God's Word. Our whole Nation have their eyes fixed on our wonderful things for us. But what we need most is a great revival. Just as it is with the

The Writer, having been a resident of Warm Springs, Ga., for a period of 2 Years, 1897 to 1900, where he, as the Agent of the U.S. Commission of Fisheries, made the selection of that site for the establishment of their Station, surveyed the lands, made the entire plans, laid out the work, completed the entire construction, and supervised the propagation of Large Mouth Bass and other game fishes, and feeling the interest he has in developments thereabout, has made the sketch of the Neighborhood as it appeared in 1900, merely from memory, which is presented to you herewith. It does not purport to represent all the improvements as they are today, but is very probably as it was upon your first visit there. It is regretted that data is not available to bring it up to date, but the topography of the Country is well shown as a base for any future sketches.

Submitted herewith is also a Copy of the First and Original Plan from which the writer laid out and constructed this Station. His name will be seen as the designer, in the Title.

This Communication is Coming from an humble House

I Wish to Express some remarks
Concerning Two Small Pictures
I am sending you, while driving along a quiet Country Road with my husband a few weeks ago I saw a Little Dove flying around in Circles as if to light, Then my mind wondered back to the days of Noah, how he sent out the second Dove before it returned with the olive leaf.
I drew the Dove as near as possible the way it looked to me, then added the rest to it, and said it was my sequel to the "Blue Eagle".

Then named it "The Dawn of a New Day," for which I really feel in my heart.
Then I painted the "Blue Eagle", and added the Flag to it.
These Pictures have seemed attractive to my friends, and caused some comment, and so I want you to see them.

Thanking you for the wonderful good you have accomplished in by so doing we shall win the

Dear Mr. President,

Just another young fellow 18 years of age writing the President of the U.S.; hoping perhaps he might accept and maybe answer a letter and sketch.

I drew this sketch of you yesterday, Mr. President, and hope you will accept it with my humble regards. It isn't much but I wanted you to have it and if you do ever have time I sincerely wish you would write me a short note or letter letting me know you received it and also just to let me have something from the Pres.

I don't know anything I would value more than a letter of some sort from you.

November 17, 1933.

Mr. Stephen T. Early,
Secretary to the President,
Warm Springs, Georgia.

My dear Mr. Early:

I am sending addressed to you the copy of "Dollars and Sense: Questions and Answers in Finance," for the President. I know that Mr. Roosevelt is flooded with new books. There are two reasons why I hope you will feel like bringing this one to his attention, and they can best be stated by quoting from two reviews of it.

From the New York Times:

"Mr. Brant holds some decisive views which are not included in the comprehensive scheme of the New Deal, but which seem to issue logically from the aims and purposes supposed to be the inspiration of the important economic reforms undertaken today. . . . He shows himself thoroughly in accord with the present attempts to use the regulatory power of the government to redirect the flow of wealth so as to make it cover a wider social area."

From the New Republic:

"This book, one section of which appeared in The New Republic, treats thorny and complex matters as simply, clearly and tersely as M. Ilin does in the 'Russian Primer.' It ought to be made required reading for the average American."

I believe that the New Deal, to go forward, must move along the lines, especially in taxation, referred to by the New York Times reviewer, and that there is a suggestive propaganda value in the feature referred to by the New Republic. A St. Louis engineer checked this book at a skating rink, and the check boy spent the entire evening reading it. I am hoping that it will play some part in coping with the reactionary, destructive campaign that will reach flood heights in the next few months.

Yours sincerely,

Irving Brant

Asks if the President has the inclination and time to read the chapter on Taxation from the writer's recently published book "Dollars and Sense: Questions and Answers in Finance". If so, the writer will direct the John Day Co. to send a copy. Encloses letter to the President in which he urges that he authorize a "freedom of the press" reservation in the 1933 newspaper code, and announce it at an early date.

Dear Mr. President,

we thank you again from all our hearts for the very happy hours we spent at the White House. It was so kind of you to have us there and we'll never forget the wonderful time we had. I am taking the liberty of sending you my first book "AT WORLD END" which is really my diary of the Revolution. Perhaps you may find a few minutes to glance through it and that will make me very happy indeed.

November 20th, 1933.

Dear President:-

We are delighted to realize that you and Mrs. Roosevelt are able to enjoy which we hope to be a real vacation for two weeks as we know that both of you need it badly as you have worked hard since your inauguration.

Our firm wishes to extend to you both our best wishes for your future success and accomplishments and feel sure that you will be able to realize what you are after and we hope that it may develop just as soon as conditions will permit.

We therefore take pleasure in sending to you under separate cover a can of our Healthful Coffee and Tea to use in your home and we feel sure that after you have made these products you will decide to use them in the future not alone on account of the coffee being free of the disturbing element in coffee made in the regular way as well as the Tea and which are manufactured of the best coffee and tea the world produces and in the refined form we place them any one can drink them with their hearts content without the usual bad results as often caused from coffee drank made in the regular way as well as the Tea.

In closing, we wish to inform you that we enjoy a coast to coast distribution on these products and from the fact we do not sell foreign owned chain stores neither are we controlled by Wall Street we believe this is sufficient to prove the prices and products must be correct.

With kindest regards and hoping to hear from Mrs. Roosevelt if she wishes to write us at her convenience after trying our products.

Yours truly,

Dear President Roosevelt:

In RED, WHITE, and BLUE wrappings we are sending you under separate cover a patriotic package of the season's apples--patriotic, because these apples represent the NATION.

One is a Stayman Winesap apple from the orchard of Senator Byrd of Virginia. It is one of the outstanding apple varieties of the southeastern states.

Another is a Jonathan from the orchard of Clarence Neal, famous Ohio apple grower--and this represents one of the many fine varieties that are grown in our central states.

The third apple is a Golden Delicious and it represents one of the best varieties from our far western states. It was grown by Earle E. Cowin in the state of Washington.

Just as these three apples represent the nation-wide importance of the fruit growing industry in this country, so do they also represent the coast to coast influence of the AMERICAN FRUIT GROWER, the one and only national publication of this billion dollar industry.

