Dear Sir:

I noticed in the press recently that You are making as complete as possible a collection You have of literature concerning the United States Navy. I, therefore, am sending You, under separate cover, an old book on our naval battles, which may or may not be of use to You.

If it is not, throw it in the waste basket as I have read it and it is not worth returning; or, You can bestow it on some other collector who happens not to have this old work.

With best wishes always, I am

Yours sincerely,

July 31, 1936.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt,

Dear Madam;

We are sending this letter to you to let you know that a book entitled "Wisdom of the Masters of the Far East" has been sent under separate cover for our beloved leader, Franklin D. Roosevelt. Would you be kind enough to see that he receives it. This is a first edition of our first publication.

We are looking to our beloved President to lead us another four years for we know that without his leadership this nation will witness dark clouds. His destiny is to make this nation a leading light for all the world as has been prophesied nearly two thousand years ago.

Hoping this may be accepted as we offer this small gift with all sincerity. May the love of the Infinite shine upon you and our leader that only the greatest blessings from the throne of Infinite Wisdom be your reward.

Sincerely

SONG TO OUR PRESIDENT.

Let us all unite to speed the day
When right shall reign in U.S.A.
For with this president we learn the cure
That he gives and will endure.
God performed a noble deed
When He to us gave Franklin D.
Roosevelt leads us all the way
As the new light has come to stay.

Dispel all fear and doubt,
For it's time to shout
America is out of the dark!
Freedom is the life
And mankind must cease from strife.

Lives of great men will us remind
That we must make our lives sublime
There is more than one way to spell 'regain'
And all the facts must be made plain.
Evolution is not all in vain
Caesar's loss is mankind's gain.

Under separate cover we are sending you two copies of Ward Eight by Joseph F. Dinneen, reporter on the staff of the Boston Globe. Dinneen is the author of that revealing article, "The Kingfish of Massachusetts," which sold out the entire September issue of Harper's Magazine. Ward Eight is equally revealing, particularly for its insight into the workings of local politics. Please keep one copy of the book for yourself, and pass the other along, with our compliments, to the President. We believe you will both enjoy reading it.

de TESSAN, Hon. Francois
Under Secretary of State to the President of the Council
Paris, France,
November 7, 1936

36

Writes the President, transmitting picture representing the Statue of Liberty, stating that this is the work of Bartholdi and until now has been kept in the Museum of Colmar. Says this aquarelle is sent in behalf of the City of Colmar and Mr. Richard, its Mayor. Mr. de Tessen's letter was translated by the State Department and returned to Mr. McIntyre on Nov. 14 by the Acting Chief of Protocol, who says he understands that Mr. de Tessen left at the White House a photograph of the President, to be autographed, and stating that if the President's reply, draft of which is attached, is returned to the State Department with the autographed photograph of the President, they will be forwarded to the French Embassy for delivery. -- In accordance with draft submitted, the President wrote Mr. de Tessen on Nov. 17, thanking him for his letter by which he transmitted the generous gift of the City of Colmar. Is grateful for this handsome present, the more so when he realizes the great feeling of affection for the American Nation which must have prompted the citizens of Colmar in depriving themselves of this priceless aquarelle from the hand of Bartholdi himself. Asks Mr. de Tessen, who is charged by the French Republic with the affairs of Alsace and Lorraine, to convey to the citizens of Colmar and to their Mayor, M. Richard, an expression of his appreciation and thanks. Says he would be honored if this letter were hung in the Museum of Colmar at the spot where the Bartholdi water color did, as a testimonial of his gratitude. -- Mr. McIntyre, on Nov. 17, sent the President's reply to the Acting Chief of Protocol, State Department, and stated that the photograph referred to was sent from the White House to the French Embassy.

Cette étude de Portalis, d'abord administrateur de la Provence, puis homme d'Etat, jurisconsulte de profession et philosophe par occasion, toujours personnage historique, comprend trois parties.

Dans la première, l'auteur décrit l'Homme, sa vie mouvementée et vibrante, ses audaces, ses conquêtes et ses déceptions, sa renommée européenne, ses travaux efficaces de rénovation spirituelle et d'organisation temporelle, son rôle intime et peu connu auprès de Napoléon, ses essais de philosophie pratique à travers un perpétuel élan vers le bonheur.

