Years a Fighting Democrat

K. S. "Bob" Walton has just rounded out his fiftieth year as editor of the Armstrong, Missouri, Herald and it is only fitting and proper that a boquet of appreciation be pinned in the lapel of the coat of this splendid and militant Democratic editor. In days of victory and in days of defeat—in season and out of season—he has fought the battles of the Democratic Party ably, fearlessly and fairly—never asking for nor giving quarter. He is the type of a Democrat whose loyalty is unswerving and who can always be depended upon to come through in a fine and admirable way. And he, also, is that remarkable kind of a Democratic editor who fights only the enemy, and never the members within his own political ranks. His brilliant pen has been active in every campaign in everyone of the fifty years he has so courageously edited the Herald, and the fruits of his labors have been good. On the fiftieth anniversary of his editorship, the Democracy of Missouri salutes this stalwart defender of the faith. He has rendered his state and his party distinctive service. All honor to his name.—Cance Pool, Democratic Publicity Bureau.

Mr. Walton went to Jefferson City to the state legislature in 1909, 1911, 1913, and 1915. For one term he served as clerk in the legislature.

During the four years that Gardener was governor, from 1916-1920, Mr. Walton was a member of the State Hospital Board at Fulton. He has also served three and one-half years as Superintendent of the Confederate Home at Higginville.

In 1936 he was a Democratic elector at large and made a trip to Washington on the Governor Stark Special. At a banquet at the Mayflower Hotel, he dined with electors from every state in the union, and had as honor guest at his table Mayor Dickmann of St. Louis.

Mr. Walton has been an important member of the Missouri Democratic Press Association, and has served for the past twelve years as treasurer of that organization.
