MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: SEAN MALONEY

SUBJECT: The Religious Liberty Protection Act

This Chuck Ruff memo seeks your guidance on whether to support Rep. Nadler's amendment in the House to limit the scope of the proposed Religious Liberty Protection Act (RLPA). The rule approved late today in committee will permit a vote on the amendment as early as Wednesday.

Background. The RLPA seeks to revive the constitutionally defective Religious Freedom Restoration Act of 1993, which you signed. It would require federal, state and local governments to demonstrate a compelling interest when seeking to enforce laws against those who claim a significant burden on their religious beliefs. Unlike in 1993, however, it is now apparent that such legislation will conflict with certain civil rights laws, especially those protecting gays and lesbians (e.g., a fair housing law that prohibits discrimination on the basis of marital status or sexual orientation). The bill is less likely to affect laws barring discrimination based on gender or race, because, unlike in the gay/lesbian context, courts have widely held that race/gender measures further a compelling interest. Nadler's amendment, which is unlikely to pass, would limit the bill's religious protections to small employers, in the case of employment claims, and small landlords, in the case of housing claims. The amendment has divided civil rights and religious groups, but it's largely symbolic because state and local laws often exempt small businesses, and courts rarely find a burden on religion in large-business cases. A deal may be possible in the Senate, where Hatch has urged compromise and Kennedy wants a resolution.

Views. DPC/OPL think it's best to support Nadler's goals as the bill moves to the Senate without explicitly supporting Nadler's amendment. DPC would express support for the underlying bill, while urging clarification of civil rights protections. OPL reports that religious groups would consider support for Nadler's amendment a betrayal, while gays and lesbians would strongly applaud it. LegAffs and Counsel think you should support the Nadler amendment. Chuck thinks that greater certainty about the bill's impact on civil rights laws is needed and resolving the issue in the House would aid Senate passage. While recognizing the strong feelings of religious groups, Chuck thinks silence on Nadler would undermine nascent protections for gays and lesbians and send the wrong message.

Options. Chuck presents these 4 options, but only options 2 and 3 have real support:

- Option 1 (Oppose Nadler -- no one recommends): ____
Option 2 (Support Nadler; support compromise -- LegAff/Counsel recommend): ____
Option 3 (Silence on Nadler; support compromise -- DPC/OPL recommend): ☒ ____
Option 4 (Support Nadler; raise possibility of a veto -- no one recommends): ____

FROM: CHARLES F.C. RUFE
SUBJECT: RELIGIOUS LIBERTY PROTECTION ACT

We seek your guidance regarding the position that the Administration should take on the Religious Liberty Protection Act (RLPA), which is expected to come to the House floor on Wednesday. In particular, the question is whether we should support an amendment to be offered by Congressman Nadler to exempt certain civil rights claims from the bill.

I. Background

You were a strong supporter of the Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA) when it became law in 1993. RFRA provided that the federal, state and local governments must have a compelling interest when they seek to enforce any law against an individual that substantially burdens his or her religious beliefs. RFRA became necessary in 1990 when the Supreme Court, in Employment Division v. Smith, abandoned the compelling interest test in applying the Free Exercise Clause. There was broad bipartisan support for RFRA, and it was applauded by all members of the religious community. However, the Supreme Court struck down most portions of RFRA in City of Boerne v. Flores on the grounds that Congress was improperly attempting to enact its own interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment. RLPA is an effort to re-enact RFRA in a constitutional form.

II. The Civil Rights Controversy

There was little controversy surrounding the passage of RFRA. Since its passage, however, there have been a number of cases involving conflicts between religious freedom and the civil rights laws. These cases have arisen under state constitutions or RFRA itself before it was struck down. For example, a number of courts have held that a landlord can assert a religious claim as a defense to a fair housing law that prohibits discrimination against unmarried couples.

While we cannot be certain how courts would rule if RLPA is enacted in its current form, a fair prediction is the following: 1) religious claims would not be a defense to state and local civil rights laws barring discrimination based on race or gender; the courts have recognized that these laws further a compelling interest; 2) courts would sometimes recognize religious claims as a defense to fair housing and fair employment laws that bar discrimination based on marital status, sexual orientation, and pregnancy; the courts are divided on whether these laws further a compelling interest; and 3) courts are less likely to recognize any defense if the employer or landlord is a large business; courts generally do not view restrictions on the actions of large businesses as a burden on religious freedom.

Gay and lesbian groups are particularly concerned about the possibility that RLPA could negate their limited success to date in persuading states and cities to ban discrimination based on sexual orientation in employment and housing. Their fear is reinforced by the express statements of some groups on the religious right who are seeking this very result. In fact, we can assume that some of these groups would use a newly enacted RLPA in a public campaign to limit the effectiveness of gay rights laws and ordinances.

The religious coalition argues that there should be no exception for any category of laws or individuals. At least some in the coalition feel deeply that small landlords and employers should be able to discriminate against gays, lesbians and unmarried persons. On the other hand, people in the civil rights community as well as some members of the religious community take the position that a person who has decided to engage in a business activity must be willing to accept some limitations on their freedom to choose with whom they will deal.

III. A Possible Resolution

This difficult conflict between religious liberty and civil rights claims is not easy to resolve. The religious coalition is somewhat split on the issue. More conservative members, such as the Christian Legal Society, are flatly opposed to an exception. Others, such as the Catholic Conference, are open to one. White House staff have met with groups on both sides to encourage them to find some kind of resolution. So far, the religious coalition has formally maintained a unified position in opposition to an exception.

The Texas legislature recently enacted its own RFRA, signed by Governor Bush, which exempted most civil rights claims. However, Texas has no laws protecting gay rights, and the exemption was less controversial.

Congressman Nadler, whose district includes many constituents on both sides of the issue, tried to reach a compromise in the House by proposing that the protections of the bill would be limited to small employers, in the case of employment claims, and small landlords, in the case of housing claims. His amendment was rejected by voice vote, but it was clear most Democrats supported it and the Republicans, led by Congressman Canady, opposed it. On the other hand, Senator Hatch, who will sponsor the Senate version of RLPA, has publicly encouraged the civil rights coalition and the religious coalition to find a way to resolve their differences. Senator Kennedy, who cosponsored the bill last year, has signaled that he will not support the bill without some resolution.

We remain hopeful that a compromise will be reached at some point. However, it is likely that a compromise, if one occurs at all, will happen in the Senate. Consequently, we may be faced with the question of whether to support Nadler's amendment on the House floor and whether to express support for the bill in the likely event that the Nadler amendment is defeated. As a practical matter, the Nadler amendment will change the result in only a few cases. It exempts large employers and landlords, but courts usually do not find there is a burden on religion in those situations. It could allow a small landlord or employer to discriminate, e.g., on the basis of sexual orientation, but state and local laws usually exempt very small businesses in any event. Nevertheless, the issue is important symbolically, and we can expect that some members of the religious right will portray the amendment as a choice between religious freedom and rights for gays and lesbians.

You and the religious groups opposed exceptions to the RFRA in 1993. For example, one of the few controversial issues at that time was an effort by Senator Reid to exempt prisoners from the bill's coverage. You and the religious coalition opposed Reid's amendment on the grounds that everyone should be entitled to protection of his or her religious liberty. White House staff in the past have also suggested that we would not support any exceptions. Consequently, the religious coalition is likely to view your support for a civil rights exception as abandoning your position. On the other hand, since the enactment of RFRA there have been a number of court cases that show there is a real threat to civil rights laws protecting gays and lesbians. These legal developments provide some justification for a change in your position.

IV. Options and Recommendations

Our options are the following:

- 1) oppose the Nadler amendment;
- 2) support the Nadler amendment, if it is made in order by the Rules Committee, but indicate support for the goals of the bill in the likely event that the Nadler amendment is defeated; we would also state that we want to work with all parties to ensure Senate passage;
- 3) remain silent on the Nadler amendment but express a desire to reach a compromise eventually to ensure passage;
- 4) support the Nadler amendment and leave open the possibility of a veto if no civil rights exception is eventually included in the bill.

DPC recommends that the Administration wait until after Rep. Nadler's amendment is made in order by the Rules Committee before making any statement. In the event that the amendment is made in order, DPC suggests that the Statement of Administration policy sent on the day of the vote include language such as the following: "The Administration supports the Religious Liberty Protection Act. In addition, the Administration also supports efforts to clarify civil rights protections and looks forward to working with Congress to resolve this important issue."

