thrilled to have the First Lady present a Top Ten or a live or taped piece of comedy.

I very much appreciate your consideration, and I look forward to discussing the possibility of Mrs. Clinton making an appearance on our program.

Dear Marsha:

As per our recent conversation, I'm sending you this fax requesting a one-on-one sit down interview with the First Lady. In the following letter, I've expressed the topics I'd like to discuss and how I will work around any time constraints she may have or any other restrictions. I realize she has a very busy schedule, but I'd certainly make it brief and would be honored to talk to her.

She has done several interviews with other networks, but has not done any on FOX Network yet. This interview would air on all FOX stations around the country, our 24-hour newschannel and our overseas networks. So many viewers would be able to see it. I would be happy to do the interview either live or taped, whichever she prefers.

Thank you so much for your assistance in passing this request on to the First Lady on my behalf. You are always very helpful with passing on information, returning press calls, etc., even on difficult days, and I very much appreciate that. I will try to contact you in the near future to see if you should need any further information from me on this matter.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

I am writing this letter to request a one-on-one interview with you at your earliest convenience. I am the Senior Correspondent for Fox Network in Washington, and our interview would air on all FOX stations around the country as well as on our overseas networks.

I have been impressed with the way you have handled the role of First Lady. I truly think you have changed the image of the First Lady and helped encourage many young women to break past societal barriers, the so-called glass ceiling. As a young woman in a busy and fairly important position I have a lot of respect for that.

I would very much like to speak with you on how wonderful and sometimes difficult it's been for you at the White House, but most importantly, I'd like to focus on issues that you hope to work on even more in your future: education, equal rights and pay, health care, children's rights, etc. I would like to discuss how you and all of us can make a difference to advance these critical areas. Also, I would like to discuss your "great appreciation of New York State," and the role of your soon-to-be exploratory committee. I think you have an exciting future ahead of you!

Realizing you are extremely busy these days, I promise to make our interview brief. I can work around any restrictions you may have and can conduct the interview anywhere you'd like—even in the Middle East! Maybe I could join you on your recent trip and do the interview in between your meetings, etc. Please let me know what works best for you.

I realize you have done a few interviews lately, but we at FOX Network have not had a chance to speak with you. We have millions of viewers all over the U-S and Overseas, including locally FOX 5. I would be extremely honored to meet with you in person and hope I have that opportunity.

Dear Ms. Berry:

I am writing to request an extended NewsHour interview with Mrs. Clinton to be conducted by Jim Lehrer. We suggest that the interview be 30 minutes or longer.

An ideal time would be when the First Lady has made her decision whether to run as a candidate for Senator from New York. In addition to discussing the political issues involved, it also would be an opportunity to talk about the critical policy issues facing the country.

We can be very flexible for this important interview, arranging the time and place at Mrs. Clinton's convenience.

I will call you in a few days to see if we can arrange a meeting to discuss this proposal.

RE. Interview with Spanish Magazine Program "OCURRIO ASI"
Telemundo Network

Dear Mrs. Clinton:

First of all, I would like to introduce myself. My name is Mike Oliver and I am the segment Producer for "OCURRIO ASI" a Spanish Magazine Program which airs daily at 5.00 P.M. - eastern time at Telemundo Network and on Wednesdays at 9.00 P.M. eastern time. Our show is live and is seeing all over the United States, as well as in over (16) Latin Countries.

Mrs. Clinton, it is my belief that you have not had enough exposure with the Latin Community, and now that you are looking to run for Senator of New York, we would like to introduce you and your work to the Latin Community, both here and abroad. I know that one of the facets of your life which is little known in the Latin Community, is all the charity work that you have always done, especially charities dealing with children, as well as your constant fight for the rights of children and their education.

Mrs. Clinton, what I would like to do, is have our Anchor Mr. Enrique Gratas, and a crew of three (3) interview you at a place and time convenient to you, hopefully in the near future. If you desire, we would forward to you the questions our Anchor would be asking, for you to look over ahead of time.

If you are interested in being interviewed for our show, please have your office contact me by telephone at (305) 884-9649, or via telefax at (305) 889-7520.