Very respectfully yours,

My dear Mr. President:-

I had the pleasure of listening to your address over the radio last night in which you spoke of the benefits being derived at Warm Springs by the children who had gone there in the interest of their physical condition, hoping to be benefited by the baths which are made possible through nature.

I was particularly interested in view of the fact that I had addressed a letter to two prominent citizens of Mississippi yesterday inviting them to participate as candidates in our Fall Ceremonial December 7th. In this letter I quoted them as follows;

"I was in Atlantic City in July attending the Imperial Council meeting and was greatly impressed to see, first, moving pictures of deformed children shown and then the children appear on the stage in person restored to their normal condition with a chance in life and not a charge on society for its support. I thought then that all of my efforts were worthwhile and my indirect contribution to the welfare of these children was the smallest I could make."

I thought it was rather significant that I was bringing this condition to the attention of prospective candidates here, holding out to them the possibility for their making a contribution to the welfare of unfortunate children, and you, evidently, were thinking of the same thing.

POSTAL TELEGRAPH-CABLE COMPANY

TRANSMITS AND DELIVERS THE WITHIN MESSAGE SUBJECT TO THE FOLLOWING TERMS AND CONDITIONS:

To guard against mistakes or delays, the sender of a message should order it REPEATED; that is, telegraphed back to the originating office for comparison. For this, one-half the unrepeat message rate is charged in addition. Unless otherwise indicated on its face, THIS IS AN UNREPEATED MESSAGE AND PAID FOR AS SUCH, in consideration whereof it is agreed between the sender of the message and this Company as follows:

1. The Company shall not be liable for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any message received for transmission at the UNREPEATED MESSAGE rate, whether caused by the negligence of its servants or otherwise, beyond the sum of FIVE HUNDRED DOLLARS; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery of any message received for transmission at the REPEATED-MESSAGE rate, beyond the sum of FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS; nor for mistakes or delays in the transmission or delivery, or for non-delivery, of any message received for transmission at the SPECIALLY VALUED MESSAGE rate, beyond the sum at which such message shall be valued, in writing, by the sender thereof when tendered for transmission and for which payment is made or agreed to be made of the amount of the repeated-message rate and an additional charge equal to one-tenth of one per cent of the amount by which such written valuation shall exceed five thousand dollars; nor in any case for delays arising from unavoidable interruption in the working of its lines, or for errors in cipher or obscure messages.

2. The Company is hereby made the agent of the sender, without liability, to forward this message over the lines of any other company or by any other means of communication when necessary to reach its destination.

3. Domestic messages and incoming cable messages will be delivered free within one-half mile of the Company's office in towns of 5,000 population or less, and within one mile of such office in other cities or towns. Beyond these limits the Company does not undertake to make delivery, but will, without liability, at the sender's request, as his agent and at his expense, endeavor to contract for him for such delivery at a reasonable price.

4. No responsibility attaches to this Company concerning messages until the same are accepted at one of its transmitting offices; and if a message is sent to such office by one of the Company's messengers, he acts for that purpose as the agent of the sender.

5. The Company shall not be liable for damages or statutory penalties in any case where the claim is not presented in writing within sixty days after the message is filed with the Company for transmission.

6. It is agreed that prompt and correct transmission and delivery of this message shall be presumed in any action for recovery of tolls thereto; subject, however, to rebuttal by competent evidence.

7. Special terms governing the transmission of messages under the classes of messages enumerated below shall apply to messages in each of such respective classes in addition to all foregoing terms.

Your Excellency:

Mr. Sebastian Barchitta of #2113 West 9th Street, Brooklyn, New York has taken the privilege of painting a portrait of yourself, seated at your desk, with the Statue of Liberty represented behind you and the Spirit of N.R.A. beside you.

The artist is a youth of eighteen who was born in the United States. At a tender age his parents took him to Italy where he remained until two months ago when he returned to this country. He has had no formal instruction in painting, and cannot now afford the tuition fees of any school for artists.

It is a great pleasure for him to send you the portrait, under separate cover, as a gift. He expresses the fervent hope that your administration will continue as successfully as it has begun. It is my pleasure to act as his amanuensis in this matter.

The President
White House
Washington, D. D.

Dear Mr. President:

Today I am shipping, freight prepaid, an exercising machine as per enclosed cut.

I am seeking no advertising through this, and hope you will accept this gift as an expression of the high respect I hold for you. Please see that you get an early opportunity to either try it out yourself, or see someone else try it.

Not knowing how much the movement of your lower limbs is restricted, I will not venture to say it is just the machine you need. But so confident am I that you can use it, and that it will greatly benefit you, I would, if I could afford the expense right now, instead of shipping the machine as I have done, go to Washington, bring the machine with me, and endeavor to get you to use it where I could watch the action of your joints and muscles to see if I could suggest any special exercises for you. However, you have a Doctor that, no doubt, understands your condition.

I am not a Doctor. I just know some little bit about blood circulation and the proper kind of exercise for promoting this circulation in the easiest and safest way. I say "some little bit," because about four years ago, when I commenced developing this machine, I then thought I knew a great deal about circulation; but in the last three years that the machine has been on the market, I have come to more fully realize that good blood circulation means everything to health, and there is much to learn as to the best way to revive a declining circulation.

One thing in particular I have learned; that is that exercise need not be strenuous, and that an all-at-one-time exercise is very necessary to the acquisition of a good blood circulation. The all-at-one-time exercise seems to contrast with a local massage in this way: The massaging or bending of the joint of a stiff or inflamed member of the body brings only sufficient additional circulation to that ailing location to slightly change the chemical mixture of the impure blood around it. The result is that as soon as the massaging action ceases, the blood immediately commences to change back to the former impure mixture; Whereas, with the all-at-one-time exercise, every joint and muscle is in action at the same time. There is no place for this poison blood to lodge, consequently it eventually reaches the lungs where it is purified.

There are two types of all-at-one-time exercise--naturally, one is better than the other. I will try to justify my claims as to having the best type. As an example, I will refer to the household type of rowing machine, which is constructed with stretching springs.

