MILL & FACTORY

The NATIONAL MAGAZINE OF MANAGEMENT - PRODUCTION - MAINTENANCE

PUBLISHED BY CONOVER-MAST CORPORATION

205 EAST 42ND STREET
NEW YORK, N.Y.

December 3, 1942

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt
The White House
Washington, D. C.

My dear President Roosevelt:

We are sending you a personal book-bound copy of the "Know-How" issue of MILL & FACTORY and ask that you accept it with our compliments.

We are honestly proud of this production - not because it carries the largest volume of editorial and advertising ever recorded in a single issue of an industrial or business magazine, but because virtually every one of its more than 800 pages is packed with technical information especially designed to aid American industry in its battle against the Axis.

The sole consideration in building this issue has been "aid to war production." Every publishing tradition that interfered with this concept has been thrown overboard. The traditional make-up of the magazine has been altered so that the editorial content begins on page one -- and our preferred position advertisers have gladly cooperated by releasing their regular positions to make this possible.

The greater part of the editorial content (such as that treating with the care and use of tools and equipment, etc.) has been supplied by the producers of these products -- the engineers of almost 2000 manufacturers participated in this compilation and the vast majority of advertisers have especially prepared their advertisements to supply information that will enable their customers to use and maintain their tools and equipment with greatest efficiency. Much of the information in the advertisements ranks equal in value to that of the editorial content itself. In fact, this entire production might well be termed a handbook --- produced by industry for industry --- with the publishers doing the assembly job.

Every page of this issue gives the lie to those proponents of the totalitarian state who shout that industry operating under a democratic system cannot cooperate in time of national emergency. We admit that such cooperation as is shown in this number would be beyond the conception or understanding of Hitler, Hirohito, and their satellites. And we predict that American industry, through this same spirit of cooperation, will soon overwhelm their slave labor production.

We hope that you too will find this number of value, and will find ways of using it to aid war production.

We will, naturally, be interested in receiving any comments that you may care to make.

Very truly yours,

Harvey Conover

Mr. President:

Because we believe in you and know you like the beautiful things of life, we are sending you under separate cover two of the beauties of this Oregon country, which we hope will bring to you some pleasure and a moment of relief from the cares of this world.

In this moss agate you will see
Found in the State of Oregon
That Nature forms a perfect "V",
To say our war soon will be won.

Just below a gun points high
To back up our demand;
That Axis planes fall from the sky,
On sea and on the land.

Out here in Oregon State,
We have many beauties to show;
Of some we make a paper-weight,
So all the world may know.

This paper weight that you now see,
Once looked like an ugly stone;
But cut and polished we set free
Greater beauty than was known.

Geologists say nodule's the word,
But we call it a thunder egg.
We'll thunder on 'til all have heard,
Our enemies get down and beg.

In spite of the wartorn world, we still have many beautiful things in life, and we are inclosing a copy of the poem "Hidden Beauties", written by our friend.

Wishing you the best of health and success in your effort to make this world a better place in which to live, I remain

In Central Oregon, there are places where you can find what are commonly called, "Thunder Eggs." These are a round stone substance, curious, but not beautiful on the outside, when cut open they reveal agate stone of rainbow colors and every design, very beautiful.

The beauties hidden by the rough exterior of these curious works of nature, caused the author to write,

HIDDEN BEAUTIES

Copyright 1942

By Augustus M. Forby

Perhaps you've walked by hillside or stream,
Seen many things you called just stone;
When if opened, you would see a dream
Of beauty you have never known.

Many things are hidden away,
By the Maker of earth and skies;
But if we search we'll find things gay
And pleasing to our eyes.

The Thunder Egg, is not beautiful to see,
If you look only on the outside;
Just open it and you will free,
Great beauty that will always abide.

The mountain peaks so rugged and bare,
The lakes and fast rushing streams;
All are beautiful, bright and fair,
But hidden away are beautiful dreams.

The forms and faces of women and men,
May not be beautiful and fair;
But study their acts and I'm sure you can,
Find many beauties there.

We've only to search for the hidden things,
The good we don't often see;
Then we will have a heart that sings,
Because we have set love free.

Many faces would not win at a beauty show,
While hidden in the heart and mind;
Are beauties that cause the face to glow,
With acts that are true and kind.

Don't judge folks by their outward looks,
Search the heart and soul for a guide;
You see it is not the cover of books,
But that which is printed, inside.

Critcher Sends Agate Collection For Children

J. W. Critcher, owner of Central Oregon Agate shop, has prepared more than 100 specimens, including agates, nodules and thunder eggs, which he is to present to the Warm Springs infantile paralysis foundation of Warm Springs, Ga.

All the stones were found in Central Oregon by Critcher. Many fine agates, beautifully marked, are included in the collection, which Critcher feels will prove interesting and educational to the many children receiving treatment at the foundation, which is sponsored by President Roosevelt.

Critcher also is sending as a gift to President Roosevelt his prized "Victory agate," which has a "V-for-Victory" as its outstanding marking. In addition, he is giving the president a thunder egg. Letters have been written to accompany the gifts.

Dear Miss Tully:

I have made a larger reproduction of the parchment illumination of the Atlantic Charter, and I am mailing one to you with my best wishes for a happy and peaceful New Year.

I wonder if you can delegate some member of your staff to make up a list of the newly elected Congressmen, particularly Republican members, to all of whom I would like to send a copy such as yours.

I think it would do them good to memorize the contents of this wonderful document prior to the next session of Congress, which I believe convenes January 6th.

Unless I am mistaken, and I hope I am, many of these newly elected Republicans, are, to put it mildly, not in full accord with our Commander in Chief, and a lesson such as is contained in that document, might throw the fear of God in their hearts.

Again wishing you the Season's Best, I beg to remain

Kenneth Shaffer

one of the Senior's at Waac Litton
High School, Nashville, Tenn. is very gifted in drawing. In a recent exhibit as a history project, he entered this drawing of the President with one of Washington, and one of Wilson to represent three of our struggles for freedom.

This little note conveys the President's hearty thanks to you and to the members of your family for the card of Christmas greetings. He wants you to know that he more than appreciates the friendly thought which prompted the presentation of that handsome patriotic picture and the embroidered piece, and asks me to convey his very best wishes to all of you for the Christmas Season.

Very sincerely yours,

Grace G. Tully

Has the drawing of the President been acknowledged -- I want to get rid of this letter -- file it or something.

I think the picture is unsuited
for an eighteen-year-old boy. Last year in Modern History his portraits were of Shakespeare and Napoleon.

It is with a great deal
of pleasure that I am enclosing this note with
the picture as he wishes
it to be presented to the President as a personal Christmas present. With best wishes for a delightful Christmas

LPS.

Yours sincerely

The happiness of Christmas
Is like the friendly cheer
That you are always giving
To others through the year,

And so a heap of gladness
And special meaning, too,
Is in this Merry Christmas wish
Especially for You. — Family
