NEWS RELEASE

A Time Warner Company

For Release: Dec. 1, 2000

A Very Special Christmas from Washington, D.C. to Premiere on TNT Tuesday, December 19, at 8 p.m. ET/PT

Jon Bon Jovi, Macy Gray, Wyclef Jean, B.B. King, John Popper, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers and Stevie Wonder Among Artists to Perform at Concert Celebrating Special Olympics

Top contemporary artists including Jon Bon Jovi, Macy Gray, Wyclef Jean, B.B. King, John Popper, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers and Stevie Wonder, among others to be announced, will perform favorite holiday songs at A Very Special Christmas from Washington, D.C., a concert to celebrate the achievements of Special Olympics. The 90-minute concert special will premiere on Turner Network Television (TNT) Tuesday, December 19, at 8 p.m. ET/PT. The event and taping will take place on December 14 in Washington to honor the spirit of Special Olympics along with the athletes and families who inspire us all.

The concert special is the second live event and ensuing telecast of performances by music artists who are from "A Very Special Christmas" series of benefit albums. Royalties from the sales of these music albums, bearing inspirational Keith Haring artwork, have raised more than $65 million for Special Olympics Programs around the world.

"This Christmas concert offers Special Olympics the chance to not only recognize the achievements of the athletes but also honor the families who every day fight for the rights of their children that others take for granted," said Special Olympics President and CEO Timothy P. Shriver. "We're thrilled to be able to carry their message to an audience of millions."

"The artists' performances and the presence of luminaries who have helped guide Special Olympics to great heights ensure that the special concert will be a most memorable event on TNT," said Steve Koonin, executive vice president and general manager of TNT.

Since the Christmas Record Grant Program's creation in 1987, funds from the Grant Program have helped Special Olympics reach more athletes in rural areas, inner city schools, and minority populations within the United States. In addition, the Christmas Record Grant funds support development of Special Olympics in areas around the world as far reaching as China, Uganda, Russia and Brazil where the need is greatest.

A Very Special Christmas from Washington, D.C. is executive produced by Bobby Shriver and Timothy Shriver and produced/directed by Joel Gallen and Tenth Planet Productions. Sandy Shapiro is executive producer for TNT.

Special Olympics is an international year-round program of sports training and competition for individuals with mental retardation. One million athletes in more than 160 countries train and compete in 25 Olympic-type summer and winter sports. Founded in 1968 by Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Special Olympics gives people with mental retardation continual opportunities to develop fitness, demonstrate courage, and experience joy as they participate in the sharing of gifts, and friendship with their families, other athletes and the community. Athletes and their families are not charged a fee to participate in Special Olympics.

Turner Network Television, currently seen in 79.6 million homes, is Turner Broadcasting System, Inc.'s 24-hour, advertiser-supported service offering original motion pictures and miniseries; original series, non-fiction specials and live events; contemporary films from the world's largest film library, the combined Turner and Warner Bros. film libraries; exciting NBA, professional golf and Wimbledon Tennis action; exclusive coverage of both the 2000 Winter and 2001 Goodwill Games; and popular television series.

Turner Broadcasting System, Inc., a subsidiary of Time Warner Inc., is a major producer of news and entertainment product around the world and the leading provider of programming for the basic cable industry.