To exercise on the rowing machine, you pull with your hands and push forward with your feet, thereby stretching springs. While pushing out with your feet, your muscles are under tension. Then on contraction of these springs; that is, while your feet are moving back from their extended position, your muscles are still under tension. This period of tension while the feet are being moved back should be eliminated. The muscles should be allowed to rest and relax during this return interval.

I have constructed my machine so that it complies with this reasoning; and, due to a 35-pound fly wheel embodied in the machine, you may push forward as hard as you desire and the momentum retained by this wheel permits your feet to ride back on the pedals as they swing back, during which time your muscles are out of tension and relaxed.

When trying out the machine, please be sure to use the head-strap attachment. You will note how quickly it refreshes a tired brain. I am sure you will find this attachment extremely valuable.

With this machine in your office you can, at your option during the day, conveniently take exercises while fully dressed.

I have included in the crate, with the machine, a detached seat which is saddle shaped. While this seat is not so comfortable as the other seat, it is useful, due to the fact that the rolling movement of the buttocks muscles back and forth on this seat tends to massage or bring circulation to the region of the prostate gland. Such increased circulation is not harmful even though the gland may be in a most healthful condition.

With best wishes for your continued good health,
I am

Sincerely yours,

Joseph D. Bell

P.S. In the mechanism of the machine there has been reinforced with welding a point which I felt might loosen up.

ASSEMBLING INSTRUCTIONS

Arrow points to door in rear of body; open it and you will find detached parts.

Arrow also points to the brake operating nob. Operate machine, with brake off, until you get the operating principle; then apply brake to suit.

IMPORTANT

Sometimes when operating the machine with the brake applied, you may allow the machine to stop when the drive crank is on center. In such case, to get it off center, release the brake and either press forward on pedals or downward on seat.

CONTRACT TERMS AND CONDITIONS.