OPL's position is as follows: Two important constituencies within OPL are strongly divided on this issue. The religious coalition is as broad based as it is possible to get within that community and is united in opposition to a civil rights carve out. They have made it clear that they will view your support of a carve out as betrayal. Gay rights groups and the ACLU, however, equally strongly support a carve out which Rep. Nadler hopes to offer. Senator Hatch is already working on a compromise in the Senate. It is a battle that will be characterized as "religious rights" versus "gay rights." The best outcome at this point would be for the Nadler amendment or its equivalent to fail in the Rules Committee. Absent that, OPL would recommend supporting the bill, remaining silent on the amendment, and working for a compromise in the Senate.

Legislative Affairs recommends that we support the Nadler amendment if he gets to offer it. Otherwise, we should indicate in the SAP that we have some concerns about unintended consequences but that we expect them to be resolved before the legislation comes to the President.

White House Counsel recommends that we adopt Option 2: support the Nadler amendment if Rules permits it to be offered and work to secure a compromise in the Senate. Support for the amendment would rest on two grounds: 1) recent developments in the courts lead us to conclude that greater certainty about the impact of the bill on the civil rights laws is needed; and 2) resolving this issue will facilitate speedy passage in the Senate. Recognizing the strong feelings of the religious community, Counsel is more concerned that silence on the Nadler amendment will send a message that this Administration does not support the efforts of the gay and lesbian community to secure protection under the civil rights laws and will undermine those efforts in the states.

_____ Option 1: Oppose Nadler Amendment

_____ Option 2: Support Nadler Amendment; work for compromise in Senate

_____ Option 3: Remain silent on Nadler Amendment but express a desire to reach a compromise to assure passage

_____ Option 4: Support the Nadler amendment; leave open the possibility of a veto if there is no civil rights exception

_____ Option 5: Discuss further with staff before decision

DREAMWORKS ANNOUNCES UNPRECEDENTED $5 MILLION GIFT TO JOB TRAINING PROGRAM

Steven Spielberg, Jeffrey Katzenberg, and David Geffen announced today that they, along with their studio DreamWorks SKG, are making a combined $5 million commitment to "JobLink," an innovative entertainment industry training program developed by Los Angeles City Councilmember Ruth Galanter.

According to Katzenberg, this financial support is a signal of DreamWorks' ongoing commitment to bring diversity to Los Angeles' entertainment industry. "Steven, David and I made a commitment, both personally and for DreamWorks, to invest in the future of the City of Los Angeles. Even though we are not going to Playa Vista, we are still going to proceed with that commitment to the City of Los Angeles and the surrounding communities. We want to create opportunities and provide training for people who normally don't have access to the entertainment industry. We applaud Councilmember Galanter for making JobLink a reality so that disadvantaged and disenfranchised L.A. residents will have career opportunities in the industry. We are proud to support her in her efforts."

"I created JobLink to bring the industry within reach of those who have been historically underrepresented," said Councilwoman Ruth Galanter. "Although DreamWorks will not be locating at Playa Vista, this $5 million gift represents an unprecedented commitment to help open doors to the industry."

Within the coming months, Galanter's office will put together an advisory board for JobLink that will include representatives from DreamWorks, Galanter's office, community representatives and close involvement by the community colleges. This board will determine criteria by which community-based, college-based, and high school-based programs will receive funding from JobLink.

Last April, Galanter and Katzenberg announced a new Entertainment Studies program within the Los Angeles Community College District as one of the first initiatives of the JobLink program. The Entertainment Studies program will have an entertainment studies core curriculum, as well as an advanced curriculum in Information Technology. DreamWorks executives and staff will participate in the design of the curricula, serve as guest lecturers and technical advisors, and offer work-based learning opportunities such as internships and mentorships.

"This is a landmark in job training assistance to the impoverished communities of Los Angeles," said Pastor Cecil E. Murray, Senior Pastor of First A.M.E. Church.

"DreamWorks is building dreamers using the magic of Hollywood."

Kelly Candaele, trustee for the Los Angeles Community College District, congratulated DreamWorks for their donation to JobLink. "I commend Steven Spielberg, Jeffrey Katzenberg, and David Geffen on their follow-through and commitment to our community colleges. This is an amazing opportunity for our students, our faculty and our administration. Kudos to Councilmember Galanter for bringing this partnership to fruition. We expect our relationship with DreamWorks to blossom into a long-lasting one that will benefit many, many students and encourage other studios to participate in JobLink."

Dear Mr. President,

I am continuing to pray for Hillary and you during these last months of your presidency. I know there is much important work and global concerns that face you.

I was caught off guard by your proclamation relating to gays and lesbians dated June 11. I did not know of its existence until reporters started calling. I know we have had our discussions and disagreement about this issue. I still must register my profound grief.

In the first place, homosexuality is sinful. Whether you study the Old or New Testament, it is simply sin. This is not "homophobia." I have no hatred toward anyone, but compassion, concern and hope.

I was disappointed in the proclamation as related to our church. Certainly few would agree with proclamation. You know the commitment Immanuel has to biblical teaching and standards. Those who love you must have wondered "Why?" about this proclamation.

I am not now, nor ever been, primarily concerned with your legacy as president, but your legacy as a person. While you have led us during a remarkable time in our country and have made many good decisions and shown great determination, you will also be remembered as most sympathetic to those who support abortion on demand and the homosexual lifestyle.

I know our country is made up of many kinds of people. I also know many evangelicals have stood by you through thick and thin. I know how imperfect I am and remind myself, and you as well, that the ultimate judge of our lives will not be history, but the Lord Jesus.

Mr. President, Becky and I do love you and pray for you.

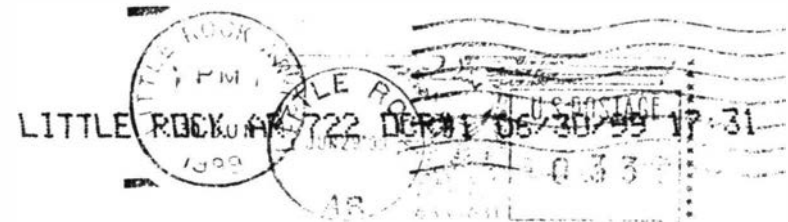

Sincerely,

ABORIGINAL SELF-GOVERNMENT

A Summary of the Government of Canada's Approach to Implementation of the Inherent Right and the Negotiation of Aboriginal Self-Government

The Government of Canada recognizes the inherent right of self-government as an existing right within section 35 of the Constitution Act, 1982. Now the federal government has developed an approach that will enable Aboriginal peoples in Canada to make self-government a reality. The federal government proposes setting aside legal and constitutional debates that have stymied progress toward Aboriginal self-government and instead working out practical arrangements through negotiated agreements.

ABORIGINAL SELF-GOVERNMENT - 1995

ISSUE DEFINITION

The issue of aboriginal self-government has risen to particular prominence over the last 15 years as aboriginal people across the country have sought greater political autonomy. Aboriginal peoples are defined by the Constitution Act, 1982 as the Indian, Inuit and Metis peoples of Canada. In an effort to achieve their self-government goals, Indian, Inuit and Metis groups have pursued constitutional, legislative and policy changes. At the constitutional level, national aboriginal organizations have pursued recognition of an inherent right to self-government based on pre-contact and continuing sovereignty. For status Indians a number of policy and legislative initiatives have increased local control under the Indian Act regime and allowed the negotiation of new legislative frameworks to replace that Act. Many Indian Nations nevertheless maintain that this model of delegated authority is inconsistent with the goal of recognition of their inherent right to self-government. Inuit have pursued self-government through public government arrangements in the north in conjunction with land claims, and Metis have advanced various claims for land and self-government. In recent years, the increasing number of Indians living off reserves and aboriginal people residing in urban areas has added a new complexity to the self-government debate. A minority of indigenous people claim sovereignty and self-determination in the sense of complete independence.

The self-government issue also has an international aspect. Many aboriginal people believe that the legal, political and policy processes within Canada cannot accommodate the level of political rights they seek and have pressed their claims in international forums, such as the United Nations.

