The sincerest form of flattery has lots of followers on the radio today . . . but if we were asked to name the best imitators we would say Dave Olsen, H. Warden Wilson and little Mae Questel come nearest to being prototypes of the voices they fashion . . . Hear Mae impersonate Maurice Chevalier in "My Ideal" and Marlene Dietrich in "Falling in Love Again" on KDKA

Darrell V. Martin at 9:30 tonight . . . Believe it or else, Miss Questel fooled a New York audience not long ago by appearing in the role of Helen Kane when the boop-boop-a-doop girl took ill . . . Cornelia Otis Skinner in some of her original sketches (WCAE, 8) and James Melton singing "Hills of Home" as part of his farewell program (KDKA, 8:30) are other attractions of interest in tonight's theater of the air.

* * *
For a real frolic tonight hear "Lena" in the leading role of "Carmen" on WTAM at 7:30, our time, with "Jake" as "Escamillo," her lover . . . at 7:45 on WJZ, "Bugs" Baer and Hearst cartoonists and writers.

WCAE carries Pope Pius' address on "Labor" tomorrow afternoon from 12:30 to 1:30, direct from HVJ, Rome.

STUDIO LIGHTS

Dorothy Knapp, Follies beauty, has been signed by NBC for a series of programs to develop television studio technique . . .

Columbia has added two new announcers . . . William Brent, formerly of "Mary and Bob," and Douglas Evans, West Point graduate . . .

The Dodge Sisters on CBS-WJAS, look so much alike that studio attaches have insisted on some form of identification . . . so Beth wears a blue ribbon and Betty wears crimson . . .

The Magazine Series on Sunday is to add a new face, "The Gentleman at the Keyhole," who is to discuss politics with Uncle Henry . . .

Charley Danver celebrated his thirty-third birthday yesterday hob-nobbing with radio people you know . . . Uncle Abe and David are due back in September . . . Mal Marshall has given up radio for the time being to teach ambitious piano pupils.

Dear President Roosevelt:

We are sending under separate cover one of our de Luxe Editions, of the United States Fleet Athletic Annuals, that we have just completed, and hope that you will enjoy it. It is the first time that this has ever been done for the men of the Fleet, and we are anxious to learn the reaction of everyone, as we want to be able to put out a much bigger and better book next year, providing that we will be permitted to do so.

It was with the authorization from our Commander-in Chief, Admiral David Foote Sellers that we were allowed to publish this edition, and we did our best to please our readers, and would appreciate hearing from you, and criticisms or suggestions will be graciously received.

that you are 100% for the people in need.

I am a married man 50 yrs of age, 3 in the family (1 child 11 yrs) do not have extra good health and have not had for years, and at present have only 50 laying hens and have no other income whatever, job or anything else and I am turned down for Relief orders. Some of my neighbors on the right and left of me have a 90% better way to live than I have, who are receiving orders. I live on a three acre lot and would own it if my taxes were paid, which I cannot pay. I am satisfied your intentions are good, but

Mr. President:--

I want to offer you a little pamphlet which came into our possession a few days ago. It has a money value of only five dollars but a very special interest at this moment.

This is the 1817 reprint of Thomas Jefferson's Report to the House of Representatives on reciprocal tariffs, originally submitted in Philadelphia on December 16, 1793.

On January 22, 1817 Congress resolved as follows:

Resolved, That 500 copies be printed of the report
of Mr. Jefferson, then Secretary of State, dated December 16, 1793, on the privileges and restrictions of the commerce of the United States in foreign countries, pursuant to the resolution of the House of Representatives of February 23, 1791.

The pamphlet referred to is one of those 500 copies,
clean and untrimmed.

This report in Jefferson's best manner shows clearly
how only circumstances vary and great general principles remain unchanged.

I think that valuable and timely quotations might
be made from this report.

Sincerely,

Whitman Bennett

Mr. President:--

I want to offer you a little pamphlet which came into our possession a few days ago. It has a money value of only five dollars but a very special interest at this moment.

This is the 1817 reprint of Thomas Jefferson's Report to the House of Representatives on reciprocal tariffs, originally submitted in Philadelphia on December 16, 1793.

On January 22, 1817 Congress resolved as follows:

Resolved, That 500 copies be printed of the report
of Mr. Jefferson, then Secretary of State, dated December 16, 1793, on the privileges and restrictions of the commerce of the United States in foreign countries, pursuant to the resolution of the House of Representatives of February 23, 1791.

The pamphlet referred to is one of these 500 copies,
clean and untrimmed.

This report in Jefferson's best manner shows clearly
how only circumstances vary and great general principles remain unchanged.

I think that valuable and timely quotations might
be made from this report.