- Sec. 1. (a) The carrier or party in possession of any of the property herein described shall be liable as at common law for any loss thereof or damage thereto, except as hereinafter provided.
- (b) No carrier or party in possession of all or any of the property herein described shall be liable for any loss thereof or damage thereto or delay caused by the act of God, the public enemy, the authority of law, or the act of default of the shipper or owner, or for natural shrinkage. The carrier's liability shall be that of warehouseman, only, for loss, damage, or delay caused by fire occurring after the expiration of the free time allowed by tariffs lawfully on file (such free time to be computed as therein provided) after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination, or tender of delivery of the property to the party entitled to receive it, has been made. Except in case of negligence of the carrier or party in possession (and the burden to prove freedom from such negligence shall be on the carrier or party in possession), the carrier or party in possession shall not be liable for loss, damage, or delay occurring while the property is stopped and held in transit upon the request of the shipper, owner, or party entitled to make such request, or resulting from a defect or vice in the property, or for country damage to cotton, or from riots or strikes.
- (c) In case of quarantine the property may be discharged at risk and expense of owners into quarantine depot or elsewhere, as required by quarantine regulations or authorities, or for the carrier's dispatch at nearest available point in carrier's judgment, and in any such case carrier's responsibility shall cease when property is so discharged, or property may be returned by carrier at owner's expense to shipping point, earning freight both ways. Quarantine expenses of whatever nature or kind upon or in respect to property shall be borne by the owners of the property or be a lien thereon. The carrier shall not be liable for loss or damage occasioned by fumigation or disinfection or other acts required or done by quarantine regulations or authorities even though the same may have been done by carrier's officers, agents, or employees, nor for detention, loss, or damage of any kind occasioned by quarantine or the enforcement thereof. No carrier shall be liable, except in case of negligence, for any mistake or inaccuracy in any information furnished by the carrier, its agents, or officers, as to quarantine laws or regulations. The shipper shall hold the carriers harmless from any expense they may incur, or damages they may be required to pay, by reason of the introduction of the property covered by this contract into any place against the quarantine laws or regulations in effect at such place.
- Sec. 2. (a) No carrier is bound to transport said property by any particular train or vessel, or in time for any particular market or otherwise than with reasonable dispatch. Every carrier shall have the right in case of physical necessity to forward said property by any carrier or route between the point of shipment and the point of destination. In all cases not prohibited by law, where a lower value than actual value has been represented in writing by the shipper or has been noted upon in writing as the released value of the property as determined by the classification or tariffs upon which the rate is based, such lower value plus freight charges if paid shall be the maximum amount to be recovered, whether or not such loss or damage occurs from negligence.
- (b) As a condition precedent to recovery, claims must be filed in writing with the receiving or delivering carrier, or carrier issuing this bill of lading, or carrier on whose line the loss, damage, injury or delay occurred, within nine months after delivery of the property (or, in case of export traffic, within nine months after delivery at port of export) or, in case of failure to make delivery, then within nine months after a reasonable time for delivery has elapsed; and suits shall be instituted against any carrier only within two years and one day from the day when notice in writing is given by the carrier to the claimant that the carrier has disallowed the claim or any part or parts thereof specified in the notice. Where claims are not filed or suits are not instituted thereon in accordance with the foregoing provisions, no carrier hereunder shall be liable, and such claims will not be paid.
- (c) Any carrier or party liable on account of loss of or damage to any of said property shall have the full benefit of any insurance that may have been effected upon or on account of said property, so far as this shall not avoid the policies or contracts of insurance. Provided, That the carrier reimburse the claimant for the premium paid thereon.
- Sec. 3. Except where such advice is required as the result of carrier's negligence, all property shall be subject to necessary coopers and baling at owner's cost. Each carrier over whose route cotton or cotton lint is to be transported hereunder shall have the privilege, at its own cost and risk, of compressing the same for greater convenience in handling or forwarding, and shall not be held responsible for deviation or unavoidable delays in proceeding such compression. Grain in bulk consigned to a point where there is a railroad, public or licensed elevator, may (unless otherwise expressly noted herein, and then if it is not promptly unloaded) be there delivered and placed with other grain of the same kind and grade without respect to ownership (and prompt notice thereof shall be given to the consignor), and if so delivered shall be subject to a lien for elevator charges in addition to all other charges hereunder.
- Sec. 4. (a) Property not removed by the party entitled to receive it within the free time allowed by tariffs, lawfully on file (such free time to be computed as therein provided), after notice of the arrival of the property at destination or at the port of export (if intended for export) has been duly sent or given, and after placement of the property for delivery at destination has been made, may be kept in vessel, car, depot, warehouse or place of delivery of the carrier, subject to the tariff charge for storage and to carrier's responsibility as warehouseman, only, or at the option of the carrier, may be removed to and stored in a public or licensed warehouse at the place of delivery or other available place, at the cost of the owner, and there held without liability on the part of the carrier, and subject to a lien for all freight and other lawful charges, including a reasonable charge for storage.
- (b) Where nonperishable property which has been transported to destination hereunder is refused by consignee or the party entitled to receive it, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it within 15 days after notice of arrival shall have been duly sent or given, the carrier may sell the same at public auction to the highest bidder, at such place as may be designated by the carrier. Provided, That the carrier shall have first mailed, sent, or given to the consignor notice that the property has been refused or remains unclaimed, as the case may be, and that it will be subject to sale under the terms of the bill of lading if disposition be not arranged for, and shall have published notice containing a description of the property, the name of the party to whom consigned, or, if shipped, order notify, the name of the party to be notified, and the time and place of sale, once a week for two successive weeks, in a newspaper of general circulation at the place of sale or nearest place where such newspaper is published: Provided, That 30 days shall have elapsed before publication of notice of sale after said notice that the property has been refused or remains unclaimed was mailed, sent, or given.
- (c) Where perishable property which has been transported hereunder to destination is refused by consignee or party entitled to receive it, or said consignee or party entitled to receive it fails to receive it promptly, the carrier may, in its discretion, to prevent deterioration or further deterioration, sell the same to the best advantage at private or public sale: Provided, That if time serves for notification to the consignor or owner of the refusal of the property or the failure to receive it and request for disposition of the property, such notification shall be given, in such manner as the exercise of due diligence requires, before the property is sold.
- (d) Where the procedure provided for in the two paragraphs last preceding is not possible, it is agreed that nothing contained in said paragraphs shall be construed to abridge the right of the carrier at its option to sell the property under such circumstances and in such manner as may be authorized by law.
- (e) The proceeds of any sale made under this section shall be applied by the carrier to the payment of freight, demurrage, storage, and any other lawful charges and the expense of notice, advertisement, sale, and other necessary expense and of caring for and maintaining the property, if proper care of the same requires special expense, and should there be a balance it shall be paid to the owner of the property sold hereunder.
- (f) Property destined to or taken from a station, wharf, or landing at which there is no regularly appointed freight agent shall be entirely at risk of owner after unloaded from cars or vessels or until loaded into cars or train or until loaded into and after unloaded from vessel.
- Sec. 5. No carrier hereunder will carry or be liable in any way for any documents, specie, or for any articles of extraordinary value not specifically rated in the published classifications or tariffs unless a special agreement to do so and a stipulated value of the articles are indorsed hereon.
- Sec. 6. Every party, whether principal or agent, shipping explosives or dangerous goods, without previous full written disclosure to the carrier of their nature, shall be liable for and indemnify the carrier against all loss or damage caused by such goods, and such goods may be warehoused at owner's risk and expense or destroyed without compensation.
- Sec. 7. The owner or consignee shall pay the freight and average, if any, and all other lawful charges accruing on said property; but, except in those instances where it may lawfully be authorized to do so, no carrier by railroad shall deliver or relinquish possession at destination of the property covered by this bill of lading until all tariff rates and charges thereon have been paid. The consignor shall be liable for the freight and all other lawful charges, except that if the consignor stipulates, by signature in the space provided for that purpose on the face of this bill of lading that the carrier shall not make delivery without requiring payment of such charges and the carrier, contrary to such stipulation, shall make delivery without requiring such payment, the consignor (except as hereinafter provided) shall not be liable for such charges. Provided, that, where the carrier has been instructed by the shipper or consignor to deliver said property to a consignee other than the shipper or consignor, such consignee shall not be legally liable for transportation charges in respect of the transportation of said property (beyond those billed against him at the time of delivery for which he is otherwise liable) which may be found to be due after the property has been delivered to him. If the consignee (a) is an agent only and has no beneficial title in said property, and (b) prior to delivery of said property has notified the delivering carrier in writing of the fact of such agency and absence of beneficial title, and, in the case of a shipment received, signed or diverted to a point other than that specified in the original bill of lading, has also notified the delivering carrier in writing of the name and address of the beneficial owner of said property; and, in such cases the shipper or consignor, or, in the case of a shipment received, signed or diverted, the beneficial owner, shall be liable for such additional charges. If the consignee has given to the carrier erroneous information as to who the beneficial owner is, such consignee shall himself be liable for such additional charges. Nothing herein shall limit the right of the carrier to require at time of shipment the prepayment or guarantee of the charges. If upon inspection it is ascertained that the articles shipped are not those described in this bill of lading, the freight charges must be paid upon the articles actually shipped.
- Sec. 8. If this bill of lading is issued on the order of the shipper, or his agent, in exchange or in substitution for another bill of lading, the shipper's signature to the prior bill of lading as to the statement of value or other wise, or election of common law or bill of lading liability, in or in connection with such prior bill of lading, shall be considered a part of this bill of lading as fully as if the same were written or made in or in connection with this bill of lading.
- Sec. 9. (a) If all or any part of said property is carried by water over any part of said route, such water carriage shall be performed subject to all the terms and provisions of, and all the exemptions from liability contained in, the Act of the Congress of the United States, approved on February 13, 1893, and entitled: "An act relating to the navigation of vessels, etc.," and of other statutes of the United States according carriers by water the protection of limited liability, and to the conditions contained in this bill of lading not inconsistent therewith or with this section.
- (b) No such carrier by water shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from any fire happening to or on board the vessel, or from explosion, bursting of boilers or breakage of shafts, unless caused by the design or neglect of such carrier.
- (c) If the owner shall have exercised due diligence in making the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped, and supplied, no such carrier shall be liable for any loss or damage resulting from the perils of the lakes, seas, or other waters, or from latent defects in hull, machinery, or appurtenances whether existing prior to, at the time of, or after sailing, or from collision, stranding or other accidents of navigation, or from prolongation of the voyage. And, when for any reason it is necessary, any vessel carrying any or all of the property herein described shall be at liberty to call at any port or ports, in or out of the customary route, to load and to be towed, to transfer, trans-ship, or lighter, to load and discharge goods at any time, to assist vessels in distress, to deviate for the purpose of saving life or property, and for docking and repairs. Except in case of negligence such carrier shall not be responsible for any loss or damage to property if it be necessary or is usual to carry the same upon deck.
- (d) General Average shall be payable according to the York-Antwerp Rules of 1924, Sections 1 to 15, inclusive, and Sections 17 to 22, inclusive, and as to matters not covered thereby according to the laws and usages of the Port of New York. If the owners shall have exercised due diligence to make the vessel in all respects seaworthy and properly manned, equipped and supplied, it is hereby agreed that in case of danger, damage or disaster resulting from faults or errors in navigation, or in the management of the vessel, or from any latent or other defects in the vessel, her machinery or appurtenances, or from unseaworthiness, whether existing at the time of shipment or at the beginning of the voyage (provided the latent or other defects or the unseaworthiness was not discoverable by the exercise of due diligence), the shippers, consignees and/or owners of the cargo shall nevertheless pay salvage and any special charges incurred in respect of the cargo, and shall contribute with the shipowner in general average to the payment of any sacrifices, losses or expenses of a general average nature that may be made or incurred for the common benefit or to relieve the adventure from any common peril.
- (e) If the property is being carried under a tariff which provides that any carrier or carriers party thereto shall be liable for loss from perils of the sea, then as to such carrier or carriers the provisions of this section shall be modified in accordance with the tariff provisions, which shall be regarded as incorporated into the conditions of this bill of lading.
- (f) The term "water carriage" in this section shall not be construed as including lightering in or across rivers, harbors, or lakes, when performed by or on behalf of rail carriers.
- Sec. 10. Any alteration, addition, or erasure in this bill of lading which shall be made without the special notation hereon of the agent of the carrier issuing this bill of lading shall be without effect and this bill of lading shall be enforceable according to its original tenor.

