Under provisions that are unique to that Act, federal agencies are empowered to compete against each other in a competitive grant process to obtain funds from CNCS. The White House announced today that, as a result of the first year of this process, CNCS had awarded USDA 1,200 AmeriCorps slots and $2.6 million in operating funds. Funds for the Department's program will also be provided from existing USDA programs and from non-profit organizations that serve as partners at individual sites.

The USDA AmeriCorps projects reflect a new emphasis on cooperation among USDA agencies. USDA's Agricultural Research Service, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, Farmers Home Administration, Food and Nutrition Service, Forest Service, Rural Development Administration, Rural Electrification Administration, and Soil Conservation Service will play significant roles in managing this program.

The Anti-Hunger projects will be at five sites--two rural and three urban--with high levels of hunger and poverty. The projects will work to reduce the number of citizens suffering from hunger and improve the nutritional content of family diets. This program has been designed, and is to run, as a unique partnership between USDA, youth service corps and local anti-hunger groups.

The environmental projects will occur at 32 rural and urban sites in 21 states. The goals of the projects are to help solve local environmental problems, protect local watersheds, repair and upgrade community facilities, promote sustainable agriculture, conduct environmental education seminars, and preserve and restore national forests.

The rural development projects will engage generally older participants, who are college graduates and professional school graduates, in work in 10 pilot regions throughout America. Participants are to help communities protect watersheds, improve housing, promote economic development, boost sustainable agriculture, and aid the Clinton Administration's Empowerment Zone and Enterprise Community initiative. Special disaster-relief projects will also be run in the eight Midwest states most impacted by last summer's record flooding.

Under the provisions of the National and Community Service Trust Act of 1993, federal agencies are empowered to contend against each other in a competitive grant process to obtain funds from the CNCS. The White House announced today that, as a result of the first year of this process, the CNCS had awarded USDA 1,200 AmeriCorps slots and $2.6 million in operating funds. Funds for the Department's program will also be provided from existing USDA programs and from non-profit organizations that serve as partners at individual sites.

The USDA AmeriCorps effort reflects high levels of cooperation among USDA agencies. The Agricultural Research Service (ARS), the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS), the Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA), the Food and Nutrition Service (FNS), the Forest Service (FS), the Rural Development Administration (RDA), the Rural Electrification Administration (REA), and the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) all will play significant roles in managing this program.

The Anti-Hunger projects will be at five sites -- two rural and three urban -- with high levels of hunger, poverty, and malnutrition. The projects will work to reduce the number of citizens suffering from hunger, improve the nutritional content of family diets, and give poor citizens necessary empowerment tools to help lift themselves out of poverty. Designed and run in a unique partnership between USDA, youth service corps, and local anti-hunger groups, this program will be a model of reinventing government.

The environmental projects will occur at 32 rural and urban sites in 21 states. The projects will help solve local environmental problems, protect local watersheds, repair and upgrade community facilities, promote sustainable agriculture, conduct environmental education seminars, and preserve and restore national forests.

The rural development projects will engage generally older participants, who are college graduates and professional school graduates, in work in 10 pilot regions throughout America. Participants will help communities protect watersheds, improve housing, promote economic development, boost sustainable agriculture, and aid the Clinton Administration's Empowerment Zone and Enterprise Community initiative. Special disaster-relief projects will also be run in the eight Midwest states most impacted by last summer's record flooding.

Recruitment for USDA programs has already begun. Said Espy, "I urge all interested citizens to call our 1-800-880-4183 line or contact local project recruiters. In the words of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr, 'Everybody can be great, because everybody can serve.'"

AmeriCorps Programs: USDA Anti-Hunger Team
Site: Los Angeles, California
Number of AmeriCorps Members: 40

Description of AmeriCorps program:

The Anti-Hunger Team is one of the three AmeriCorps programs that the United States Department of Agriculture will start at pilot sites across the country in September of 1994; the other two programs are a Public Lands and Environment Team and a Rural Development Team. The Anti-Hunger Team will be placed in five sites -- two rural and three urban -- with high levels of hunger, poverty, and malnutrition. The Team will engage a socio-economic mix of AmeriCorps Members in work to reduce the number of citizens suffering from hunger, improve the nutritional content of family diets, and give poor citizens necessary empowerment tools to help lift themselves out of poverty. Designed and run in an unique partnership between USDA, youth service corps, and local anti-hunger groups, this program will be a model of reinventing government.