FACT SHEET

A VERY SPECIAL CHRISTMAS RECORDS

- The A Very Special Christmas series that was launched in 1987 under the A&M Records label has been enjoying "record" success for more than a decade.
- More than $65 million has been generated for Special Olympics by the music album series.
- Record Producer Jimmy Iovine came up with the idea for the musical holiday tribute in 1986 as a way of memorializing his father, Vincent, who died during the holiday season. Iovine's wife, Vicki, who was a devoted Special Olympics volunteer, suggested that the record proceeds benefit the organization.
- Bobby Shriver agreed to oversee the record project and has since served as the Executive Producer for the records.
- Performing artists enthusiastically donate their talents in an extraordinary array of music, including pop, rock, rap, gospel, and jazz.
- Released in 1987, A Very Special Christmas sold more than a million copies in its first year, generating millions of dollars.
- In 1992, A Very Special Christmas 2 was released and enjoyed enormous critical and commercial success.
- The third album, A Very Special Christmas 3, was released in 1997 on the 10th Anniversary of the Series.
- The fourth album, A Very Special Christmas Live from Washington DC, was released in 1999 and is a compilation of songs from a live concert at the White House in 1998.
- Two albums, Jazz to the World (1995) and World Christmas (1996) produced by Capitol Records in back-to back years, turned out to be a valuable gift to Special Olympics.
- Disbursed in grants, the royalties raised each year by the Christmas albums play a crucial role in everything Special Olympics does, from providing sports equipment and skill guides, to starting up entire new Special Olympics programs and initiatives around the world.
- Special Olympics Programs worldwide apply for these competitive grants which are awarded based on individual program needs. Within the United States, funds from the grant program have helped Special Olympics reach more athletes in rural areas, inner city schools, and minority populations.
- Recent grants have gone to support strategic growth initiatives in Brazil, China, Egypt, Russia and South Africa where the need is the greatest. Program Development and athlete recruit initiatives also were funded in Paraguay, Zimbabwe, France, Spain, and Central Asia.

THE WHITE HOUSE RECEPTION

- President and Mrs. Clinton will host a reception and an evening of musical entertainment at the White House on December 14, 2000 to honor the spirit of Special Olympics along with athletes and families who have inspired us all.
- The attendees are a representative cross-section of Special Olympics athletes, families, Board Members, sponsors, and celebrity supporters.
- A detailed sequence of the event follows.

THE CONCERT:

- A ninety-minute holiday music concert will follow the reception. The President and Mrs. Clinton plan to be in attendance for the entire concert and will speak during the final act.
- The concert will feature the following recording stars:
 - Jon Bon Jovi
 - Macy Gray
 - Wyclef Jean
 - B.B. King
 - John Popper
 - Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers
 - Stevie Wonder
 - Stevie Nicks
- Short vignettes on film featuring Special Olympics athletes and a brief history of the Special Olympics movement will be presented throughout the concert.
- TNT will tape the concert for broadcast on Tuesday, December 19, 2000 at 8:00 p.m. ET/PT
- From the Special Olympics viewpoint, the purpose of the concert is:
 - For Special Olympics athletes and their families to enjoy beautiful music performed by several of the world's most popular recording artists;
 - To use the later broadcast to promote acceptance of persons with mental retardation

SPECIAL OLYMPICS FAMILIES

Miyares Family

Andy (Athlete), Anna Maria (Mom), Carlos (Dad)

The Miyares family of Special Olympics Florida - Miami-Dade is the kind of family every county program wishes they had. Led by sixteen-year old athlete, Andy, the Miyares family is a backbone of Dade County's Program. Andy's mother, Anna, serves as the families' chairperson and is one of the most active fund-raisers in the county. She has acquired computer systems, in-kind donations, and financial contributions from the community. She also initiated the Program's first aquatics invitational that began last summer and serves as a head of delegation and chaperone for the Dade County Program.

Andy's father, Carlos, also performs a variety of volunteer tasks in addition to being a Special Olympics Unified Sports™ partner with his son. But the family involvement doesn't stop there: siblings, cousins, and friends have all become involved. Because of the family's outstanding commitment and leadership, Special Olympics Florida presented the Miyares family with the 1997 Family of the Year Award.

At the heart of the involvement is Andy. Andy stays busy year-round, participating in aquatics, tennis, and basketball skills. Andy was recently presented with the Greater Miami Chamber of Commerce's annual "Inspiration Award." The award was given during the 2000 Sports Hall of Champions Banquet in Miami. Andy was recognized for his athleticism, courage, and attitude, and for exemplifying the best of Special Olympics and the human spirit.

The dedication, mentoring, love and support that the family shows towards Andy is also shared with his fellow athletes. The Miyares treat every athlete as if they were a part of their family. They have made a lasting impression on Special Olympics in Dade County for their commitment to Special Olympics.

Andy also almost qualified for the Paralympics in Aquatics.

