EXECUTIVE ORDER

SUPPORTING FAMILIES: COLLECTING DELINQUENT CHILD SUPPORT OBLIGATIONS

The Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 was enacted into law on April 26, 1996, as part of the Omnibus Consolidated Rescissions and Appropriations Act of 1996. While the primary purpose of the Debt Collection Improvement Act is to increase the collection of non-tax debts owed to the Federal Government, the Act also contains important provisions that can be used to assist families in collecting past due child support obligations.

The failure of some parents to pay their child support obligations threatens the health, education and well-being of their children. Compounding this problem, States have experienced difficulties enforcing child support obligations once a parent has moved to another State. With this Executive Order, the Federal Government commits some of its resources to supporting our children and strengthening American families by collecting delinquent child support obligations from persons otherwise entitled or eligible to receive payments from the Federal Government and by denying Federal assistance to persons who are delinquent in their child support obligations.

Accordingly, by the authority vested in me as President by the Constitution and laws of the United States of America, it is hereby ordered as follows:

Section 1. Administrative Offsets

(a)(1) The Secretary of the Treasury, in accordance with the provisions of the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, shall promptly develop and implement procedures necessary for the Secretary to collect past due child support debts by administrative offset, and shall issue such rules, regulations and procedures as the Secretary deems appropriate to govern administrative offsets by the Department of the Treasury and each other Federal department and agency that disburses Federal payments.

(2) The Secretary of the Treasury may enter into reciprocal agreements with States concerning the collection by the Secretary of delinquent child support debts through administrative offsets.

(b) The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall, within 60 days of this Order, implement procedures necessary to report to the Secretary of the Treasury information on past due child support claims referred by States to the Department of Health and Human Services.

(c) The head of each Federal department and agency that certifies payments to the Secretary of the Treasury or to another disbursing official shall review each class of payments that the department or agency certifies to determine if any such class should be exempt from offset and, if any class is so identified, submit to the Secretary of the Treasury a request for such an exemption together with the reasons therefor. With respect to classes of payments existing on the date of this Order, such submissions shall be made within 30 days of the date of this Order. With respect to a class of payments established after the date of this Order, such submissions shall be made not later than 30 days after such class is established.

(d) The head of each Federal department and agency that certifies payments to the Secretary of the Treasury shall promptly implement any rule, regulation or procedure issued by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to this section.

(e) The head of each Federal department and agency that is authorized by law to disburse payments shall promptly implement any rule, regulation or procedure issued by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to this section and shall:

(1) match the payment certification records of such department or agency with records of persons delinquent in child support payments as directed by the Secretary of the Treasury; and

(2) conduct administrative offsets to collect delinquent child support payments.

(f) The Secretary of the Treasury shall, to the extent permitted by law, share with the Secretary of Health and Human Services any information contained in payment certification records of persons who is delinquent in child support obligations that would assist in the collection of such debt, whether or not an administrative offset is conducted.

Section 2. Denial of Federal Assistance

(a) The Secretary of the Treasury shall, to the extent permitted by law, ensure that information concerning persons subject to administrative offset on account of delinquent child support obligations is made available to the head of each department and agency.

(b) The head of each department and agency shall, with respect to any person who is subject to administrative offset on account of a delinquent child support obligation, promptly:

(1) implement procedures to deny direct or indirect Federal financial assistance to such person; and

(2) implement procedures to deny, suspend, terminate, or revoke any Federal privilege granted to, requested by, or for the direct or indirect benefit of any such person.

(c) The Attorney General shall promptly issue guidelines for departments and agencies concerning minimum due process standards to be included in the procedures required by subsection (b).

(d) For purposes of this section:

(1) Federal financial assistance means any Federal loan (other than a disaster loan), loan guarantee or loan insurance.

(2) Federal privilege means a Federal grant, license, permit, contract or other privilege.

09/09/96 16:38 92026221188 REAS GO LEX

(e)(1) The denial, suspension, termination or revocation of any class of Federal financial assistance or privilege shall not apply if the head of the concerned department or agency determines:

(A) in consultation with the Attorney General, that such action:

(i) is prohibited by law; or

(ii) would likely result in valid legal claims for damages against the United States;

(B) that such action would be inconsistent with the best interests of the child or children with respect to whom a child support obligation is owed; or

(C) that such action should be waived.

(2) The head of each department and agency shall provide written notification to the Secretary of the Treasury upon determining that the denial, suspension, termination, or revocation of a class of Federal financial assistance or privilege is prohibited by law or should be waived.

(f) The head of each department and agency shall:

(1) identify all laws under the jurisdiction of the department or agency that prohibit the denial, suspension, termination or revocation of a class of Federal financial assistance or privilege and, where appropriate, transmit to the Director of the Office of Management and Budget recommendations for statutory changes; and

(2) review all rules, regulations and procedures implementing laws under the jurisdiction of the department or agency governing the provision of any Federal financial assistance or privilege and, where appropriate, conform such rules, regulations and procedures to the provisions of this Order and the rules, regulations and procedures issued by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to section 1.

