Throughout the summer, Joe performs chore services throughout the five counties of the Big Sandy area such as lawn care, painting, window cleaning, gutter cleaning, attic/garage clean-ups, or even changing an overhead light bulb for elderly people - about any task for which area residents need assistance.

GETTING THINGS DONE

USDA Gets Things Done Nationwide

On June 5, AmeriCorps staff with the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) received honors and awards during ceremonies in Washington, D.C.. Agriculture Secretary Dan Glickman presented awards to national service staff working in sites across the country, including California. Honoree Elizabeth Riley with the Southern California Interfaith Hunger Coalition received an award for her organization's work as an Anti-Hunger Team sponsored by Food and Consumer Services. The Interfaith Hunger Coalition works to address human needs relative to hunger with participation in community gardens, nutrition education, providing access to human resource services, reducing homelessness and supporting micro-enterprises.

Wedding Bells Ring at the State Commission

This month the Commission saw three of its best bachelors take their wedding vows in Sacramento and Riverside counties. Prior to the "big days," Commission staff held a bachelor party for all three with a live Jeopardy type game, to see how well prepared they were for married life. Honeymoons took place on the Hawaiian Islands, the North Coast Redwoods and Mendocino, California.

Baseball, Mom & Apple Pie

Three members of the Commission staff have taken to the baseball diamond in the State Employees Softball League. The team is called the "Jokers", but they're certainly no joke on the field. Players hit for power; run like the wind; and practically do acrobatics in the field. In fact by season's end, they're sure to win at least one game! The Commission has provided the Jokers with their uniform T-shirts. Commission staff members on the team are Philip Crabbe, David Ligon, and Rick Trussell.

The Commission "Jokers" get ready to play ball.
