Writer is preparing a booklet which he entitles "War-time Prayers for Those at Home". Asks President's permission to use certain material taken from one of his utterances for a prayer which he will caption "President Roosevelt's Prayer."

Mr. Early on 1-18-43, advised him that this is alright in itself, but is afraid it would be misleading if he used the title "President Roosevelt's Prayer". Asks that he make it plain that the prayer is an adaption rather than an original composition. writer also enclosed a booklet entitled "Prayers for Men in Service".

OLDS, Hon. Leland
Federal Power Commission,
March 6, 1943.

Writes to the President saying that Ricardo Lane Bertolacci of Los Angeles and a member of Mr. Olds' staff, asked him (Mr. Olds) to send the President the enclosed copy of Roche's "Euclid", which as the accompanying note from Mr. Bertolacci explains, came from the library of the U.S. S. Delaware, the first United States warship to dock in a government-owned drydock. Mr. Olds called the President's attention to the fact that the President commemorated the 100th anniversary of this event at Norfolk Navy Yard on Dunker Hill Day, 1933. ---The President, March 10th, wrote to Mr. Bertolacci thanking him for the copy of Roche's "Euclid". The President said its association with the Old U.S. S. Delaware carried him back to the early days of the U.S. Navy and that it was also a very fine specimen of old American printing and that he was delighted to have it.

The authors of the attached book have asked me to give this copy to you. The book is a fascinating story of how the Germans, through their cartel system, patent control, and their agreements with American manufacturers attempted to interfere with our munitions production.

The book has a very definite bearing upon post-war policy in this country. After reading it one cannot help but feel that one of the big things we will have to do after the war is to free the economic system from artificial restrictions, both internal and international.

Dear Mr. President:

I am one of the many who through your sponsorship, had been employed by the Work Projects Administration. Through this organization, I was given the chance to study topographical drafting of domestic and foreign maps; which I have now made my life's work.

I am now employed by the War Department on a War Service - appointment - Indefinite, for the U. S. Army Map Service, U. S. Lake Survey Branch, New York Unit and draft topographical maps that is being done to hurry up the war and for us to come out the Victors.

In appreciation of all this, I am enclosing a token of said appreciation, which I hope will remain with you always.

The above was made by hand-as it is a hobby of mine, which I learned to do in a hospital being treated for a paralyzed leg.

Hoping you enjoy using it as I have enjoyed making it. I remain,

Respectfully yours,

Wrote to the President saying that in his studies he had come across a statute passed by the Virginia assembly of 1658 that may have some interest for the President. It reveals something of the antiquity in American life of the problem of executive war powers and their relationship to the popular concern for the preservation of representative government. The citation is William Waller Hening, The Statutes-at-Large, Being a Collection of all the Laws of Virginia, I, 355. - - The President replied, Mar. 24, 1943, thanking Prof. Craven for the item of early colonial history. The President said that it certainly proves that, with allowances for changes in machinery, history itself changes little in its trends and objectives within a given nation over hundreds of years, further states that he is very glad to have the quotation. Penciled notations. "Please make copy of Prof. Craven's letter and give to Judge Rosenman for speech material." - - Copy of Prof. Craven's letter made and marked for Judge Rosenman, 3/24/43.

SCHMITT, Waldo L.,
U. S. National Museum,
Smithsonian Institution
March 24, 1943

Writes to the President recalling to him the new species of palm that they got on Cocos Island during the 1938 cruise which Dr. O. P. Cook described and named for the President, Rooseveltia frankliniana. Tells of Dr. Cook's interest in the "comings and goings" of the President; says that the President's recent African visit moved Dr. Cook to bring the writer a brief study of his entitled "A Scientific Approach to African Colonization". States "I am sure it will appeal to you as much as it has to me". Dr. Schmitt states that in this study Dr. Cook has gathered together a great many things of interest bearing on African colonization and the American Negro, including the reproduction of a portion of a rare and generally forgotten exposition of a "Plan for liberating the Negroes within the United States", advanced by Ferdinando Fairfax, of Richmond, Va., in 1790. Expresses his opinion that Africa is in for a reawakening, in the light of current events taking place there. Adds that should the President be so moved, Dr. Cook would, he is sure, deeply appreciate some little word of acknowledgment of the enclosed reprints.--On 3/30/43 the President wrote to Dr. Cook thanking him for making it possible for him to see Dr. Cook's study, above mentioned. The President states that "Both my recent trip to Liberia and Dr. Schmitt's complimentary description add to the interest with which I look forward to an opportunity to peruse it."--The President, on 3/30/43, also wrote to Dr. Schmitt thanking him in connection with above, and stating, in part: "Your reference to our 1938 cruise brought pleasant memories, and I heartily reciprocate your good wishes."

Dear Mr. President:

I am sending an old Bible once owned by a member of the Roosevelt family. I happened to find it in an antique shop in Marion, Virginia while doing some shopping there one day, and I purchased it hoping it might be of some interest to you. If you will notice throughout the Bible you will find dates and writings which may by some coincident mean something to you.

It seems the Bible was owned by a
C. M. Roosevelt, 99th Street, Washington, D. C., and who may be of some relation to you.

Sincerely yours,

PENDAR, Kenneth
Foreign Service of the United States,
Marrakech, Morocco,
March 9, 1943.

Writes to the President saying he is sending him a souvenir of the President's visit to Marrakech. The writer says he hopes the President will enjoy it and he wishes that he could deliver it in person. Says that the President's visit was such a pleasure and an honor for him.---The President, March 31st, wrote to Mr. Kenneth Pendar saying that the wonderful collection of prints has arrived and will always be a reminder of his visit to Marrakech. The President said he thought that if he had ever done water colors that he would have stayed over with Mr. Churchill. The President commented on the beauty of the house and the gardens at which Mr. Pendar lived. The President said it seems difficult to realize in those peaceful surroundings that French North Africa has become such a political football - that Marrakech hospitality and charm seemed far from wars and rumors of wars. The President thanked Mr. Pendar for his hospitality and said it was good to see him. (penciled note - Series A and a copy of P's letter with it) (book at Hyde Park Library)