Section 3. Reports

(a) The head of each Federal department and agency shall provide to the Secretary of the Treasury such information as the Secretary may request concerning the implementation by such department or agency of this Order, the provisions of the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 applicable to delinquent child support obligations, and the rules, regulations and procedures issued by the Secretary pursuant to section 1.

(b) The Secretary of the Treasury shall report annually to the President concerning the implementation by departments and agencies of this Order and the provisions of the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 applicable to delinquent child support obligations.

Section 4. Judicial Review

This Order does not create any right or benefit, substantive or procedural, enforceable at law by a party against the United States, its agencies, its officers, or any person.

DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
WASHINGTON

September 9, 1996

GENERAL COUNSEL

The Honorable Jack Lew
Acting Director
Office of Management and Budget
Executive Office of the President
Washington, D.C. 20503

Dear Mr. Lew:

The Department of the Treasury has been working with the Office of Management and Budget to implement the provisions of the Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996, which was signed by the President on April 26, 1996, as part of the Omnibus Consolidated Rescissions and Appropriations Act of 1996. Among other things, this Act provides new authority for the administrative offset of delinquent child support debts. The Act also declares that it is the policy of the Federal Government to deny Federal financial assistance to persons delinquent on Federal debts; we believe this policy should also apply to delinquent child support debts and be expanded to include Federal privileges such as contracts, licenses and permits.

To support the President's priority of improving the collection of delinquent child support, we have prepared the enclosed draft Executive order, Supporting Families: Collecting Delinquent Child Support Obligations, for your review. The order would accelerate the implementation of administrative offsets to collect delinquent child support payments by directing the Secretary of the Treasury and all Federal departments and agencies to take the necessary actions to accomplish this objective.

In addition, the order would establish as Administration policy a program of denying Federal financial assistance, and denying, suspending, terminating or revoking Federal privileges to persons delinquent in their child support obligations. We believe such a policy would improve collection of delinquent child support payments and demonstrate the Administration's commitment to improving the well-being of our children and strengthening American families.

Sincerely,

Edward S. Knight

EXECUTIVE ORDER

SUPPORTING FAMILIES: COLLECTING DELINQUENT CHILD SUPPORT OBLIGATIONS

The Debt Collection Improvement Act of 1996 was enacted into law on April 26, 1996, as part of the Omnibus Consolidated Rescissions and Appropriations Act of 1996. While the primary purpose of the Debt Collection Improvement Act is to increase the collection of non-tax debts owed to the Federal Government, the Act also contains important provisions that can be used to assist families in collecting past due child support obligations.

The failure of some parents to pay their child support obligations threatens the health, education and well-being of their children. Compounding this problem, States have experienced difficulties enforcing child support obligations once a parent has moved to another State. With this Executive Order, the Federal Government commits some of its resources to supporting our children and strengthening American families by collecting delinquent child support obligations from persons otherwise entitled or eligible to receive payments from the Federal Government and by denying Federal assistance to persons who are delinquent in their child support obligations.

Accordingly, by the authority vested in me as President by the Constitution and laws of the United States of America, it is hereby ordered as follows:

Section 1. Administrative Offsets

(b) The Secretary of Health and Human Services shall, within 60 days of this Order, implement procedures necessary to report to the Secretary of the Treasury information on past due child support claims referred by States to the Department of Health and Human Services.

(c) The head of each Federal department and agency that certifies payments to the Secretary of the Treasury or to another disbursing official shall review each class of payments that the department or agency certifies to determine if any such class should be exempt from offset and, if any class is so identified, submit to the Secretary of the Treasury a request for such an exemption together with the reasons therefor. With respect to classes of payments existing on the date of this Order, such submissions shall be made within 30 days of the date of this Order. With respect to a class of payments established after the date of this Order, such submissions shall be made not later than 30 days after such class is established.

(d) The head of each Federal department and agency that certifies payments to the Secretary of the Treasury shall promptly implement any rule, regulation or procedure issued by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to this section.

(e) The head of each Federal department and agency that is authorized by law to disburse payments shall promptly implement any rule, regulation or procedure issued by the Secretary of the Treasury pursuant to this section and shall:

(1) match the payment certification records of such department or agency with records of persons delinquent in child support payments as directed by the Secretary of the Treasury; and

(2) conduct administrative offsets to collect delinquent child support payments.

(1) implement procedures to deny direct or indirect Federal financial assistance to such person; and

(2) implement procedures to deny, suspend, terminate, or revoke any Federal privilege granted to, requested by, or for the direct or indirect benefit of any such person.

(c) The Attorney General shall promptly issue guidelines for departments and agencies concerning minimum due process standards to be included in the procedures required by subsection (b).

(d) For purposes of this section:

(2) Federal privilege means a Federal grant, license, permit, contract or other privilege.