ABORIGINAL SELF-GOVERNMENT* -1996

ISSUE DEFINITION

The issue of aboriginal self-government has become prominent in Canada over the past several decades. Attention has focused on aboriginal rights and constitutional reform, particularly recognition of the right to self-government in the Constitution Act, 1982, as well as legislative and policy changes. In addition, a number of major land claim settlements have been accompanied by self-government agreements. The self-government issue also has an international aspect. Many aboriginal people believe that the legal, political and policy processes within Canada cannot accommodate the level of political rights they seek and have pressed their claims in international forums, such as the United Nations.

Aboriginal peoples in Canada are defined in the Constitution Act, 1982 as Indians, Inuit and Métis. In 1995, there were an estimated 995,000 Indians, 55,700 Inuit, and 195,642 Métis. Of the Indian population, 588,367 were status Indians, those registered under the Indian Act, most of whom are members of one of 608 bands in Canada. Currently about 58% of the status Indian population live on reserves. A larger proportion of the overall Indian population (status and non-status), however, now live in urban centres, adding complexity to the issue of self-government. The majority of Inuit live in the eastern arctic region of the Northwest Territories, but there are smaller Inuit populations in Quebec and Labrador.

BACKGROUND AND ANALYSIS

A. Aboriginal Approaches to Self-Government

Prior to contact with Europeans, aboriginal peoples relied on a variety of distinctive ways to organize their political systems and institutions. Later, many of these

* This paper replaces an earlier text (Current Issue Review 89-5) with the same title.

ABORIGINAL SELF-GOVERNMENT 1986

For Canada's aboriginal peoples--Indian, Inuit and Métis--self-government answers two deeply felt needs: to regain control over the management of matters that directly affect them and to preserve their cultural identity.

Before Europeans settled in Canada, aboriginal peoples were self-governing. Colonial regimes, however, reduced much of the authority of aboriginal political systems. With the proclamation of Indian lands legislation in 1868 and the first Indian Act in 1876, the Superintendent-General of Indian Affairs assumed further control over Indians and their lands. Although this control has been gradually eased over recent decades, Canada's aboriginal peoples are seeking to regain full responsibility for their own affairs.

Today, aboriginal peoples claim self-government as a right and seek to give it effect within the framework of the Canadian constitution. In their view, aboriginal self-government is necessary for the achievement of the changes that they desire, and constitutional recognition is required to protect their special rights from administrative and legislative action.

The federal government believes that aboriginal peoples should have institutions of self-government that meet their unique requirements. This belief reflects a recognition that self-government in various forms is a basic element of our democratic system. From federal and provincial governments to village, town and city councils and regional governments, Canadians operate an array of forms of government. As Prime Minister Mulroney said at the 1985 First Ministers' Conference (FMC):

"In Canada, we assume that we can participate in the charting of our destinies, in determining how we are represented, in holding our representatives accountable. But the Indians, Inuit and Métis peoples do not feel they have the same degree of participation."

Acknowledging the emphasis aboriginal peoples place on constitutional entrenchment of their special rights, the Prime Minister declared that constitutional protection would establish "an unbreakable social contract between aboriginal peoples and their governments." Because the 1985 FMC was

INDIAN SELF-GOVERNMENT 1966

ISSUE DEFINITION

The issue of Indian self-government has risen to a position of particular prominence among aboriginal concerns over the last 10 years. The federal government has acknowledged that the Indian Act does not provide an adequate measure of self-government and that new legislation is required to meet the different needs and aspirations of Indian people across the country. A number of policy and legislative initiatives have been made available to increase local control under the Indian Act regime and to allow the negotiation of new legislative frameworks to replace the Indian Act entirely. Since the series of First Ministers' Conferences on aboriginal rights failed to produce a self-government amendment, many Indian bands have been willing to explore these initiatives as interim measures to increase local autonomy. The vast majority of Indian Nations nevertheless maintain that the municipal government model of delegated authority put forward by these initiatives is inconsistent with their own ultimate goal of a constitutional provision recognizing their inherent right to self-government. The self-government issue also has an international aspect. Many aboriginal people believe that the legal, political and policy processes within Canada cannot accommodate the level of political rights they seek and are resorting with increasing frequency to international forums, such as the United Nations, to press their claims.

The native crisis at Kanesatake and Kahnawake, Quebec has focused attention on indigenous claims to sovereignty and the relationship of these claims to the issue of aboriginal self-government. Longhouse traditionalists at Kahnawake and Kanesatake appear to be among a minority

The Amazing Vanishing Surplus

By David Frum

The United States Government has a very 90's problem. Although it is taking in vastly more revenue than it ever imagined possible (almost $2 trillion a year!) it is having surprising difficulty buying all the things it thinks it needs.

There's that new four-wheel-drive prescription drug program and the soccer-time excursion in Yugoslavia. The children ought to attend better schools, and the F-16's in the two-security system are sounding awfully wheezy. But after paying all the country's current expenses, there is barely anything left over, $99 billion in 1996, and we did promise we'd put it all into the retirement account....

It's embarrassing to imagine what Grandpa Ben would have had to say about all this. His annual income never exceeded $100 billion, and yet he still managed to save democracy from Communism, build the Interstate System and pay down the national debt.

Fortunately, there's a plan to pay for it all, and in the trademark 90's style. Not with money in the bank — who has that? — but with the hoaxes and optics the Federal Government is experting down the road, a total of $1 trillion in budget surpluses over the next 15 years. The Government may not have sufficient cash to restock the coffee with cruise missiles after firing off that batch in David Frum is a senior fellow at the Manhattan Institute.

May, but as soon as those surpluses vest, it will be rich, rich, rich.

The trouble is, the surpluses are largely imaginary. President Clinton is exploiting the delusion of wealth to come to have Americans join making commitments to major new programs — including that new prescription drug Medicare benefit — that the country cannot afford.

Most of the doubts about the surpluses have thus far focused on the stony economic assumption they rest on: that growth will continue other than pay pensions. The United States spends $285 billion on those items in 1995. The 1997 deal promises that it will spend no more than $116 billion in 2003, an 11 percent increase over 11 years.

How realistic is that promise? Well, over the previous 11 years, from 1987 to 1998, discretionary domestic spending jumped 75 percent. Congress is in effect saying that it will raise this spending over the next 11 years by almost 90 percent less than it raised it over the past 11 years. Factor in inflation and the promise becomes even more exacting. Congress will have to cut the F.B.I., meat inspection, aid to education, etc. by more than 20 percent in real dollars over the next 11 years.

You can already hear the squeals of distress from Capitol Hill. Representative John Porter, the liberal Republican from Illinois who is chairman of the subcommittee that decides how much to spend on health and education, is demanding that the limit on his signers of the budget be raised. A roving number of his colleagues support him.

If Mr. Porter and those who think like him prevail, the projected surpluses will dwindle away. Domestic spending will rise, and interest payments on the debt will fail to fall. Interest payments are now projected to total $71 billion in 2009 from $243 billion in 1995 as the surpluses retire big chunks of the Federal debt. But if those surpluses dwindle, then the debt does not shrink so quickly, and interest payments stay high.

This whole game of 15-year economic forecasts has been a sham from beginning to end, intended to divert attention from facts to dreams. The facts are that the Federal Government cannot afford at anything like current rates of taxation to pay the pensions and health care expenses of the baby boom generation after it starts to retire in 2013. The facts are that there is not a lot of room to raise those current rates of taxation, which are already crushingly high: the 13 percent payroll tax and the 40 percent maximum rate of Federal income tax today gobble up a higher proportion of the national income than Federal taxes did during World War II.

Like a 90's paper millionaire getting ready to lock himself into a mortgage on a summer chateau on Lake Washington, President Clinton is preparing to lock the country into vast new spending commitments on the strength of a notional income source.

This is an irresponsible, even reckless distraction from the task that Mr. Clinton has repeatedly set himself: to salvage the already badly overextended Social Security and Medicare programs from their imminent crisis. It is likewise a distraction from what ought to be the Republicans' top priority: reducing tax rates to something like peacetime levels.