I await your response and hope to have the pleasure of meeting with you.

Dear Ms. Berry:

PANORAMA 21 magazine is an upscale publication specializing in politics and economics. Published bimonthly by Insight Communications, Inc., PANORAMA 21 provides complete information covering local and international issues, in a bilingual format. It is not only an informative magazine, it is also an educational publication written by experts in the areas of politics and economics, among these writers: professors from the University of Puerto Rico, Rutgers University and De Paul University, as well as contributors with outstanding academic backgrounds from other renown institutions.

At PANORAMA 21 we are interested in interviewing First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton for a cover story to be published in an upcoming issue, particularly in light of the First Lady's political aspirations and her potential bid for the Senate seat from the state of New York. Although we know that the First Lady has yet to confirm whether or not she will run for the Senate, we are very much interested in spending at least 15 minutes with Mrs. Rodham Clinton discussing the issues affecting the Hispanic community throughout the United States (not just those who may vote in New York), as well as any policies she has in regards to dealing with this sector.

The interview will be conducted by Elizabeth Román, President of Insight Communications, Inc. (Master of Public Administration from the University of Illinois and a former Presidential Management Intern), and Angel Carrión Tavárez, Editor-in-Chief of PANORAMA 21 (Master of Arts in the Humanities, California State University and Puerto Rico Senate Laureate).

We appreciate your assistance in coordinating this session, and look forward to publishing a story that will not only be interesting to our readers, but also worthwhile and beneficial to the First Lady. To confirm possible interview dates we can be reached at (787) 763-8175 or (787) 763-1225.

Dear Ms. Berry,

I'm writing to request an interview with the First Lady on statewide public television in New York during her visit in early July. Here are some details on the program and what would be involved:

New York Week in Review airs each week in all the media markets in the state (New York City, Long Island, Buffalo, Rochester, Syracuse, Albany, Plattsburgh, Watertown and Binghamton). The half-hour program usually consists of a discussion of government and politics with reporters who cover the state Capitol. However, we periodically substitute interviews with important officials and political figures for the reporter format. Past guests include Senator Schumer, Mayor Giuliani, Governor Pataki, Chief Judge Kaye, plus the state Attorney General, Comptroller and legislative leaders. I'm usually joined during interviews by Karen DeWitt of New York Public Radio. I think if you asked any of our previous interview subjects they would tell you we ask basic, fair questions on major issues, and give people time to make their case.

We are willing to travel with a camera crew to wherever it is most convenient for Mrs. Clinton to meet us. However, we would prefer to tape the interview either in Oneonta on Wednesday the 7th or in Albany on Friday the 9th.

Please call at anytime to discuss details. My direct line is (518) 357-1758. At home: (518) 449-7518. E-mail: mcarrese@wmht.org. I look forward to hearing from you.

Dear Ms. Clinton:

We highly support your interest in representing our state in the U.S. Senate. We feel that you are someone who would play a significant role in creating a viable future for all of New York's children. Perhaps, Economic Forum can help you develop that image in New York's Minority communities. We would like to interview you.

We are a unique institution. Starting as a spin-off from the New York Amsterdam News eighteen-years ago, we have promoted economic growth in predominantly-Minority communities by providing practical information to guide those communities in becoming more viable and self-sustaining. While our focus has been primarily on business development, we have had a wide range of social and political impacts, both regionally and nationally.

Originally entitled, Minority Business Review, we originated and published the story which inspired funding for the Apollo Theater in 1982; published a series of stories in 1985-6 which resulted in the passage of two pro-minority business resolutions by the 1986 White House Conference on Small Business; and published the first series on the land-mark City of Richmond v. Croson decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, helping the Minority business movement survive that challenge.

Our efforts in business development have resulted in many awards and recognitions. Most notable of these have been two Region 2 awards for advocacy from the U.S. Department of Commerce, Minority Business Development Agency in 1987 and again in 1996. We presently enjoy the endorsement of the Association of Minority Enterprises of New York (AMENY), and the New York Association of Minority Contractors (NYSAMC).