Dans la deuxième partie, intitulée le Penseur, il s'agit spécialement de l'esprit de Portalis : comment et par qui il fut formé, quelles questions l'attirèrent, comment il comprit son époque et dans quelle mesure il l'exprima, dans quels milieux il évolua, et quelle position générale il tint en face de tous les problèmes ouverts du siècle finissant : les théories des « novateurs » et des « philosophes », la question du « temps » et la « philosophie de l'histoire », la Révolution montante, puis l'Empire triomphant, l'envahissement de la « nature » et la place de la théorie du « droit naturel ».

Dans la troisième partie, le Législateur, est montré le rôle de Portalis dans la rédaction du Code civil. Car c'est Portalis qui lui infusa l'âme et qui, au milieu des solutions de détail et des réglementations nécessaires, sut en faire le monument d'une pensée commune, latente, impersonnelle, et l'offrir comme le fruit d'une méditation générale de tous les Français de ce temps.

Ce sont toutes les aspirations d'un siècle que nous retrouvons, grâce à Portalis. Notre époque ne présente-t-elle pas le même mystérieux enchevêtrement ? Aux hommes tourmentés de notre temps, Portalis peut enseigner à traverser sans tache la corruption, et sans défaillance, le malheur, car, avec une âme sans reproche, il sut toujours rester lui-même.

Dear Mrs. President. I read in the paper that you wear Andrew Jacksons Watch Chain.
So I am sending you this relic of the lively
Campaign of 1834. Mr. Homer Eaton Keyes told me, it was the only political paper-cutting he had ever seen. I bought the picture and copper coin, from a Sea Captain, ninety-five years old. It was his last treasure.
As he handed the package to me, he said

FOR SALE, CHEAP

Town Meeting:

A lot of rare old books are on sale at 5 and 10 cents each at a certain second hand shop down town. A few of the best sellers are: "When I Am President," by Alf Landon; "Disqualified for Foul-ing," by Col. Knox; "My V-8's Are O.K. But My Politics Are Punk," by Henry Ford; "I Am Not My Father's Son," by Teddy Roosevelt, Jr.; "Even My Dog Barks at Me," by T. P. Hull; "Worm-wood," by Bainbridge Colby; "Keeper of the Keys for Twelve Years," by Andy Mellon; "A Lonely Road or When Re-venge Is Sought It Often Turns Sour," by Al Smith; "Whistling in the Dark," by Governor Ely, and "How the Pow-er of Truth Overpowered the Power of Press," by William Randolph Hearst.

publicans kicked off but the halfback Hearst got in front of the kick and started his team with a handi-p. Joe Robinson recovered the ball and he brought it back to middlefield. Roose-velt is out of the huddle and is call-ing the signals. The Republicans are set for a forward pass but Roosevelt runs with the ball and scores from third, I mean he gains ground. Wait a minute, we will have to see how many yards he gained. Yes, he made it. A first down. They are in a hud-dle again. Yes, it looks like an end run. It is an end run. What's that! Folks, what a ball game. Reed passed to Al Smith and they are running in the wrong direction. The umpire, I mean the referee, has called the play back. The two players are called out of the game. Landon has his men scattered all over the field. He is ready for any surprises. Now they are in a huddle again. There is only 64 seconds until the final whistle blows. We will turn the microphone onto the playing field and let you hear what the crowd is saying. It looks like a touchdown in the last quarter. It is a touchdown. Roose-velt passed to Garner and he went over the goal line standing up. What a game! What a life!

The duck season opens November 1st and lasts thirty days.

Ex-President Hoover, he of the two cars in every garage, the two chick-ens in every pot to, has nothing on us. There are two radios in our home. Sometimes both are going full blast. You either do or you don't. That is, you either pay attention to them or let them rave on. While reading our favorite magazine one night this week we must have dozed off and let the radio go along unmo-lest. We imagined we heard the announcer and the following program came in: "Well, folks, here we are back again for the great American classic. The two teams look evenly matched and they are lined up for the final game. Roosevelt is playing quarterback for the Democrats, and Landon, a newcomer, is directing the play for the Republicans.