It's time to blow the froth off the latte and make some prudent plans. Otherwise, the Government is going to find itself three or four years from now in the same jam as its citizens: gazing fretfully at 2 o'clock in the morning through a $100,000 kitchen renovation, wondering how on earth it talked itself into the delusion that it was going to finance its obligations with a big, soggy mass of Surpluses down shares. □ strong and steady until the year 2008 at about 2½ percent a year, uninterrupted by any major recession. Yet what's really worrying about the surpluses is not economic, but political.

The foundation of the surpluses is the 1997 budget deal, which vowed to impose squeaky tight controls on the growth of non-Social Security, non-Medicare, non-defense spending, or what Washingtonians call "discretionary domestic spending." This discretionary spending includes the Federal Bureau of Investigation, meat inspection, enforcement of immigration laws, disaster relief, aid to education and justice by the First Lady is New York State.

In other words, just about everything the Federal Government does

Special Analysis

Farm Households and the Distribution of Farm Payments

Although the average income of U.S. farm households was above that of nonfarm households in 1997, half a million farm households had incomes below $20,000 per year. However, current farm programs are not targeted at these low-income farm households and mainly support farm households with much higher incomes.

Farm size and farm income. The USDA has identified a number of different kinds of family farms, including several types of small farm (those with less than $250,000 of annual sales, see upper chart). In 1997, the majority of all farms were small residential farms (those whose operators reported that they had a major occupation other than farming) or small farms whose operators reported that they were retired. However, these two types only accounted for 9 percent of total farm production. USDA has a separate category for "limited resource" farm families (those with low income, few assets, and limited sales).

The typical small family farm had low or even negative farm income in 1997 (see middle chart), a year of strong aggregate farm income. Off-farm earnings were the major component of income for all of the small farm categories. Including off-farm earnings, approximately 27 percent of farm households had incomes below 185 percent of the poverty line (roughly the same percentage as nonfarm households). Small farms tend to specialize in beef and field crops such as tobacco (while higher-sales farms tended to specialize in grains and dairy).

Farm payments. The lower chart compares the distribution of actual direct farm program payments (excluding crop insurance subsidies) with the amounts that would be required to assure that household incomes were at least 185 percent of the poverty line (the chart excludes retirement and very large family farms). For limited-resource farms, direct payments in 1997 were negligible compared with what would have been required to meet this income standard. By contrast, larger sales family farms received substantial direct payments. The big grain states also received more direct payments than what would have been required to close the 185-percent-of-poverty income gap. Total direct payments in 1993-1997 were $1.2 billion larger than the amount that would have closed this income gap.

Conclusion. Current safety net programs were primarily designed to protect farmers from unforeseen drops in average revenue due to either yield or price fluctuations—regardless of whether average revenue is high or low. When farm program payments are distributed on the basis of production (as are AMTA and commodity loans), the bulk of payments automatically go to larger farmers, and not necessarily to the neediest farm families.

ISTANT SECRETARY

July 12, 1999

The Honorable William J. Clinton
President of the United States
The White House
Washington, DC 20500

Dear Mr. President:

I am writing to resign as Assistant Secretary of the Treasury for Financial Institutions, effective July 16, 1999, in order to join the faculty of Fordham University School of Law in New York City.

In leaving the Administration, I want to express my deep gratitude for the honor of serving under you since May 1993.

Under your leadership, the Administration has accomplished much in financial institutions policy. We have secured legislation to implement your community development financial institutions initiative, authorize interstate banking and branching, complete the clean-up of the thrift industry, and resolve the problems of the FDIC's Savings Association Insurance Fund. We have preserved the Community Reinvestment Act and other important protections for communities and consumers, and have laid the foundation for better protecting consumers' financial privacy. We have reduced the costs and improved the quality of depository institution regulation. We have helped keep the nation's financial system safe and sound. We have catalyzed private-sector efforts to protect the critical infrastructure of that system. And we have proposed legislation modernizing the legal framework for financial services—so as to promote competition, innovation, and consumer choice—and have made great strides towards enactment of such legislation.

I thank you for the privilege of having served in your Administration and for the many positive experiences of the past six years.

Respectfully,

Richard S. Carnell

~~Thank you~~ so much for the wonderful photo of Sarah Cassady. It was good of you to send it.

I'm glad you plan on coming to see us at the White House this year. Be sure to tell Ann McCoy when you know for sure when you'd like to come.

Saturday Morning in Little Rock, Ark.

Dear Bill,

Edna
Helen

Our family called. He was very pleased and surprised to receive the letter from you. Being from Arkansas he was proud to tell his friends, friends and church people about the letter, and of the copy of the address you made in Little Rock. I thank you for answering my request. I was in Hope on Sunday June 22 this past week and visited with Bickie Thorne visiting the Clinton Birth place.

She and a friend Wanda Powell of Hope + Patman were in Washington D.C. two or three weeks past. They were at the White House when the 6th Elementary Hope School (grade) were there.

She was disappointed she didn't get to see you.

I told her I gave an open invitation to spend the night in the White House from you, and plan to later.

She has promised, if I would come with her, she would attend to it for me. I did tell her I would never sleep in one of those Historical Rooms by my self. And she also promised she would share the room with me.

Wade + I had planned to come to see you + Henry, and we would have you know.

Sammy + Angie wants to come for a visit so I may

Don't get to be there on Christmas 99 of this time.

Beckie Moore said you wanted a copy of the 8x10 photograph of Sarah Louise Russell Cassady 2 donated to the Little Peace Home. My grandmother.
I am sending the original from an old Kodak camera. The enlarged picture was made not long before she passed away April 19-1945.

She would have been proud to know known her youngest son James Eldridge's grandson was President of the United States.

The relative from Georgia (Cassady family) is in Covington County Red Level Alabama for a week or so. He called and promised he would get a copy (Ancestral or Court House) from the old books the wills of George Washington and Nancy Ann Josephine Snidgrum Cassady for you and me. They are important for our Cassady history.

My, my. Presidential Politics have started, seems to me, very early.

The papers and television are covering + reporting the polls of the two front ones. Down here with being close to Texas they are telling all + dragging a lot.

My thoughts are - I sometimes it is better to listen to voters, learn from them and answer their questions.
It is not what you say it is to know how to express yourself. Deliverance of speeches and knowing what to say have always been a plus for you.

With continuing her practical life & home and trust she will spend time in Little Rock at the presidential Library. The people of Arkansas will want her there for she has worked hard for all of us.

Take care of your self.

With Love,

Lioris

President Bill Clinton

Dear Mr. President:

Last Thursday's New York Times stated that you and I were old friends and that because of our friendship, my family's real estate firm in northern Westchester County had an inside track in showing you homes. Of course, this is not the case because my family and I have never been involved in any kind of business relationship with you.

By the way, the first time you visited Westchester was with me in 1965.

As a friend, I would be happy to have my brother Jerome (who has been a local realtor for 40 years) give you advice on market conditions to make certain that any property you are interested in is a "good deal".

As you know, I live in Manhattan. However, I have a weekend place in the Waccabuc area of Lewisboro and am a member of the Waccabuc Country Club. I would be happy to discuss the club with you (enclosed is a list of members). Let me know if I can help. I look forward to seeing you soon.

By the way, I had dinner with Jim Moore and Tom Campbell last month and my daughter Kate graduated from Georgetown in May (Are we really that old?).

Best wishes.

Your friend,

Bob

SECTION 1. The membership of the Club shall consist of regular membership and such other classes of membership as may from time to time be established by the Board. Persons 18 or more years of age may be regular members, and only regular members in good standing may serve as members of the Board or Executive Committee, and may vote at meetings of the members. The Board may establish honorary membership which will not be subject to payment of initiation fees or dues.

SECTION 2. Regular members shall be required to hold certificates of membership as provided in Article II of these By-Laws. The dues and initiation fees, if any, for the several classes of membership shall be determined from time to time by the board, and shall be payable at such time or times as shall be fixed by the Board.

SECTION 3. Regular members shall be entitled to enjoy all privileges of the Club. Other members shall be entitled to such privileges as shall pertain to their respective classes of membership as fixed by the Board. The Board may extend the privileges of the Club to such members of the family or household of members of any class as it shall determine, and may also extend the privileges of the Club to guests of members for such limited periods and subject to restrictions and the payment of such charges as the Board shall determine; guest privileges may be revoked at any time, without notice or hearing, by the Board.