"THERE NEVER WILL BE A SUBSTITUTE FOR PROPER EXERCISE"

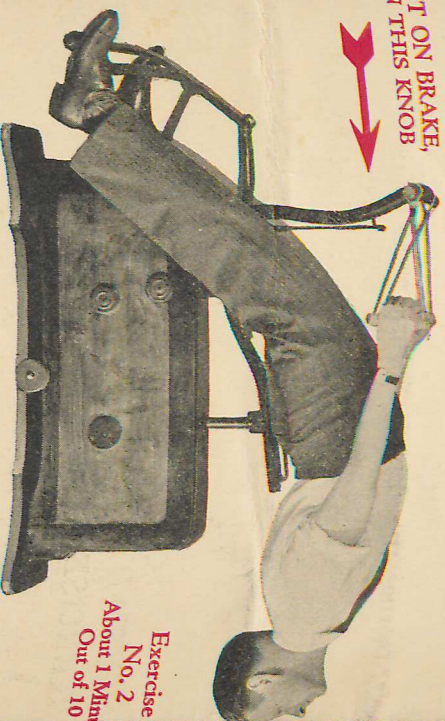

The "BELL-LIFE," due to its "all at one time" exercising principle, gives you, in fifteen minutes, an amount of exercise equal to about two hours spent in the old fashioned way, or an equivalent to a five mile walk—but ten times superior, easier and more convenient.

FOR ATHLETE OR INVALID

Too much praise cannot be given this head attachment exercise. It should never be neglected. It strengthens and straightens the upper part of the spinal column, brings a beneficial flow of additional blood to the head and brain. This increased circulation strengthens and makes the eyes brighter, hair more healthy and glossy, and very pronouncedly aids in the elimination of sinus trouble and catarrh. It's the fresh flow of blood that does the work. The BELL-LIFE is the pleasant, sure, easy, and quick means of getting the blood there.

This position for special exercising of the abdominal muscles and internal organs is most valuable. Should you want still heavier exercise, just put on the brake.

Exercise
No. 5
About 1 Minute

Spread out your arms as you pull yourself forward, and you feel the muscles of your chest and back grow stronger as they flex and stretch. If you want to take more exercise with your arms and less with the legs, pull harder with your arms, and press less hard with your legs.

WOMEN—To reduce your bust and hips, use mostly this No. 3 Exercise.

