

STATEMENT OF
THE HONORABLE JOHN D. DINGELL
ON
INTRODUCING THE MINIMUM OBSTETRICAL MEDICAL
SECURITY ACT OF 1996

I am pleased today to introduce the MOMS Act, the "Minimum Obstetrical Medical Security Act of 1996."

The legislation would guarantee that insurers provide coverage for new mothers and their newborn children to remain in the hospital for a minimum of 48 hours after a normal delivery and 96 hours after a Caesarean section, unless the attending provider and the mother together decide that this is not the best course of action.

This bill responds to the concerns of pregnant women and their physicians in my district who have become increasingly concerned about the risks involved for mothers and their children when they are sent home from the hospital too soon. This is happening more and more frequently because insurance companies are deciding that an early hospital discharge is in their best interest - even if both the doctor and the new mother believe that the longer stay is medically appropriate. Length of stay for new mothers and their babies ought not to be based on the financial concerns of an insurer, but on the health and welfare of the new mother and her new baby. Studies have shown that early release of infants can result in feeding problems, respiratory difficulties, mental retardation, brain damage, and infections of the ears, eyes, and navel cords. Premature hospital discharge also puts mothers at risk for hemorrhaging, infected episiotomies, urinary tract infections, and exhaustion.

The American Medical Association has urged hospitals and insurance companies to allow the discharge of mothers and infants to be determined by the clinical judgment of attending physicians, not by economic considerations. Over 80,000 physicians in the American College of Obstetrics and Gynecologists and the American Academy of Pediatricians have endorsed legislative measures addressing these same concerns.

This bill would prevent insurance company policies that result in the premature hospital discharge of mothers and their newborns. The increasing reluctance of some insurance plans to adequately cover obstetric hospital stays in accordance with current medical society guidelines has, and will continue to have, serious implications for the health and well-being of many mothers and newborns.

The bill does not preempt responsible state legislation that either meets or exceeds the minimum requirements of this bill or guidelines established by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the American Academy of Pediatrics, or other medical professional associations. I commend this legislation to my colleagues and urge its passage.

THE MINIMUM OBSTETRICAL MEDICAL SECURITY ACT OF 1996

Introduced by Congressman John Dingell

This bill would require health insurers to cover the costs of mothers and their newborns remaining in the hospital for a minimum of 48 hours after a normal vaginal delivery and 96 hours after a Caesarean section unless the attending health care provider, in consultation with the mother, decides that it is medically appropriate to discharge the mother sooner. The bill provides that the attending health care provider does not need to obtain authorization from a health insurer to ensure coverage for this length of hospital stay.

If the attending health care provider, in consultation with the mother, determines that an earlier discharge is the best course of action, then follow-up care must be covered by the insurer. Such follow-up care must occur within 72 hours after discharge so that the infant and the mother can be observed and monitored during this vulnerable time. The follow-up care may be provided in the home.

Attending health care providers are defined to include obstetricians-gynecologists, pediatricians, family physicians, osteopathic physicians, other physicians, nurse practitioners, nurses, nurse midwives, and, where appropriate, physician assistants.

This bill does not preempt state legislation on early discharge so long as either the minimum requirement of 48 or 96 hours for inpatient stay is met or state legislation relating to this matter meets guidelines established by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists (ACOG), the American Academy of Pediatrics (AAP), or other appropriate medical professional associations. States must require follow-up care at least consistent with this bill.

Section-by-Section Analysis

Section 1. Short Title. The act is named the "Minimum Obstetrical Medical Security Act of 1996", or MOMS Act.

Section 2. Findings. The findings section states that: (1) the length of post-delivery inpatient care should be based on unique characteristics of each mother and her newborn child, and (2) the decision to discharge a mother and newborn from the hospital should be made by the attending provider in consultation with the mother.

Section 3. Required Coverage for Minimum Hospital Stay Following Birth. This section requires health plans that provide maternity benefits, including benefits for childbirth, to provide coverage to mothers and their newborns for at least 48 hours of inpatient stay following a normal vaginal delivery and at least 96 hours following a caesarean section without requiring the attending provider to obtain authorization from the health plan. Health plans are not required to provide coverage for the 48 or 96 hour period if two conditions are met: (1) the attending provider, in consultation with the mother, decides to discharge the mother earlier, and (2) the health plan provides coverage for post-delivery follow-up care.

Section 4. Post-Delivery Follow-up Care. Where a mother and newborn are discharged from the hospital prior to 48 hours following a normal vaginal delivery or 96 hours following a caesarean section, health plans are required to provide post-delivery follow-up care not more than 72 hours following the discharge. Such care is to be provided by a registered nurse, physician, osteopathic physician, nurse practitioner, nurse midwife, or physician assistant experienced in maternal and child health. Care may be provided at home, hospital, doctor's office, birthing center, intermediate care facility, federally qualified health center, State health department maternity clinic, or other setting determined appropriate by the attending provider and the mother; mothers must be given the option of receiving care in the home.

Section 5. Prohibitions. Health plans are prohibited from: (1) denying enrollment, renewal, or continued coverage to mothers and newborns based on compliance with this Act; (2) providing monetary payments or rebates to mothers to encourage them to request fewer than 48/96 hours of stay; (3) penalizing doctors because they comply with the Act; or (4) providing incentives to doctors to induce them to provide treatment in a manner inconsistent with the Act.

Section 6. Notice. Insurers and employer-sponsored plans are required to notify plan participants and policy holders of the coverage required by this Act.

Section 7. Applicability. This section, which works in conjunction with Section 8 on "Enforcement," clarifies that States have primary responsibility for enforcing the requirements of this Act with respect to insurers and HMOs -- as they do under current law -- that the Secretary of Labor has sole responsibility for ensuring that the requirements of the Act are met by employer-sponsored ERISA plans, and that nothing in this Act should be construed to affect or modify the preemption provisions of ERISA.

Section 8. Enforcement. This section specifies that States enforce the requirements of the Act with respect to insurers and HMOs, and they may apply whatever penalties for non-compliance they wish. Employer-sponsored plans may be subject to civil enforcement penalties contained in sections 502, 504, 506, and 510 of ERISA. If a State fails to "substantially" enforce the requirements of the Act, the Secretary of HHS will enforce the requirements with respect to insurers and HMOs using penalties similar to the sanctions provided under ERISA. This construct is necessary to ensure enforcement.

Section 9. Definitions. This section defines the terms "attending provider," "beneficiary," "employee health benefit plan," "group purchaser," "health plan," "health plan issuer," "participant," and "secretary."

Section 10. Preemption. The Act does not preempt State laws that (1) provide greater protection to patients and policyholders; (2) require health plans to provide coverage for at least 48/96 hours; (3) require health plans to provide coverage in accordance with guidelines established by the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists, the American Academy of Pediatrics, or other appropriate professional medical associations; or (4) leave decisions about length of stay entirely to the doctor in consultation with the mother. With regard to follow-up care, the Act does not preempt State laws providing greater protection to patients and policyholders or providing an option of timely follow-up care in the home.

Section 11. Effective Date. The Act is effective on the first day of the plan year or contract year beginning on or after January 1, 1997.
