STRAIGHT WIRE - JANUARY 29, 1973

Ms. Jeanne Singer
Vice President

United Nations Association of the USA
833 United Nations Plaza
New York, New York 10017

Each day millions of Americans benefit from the work of the United Nations and its specialized agencies. It is therefore entirely appropriate that the United Nations Association of the USA has chosen as the theme of its Biennial Convention, "Project Outreach," whose purpose is to involve more people in a more informed support of the efforts of the United Nations.

Because of the programs of the World Health Organization, Americans are no longer required to have smallpox vaccinations. The Universal Postal Union has made it possible for Americans to mail letters to any place in the world with reasonable assurance of their delivery. The International Telecommunications Union has given us the opportunity to see and hear our Apollo astronauts on their trips to and from the moon.

These are but a few of the direct benefits we all enjoy but too often fail to attribute to the United Nations.

CENTRAL FILES

If it is to sustain its important sponsorship of these and other projects, the U.N. will require, not just the strong support of our Government, but the enlightened understanding of each citizen. The U.S. Association deserves our encouragement and praise for its worthwhile contributions toward this kind of understanding for the good of all mankind.