On a purely political level, the campaign of Long Island's only Minority mayor, James A. Garner, began in our pages, as well as the early publicity and positioning of Manhattan Borough President David Dinkins that led to his eventual election as mayor of New York City. Both Mr. Garner and Mr. Dinkins remain enthusiastic readers and supporters of Economic Forum.

If an interview is possible, please contact me at (516) 486-4211 to make arrangements.

My colleagues and I would be delighted if during one of your next trips to New York City you could join us for lunch. It's been too long since we last had you for our guest.

The time seems right, now that you have said you are interested in New York in an intriguing new way. We would love to talk about the full range of the interests to which you have devoted so much time and energy. These would include your foreign travels, the status of women abroad and at home, children's development, health care, national politics, local politics and, of course, the Presidency.

We would be honored to have you come for lunch, but if coffee works better for you that could be arranged. We could have our discussion either on or off the record, as you wish.

I look forward to the opportunity of again greeting you here at The Times. Thank you very much for your consideration.

Dear Mr. Sulzberger:

Thank you for your invitation for the First Lady to meet with your editorial board to discuss her potential Senate run and other topics of interest to New York. As you know, while Mrs. Clinton is deeply gratified by the encouragement she has received, she is still in the decision-making process regarding a potential candidacy.

We will hold on to your request for future consideration when Mrs. Clinton has reached a decision. In the meantime, please contact my office if we can be of further assistance.

Sincerely yours,

Marsha Berry
Press Secretary

Dear Ms. Mindel,

I'm producing a segment for the WNYC public radio's talk show On the Line on violence in the media, and would like to request a very brief interview with the First Lady to get her point of view. This segment is being co-produced by Search for Common Ground, an international conflict resolution organization based in Washington.

The segment will feature a conversation between two guests (guests have not yet been confirmed, but they will probably be critics Michael Medved and John Leonard) with very different points of view on the social effects of violence on TV and in the movies. The segment will also feature recorded statements on the issue by various public figures and intellectuals—David Walsh of the National Institute on Media and the Family, Norman Siegel of the NY-ACLU, Senator Joseph Lieberman and others. I intend to ask Mayor Giuliani for his views, and wanted to see if the First Lady could spare a few moments to give his.

I would ask a few questions of the First Lady and edit her responses to a one to two minute statement, which would probably be part of a larger sound collage of other views. The interview could be conducted in less than 10 minutes by phone—anytime that she might be available this week. The questions would focus on whether the First Lady thinks that violence in the media leads to violent behavior, what she thinks of the V-chip, what she thinks of government efforts to regulate violence in the media.

This segment will air next Monday, July 12, from 11-12 a.m. on AM 820, WNYC. Thanks for your consideration of this request.

Sincerely,

Curtis Fox

Attention: Marsha Berry
Office of Ms. Hillary Clinton
United States of America

Dear Ms. Clinton,

On behalf of Bloomberg Television I would like to extend a formal invitation for you to be our guest on ``The Bloomberg Morning Show'' airing nationwide on the USA Network.

Your appearance on the country's most watched business show and number two cable network in the morning would coincide with the launch of Bloomberg's ``Vision 2000'' Television.

I know that our audience of financial market and non-market professionals would be very interested in hearing what you have to say.

We can either tape the interview at a time and location that is convenient for you, or you can join us live in our studios at 499 Park Avenue in New York.

It would be a pleasure and honor to have you as our guest and I appreciate your consideration.

I can be reached by phone at (212)318-2606 or e-mail at dratigan@bloomberg.net to discuss scheduling.

Sincerely,

Dylan Ratigan

Dear Ms. Berry:

With First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton soon expected in New York State for several days, I would like to put in a formal request for a sit-down interview to take place prior to her arrival.

New York One is Time Warner's 24 hour all news cable station in New York City. Our Political show Inside City Hall, is widely considered one of the best in the state.

