

World Health Day
April 7, 1971

On this World Health Day, the United States once again joins other member nations in saluting the World Health Organization and in pledging continued support for its important efforts to heal and care for people everywhere.

This year's theme, "A Full Life Despite Diabetes," focuses attention on the misunderstanding and ignorance that too often characterize this disease. Most cases of diabetes can be controlled, and yet millions of people who are afflicted today are unnecessarily disabled or die prematurely because their diabetes is not diagnosed and treated promptly.

In time man will discover even more effective ways of managing diabetes than he has today, but the disease must always be detected before it can be treated. On this World Health Day, let the family of nations in the World Health Organization pause to remind themselves of the need for improved standards of preventive medicine, and of making a full life despite diabetes a reality.

FOR THE RECORD:

Mrs. Renn, Ofc of Presidential Commissions
State Dept. was advised this date of the President's approval on May 3d.

She question me about the possibility of obtaining the President's signature of approval on the incoming State Dept. memo so that the Dept. would have something to indicate approval of the delegation they recommended. I advised her that the permanent record here would show the President's approval and they would not be receiving anything in writing. After checking with her superiors it was agreed upon in the Dept. that notification by the White House in this fashion would be sufficient for their purposes.

The above was handled in this manner because approval was indicated on the wrong memo.

Re your memorandum of June 24th and High Priority memorandum of August 19th regarding the possibility of a Presidential meeting with Dr. M. G. ^xCandau, Director General, World Health Organization. We have been unable to ascertain the origin of your suggestion of this meeting, but feel that it would be far better to wait until there is something substantive to be accomplished by the meeting.

Carol Barnett (GTB's niece) called, 629-5474, regarding Dr. Rao. Wants me to check to see if he can stay in country with Permanent resident status working with Pan American Union (international organization).

Call Mr. Harold at State, spoke with Mrs. Barbara Brown (she spoke with Miss Barnett and Dr. Rao this morning).

M.S.
His waiver has never been approved, or disapproved, by State. The World Health Organization still wants him to return to India to fulfill the 2 yr. requirement. Found out he left the U. of Texas 4 months ago and is supposed to start working at the Pan American Union Monday. State said he if the World ~~Health~~ Health Organization OK'ed an international visa for Dr. Rao, it would probably be OK. Apparently the WHO is not disagreeable to this. The international visa, however, is only temporary and will end when his employment does. He will then have to return to India for 2 years foreign residency requirement.

Marsha

For an OK to remain in US on permanent resident visa, he must get OK from both the WHO and the India embassy.

Dear Dr. Wells:

It is indeed appropriate that you are to be honored by Secretary Earl Butte and many of your former colleagues on your retirement as Deputy Director General of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

Your contributions to a far-sighted and effective farm policy in this country and throughout the world have earned you the gratitude of this Government and my own personal appreciation. Your fellow citizens are proud of the professional and administrative achievements you have realized in the name of the United States as a key member of the Food and Agriculture Organization.

I hope that in the years ahead you will find growing satisfaction from the knowledge that your work has been so basic to the well-being of all peoples, and that your accomplishments will endure.

World Health Day
April 7, 1972

World Health Day deserves the full support and encouragement of every American. It commemorates the establishment of the World Health Organization dedicated to the achievement of the highest attainable standards of health for all people.

In its 1972 theme, "Your Heart is Your Health," the World Health Organization focuses on community action to help prevent and control those diseases that are the first cause of death among adults in the United States and many other countries.

Preventive measures, beginning in childhood, may help reduce the threat of these diseases in later life. It is imperative that we coordinate our research efforts, and that not only governments but private citizens join in this endeavor.

On this occasion, I am proud to reaffirm the dedicated commitment of the United States to the important work of the World Health Organization, and to applaud all those who add to its continuing success.

His Excellency

Dear Mr. Minister:

Thank you for your letter of June 13 and for your kind remarks about the stand taken by the U.S. Delegation to the recent World Health Assembly.

Yigal Allon and I discussed the possible challenge to Israel's membership in the WHO at a lunch I gave for him on May 4. At that time, my staff had already been working with the Department of State on the position our delegation would take and the tactics it would pursue at the World Health Assembly. I am very pleased that things turned out well.

I share your hope that the World Health Organization will continue its important work to promote the health and well-being of people everywhere, and am confident that the cooperation of its members will insure the achievement of this goal.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely,

Secretary

Minister of Health

Jerusalem, 13 June, 1972

Dear Mr. Secretary,

Upon my return from the 25th Session of the World Health Assembly in Geneva, I would like to convey to you the appreciation of the Government of Israel on the stand taken by the United States delegation at the Assembly with regard to certain initiatives taken against Israel.

The general feeling in Geneva was, I believe, that the effort to utilize the proceedings of the Assembly for political warfare against Israel was detrimental to the genuine business of the Assembly.

The support rendered by the United States delegation not only helped to prevent gross injustice to Israel but also served as an indication of the general feeling that the attempts of certain delegations to utilize the forum of the WHO for political ends should cease.

May I express the hope that in the future it indeed will be possible for the Assembly to devote its time and energy exclusively to matters related to problems of health and human betterment.

Yours sincerely,

Victor Shemtov

The United States is honored to welcome to Guam the delegates and visitors at the meeting of the Western Pacific Regional Committee of the World Health Organization. Our strong commitment to the aims of this international body makes it a special pleasure for us to host your sessions. I am confident that they will richly benefit the nations you represent.

It is with deepest satisfaction and considerable enthusiasm that I have noted your concern with so many of the most crucial health problems facing the world community today. The topic for your technical discussions, "Environmental Pollution Problems and Approaches to their Control in the Western Pacific Region," is especially appropriate. There is throughout the world an awakening to the urgency of dealing with this problem, and I am pleased that you are giving it so much emphasis in your deliberations.

I hope that your Conference will be productive and that you will also have the opportunity to make new friends and enjoy the warm hospitality for which the people of Guam are so well known.