SECTION 4. Membership in the Club shall be conferred only upon vote of the Admissions Committee, and no person shall be elected a member unless he or she is personally known to at least a majority of the members of the Admissions Committee at the time of his or her election to membership. The negative vote of two of the members of the Admissions Committee shall prevent such election when the Committee is 12 members or less, and of three of the members when the Committee is 13 to 15 members.

SECTION 5. Any member may be removed or suspended from membership by two-thirds vote of the full membership of the Board for (a) violation of rules or other conduct deemed by the Board detrimental to the interests of the Club. This provision shall be construed as including all persons of a member's family (and their guests) who are entitled to the use of the Club facilities as per Section 3 above; (b) failure to pay any dues or fees within thirty days after election to membership by the Admissions Committee. No member may be removed or suspended for violation of rules or other conduct deemed detrimental to the interest of the Club, however, unless written notice that such action is to be considered by the Board shall have been mailed to such member at least ten days prior to the meeting of the Board at which such action is to be taken and such member shall have been afforded an opportunity to be heard.

SECTION 6. The annual meeting of regular members of the Club shall be held on the last Sunday of June of each year at a time to be fixed by the Board in the notice thereof. Special meetings of such members may be called for any purpose or purposes at any time by the President or by order of the Board. Special meetings of such members shall be called by the President or Secretary or an Assistant Secretary whenever requested in writing to do so by not less than one-fifth of all the regular members, provided that such request shall state the purpose or purposes of the proposed special meeting. All such meetings shall be held at the Clubhouse. Written notice of any meeting of such members shall be mailed to regular members not less than ten nor more than forty days prior to such meeting, which notice, in the case of a special meeting, shall state the purpose or purposes thereof. One-third of the regular members shall constitute a quorum and any and all actions may be taken by a vote of a majority of such quorum, but less than a quorum shall have the power to adjourn any meeting until a quorum shall be present. At any meeting of members, each regular member shall be entitled to one vote on all matters, and may exercise such voting right in person or by proxy, except that no proxy shall be voted after eleven months from its date, unless the said proxy provides for a longer period.

ARTICLE II CERTIFICATE OF MEMBERSHIP

SECTION 1. Every regular member shall be required to hold a certificate of membership which shall be issued for a consideration equal to the value of the certificate on the date of election to membership.

SECTION 2. The current value of certificates of membership shall be determined annually by the Board at a meeting to be held not more than thirty days prior to the annual meeting of members, and shall be reported to the members at such annual meeting. The Board's determination shall be made in the light of the financial position of the Club, the demand for certificates and such other factors as the Board may determine to be relevant, and shall be final and conclusive for all purposes.

SECTION 3. A certificate of membership shall not confer upon the holder thereof any interest in the assets, income or profits of the Club, nor any right to require the Club to redeem or repurchase the certificate at any time; except that, upon liquidation or dissolution of the Club the net assets of the Club shall be divided into as many equal shares as there may be certificates then in existence.

SECTION 4. Certificates of membership shall be subordinate to any and all mortgages and other obligations of the Club which may be outstanding at any time or from time to time.

SECTION 5. Certificates of membership shall be non-transferable. If the holder of a certificate shall cease to be a regular member, or if a member holding a certificate desires to redeem said certificate, the member or an appointed legal representative shall deliver the certificate to the Secretary of the Club upon demand by the Secretary and upon tender of payment by the Club to the holder of an amount equal to the then current value of the certificate (less any indebtedness of the holder to the Club). Prior to such demand a member who has resigned will have no vote in club affairs or enjoy any Club privileges. In default of delivery of the certificate within thirty days after demand and tender of payment as aforesaid, all right of the holder in and by virtue of the certificate, except the right to such payment, shall be forfeited and the Secretary shall regard the certificate as cancelled and may issue a new certificate to any qualified person in place thereof.

SECTION 6. The number of certificates of membership which are authorized and which may be issued and outstanding at any time shall be limited to 240. Anything in Article I, Section 6, or Article VI, Section 3, of these By-Laws to the contrary notwithstanding, this Section 6 of this Article II may be amended only by vote of a majority of all regular members of the Club at the annual meeting of members, or at any special meeting of members the notice of which shall have specified such amendment as one of the purposes of the meeting.

ARTICLE III BOARD OF GOVERNORS

SECTION 1. The entire control and management of the Club and its property and affairs shall be vested in the Board of Governors (referred to in these By-Laws as the "Board") which shall consist of fifteen regular members of the Club, of which five shall be elected at the annual meeting of members in each year to serve for a term of three years commencing upon election. Except as otherwise provided in these By-Laws, eight or more members of the Board shall constitute a quorum, and any and all actions may be taken by a vote of a majority of such quorum. Meetings of the Board may be held on forty-eight hours' oral or written notice upon call of the President or any five members of the Board. The members of the Board shall receive no salary or other compensation for their services as such.

SECTION 2. Vacancies occurring in the Board may be filled by the remaining members of the Board until the next ensuing annual meeting of members, when such vacancy shall be filled by election by the members. Any member of the Board may be removed at any time by vote of two-thirds of the full membership of the Board, provided that notice that such action is to be considered by the Board shall have been mailed to such member at least ten days prior to the meeting of the Board at which such action is to be taken and such member shall have been afforded an opportunity to be heard. Failure to attend regularly at meetings of the Board shall, among other things, constitute for such a removal.

SECTION 3. Without limitation of the power and authority elsewhere conferred on the Board by law and these By-Laws, the Board shall have the power and authority to elect all officers of the Club and to fix their duties and authority, to appoint all employees of the Club and to fix their compensation and duties, to make, modify and repeal rules and regulations with respect to the use of facilities of the Club and to fix penalties for the violation thereof, to designate one or more committees in addition to the Standing Committees provided by these By-Laws and to fix their duties and powers, to incur indebtedness and enter into contracts on behalf of the Club, to purchase materials and supplies, to make such alterations and improvements of the Club property as it deems desirable and generally to take action on behalf of the Club deemed by it to be necessary or desirable and consistent with its purposes.

SECTION 4. The Board may not sell, exchange or otherwise transfer any Club property having a value in excess of $500,000, nor may it dissolve or liquidate the assets of the Club nor authorize any capital improvement costing in excess of $500,000, nor mortgage or otherwise encumber any Club property in an amount greater than $500,000, nor purchase any property costing in excess of $500,000, without the approval of the Regular Members of the Club at its annual meeting or at a special meeting called for that purpose with the procedure therefore to be as provided in Article I, Section 6 hereof. A proposal to dissolve or liquidate the assets of the Club shall require a two-thirds affirmative vote and any other such proposal shall require the affirmative vote of a majority.

ARTICLE IV OFFICERS

SECTION 1. The officers of the Club shall consist of a President, one or more Vice Presidents, a Treasurer and a Secretary, and such Assistant Treasurers and Assistant Secretaries as the Board may determine from time to time, who shall be elected by the Board and shall serve only during its pleasure. No officers of the Club shall receive any salary or other compensation from the Club as such. The President, Vice-President, Treasurer and Secretary shall be chosen from among the members of the Board of Governors. Such officers shall be elected at a meeting of the Board of Governors immediately following the annual meeting of the membership on the last Sunday of June and shall take office on that day and shall hold office until the last Sunday of June of the following year and until their successors shall have been selected.

SECTION 2. The officers shall have such duties and responsibilities and such authority as customarily pertain to their respective office and as may from time to time be conferred upon them by the Board. The President shall be the chief executive officer of the Club, and shall, if present, preside at all meetings of the Board and of the members and shall be an ex-officio member of all committees. Subject to any action by the Board, the President shall appoint all committees and employ all employees of the Club and generally direct and manage the affairs of the Club. The Treasurer shall receive and disburse the funds of the Club. If so required by the Board, the Treasurer or any Assistant Treasurer shall furnish bond for faithful performance of duties, the cost thereof to be borne by the Club.

SECTION 3. In addition to the offices prescribed by Section I of this Article IV, the Board shall have the right to provide one or more honorary offices and to elect honorary officers to fill the same.

ARTICLE V COMMITTEES

SECTION 1. There shall be an Executive Committee of the Board (referred to in these By-Laws as the "Executive Committee"), which shall consist of the President, as chairman, the Senior Vice-President, Treasurer and Secretary of the Club and one other member of the Board who shall be appointed by the Board, to serve at the pleasure of the Board.