Sincerely,

Whitman Bennett

The COMMANDING OFFICER,
U.S.S. HOUSTON,
Navy Yard, N.Y.

Sir:-

After a conference with Admiral Albert Gleaves, U.S. Navy, (R), at his home in Haverford, Pa., yesterday relative to the correlation of our further researches in regard to Captain JAMES LAWRENCE, of "Don't Give Up The Ship", fame, we both concurred in the idea that perhaps you might be kind enough to place in the President's quarters, the accompanying photograph of Captain James Lawrence, from a sculptural portrait bust made by me, under the Public Works of Art Project.

I am therefore taking this liberty and sending along the photograph of the sculpture, hoping that if in your discretion such could be carried out.

Admiral Gleaves, believes the President would be greatly interested in it, as he is a prolific collector of the War of 1812 prints, and has been exceptionally partial toward Captain Lawrence.

However, Sir, should such not be your discretion, please accept the photograph for the walls or desk of the quarters of the Commanding officer of the U.S.S. Houston.

A very complete report on the researches conducted in the making of this statue, are on file in the office of Naval Records and Library, Navy Department, Washington. D.C. The statue itself is still incomplete, due to the cessation of the art project.

Believe me,

Respectfully yours,

Dear Mr. President:

Although I see by the papers that 300 books have already been put aboard the Houston for you to read on your cruise, I should like to add one more to the list, because I think you will like it.

"A Soldier in Science" is the vivid story of Dr. Bailey K. Ashford's work in Puerto Rico and in Brazil against those fantastic microscopic animals and plants which so ingeniously and loathsomely destroy the human body. He is, as you know, the man who discovered hookworm, sprue, and other tropical diseases in Puerto Rico and found cures for them.

I particularly recommend parts one and two, which tell of the hookworm work in Puerto Rico; part three, about Brazil; and the last part, "No Truce in the Tropics," but you may find the World War parts interesting, too.

Dr. Ashford is now dying of cancer, but he continues his passionate battle at the School of Tropical Medicine in San Juan.

To
Franklin D. Roosevelt.
President of United States;

Dear Mr. President:

No doubt this letter reaches you first through the hands of your secretary. It is my sincere hope and desire, that he will be so kind as, to see that you read my letter personally. I don't know whether you have as yet received a package containing a painting of yourself, but I am the sender.

My great admiration for the great work which you have done for this country, since filling the presidential chair, inspired me to try and paint your picture. I worked on it every night after school for about two months. It was finally finished, and I took the liberty of sending it to you. I derived a great deal of pleasure while working on your picture. May I tell something of myself?

I am an Italian boy, American born; a high school student of sixteen years of age. I am one of a family of nine. The children are all of school age but one. Through an accident which happened to impair my father's eyesight, he has been unable to work for the past eight years. Do I need say we are in poor circumstances?

My life's ambition has been, and is, to be an artist. I loved to draw at the early age of six. At the age of nine, I started my art studies at the Cleveland Museum of Art. There I received a two hour lesson weekly - I have faithfully attended every lesson until this day. These lessons are free. In school I take ten periods of art weekly. I've needed material for this work, material that my parents couldn't afford to buy. Being the oldest it was up to me to find a way to continue my studies. For several years I delivered newspapers after school. Thus I bought my necessary supplies. No doubt you are wondering how we continue to exist under such circumstances. We have a very small house with just the bare necessities of life. We have a small garden and the charities have kept us. My dad receives free treatments at the Clinic, has had several operations and is awaiting another. Today we received word from the Bank, which holds our mortgage, that foreclosure was certain. This has him worried.

I realize you have granted me a favor by reading my letter. There isn't much that I can say but Thank you^{!!} and, I do thank you.

Sincerely Yours,
Angelo Bulone.

Dear Mr. President:

Mr. Lowell Thomas over the radio Thursday night announced the books and magazines you were going to take with you on your trip to Hawaii. I have the pleasure of sending you a complimentary copy of "Real Puzzles," textbook of the National Puzzlers' League, which I hope you will read, ponder and enjoy on your trip.

In addition to the book I am sending a supplement containing the "answers" to the word-problems in the book, so that a peep into the supplement may not be amiss, to relieve your mind if such should be the case. The book is sent to you to while away your time and not in any sense to cause you worry, but rather to forget the "problems of state," which have so sorely beset you. Incidentally, it may open up to you a field of literary pastime in which you may not have been aware or familiar.

In passing, I might say that the book, "Real Puzzles," was presented by our president, Dr. W. L. Sacrey of Philadelphia, to Rear Admiral Byrd to interest and amuse his crew on their South Pole cruise, where it now is aboard ship at Antarctica.