My past guests have ranged from President Clinton (live and via satellite) to sit down sessions with Vice President Al Gore and other top members of the Clinton administration. (I can get you copies of the interviews at your request)

I am known for my fairness. The N.Y Times in a T.V Guide cover story on me says I'm the most important black journalist in the city. An upcoming Brill's content story says I'm one of the top 10 journalists statewide to have an impact on the Senate Race..

We are totally willing to work with the White House in any way, shape, or form. We propose a 15 minute sit-down session where we could discuss whatever issues the first lady would like to talk about. My direct line at work is 212 465-0123.

Sincerely,

Dear Marsha:

It was good to talk to you this morning.

I would like to know the tentative schedule for July so we can plan our coverage. I'll be available throughout the month, except for July 22nd and 23rd. In addition to news coverage, I would like to do an interview with Ms. Clinton on my Sunday program, News Forum. We have a large audience, larger by far than any other local public affairs program. We generally record it in our studios at Rockefeller Center.

It will be good to get to know you better. If Harold says you're great - even if he treats me like chopped liver! -- you must be.

Sincerely,

Gabe Pressman

Dear Harold:

I am writing to suggest an entire edition of our weekly political program NEWSFORUM with First Lady Hillary Rodham Clinton as the only guest.

NEWSFORUM is by far the ratings leader among Sunday-morning news programming in our tri-state region. In fact, as you know, Senator Pat Moynihan announced on the program his intention to retire after his current term.

NEWSFORUM is taped the Friday morning before airing. But we could discuss special needs stemming from Mrs. Clinton's schedule, if necessary. In addition, to NEWSFORUM, large segments of the interview would be included in our regular news programs that weekend, and I would put together one or more news stories for those shows as well.

We are eager to begin production of this special program and would greatly appreciate your prompt response.

For any further information, please get in touch with our Executive Producer for political coverage, John Sparks, at (212) 664-6338.

Warmest wishes,

Gabe

Dear Ms. Berry:

I know this is a hectic time for you and your staff but as part of our ongoing political coverage I want to introduce myself and make a request for a televised interview with the First Lady.

As you know, the possibility of Mrs. Clinton running for the U.S. Senate is a story of major importance to voters here in New York. Because of this significant, ongoing story we're hoping to produce a series of special reports on the race and its possible candidates. We can do the interview in Washington or in New York at a time that is convenient for Mrs. Clinton and you.

Although I'm new to WABC as its Political Reporter, I've worked in the business for more than 15 years. I recently moved here from WFAA-TV in Dallas.

I'll be calling you later this week and look forward to talking with you then.

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Ickes:

I recently sent a letter to Marsha Berry in the First Lady's Press Office and my new colleagues here at WABC-TV in New York said I should be faxing you a similar letter as well.

I realize this is a hectic time for you and your staff but we're hoping for a short, television interview with the First Lady as soon as possible in either Washington or New York. The possibility of Mrs. Clinton becoming a candidate for the U.S. Senate, as you know, is a story of major importance to voters across the state. We're planning a series of special reports on the race and its likely candidates.

Although I'm new to WABC as its Political Reporter, I've had a chance to cover developments in the Senate race this past month. Before my move to New York, I worked at WFAA-TV in Dallas for nine years covering politics and government affairs there.

If you need to reach me here are some numbers, 212-456-3169; mobil number is 917-613-3551; and my home number is 212-579-9538. I look forward to talking with you soon.

WLIB is one of two flagship radio stations for the INNER CITY BROADCASTING CORP., whose Chairman Emeritus is the Honorable Percy Sutton.

On June 1, 1999 WLIB will launch its new and exciting Morning Show, Featuring the latest breaking news and issues of concern to the Tri-State Area.

WLIB's audience represents more households that are college educated, with incomes of $75,000.00 and above, than any other radio station serving the African American and African Caribbean consumer Market.

WLIB has played a significant role in galvanizing the African American and Latino vote in the election of 1992 and in President Clinton's re-election in 1996.

We would be honored to have The First Lady as our guest on WLIB's Morning Show, to discuss issues such as children and the importance of providing them with an excellent education.

We look forward to speaking to you upon The First Lady's return from Belfast. Thank you.