Martha Beck & Adam Beck (son)

Dr. Martha Beck is a respected author, counselor, parent of three, and friend of Special Olympics. Dr. Beck holds three degrees from Harvard University, all in the social sciences, and has taught a variety of subjects at Harvard and the American Graduate School of International Management. She speaks frequently about the psychological and social issues relating to children with disabilities. Her articles on these topics have appeared in many publications, from Parenting magazine to Reader's Digest. She is a contributing editor to Redbook and Real Simple magazines, and appears weekly on the television program, Good Morning Arizona. She is the author of Expecting Adam and Breaking Point: Why Women Fall Apart and How They Can Re-create Their Lives. Dr.

Beck has spoken at several Special Olympics events in the past year and has repeatedly brought audiences to tears and laughter.

John and Martha Beck had two Harvard degrees each when they conceived their second child. Further graduate studies, budding careers, and a growing family meant major stress. When Martha learned that their unborn son had Down Syndrome, she battled nearly everyone over her decision to continue the pregnancy. She still cannot explain many of the things that happened to her while she was expecting Adam, but by the time he was born, Martha, as she puts it, "had to unlearn virtually everything Harvard taught her about what is precious and what is garbage." Dr. Beck's book Expecting Adam is an uplifting and compassionate account of being gifted with a son with mental retardation who opens her heart to the deep intuitions that love can bring.

Dr. Beck's presentation is one that appeals to many audiences -- parents of children with mental retardation, coaches of Special Olympics athletes, community leaders, academics, and truly the public in general. She can inspire, educate, entertain, and set an example at the same time.

Dr. Beck's son, Adam, is a Special Olympics Arizona athlete. He is 12 years old, in the seventh grade, and attends Desert Mountain Middle School. Adam has been involved with Special Olympics for four years. He participates in basketball, swimming, baseball, bowling, soccer, and would like to try floor hockey. Adam is also a trumpet player and last year served on the 6th grade student council at Whispering Winds School. This summer he traveled with his mother to Jamaica as a Goodwill ambassador. He got to meet both the Prime Minister and Governor General. Dr. Beck says Adam pays little attention to her work as there are many other things 12-year-olds find more interesting.

Mrs. Beck says Adam's speech can be difficult to understand and he is aware of this. He tries very hard to articulate clearly. He interviews best in a taped situation that allows for editing and slower response times. Adam is comfortable working with media as he's been interviewed several times by major media including a two day shadowing that was done by Reader's Digest.

The Becks are a white middle class family of 5 currently living in Phoenix, Arizona.

The Maxwells

Special Olympics athlete Christine Maxwell, a freshman college student at National Louis University in Evanston, Illinois, competed in gymnastics at the 1999 Special Olympics World Summer Games. In 1998, she and her father, Joe, won a silver medal at the Special Olympics Unified Sports™ Bowling competition in Reno, Nevada. Special Olympics is a family affair for the Maxwell clan:

- Her sister Becky's husband ran the Torch for the Buffalo Grove (Illinois) Police Department as part of the Law Enforcement Torch Run for Special Olympics

- Christine's sister Suzy and her husband bowl every Thursday in the Unified Sports Bowling Program
- Her uncle in Moline, Illinois coordinates the Spring Games for his area program
- Mr. Maxwell is spearheading a pilot program through his business, which will raise funds for Special Olympics Programs

Thirteen members of the Maxwell family attended the 1999 Special Olympics World Games in support of Christine!

The Lucas Family

Ashley (Athlete), Renee (Mom), Brittany (Younger Sister)

It's not unusual to see the solitary figure of a woman jumping up and down on the sidelines, screaming for her daughter Ashley as she races toward the finish line. The unmistakable voice of Renee Lucas means a great deal to her 11-year-old daughter and all of those within earshot. This proud, beaming mother is extremely dedicated to her daughter, particularly, when it comes to Special Olympics. Special Olympics has played a vital role in their lives.

Ashley has participated in Special Olympics for the past 4 years. She attends Slowe Elementary school in the District of Columbia.

A Very Special Christmas from Washington, D.C.
Special Olympics Talking Points

What is the event?

- Top contemporary artists including Jon Bon Jovi, Macy Gray, Wyclef Jean, B.B. King, John Popper, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers and Stevie Wonder among others will perform favorite holiday songs at A Very Special Christmas from Washington, D.C.
- The concert will take place on December 14 to honor the spirit of Special Olympics along with the athletes and families who inspire us all.
- This concert is symbolic of the great achievements that are possible when people work together to honor the triumph of the human spirit.
- The concert special is the second live event and ensuing telecast of performances by music artists who are from "A Very Special Christmas" series of benefit albums.