Hoping that you will have a fine trip and that your voyage will be altogether enjoyable and carefree, I remain,

Yours most sincerely,

John Q. Boyer,

Editor-in-chief "Real Puzzles."

("PRIMROSE.")

P. S.--As a little secret, I would call your attention to the following verses among others of my own composition in the book: No. 8, page 249; No. 11, page 251, and No. 18, page 255--all showing that my wife has brown eyes and sings! No. 8 I composed a-courting when a young man before our marriage, 41 years ago. No. 61, page 122, is by my wife, "Pearlie Glen"--a transposition I made of her maiden name, Nellie Grape. (In noting No. 18 you may see a seeming dissimilarity; but Nellie is a nickname for Helen.)

My dear Col. Howe:

As one who has helped the President carry forward the Civilian Conservation Corps, you will, I feel sure, be interested in reading "Youth Rebuilds, Stories From the C. C. C." The book has just been published by The American Forestry Association and because it is an expression from the C. C. C. boys themselves, it has been dedicated to President Roosevelt and the men who have helped him carry forward the Corps.

It gives me great pleasure to send you today, with my compliments, a copy of the book. I hope it may have your reading.

Dear Colonel McIntyre:

September 1 marks the opening day of the oyster season and if it meets the approval of the President I would like to present him a supply of oysters on that day. In view of the fact that the oyster industry has been in serious straits during the past several years and the fact that they are making a great effort to restore that business, I am sure it will be very helpful if the industry can get the benefit of the publicity that would result from the presentation of these oysters.

Please give this matter your immediate attention and advise me.

Memorandum for COMMISSIONER BELL

Subject: Opening Oyster Season, 1934

In view of the fact that the President will be up at Hyde Park on the opening day of the oyster season, it may be a little difficult to carry out the suggestion in your letter of August twenty-fourth.

However, if you care to have them delivered there, I am quite sure the President would enjoy them.

Confidentially, I question a little bit the propriety of making any special play out of it. It is not a good idea to start using the President "promotionally" even for one of the industries.

Please advise me.

Dear Mr. MacIntyre:

Referring to your memorandum of August 25, regarding the sending of oysters to the President at Hyde Park on the Opening day of the oyster season, I should like to say that I heartily agree with you as to the impropriety of the gift and surely do not wish to use the President in such a promotional adventure, even for one of the industries; however this had previously been the custom for years past under previous administrations, and I did not want to be criticized for overlooking the President at this time. Unless I hear further from you, there will be no further attempt at making this little shipment.

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt, Pres.

Dear Mr. Roosevelt:

We are sending you a package of "OLD IRONSIDES" Thompson grapes in a car billed to Philadelphia. Our representative, Mr. B. M. Young will forward it on to you by express on or about Monday, August 20th. We trust it will reach you in good condition and that you and your family will enjoy eating the grapes as much as we enjoy sending them. "We" includes the man who superintended the growing, the Italian boy who packed the box and the owners of the vineyard from which it came. We know you are a very busy man but it would please us if you could see the package before it is disturbed. We think it is quite a sight.

Everything seems to be looking on the upgrade with our industry except the lifting of the embargo on grapes from Spain. We are truly concerned about this. However, we have faith in the ability of the administration to work out the greatest good for all concerned and will hope that California will not suffer too greatly.

With every good wish for your continued success, we remain

Dear Mr. President:

I would like to know if the gift I put in your hands in front of the Municipal Building at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico was of your desire. That cane was prepared by myself here at Mayaguez, Puerto Rico, and especially for yourself.

I was an enlisted man at the Canal Zone, Panama and serving with Company "G" 42nd Infantry, discharged on November 17/24 per E.T.S. and anxious to give you something new I decided to work this cane as a true and sincere remembrance of a man from Puerto Rico to the greatest man in the whole world.

Keep that cane Honorable President, because my desires were fulfilled at your recent visit to our lovable and splendid Puerto Rico.

Respectfully yours,

Commends to the President's attention, book entitled "The General Welfare Clause" written by Mr. James F. Lawson, Assistant General Counsel for the Federal Power Commission. The book is an exposition of the powers of Congress under the general welfare clause of the Constitution, and as a whole, is in support of the President's wonderful attempts to remedy by law the situation that confronted him on March 4, 1933. Mr. Russell says he is asking Mr. Lawson to personally mail to the President a copy of the book for his examination.

Attached is copy of letter dated August 31 from Mr. Lawson to the President, by which he says he sends copy of his brief on the General Welfare Clause of the Constitution, which he says contains the answer to the screed now emanating from the kept lawyers of the American Bar Association and the pseudo American Liberty League, and is a constitutional argument for the New Deal.

SEE LAWSON.
