Dear Peter:

Thank you for your letter regarding Kosovo and the need to hold accountable those responsible for ethnic cleansing. I know you were as encouraged as I was by Justice Arbour's announcement of the indictment of Milosevic and his associates for crimes against humanity and other war crimes. The indictment sends a strong message: those who order such brutal crimes will not do so with impunity.

The end of the airstrikes and the entry of the international security presence into Kosovo underscored the importance of the ICTY's work. New accounts of mass graves surface daily, confirming the horrible stories that refugees told the world when they fled.

As you know, the United States supports the work of the Hague Tribunal more than any other nation. For six years, this support has been unstinting. While the Tribunal is an independent body, we have urged it to aggressively pursue its investigation of war crimes in the former Yugoslavia. We will continue to provide as much relevant information as we can to assist the Tribunal as it solidifies the case against Milosevic. Most recently, Director Freeh sent a team of forensic experts to help examine what he refers to as the "massive crime scene" in Kosovo. The FBI's work will be critical to building the case against war criminals.

I am gratified by Congressional cooperation on this issue, especially the approval of supplemental funding for the Tribunal. This funding will help greatly in our efforts to deepen and intensify our support.

Again, thank you for writing and for your support of the Tribunal's work.

Sincerely,

The end of the airstrikes and the entry of the international security presence into Kosovo underscored the importance of the ICTY's work. New accounts of mass graves surface daily, confirming the horrible stories that refugees told the world when they fled.

As you know, the United States supports the work of the Hague Tribunal more than any other nation. For six years, this support has been unstinting. While the Tribunal is an independent body, we have urged it to aggressively pursue its investigation of war crimes in the former Yugoslavia. We will continue to provide as much relevant information as we can to assist the Tribunal as it solidifies the case against Milosevic. Most recently, Director Freeh sent a team of forensic experts to help examine what he refers to as the "massive crime scene" in Kosovo. The FBI's work will be critical to building the case against war criminals.

I am gratified by Congressional cooperation on this issue, especially the approval of supplemental funding for the Tribunal. This funding will help greatly in our efforts to deepen and intensify our support.

Again, thank you for writing and for your support of the Tribunal's work.

Sincerely,

Kay: I have now revised to the POTUS letter for 4114. However, Greg is willing to sign it out if that's easier and Mark T. from Leg. says that's fine by him. Does Steve or anyone else there have a preference as to how to proceed? If we go with Greg's signature, presumably I will need the package back to have Records kill it. If you choose to keep it and send it forward, an updated version is below. Please let me know. Thanks.

Congress of the United States

Washington, DC 20515

May 25, 1999

The Honorable William Jefferson Clinton
President of the United States
The White House
1600 Pennsylvania Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear Mr. President,

Over the past several weeks, the world community has again been horrified by the unconscionably brutal actions of Yugoslav President Slobodan Milosevic against the civilian population of Kosovo. These actions are part of a pattern of human rights atrocities which constitute the worst abuses Europe has seen in half a century.

As you know, the House of Representatives passed legislation last September, by an overwhelming vote of 369 to 1, stating the belief of Congress that Slobodan Milosevic is responsible for war crimes, crimes against humanity, and genocide. The Senate adopted by unanimous consent identical language in S.Con.Res. 105. These resolutions called for action by our government, especially in providing information, that could lead to the public indictment of Milosevic for these crimes by the International Criminal Tribunal for the Former Yugoslavia (ICTY) in The Hague.

Since then, President Milosevic has rejected efforts of the United States and the international community to bring peace to Kosovo. Instead, he has prosecuted a genocidal campaign against the population of Kosovo, using military and paramilitary forces to terrorize the Kosovars. The result has been an international tragedy involving hundreds of thousands of refugees, untold human suffering, and turmoil throughout the region. In fact, a team of investigators for the Office of the Prosecutor of the ICTY working in regions bordering Kosovo has encountered reports of mass killings, summary executions, systematic rapes and homes being pillaged and burned. U.S. Ambassador at Large for War Crimes David Scheffer and Assistant Secretary of State Harold Hongju Koh have reported similar findings based on their first-hand interviews in the region.

Mr. President, the Dayton Agreement rightly included provisions that excluded war criminals from the electoral process in Bosnia. Clearly, post-conflict normalization and democratization will not be successful where war criminals make policy and are treated as legitimate interlocutors by the international community. This is no less true in Serbia than it was in Bosnia; resolution of the conflict in Kosovo can be fully achieved only by including measures to bring Mr. Milosevic to justice. We therefore reiterate our strong belief that the United States should take appropriate action to facilitate the investigation, public indictment and trial of President Milosevic as a war criminal by the ICTY.

The investigation by the ICTY must be supported and augmented by the international community of nations. As Tribunal President Judge Gabrielle Kirk McDonald said, "While the Tribunal has the mandate to investigate, prosecute and conduct trials, it cannot do so without the active assistance of the States of the international community." The United States has played a crucial role in NATO's action in Yugoslavia. Now we can lead by example by actively compiling evidence of Milosevic's deeds and providing all documentation to the prosecutor's office at the Tribunal.

To expedite action by the Tribunal against President Milosevic, we urge you to work towards his public indictment, to cooperate fully with the ICTY, and to provide it with all information relevant to its investigation. Many of us have differing views on the current military action in Kosovo, but on the question of Milosevic's public indictment and support of the Tribunal, we are united. We urge that coordinated action be taken by U.S. Government agencies to assemble, review and where necessary declassify, and provide the ICTY with all information relevant to a possible indictment of Slobodan Milosevic. In our judgement, full cooperation with the ICTY entails specific measures to ensure that adequate direction and resources are committed by your Administration to support the Tribunal's important work.

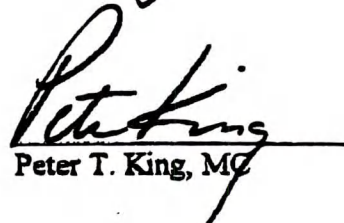

Congress has already expressed its overwhelming support for this course of action by adopting both H.Con.Res. 304 and S.Con.Res. 105. We look forward to learning that the Administration is actively pursuing the measures described above, and to working with you to ensure that Milosevic is brought to justice by the Tribunal.

Dear Ben:

Thank you for your letter regarding Kosovo. ~~I entirely agree with you about the need to hold accountable those responsible for ethnic cleansing in Kosovo. I know you were as heartened as I was by Justice Arbour's announcement of the indictment of Milosevic and his associates for crimes against humanity and other war crimes. The indictment sends a clear message: those who order such brutal crimes will not do so with impunity.~~ and encouraged

~~I want you to know that the United States supports the work of the Hague Tribunal more than any other nation. For six years, this support has been unstinting. While the Tribunal is an independent body, we have urged it to pursue its investigation of war crimes in the former Yugoslavia, as far up the chain of command as the evidence leads. We have also helped to provide that evidence. We will continue to assist the ICTY's Office of the Prosecutor as it solidifies the case against Milosevic by providing as much relevant information as we can.~~ As you know occurs Tribunal

~~I am gratified by Congressional cooperation on this issue, especially the approval of supplemental funding for the Tribunal, which will help greatly in our efforts to deepen and intensify our support.~~ This funding

~~In short, I very much share your sense of the importance of ICTY's work. Thank you again for your letter.~~ Apr. 1998 you have only and in your support