SECTION 2. In addition to the Executive Committee, there shall be the following Standing Committees: House, Admissions, Green, Water Sports, Tennis, Entertainment and Nominating. The Board may designate from time to time such committees as it may deem desirable. The members and chairman of all committees except the Executive Committee shall be appointed by the President, subject to the approval of the Board, and shall serve during the pleasure of the Board. Neither the chairman nor the other members of the committees need be members of the Board except as otherwise stated in Sections 1 and 6 of this Article V.

SECTION 3. The Executive Committee shall have and may exercise, between meetings of the Board, all of the powers and authority of the Board, except with respect to the removal of members of the Board or the removal or suspension of members of the Club, and except as otherwise provided by resolution of the Board. A majority of the Committee shall constitute a quorum and any and all action may be taken by a majority of such quorum. Meetings of the Committee may be held on twenty-four hours' oral or written notice upon call of the President, or, in the President's absence, any members of the Committee.

SECTION 4. The Nominating Committee shall nominate candidates for election to the Board and to all offices. The names of the candidates nominated for election for the Board shall be posted in the Clubhouse not later than thirty days prior to the annual meeting in each year. If members wish to nominate other candidates for election to the Board, a written statement to that effect, setting forth the names of such candidates and signed by not less than ten regular members, may be submitted to the Secretary not less than fifteen days prior to the annual meeting and such statement shall forthwith be posted in the Clubhouse. Candidates for election to the Board may not be nominated at any other time or in any other manner, except as provided in Article III, Section 2, of these By-Laws with respect to vacancies.

SECTION 5. The House Committee shall have charge of all matters pertaining to the operation of the Clubhouse. The Admissions Committee shall have authority to investigate and to approve or disapprove all applications for membership. The Golf, Green, Paddle Tennis, Tennis and Waterfront Committees shall have charge of their respective activities and facilities as designated by the Board. The Entertainment Committee shall have charge of all social activities of the Club. Other committees created by the Board shall have such powers and duties as shall be assigned to or conferred upon them by the Board or by the President. All such Standing and other committees shall at all times be subject to the control of the Board. They shall not have the power to obligate the Club for any sums in excess of such amount as shall have therefore been appropriated by the Board for matters under their jurisdiction, unless otherwise authorized by the Board or the President.

SECTION 6. The Admissions Committee at all times shall consist of such number of members, not less than ten or more than fifteen, as the Board shall designate from time to time. The chairman and not less than a majority of all members (including the chairman) of the Admissions Committee shall at all times be members of the Board.

ARTICLE VI MISCELLANEOUS

SECTION 1. All checks and orders for the payment of funds of the Club shall be valid when signed by the Treasurer or any Assistant Treasurer or such other officer or officers or agents as may be designated by resolution of the Board. All contracts or other documents shall be duly executed on behalf of the Club when executed by the President, a Vice-President, the Treasurer or the Secretary or such other officer or officers or agent as may be designated by resolution of the Board.

SECTION 2. The fiscal year of the Club shall be January 1st in each year to the next succeeding December 31st.

SECTION 3. These By-Laws may be amended at the annual meeting of members, or at any special meeting of members the notice of which shall have specified such amendment as one of the purposes. When deemed necessary or desirable by the Board, these By-Laws may also be amended at any meeting of the Board the notice of which shall have specified such purpose, but amendments so made shall continue in force after the next annual meeting of members only if ratified by members at such meeting.

All amendments shall be posted on the Club bulletin board and remain posted until the distribution of the annual yearbook.

MEMBERSHIP PROCEDURES

Applications: A member wishing to sponsor someone for membership should contact the Chairman of the Admissions Committee. The Chairman will arrange for an opportunity for the sponsor to meet informally with the Admissions Committee to discuss the nominee. With the approval and guidance of the Committee, the sponsor will then proceed to assemble the requisite documents: a nomination form, sponsor's letter, seconder's letter, and three additional letters of support from members who know the nominee. Members of the Board of Governors and members of the Admissions Committee may not sponsor, second, or support a nominee. No member may sponsor more than two nominees in any given year.

If a nominee is a former member of the Club who resigned in good standing but wishes to rejoin, one of two processes will be followed: (1) If the former member resigned within the last three years, he or she will be reinstated after a vote of the Committee and payment of appropriate fees. No formal nomination process will be required. (2) If more than three years have elapsed since the resignation, the full nomination process must be observed.

Privileges of Member's Family: Except as otherwise stated herein, club privileges extend to the spouse of the member and all children 24 years and under, whether or not the children are married or living at home. No other person in the Member's family or household is entitled to the use or privileges of the Club except as a guest of a member. The widow of a member in good standing at the time of his decease may continue as a Regular member at regular dues, or as a Women's Associate or House member at annual dues of one-half the regular dues for the applicable class as long as she is unmarried.

Determination of Ages: The age of a member on January 1 of any year determines eligibility for Associate or Retired Membership or for privileges as a child of a member during that year.

Resignations/Partial Year's Membership: All dues are established and payable on a calendar year basis. Therefore, the full year's dues are payable, regardless of the date of joining or resigning, except as follows: (1) Resignations. Resignations become effective only upon receipt by the Club of a written resignation notice. If the resignation notice is received by January 31, no dues for that year are payable. If the resignation notice is received after January 31, full dues for that year are payable. (2) New Members. Members admitted during the year will be charged dues according to the following schedule:

Date of Admission
January 1-July 31	100%
September 1-30	60%
November 1-December 31	20%
August 1-31	80%
October 1-31	40%

Changes in Membership Class: No member may change membership status to a lesser dues-paying classification after January 31 of any year. A member's change from one membership class to a different membership class requires approval by the Executive Committee. If the request for change to a different class is received after January 31, no reduction in dues will be permitted.

Initiation Fees: Except in the case of House members, if a member changes from one membership class to another, no additional initiation fee is payable, and no part of a previously-paid initiation fee is refundable. A house member changing to another category must pay the difference between the initiation fee of the new class and the House initiation fee, based on the respective fees in effect at the time of taking House membership.

GOVERNOR'S RULES REGARDING THE USE OF THE CLUB FACILITIES

Charges: Members must sign for all Club services and fees (including caddy fees). Except as provided below there are no cash transactions. Members' guests may sign their own names on vouchers where guest cards have been issued to them. If parents do not wish their children to sign vouchers, it is requested that they instruct them accordingly, as the Club cannot reasonably assume this responsibility. Exceptions in respect to cash transactions are as follows: Golf and tennis merchandise or athletic instruction may be charged to members' accounts or paid directly to the golf or tennis professional or the swimming instructor, as the case may be. All charge vouchers must be signed with the full name and audit number of the member to whom they are to be charged. It is requested that spouses and children of members fill in the full name and audit number of the member on each voucher with the signer's name or initials below. (For purposes of clarification it should be pointed out that membership in the Club is held by only one person in the family.)

Billing and Posting: Dues are payable in full on receipt of bills or in installments as follows: At least one-third of the dues before January 31; at least two-thirds before March 31; and the balance before April 30. Statements of charges will be rendered monthly and be payable thirty days after statement date. Interest at the rate of 1.5% per month will commence 60 days after statement date on any charges then unpaid. A member with an unpaid balance 90 days after the statement date will automatically have credit privileges suspended and that member's name will be posted on the Club bulletin board. Failure to pay such statement in full within 90 days of statement date will result in automatic suspension of the member's use of all

Club facilities. In the latter circumstance the member's name will be referred to the Board of Governors for such action as it deems appropriate. Relief from application of this policy may be granted only by the Board of Governors based on the member's timely written request.