Description of Project Work:

Run in partnership between the Interfaith Hunger Coalition, the Los Angeles Conservation Corps, and USDA, this project will focus on nutrition education, food program outreach, earthquake relief, and community garden expansion. AmeriCorps Members will hold promotional campaigns throughout Los Angeles public schools to increase School Breakfast and Summer Food Service Program participation by 10%. The project will also establish three farmers markets to provide healthy and inexpensive food to low-income residents on a regular basis.

AmeriCorps Program: USDA Public Lands and Environment Team
Site: Midwest Flood States (Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Wisconsin, Minnesota)
Number of AmeriCorps Members: 73

Description of AmeriCorps program:

The Public Lands and Environment Team is one of the three AmeriCorps programs that the United States Department of Agriculture will start at pilot sites across the country in September of 1994; the other two programs are an Anti-Hunger Team and a Rural Development Team. The Public Lands and Environment Team will run pilot projects at 32 rural and urban sites in 21 states. The Team will engage a socio-economic mix of AmeriCorps Members in helping solve local environmental problems, repairing and upgrading community facilities, promoting sustainable farming, conducting environmental education seminars, and preserving and restoring national forests.

Description of Project Work:

AmeriCorps Members will engage in a wide variety of flood relief work. They will inspect river systems by canoe and stream walks to prepare damage assessment plans on 25 miles of streams. They will also restore wetlands in 84 damaged areas to their original condition, benefiting 420 landowners. Additionally, they will restore flood control facilities according to the already established plans in 49 counties.

AmeriCorps Program: USDA Public Lands and Environment Team

Site: Atlanta, Georgia

Number of AmeriCorps Members: 20

Description of AmeriCorps program:

The Public Lands and Environment Team is one of the three AmeriCorps programs that the United States Department of Agriculture will start at pilot sites across the country in September of 1994; the other two programs are an Anti-Hunger Team and a Rural Development Team. The Public Lands and Environment Team will run pilot projects at 32 rural and urban sites in 21 states. The Team will engage a socio-economic mix of AmeriCorps Members in helping solve local environmental problems, repairing and upgrading community facilities, promoting sustainable farming, conducting environmental education seminars, and preserving and restoring national forests.

Description of Project Work:

AmeriCorps Members will inventory, monitor, and rehabilitate five impaired streams in the Atlanta metropolitan area to reduce erosion and improve water quality. They will place new native plants along the full length of the streams, thereby improving the aesthetic qualities of the streams and decreasing maintenance on storm drains, bridges, and abutments.

AmeriCorps National Service Network of Programs

AmeriCorps Program: Rural Development Team

Sites: Midwest Flood States (Missouri, Iowa, Illinois, North Dakota, South Dakota, Nebraska, Kansas, Wisconsin, Minnesota)

Number of AmeriCorps Members: 78

Description of AmeriCorps program:

The Rural Development Team is one of the three AmeriCorps programs that the United States Department of Agriculture will start at pilot sites across the country in September of 1994; the other two programs are an Anti-Hunger Team and a Public Lands and Environment Team. The Rural Development Team will place a socio-economic mix of college graduates and professional school graduates in 11 pilot regions in rural areas throughout America. Participants will help communities protect watersheds, improve housing, promote economic development, boost sustainable agriculture, respond to disasters, and aid the Clinton Administration's Empowerment Zone initiative.

Description of Project Work:

AmeriCorps Members will work on a wide variety of flood relief, economic development, and environmental protection projects. Some examples include: determining and delineating 200 wetlands and incorporating this information into the flood-relief planning process; directly explaining the impact of the wetlands delineation to a minimum of 200 affected landowners; creating 420 wetlands plans to restore farmable areas back to original wetlands conditions; and planning and implementing the improvement of 420 animal waste systems in order to reduce groundwater pollution.