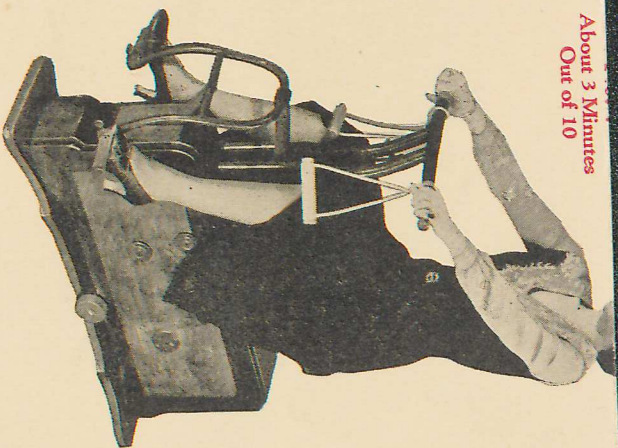

Exercise
No. 6
About 1 Minute
Out of 10

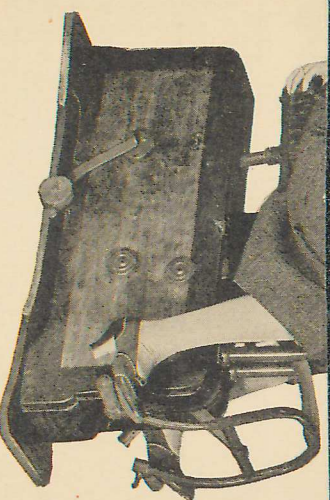

Exercise
No. 4

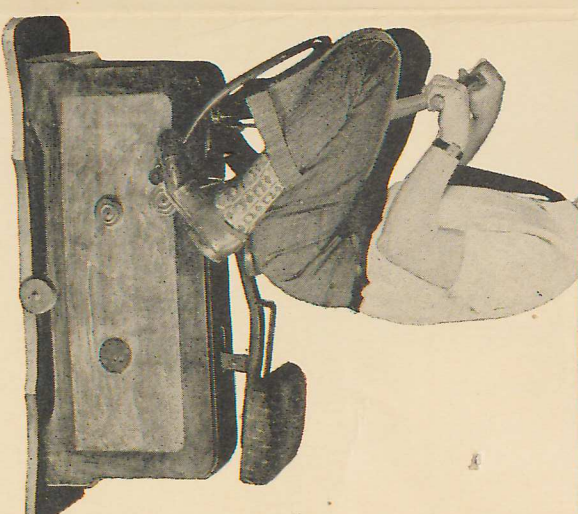

About 3 Minutes
Out of 10

By pulling harder with your arms, you can, in this position, develop the back muscles to greater strength.

Always take this twisting exercise with brake off. This exercise greatly improves your freedom of body motion, reduces the waist line, and improves blood circulation in the lumbar region. You go through it by first placing one hand and then the other to the hand grip diagonally across (see position in above cut). At the same time, with the other hand, you grasp the diagonal rear corner of the machine seat, and pull up on it. Then every time the seat goes down, you change hands, which gives you a movement similar to swimming, only much better.

This strengthens and limbers up the knees and ankles, and brings a cleansing flow of blood to the pelvic region.

DIRECTIONS

Go thru as many of these exercises as your condition permits, if possible before meals, morning, noon and afternoon, and for 15 minutes each time, until you have yourself in good physical condition, after which you may reduce your riding time to as little as a total of 5 minutes per day, more or less to suit yourself. If any of these 6 exercises conflict with any of the users' ailments, use only the ones that do not conflict. To sleep better and feel better, it is best not to exercise faster than from 50 to 60 foot pedal strokes per minute, which is slightly less than the number of your heart beats per minute. The reason for this is that your legs, arms and hip joints, in pump fashion, aid the heart in pumping the blood throughout your body, and if your limbs pump faster than your heart beats, the blood circulation becomes disturbed and agitated.

TO BUILD UP WEIGHT

Ride with the brake off until you have taken on some weight, after which, apply the brake sufficiently to make your muscles work under a little strain, in which way you should build your strength along with your weight. If convalescent from tuberculosis or other illness, consult your doctor as to how you should use the BELL-LIFE.

TO REDUCE WEIGHT

If you are in normal health, ride with brake applied, which means in this way you can exert effort in proportion to your strength, until you become from 25% to 100% stronger.

YOUR BLOOD A NORMALIZER

Strange as it may seem, the BELL-LIFE enables one to take off or put on weight. In other words, if over weight, you want to reduce. If under weight, you are desirous of adding on. This is accomplished simply because the BELL-LIFE principle of exercise normalizes the circulation of the blood, which does the rest.

INVALIDS

Invalids should consult their doctors as to the number of pedal strokes they should use as well as to which one of the six exercises are proper and best for them. However, exercises No. 3 and No. 4, and 30 to 40 strokes per minute with the brake off, is what the average rundown person commences with.

The BELL-LIFE is not magic and will not help you one bit unless you ride it, so do your duty to yourself and loved ones by riding it regularly.

Rid Your Joints of POISON!

ARTHRITIS

Let Your Blood Bring HEALTH!

(Often Called Rheumatism)

Why the BELL-LIFE Machine Has Relieved So Many Sufferers

Doctors may differ as to the definite cause of arthritis, but it is generally agreed that the pain suffered from arthritis is caused by at least two things. First, that, due to the fact that the blood circulation has become dammed up at various joints, areas of non-circulating blood remaining around the joints have become stagnant and poisonous. Secondly, that this dammed up circulation has allowed hard, lime-like deposits to form between the joints.

Assuming that the above theory is correct, naturally, the most logical way to combat this condition is to re-establish this circulation, that is to say, remove the dam. This is what the BELL-LIFE does.

It forces open the choked or dammed-up veins and capillaries, thus mixing the good blood with the stagnant blood, and as a result, thru the circulation it effects, carries it away. When that is done, it is reasonable to assume that the deposits between the joints, having been formed by the chemical mixture created by the stagnant blood, will be dissolved by it, and washed away.

The BELL-LIFE machine makes every muscle and joint move at the same time, thereby leaving no place in which the stagnant blood can accumulate. Instead, it is forced to move and to mix with the rest of the blood; then it is carried to the lungs. Each time you exhale, a portion of this accumulated poison is expelled with your breath. When you inhale, the fresh oxygen from the air is mixed with the blood, and is returned with the blood throughout the body. Thus, thruout your span of life, your lungs act as purifiers of your blood.

IMPORTANT

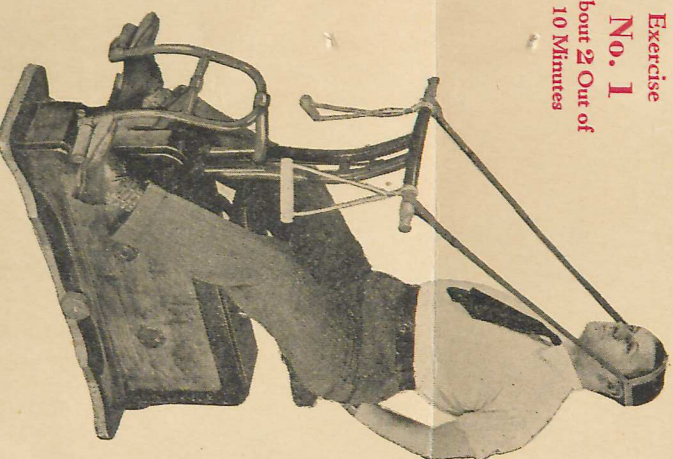

THE GREAT BENEFITS ACCOMPLISHED BY THE BELL-LIFE ARE DUE TO ITS ENTIRELY NEW AND DIFFERENT PRINCIPLE OF EASY EXERCISE. DO NOT CONFUSE THIS WITH ORDINARY EXERCISE

Almost every one has at least some slight head ailment. The purpose of this head attachment is to loosen the top joints of your spinal column and bring to the ailing parts a sufficient circulation of fresh, pure blood to wash and eventually cleanse them of their poisons. REMEMBER — drainage from these ailing parts of the head into the throat, stomach and bowels is the direct cause of many ailments, including arthritis.