What is the Special Olympics Christmas Record Grant Program?

- Royalties from the sales of these music albums, bearing inspirational Keith Haring artwork, have raised more than $65 million for Special Olympics Programs around the world.
- Through the Christmas Record Grant Program, these Christmas record royalties have had global impact, providing a major source of funding for Special Olympics Programs around the world. This funding allows Special Olympics, Inc. to fulfill its mission of providing more and better sports training and competition opportunities for individuals with mental retardation.

What are the albums?

- A series of four "A Very Special Christmas" albums have been made since producers Jimmy and Vicky Iovine teamed up with Bobby Shriver to create the first one in 1987.
- Many top musical artists have donated their time and talents including: Jon Bon Jovi, Macy Gray, Wyclef Jean, B.B. King, John Popper, Tom Petty and the Heartbreakers, Stevie Wonder, Bruce Springsteen, Madonna, Eric Clapton, Frank Sinatra, RUN-D.M.C., Randy Travis, and Luther Vandross.

What is Special Olympics?

- Special Olympics is an international program of year-round sports training and athletic competition for children and adults with mental retardation. Today, more than one million athletes in over 160 countries train and compete in 25 Olympic-type sports.
- Through sports training and competition, Special Olympics athletes improve their physical fitness and motor skills, gain greater self-confidence, develop a more positive self-image, make new friends, and attain greater acceptance within the community.
- Athletes and their families are not charged a fee to participate in Special Olympics.

Language Guidelines

Words matter. Words can open doors to enable persons with disabilities to lead fuller, more independent lives. Words can also create barriers or stereotypes that are not only demeaning to persons with disabilities, but also rob them of their individuality. The following language guidelines have been developed by experts in mental retardation for use by anyone writing or speaking about persons with disabilities to ensure that all people are portrayed with individuality and dignity.

Appropriate terminology:

- Refer to participants in Special Olympics as Special Olympics athletes, rather than Special Olympians or Special Olympic athletes
- Refer to individuals, persons, or people with mental retardation, rather than mentally retarded people or the mentally retarded
- A person has mental retardation, rather than is suffering from, is afflicted with, or is a victim of mental retardation
- Distinguish between adults and children with mental retardation. Use adults or children, or older or younger athletes
- A person uses a wheelchair rather than is confined or restricted to a wheelchair.
- Down syndrome has replaced "Down's Syndrome" and mongoloid
- Refer to participants in Special Olympics as athletes. In no case should the word appear in quotation marks
- When writing, refer to persons with a disability in the same style as persons without a disability: full name on first reference and last name on subsequent references. Resist the temptation to refer to an individual with mental retardation as "Bill," rather than the journalistically correct "Bill Smith" or "Smith"
- A person is physically challenged or disabled rather than crippled.
- Use the words "Special Olympics, Inc." when referring to the worldwide Special Olympics Program

Terminology to avoid:

- Do not use the label kids when referring to Special Olympics athletes. Adult athletes are an integral part of the program
- Do not use the word the in front of Special Olympics unless describing a specific Special Olympics event or official

- Do not use the adjective unfortunate when talking about persons with mental retardation. Disabling conditions do not have to be life-defining in a negative way
- Do not sensationalize the accomplishments of persons with disabilities. While these accomplishments should be recognized and applauded, people in the disability rights movement have tried to make the public aware of the negative impact of referring to the achievements of physically or mentally challenged people with excessive hyperbole
- Use the word special with extreme care when talking about persons with mental retardation. The term, if used superfluously, can become cliché in contiguous references to Special Olympics.

MESSAGE:

Two of Ch 9 people will want to come to rehearsal Wed or Thursday.
but they're not sure which one.

Special Olympics is an international year-round program of sports training and competition for children and adults with mental retardation. More than one million athletes in over 160 countries train and compete in 25 Olympic-type summer and winter sports. Founded in 1968 by Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Special Olympics provides people with mental retardation continuing opportunities to develop fitness, demonstrate courage, and experience joy as they participate in the sharing of gifts, skills, and friendship with their families, other Special Olympics athletes and the community.