Guest Privileges:

- Guests may be introduced by members for those privileges of the Club to which the sponsoring member is entitled.
- Guest Cards will be issued for periods up to 16 days upon written application to the Admissions Committee Chairman. A fee of $150.00 for each guest 35 and over, and $125.00 for each guest under 35, will be charged for this privilege in addition to the usual daily fees. This Guest Card privilege may be extended to any one person only once a year. However, a member may purchase any multiple of the 16 day Guest Card for members of his immediate family who might, for example, be visiting for an extended period of time. House members may issue Guest Cards for House privileges only. The Guest Card privilege is intended for use by house guests and out of town visitors only.
- Guests without Guest Cards and unaccompanied by a member may use the Club facilities only if introduced by a note or telephone call from the member, with the exception of golf on Friday and weekends, when guests must be accompanied by a member.
- No guest may use the Club athletic facilities more than one day per calendar month unless he is the holder of a Guest Card. Weekend house guests of a member are exempted for that weekend, but not for more than one weekend per month.
- Members will be held responsible for the conduct of their guests and all charges incurred by or on behalf of such guests. It is required that members who introduce guests cooperate in seeing that they are properly informed about these regulations.

Gratuities: Tipping is prohibited. To provide for members of the Club staff, a gratuity fund is collected before the end of the year. Pledge cards will be mailed so that all members will have an opportunity to participate. However, contributions to this gratuity fund may be made at any time at the Clubhouse office. Other than the aforementioned fund there are no other monies disbursed to the staff in the form of a gratuity. The service charge on all food and beverage purchases is not distributed to employees.

Membership Cards: Membership cards are available from the Club Manager, and are issued upon request to members wishing to establish identity and credit at other clubs.

Dress Code: It is expected that members, their children and guests will be suitably and neatly attired at all times while on Club premises. The Board's interpretation of suitable attire DOES NOT include denim blue jeans (pants or shorts), souvenir tee-shirts, very short skirts or short shorts, tank tops, bathing attire (except at the beach), sweat suits, or bare feet. Jackets and ties are required when dining in the evening in the Queen Anne Room, and on the Terrace. Casual attire may be worn in the Tap Room, Bar and Brickery at all times. Appropriate golf attire is required on the golf course and on practice areas. White tennis attire is mandatory on the tennis courts including collared shirts for men, shorts and tennis dresses. All tennis players must wear proper tennis shoes. Offenders, including guests, will be denied service and/or privileges by our professional and management staff. The Board of Governors requests your cooperation in seeing to it that the Dress Code is observed.

Children: Children old enough to take care of themselves are welcome in and about the Club unaccompanied by an adult. However, proper behavior on their part is essential if this privilege is to be maintained. Children may use the Club Living Room and Tap Room as long as their presence is not disturbing to other members. Children under the age of 16 may not be seated in the Bar at any time. Children are welcome to attend all Club social events appropriate to their age. Parents are expected to exercise judgment and supervision over this privilege. There will be several social events planned especially for family participation.

Dogs: Dogs are not allowed on the Clubhouse grounds or at the beach except on a lead, and are not allowed in the Clubhouse or on the Terrace at any time. It is urgently requested that owners keep their dogs under control at all times so that they will not become a nuisance or a menace to other members and their guests.

RESTAURANT

May through September:

Luncheon:	Served Tuesday-Friday	Noon to 3:00 P.M.
	Saturday-Sunday	11:30-3:00 P.M.
Dinner:	Wednesday-Saturday	6:30-9:00 P.M.
	Sunday	6:00-8:00 P.M.

From time to time circumstances dictate that changes be made in these schedules. It is important to check the monthly calendar carefully when making plans. It will indicate what days the Clubhouse is open and what activities are scheduled.

Restaurant Minimum: A minimum restaurant charge of $85.00 for the months of February through December will be made. This charge applies to checks for food served in the Clubhouse and Carriage House, and is separate from Bar, Midway or Beach Snack Bar charges. Staggered restaurant minimum will continue, resulting in a more even flow of dining throughout the month, which will enable the staff to respond with an improved level of service. Members: A-L 1st - 31st and M-Z 16th - 15th. Members who are out of the area and who will not have the opportunity to utilize the Club facilities for one or more consecutive months may apply IN ADVANCE to the Club Office to be exempt from the monthly restaurant minimum for each month away from the area up to a maximum of four consecutive months. However, a member who applies for and receives such exemption shall agree to meet a restaurant minimum of $170.00 per month during each month subsequent to the member's return to the area up to the number of months of exemption.

Bar: The bar will be open from 11:30 A.M., and the service schedule will generally coincide with the schedule for restaurant service. Sunday service will commence at noon. Persons under the New York State legal drinking age of 21 will not be served alcoholic beverages at any Club facility. In accordance with Club policy, no person, member or guest will be served alcohol if that person is deemed to be either underage or intoxicated. The Board of Governors has instructed the appropriate staff members to implement this policy and will unanimously support them in their action. Flagrant and habitual disregarding of this policy may result in expulsion under paragraph (a) section (5) of the By-Laws.

Reservations: Although not mandatory, except for special dining events, reservations for dinner are strongly suggested. Also, in order to permit the kitchen and service staffs to serve you as efficiently as possible, please try to arrive at the Club at or close to your reservation time. Failure to make and properly keep reservations may result in delayed service and inconvenience to fellow Club members who themselves have cooperated in this regard.

Catering: Arrangement for carry-out food service may be made for home parties exclusive of a la carte items. Contact the Manager at least ten days in advance for this service.

Private Parties: The Clubhouse facilities are available for private parties, weddings, etc., to members and their immediate families. They are also available to outside guest groups under sponsorship of a member and approval of the Chairman of the House Committee. Reservations for use of sports facilities must be cleared with the appropriate committee. Since these functions are encouraged to the extent that they do not interfere with the normal operations of the Club, it will be appreciated if arrangements are made as far in advance as possible. The Manager will be pleased to handle all of the details.

Dear Mr. President,

I understand that you are already aware that I will be leaving the White House early next month. I wanted to write a quick note to thank you for the chance you have given me to be a part of your work these past 7 years.

It has been the greatest privilege I could ever imagine to serve you and the American people. It has been a particular honor, of course, to serve you as director of speechwriting these past 4 years. Every day, without fail, I have learned something new about America — and something new about how to write and speak to the hearts of ordinary citizens — all from watching you.

The reason I'm leaving, simply, is that after 7 years, I'm looking forward to spending more time with my family, with Liz and our 3 young children. I'm also looking forward to writing and speaking in my own voice. I look forward to being a strong supportive voice from the outside.

And it goes without saying that if I can ever be of help, I am eager to do so.

With warmest regards,
Michael

FROM: SEAN MALONEY

SUBJECT: The Religious Liberty Protection Act

This Chuck Ruff memo seeks your guidance on whether to support Rep. Nadler's amendment in the House to limit the scope of the proposed Religious Liberty Protection Act (RLPA). The rule approved late today in committee will permit a vote on the amendment as early as Wednesday.

Background. The RLPA seeks to revive the constitutionally defective Religious Freedom Restoration Act of 1993, which you signed. It would require federal, state and local governments to demonstrate a compelling interest when seeking to enforce laws against those who claim a significant burden on their religious beliefs. Unlike in 1993, however, it is now apparent that such legislation will conflict with certain civil rights laws, especially those protecting gays and lesbians (e.g., a fair housing law that prohibits discrimination on the basis of marital status or sexual orientation). The bill is less likely to affect laws barring discrimination based on gender or race, because, unlike in the gay/lesbian context, courts have widely held that race/gender measures further a compelling interest. Nadler's amendment, which is unlikely to pass, would limit the bill's religious protections to small employers, in the case of employment claims, and small landlords, in the case of housing claims. The amendment has divided civil rights and religious groups, but it's largely symbolic because state and local laws often exempt small businesses, and courts rarely find a burden on religion in large-business cases. A deal may be possible in the Senate, where Hatch has urged compromise and Kennedy wants a resolution.

Views. DPC/OPL think it's best to support Nadler's goals as the bill moves to the Senate without explicitly supporting Nadler's amendment. DPC would express support for the underlying bill, while urging clarification of civil rights protections. OPL reports that religious groups would consider support for Nadler's amendment a betrayal, while gays and lesbians would strongly applaud it. LegAffs and Counsel think you should support the Nadler amendment. Chuck thinks that greater certainty about the bill's impact on civil rights laws is needed and resolving the issue in the House would aid Senate passage. While recognizing the strong feelings of religious groups, Chuck thinks silence on Nadler would undermine nascent protections for gays and lesbians and send the wrong message.