Exercise No. 3 strengthens and limbers up the knees and ankles, and brings a cleansing flow of blood to these parts. Do not use this until you have first limbered up with No. 2 exercise. If painful to you, use only twice each week for first month, then every other day for next month, until you are limber enough that no pain is suffered.

One of the exercises prescribed for weak eyes is that of rolling them from side to side. The principal reason for this is to keep the blood stream open so a good circulation is assured.

Use this eye exercise while riding with the Head Strap Attachment and your eyes will get the benefit of that flow of fresh blood which is brought to your head.

Admission Requirements

New students desiring to enter Georgia Normal College or high school, are advised to fill out an application blank, to be furnished on request, and have a transcript of their record from the school last attended sent to the college. A minimum of fifteen (15) high school units are accepted for college entrance.

Students may not be retained at the college after exhibiting poor scholarship (as a result of irregular, and bad habits of study for two successive quarters) or they may be withdrawn from the class in which the failure was made and placed in a lower class.

Uniforms

All students are required to wear uniforms to classes, meals during the school day and to mid-week prayer service. The uniform for high school girls consists of navy blue skirt, white cotton over blouse and black hose. The uniform for college girls consists of a blue washable silk dress with white collar and cuffs and gunmetal hose.

The uniform for boys consists of the regulation khaki uniform and cap.

All students are required to have two uniforms. The uniforms for boys and college girls to be purchased at the school or through the school and not brought from home. (The reason for this is that the uniforms for girls are made at the school, the cloth being purchased wholesale. The uniform for the boys is purchased at wholesale price at a shop in the city.)
The school absolute insists on strict adherence to the uniform regulation.

Courses of Study

The courses of study comply fully with the requirements of the Georgia State Department of Education for high schools and normal colleges. In addition, vocal and instrumental music and fine arts are offered to those who have special aptitude along those lines. The band and orchestra are special features of the school. The chorus, under its present director has gained recognition throughout the state.

BEST BUTTER AND COTTAGE CHEESE

MRS. F. A. BURFORD WON TWO CHAMPIONSHIPS FOR FARM AND HOME WEEK.

Mrs. Frank A. Burford of North east of Monmouth again brought honor to Warren county when she was awarded the championship of the state in farm made butters and cottage cheese at the annual state Farm and Home week held at the University of Illinois at Urbana this week. The awards were announced yesterday at a general assembly in the University auditorium. Mrs. Burford's rating was 98, the highest that it is awarded in farm made butter. Her rating last year when she won the championship in butter making was 91.5, this year's rating raising its standard by one and one-half points.

Last year Mrs. Burford did not enter cottage cheese, this year being her first entry, and on it she was awarded the championship. The past year Mrs. Burford has been working toward the goal of raising the score of her butter to improve it over that of last year and she was successful in so doing as her scoring was the highest given. Mrs. Burford's prize winning butter was delivered to her customers last week.

Mrs. Burford has as her motto, "No substitute for quality" and follows this motto faithfully in her business as is demonstrated by her winning of the state championship for two consecutive years. Mrs. Burford states that it pays to have a goal to work toward and to work faithfully toward that and to raise the standard of a product. She has taken short courses at the University of Illinois and at Lincoln, Nebr., and last fall spent some time at Ames, Iowa.

Mrs. Burford urges cooperation among farm women for the betterment of their farm products and while at the University this week she became especially interested in work among the younger women. Service to others is one of Mrs. Burford's rules in her business and she is always on the look out for better ways of service and trying to improve her methods.

Mrs. Burford is starting her 28th year in the butter making business and not only does she have this business but also works extensively in poultry raising. Besides her various occupations Mrs. Burford finds time to take an active part in her church work and home interests and each year takes a vacation, usually in the mountains or some quiet place where she can further plan her enterprises for higher standards.

Last Thanksgiving Mrs. Burford brought attention to middle west farm women and their products when she sent a roll of her prize butter to President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House and received a pleasing acknowledgment of the gift.

Warren County Woman Is Champion Butter Maker

Queen of Butter Makers of Illinois, who received the prize for the highest scoring butter at Urbana during Farm and Home Week.

Mrs. Burford conceived the idea many years ago that she might conduct a business in her own home taking up Butter Making and Poultry raising as her hobby.

It was not her idea to detract any attention from her home and family. In her family are her husband and children, all of whom are married. She also has six grandchildren and always has plenty of time to be interested in their welfare. In other words her husband and children and home come first.

Mrs. Burford believes in using system in her business having her work carefully planned and working to that end. The butter is made and delivered to her private customers each week without fail and with a strict guarantee. Her butter slogan is "There is no substitute for quality. The best is the cheapest."

Mrs. Burford has the distinction of being the only woman in the state who conducts a business of this size in her own home while living on the farm. Being a business woman as well as a homemaker is no small job.

She uses her own system of book-keeping which enables her to refer back over a period of years.

As her business has grown she has been assisted by Donald J. Gabby for the past three years but who is now entering in business for himself which is very gratifying to her. She delights in seeing young people succeed. Mrs. Burford has great faith in the young folks of today who will be the men and women of tomorrow.

"After all, success is an individual matter. Conditions may make success easier or harder to achieve, but when the final results of our life's work are measured, it will be found that it was our own efforts that counted the most."

Health is the greatest factor to anyone. It is of great importance that we keep ourselves physically fit. The welfare of the family is largely in the hands of the one who provides the three meals a day. Regular meals, suitable food, happy associations, interesting things to do are essential to health.

Mrs. Burford is also a strong advocate of recreation for the whole family. One does not necessarily need to spend much money. There are many places of interest where one might spend a few days. Camping, fishing, taking short auto trips, doing something different from the ordinary routine. The family can plan in many ways that each one has a few days of leisure.

Mrs. Burford always takes a vacation each year and thinks it is time and money well spent. It was during one of her trips to Colorado that she first began working out the plan of business which she now is in. She took her first short course in buttermaking in Lincoln, Nebr., and later at the University of Illinois.

Those who know her will realize that she is thorough in anything she undertakes and that she carries out in her every day life the idea of giving one's best efforts to anything one attempts to do. That she is public spirited is shown by the fact that she very generously donated her butter for a large number of Christmas dinners sent out by the Community Welfare, also remembering others whom she personally knew and that she is an active member of the First United Presbyterian Church of Monmouth, of Park Ridge Unit Home Bureau, Monmouth Woman's Club, and Portnight Club and Gerlaw Community Club.

We are happy to publish this brief article about Mrs. Burford and the business she has built up. We trust that this story will be an inspiration for other farm women to carry out some plan of their own.

We close with her recipe for a happy and useful life: "Take a very large quantity of cheerfulness and let it simmer without stopping. Put with it a burning passion of kindness then a full measure of thought for other people. Mix into these a heaping spoonful of sympathy. Flavor with essence of charity. Stir all well together, then strain off any grains of selfishness. Let the whole be served with love and fruit of the Spirit."

PRIMITIVE BUSINESS.

In the wealthiest country in the world, which has prided itself on the greatest business efficiency and most highly developed business institutions, our business is reverting to the primitive—"going native."

We began doing business as the Indians did before us, and as the first whites did with the Indians.
We turn again to barter, trading commodities and services directly for each other, instead of operating through a general medium of exchange. This practice has sprung up again in scores of American communities, and seems to be sweeping the country. In many places, too, we are reverting to a process only a step above direct exchange of the goods themselves—operating locally through "scrip" or unofficial token money of some kind, instead of the usual paper or silver dollars based on a national gold reserve.

In other words, under the stress of a widespread paralysis of industry and trade, accompanied by a shortage of the circulating medium of exchange, we are going back to the economic bottom and starting there to work up again.

We may work up in this way, accomplishing again in a term of years what formerly required centuries. Even so, it is a slow and awkward process, useful when necessary to get people back to working for each other and thus enabling the whole group to live, but not otherwise commendable.

What has become of all our planning and executing brains, in business and government? A truly intelligent society in such a situation would begin at the top and work down through the whole mass.

Perkin analyzed the natural alizarin and found that it contained but few elements. These same elements were present in coal tar and he believed they could be recombined to form alizarin. Repeated experiments resulted in producing alizarin synthe-tically from anthracene, a coal tar product. In 1870 the madder fields of France were mostly used for agricultural purposes and the coal tar aliz-arin sales amounted to more than six million dollars annually.
For many centuries indigo has been used as a dye as the unfaded cloth on Egyptian mummies testifies. According to Slosson, India in 1897 cultivated a million acres of indigo plants valued at twenty million dollars. India furnished most of the world's indigo at that time. In 1914 India's indigo crop was valued at one-fourth a million dollars. What caused this decline? For many years English and German chemists were trying to make indigo from coal products on a commercial scale. The German chemists were the first to take out a patent on a successful commercial process.
In 1914 Germany not only made enough indigo from coal tar for her own use but controlled the market and sold to the rest of the world indigo amounting to over twelve million dollars. Slosson states that from the ten crude coal tar products three hundred intermediates can be produced and from these intermediate chemicals more than nine hundred dyes can be made.

EXPLOSIVES. It is comparatively easy for the chemist to take toluene from coal tar and treat toluene with nitric acid to obtain the powerful explosive tri-nitro-toluene or more commonly known as T N T. In like manner the phenol or carbolic acid taken from coal tar when treated the wounds of scores of wounded, a dozen social functions delicately fragrant and finally, according to Slosson, will make enough dyes to color a piece of cloth three-fourths yard wide and at least two and a half miles long with all the colors of the rainbow.

One Point of View
The greatest of all faults, I should say, is to be conscious of none.

November twenty-first, 1933.

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt, President,
Warm Springs, Georgia.

Dear Mr. President:

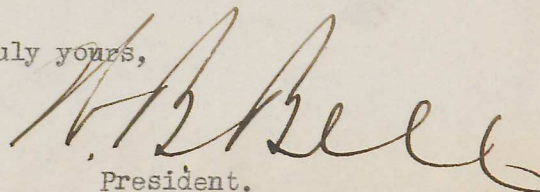

I am taking the liberty of handing you a reprint of Andrew D. White's book on "Fiat Money in France," which is being distributed by the Duke Endowment, one of the largest philanthropies ever established in this country, because of the serious threat your monetary policy has become to philanthropic funds. I do hope you can find time in your period of rest at Warm Springs to read this attempt of a great people to put aside the experience of the past and trust to what they conceived the different circumstances of their own situation, with such utterly disastrous results.

I am particularly moved to do this by your speech at Savannah and your reference in it to John Stuart Mill, whose real thought was that inflation could only be accounted an advantage to a people "if integrity and good faith were of no importance to the world, and to industry and commerce in particular."

With practical unanimity the country is awakening to the precipice toward which we are heading in this way, and expressing itself in no uncertain terms. I call your attention to the article in this week's "Saturday Evening Post" by Mr. Bernard Baruch. In addition, we have the position taken by such great organizations as the World War Veterans, the Crusaders, the American Federation of Labor, the United States Chamber of Commerce, and other associations, not to mention multitudes of prominent individuals.

Last spring no one was more delighted than I was with your courageous stand for national economy and an honestly balanced budget and against the unreasonable and exorbitant demands of the veterans. Today no one is more distressed and disturbed than I am by the way in which you are delaying the return of reasonable prosperity by introducing doubt and uncertainty as to the value of our currency and the solvency of our Government. I urge upon you an immediate return to the gold dollar on the basis of the old standard of weight and fineness.

Very truly yours,

President.