Options. Chuck presents these 4 options, but only options 2 and 3 have real support:

- Option 1 (Oppose Nadler -- no one recommends): ____
Option 2 (Support Nadler; support compromise -- LegAff/Counsel recommend): ____
Option 3 (Silence on Nadler; support compromise -- DPC/OPL recommend): ☒ ____
Option 4 (Support Nadler; raise possibility of a veto -- no one recommends): ____

MEMORANDUM FOR THE PRESIDENT

FROM: CHARLES F.C. RUFE
SUBJECT: RELIGIOUS LIBERTY PROTECTION ACT

We seek your guidance regarding the position that the Administration should take on the Religious Liberty Protection Act (RLPA), which is expected to come to the House floor on Wednesday. In particular, the question is whether we should support an amendment to be offered by Congressman Nadler to exempt certain civil rights claims from the bill.

I. Background

You were a strong supporter of the Religious Freedom Restoration Act (RFRA) when it became law in 1993. RFRA provided that the federal, state and local governments must have a compelling interest when they seek to enforce any law against an individual that substantially burdens his or her religious beliefs. RFRA became necessary in 1990 when the Supreme Court, in Employment Division v. Smith, abandoned the compelling interest test in applying the Free Exercise Clause. There was broad bipartisan support for RFRA, and it was applauded by all members of the religious community. However, the Supreme Court struck down most portions of RFRA in City of Boerne v. Flores on the grounds that Congress was improperly attempting to enact its own interpretation of the Fourteenth Amendment. RLPA is an effort to re-enact RFRA in a constitutional form.

II. The Civil Rights Controversy

There was little controversy surrounding the passage of RFRA. Since its passage, however, there have been a number of cases involving conflicts between religious freedom and the civil rights laws. These cases have arisen under state constitutions or RFRA itself before it was struck down. For example, a number of courts have held that a landlord can assert a religious claim as a defense to a fair housing law that prohibits discrimination against unmarried couples.

While we cannot be certain how courts would rule if RLPA is enacted in its current form, a fair prediction is the following: 1) religious claims would not be a defense to state and local civil rights laws barring discrimination based on race or gender; the courts have recognized that these laws further a compelling interest; 2) courts would sometimes recognize religious claims as a defense to fair housing and fair employment laws that bar discrimination based on marital status, sexual orientation, and pregnancy; the courts are divided on whether these laws further a compelling interest; and 3) courts are less likely to recognize any defense if the employer or landlord is a large business; courts generally do not view restrictions on the actions of large businesses as a burden on religious freedom.

Gay and lesbian groups are particularly concerned about the possibility that RLPA could negate their limited success to date in persuading states and cities to ban discrimination based on sexual orientation in employment and housing. Their fear is reinforced by the express statements of some groups on the religious right who are seeking this very result. In fact, we can assume that some of these groups would use a newly enacted RLPA in a public campaign to limit the effectiveness of gay rights laws and ordinances.

The religious coalition argues that there should be no exception for any category of laws or individuals. At least some in the coalition feel deeply that small landlords and employers should be able to discriminate against gays, lesbians and unmarried persons. On the other hand, people in the civil rights community as well as some members of the religious community take the position that a person who has decided to engage in a business activity must be willing to accept some limitations on their freedom to choose with whom they will deal.

III. A Possible Resolution

This difficult conflict between religious liberty and civil rights claims is not easy to resolve. The religious coalition is somewhat split on the issue. More conservative members, such as the Christian Legal Society, are flatly opposed to an exception. Others, such as the Catholic Conference, are open to one. White House staff have met with groups on both sides to encourage them to find some kind of resolution. So far, the religious coalition has formally maintained a unified position in opposition to an exception.

The Texas legislature recently enacted its own RFRA, signed by Governor Bush, which exempted most civil rights claims. However, Texas has no laws protecting gay rights, and the exemption was less controversial.

Congressman Nadler, whose district includes many constituents on both sides of the issue, tried to reach a compromise in the House by proposing that the protections of the bill would be limited to small employers, in the case of employment claims, and small landlords, in the case of housing claims. His amendment was rejected by voice vote, but it was clear most Democrats supported it and the Republicans, led by Congressman Canady, opposed it. On the other hand, Senator Hatch, who will sponsor the Senate version of RLPA, has publicly encouraged the civil rights coalition and the religious coalition to find a way to resolve their differences. Senator Kennedy, who cosponsored the bill last year, has signaled that he will not support the bill without some resolution.

We remain hopeful that a compromise will be reached at some point. However, it is likely that a compromise, if one occurs at all, will happen in the Senate. Consequently, we may be faced with the question of whether to support Nadler's amendment on the House floor and whether to express support for the bill in the likely event that the Nadler amendment is defeated. As a practical matter, the Nadler amendment will change the result in only a few cases. It exempts large employers and landlords, but courts usually do not find there is a burden on religion in those situations. It could allow a small landlord or employer to discriminate, e.g., on the basis of sexual orientation, but state and local laws usually exempt very small businesses in any event. Nevertheless, the issue is important symbolically, and we can expect that some members of the religious right will portray the amendment as a choice between religious freedom and rights for gays and lesbians.

You and the religious groups opposed exceptions to the RFRA in 1993. For example, one of the few controversial issues at that time was an effort by Senator Reid to exempt prisoners from the bill's coverage. You and the religious coalition opposed Reid's amendment on the grounds that everyone should be entitled to protection of his or her religious liberty. White House staff in the past have also suggested that we would not support any exceptions. Consequently, the religious coalition is likely to view your support for a civil rights exception as abandoning your position. On the other hand, since the enactment of RFRA there have been a number of court cases that show there is a real threat to civil rights laws protecting gays and lesbians. These legal developments provide some justification for a change in your position.

IV. Options and Recommendations

Our options are the following:

- 1) oppose the Nadler amendment;
- 2) support the Nadler amendment, if it is made in order by the Rules Committee, but indicate support for the goals of the bill in the likely event that the Nadler amendment is defeated; we would also state that we want to work with all parties to ensure Senate passage;
- 3) remain silent on the Nadler amendment but express a desire to reach a compromise eventually to ensure passage;
- 4) support the Nadler amendment and leave open the possibility of a veto if no civil rights exception is eventually included in the bill.

DPC recommends that the Administration wait until after Rep. Nadler's amendment is made in order by the Rules Committee before making any statement. In the event that the amendment is made in order, DPC suggests that the Statement of Administration policy sent on the day of the vote include language such as the following: "The Administration supports the Religious Liberty Protection Act. In addition, the Administration also supports efforts to clarify civil rights protections and looks forward to working with Congress to resolve this important issue."

OPL's position is as follows: Two important constituencies within OPL are strongly divided on this issue. The religious coalition is as broad based as it is possible to get within that community and is united in opposition to a civil rights carve out. They have made it clear that they will view your support of a carve out as betrayal. Gay rights groups and the ACLU, however, equally strongly support a carve out which Rep. Nadler hopes to offer. Senator Hatch is already working on a compromise in the Senate. It is a battle that will be characterized as "religious rights" versus "gay rights." The best outcome at this point would be for the Nadler amendment or its equivalent to fail in the Rules Committee. Absent that, OPL would recommend supporting the bill, remaining silent on the amendment, and working for a compromise in the Senate.

Legislative Affairs recommends that we support the Nadler amendment if he gets to offer it. Otherwise, we should indicate in the SAP that we have some concerns about unintended consequences but that we expect them to be resolved before the legislation comes to the President.

White House Counsel recommends that we adopt Option 2: support the Nadler amendment if Rules permits it to be offered and work to secure a compromise in the Senate. Support for the amendment would rest on two grounds: 1) recent developments in the courts lead us to conclude that greater certainty about the impact of the bill on the civil rights laws is needed; and 2) resolving this issue will facilitate speedy passage in the Senate. Recognizing the strong feelings of the religious community, Counsel is more concerned that silence on the Nadler amendment will send a message that this Administration does not support the efforts of the gay and lesbian community to secure protection under the civil rights laws and will undermine those efforts in the states.

_____ Option 1: Oppose Nadler Amendment

_____ Option 2: Support Nadler Amendment; work for compromise in Senate

_____ Option 3: Remain silent on Nadler Amendment but express a desire to reach a compromise to assure passage

_____ Option 4: Support the Nadler amendment; leave open the possibility of a veto if there is no civil rights exception

_____ Option 5: Discuss further with staff before decision
