My dear Mr. Dangel:

Mr. Early has referred to me your letter of May second, as I arrange all appointments for the President.

I am sorry it will be impossible for you to present the first copy of your book on the Law of Labor Unions to the President in person. Just now, however, when the pressure on him is so heavy we are having to ask his friends to excuse him from appointments of this kind.

I will be glad to receive the book on the President's behalf if you care to drop in here at the Executive Offices or mail it to me. This, under the circumstances, is about the best I can do but I am sure you understand and will wish to cooperate.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

Mr. Stephen Early,
Secretary to the President,
White House,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

Having recently completed a book on the Law of Labor Unions which is dedicated to and contains a picture of the President, I am taking the liberty of asking whether I may personally hand him the first copy off the press.

I intend to be at the American Law Institute next Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, May 6 - 8, 1941, inclusive, and I would appreciate it if you would get in touch with me at the Mayflower Hotel.

If it is impossible to personally present the book to the President, I will be pleased to leave it with you.

Very truly yours,

Edward M. Dangel

Dear Mr. Dushaw:

I have received your letter of May third and wish to advise you that a thorough search of our files discloses no record of the receipt of the book, "The Man Called Jesus", by the White House.

Permit me to explain, however, that even if the book had been received it would have been impossible to comply with your request. Ever since the President assumed his present office, he has strictly adhered to a policy not to comment in any way on the many books, manuscripts, etc., that come to his attention. I know you will understand how difficult it would be for him to make an exception to this rule.

Very sincerely yours,

Why I Wrote This Book?

I wrote this book because I felt the need for such a book in all Christian circles.

To give more correct views of the Palestine of Jesus' Times: His home, family, environment, educational background, and friends.

To let the readers see Jesus as He was known to His closest friends, unobstructed by traditional, unhistorical, racial, and sectarian prejudices, and interpreted in the light of His times and succeeding Christian ages.

In the company of foremost American and European Biblical scholars and archeologists I saw most of the places trod by Jesus in Galilee, Samaria, and Judea. This gave me the necessary background and atmosphere for the production of this life of Jesus.

REVIEWS

Book shows the Christ in New Light. A new interpretation done by a scholarly minister. A new or Fifth Gospel, is presented.

New York World-Telegram

Without evasion or dilution we are offered what is meant evangelically by the incarnation.

New York Times

The book is particularly valuable for the realistic background it gives to Jesus's life.

Brooklyn Eagle

A vast mine for sermon material.

The Christian Herald

Particularly valuable at this time.

Democrat and Chronicle, Rochester, N.Y.

A history of Jesus designed to offset the criticisms aimed at Christianity by the new pagan religions of the Collectivists countries.

Washington Star

Worthy of a place in every home and school. Its reading is an inspiration to young and old.

Boston Herald

A new approach to the life of Jesus.

Atlanta Constitution

A challenge to the ideologies of racialism, nationalism, communism and fascism.

Milwaukee Journal

This book could be used as a text for the study of the life of our Lord to great advantage.

The Expositor

The book calls us back to the real Jesus.

Pennsylvania Herald

Especially helpful to pastors and teachers.

Biblical Recorder

Worthy of a conspicuous place in any library, public or private.

Religious Telescope

A real help to ministers and teachers. Should have a place in every Christian home.

Don Maust, Uniontown, Penn.

All religionists will read this book with pleasure, for they will gain clearer concepts of the life of Christ Jesus.

Christian Science Monitor

A very useful volume about the Master.

The Christian-Evangelist—

National Weekly of the Disciples of Christ

The author has done a fine piece of work. He has reconstructed for the reader the life and times of Jesus. Will be a great help to all who teach.

United Presbyterian

Should prove helpful to lecturers, teachers, and preachers.

Church School Magazine

It pictures Jesus in new light, challenging the ideologies of this age.

The Tennessean, Nashville, Tenn.

You have done your work well and made all students of the life of Christ indebted to you.

Joseph R. Sizoo, minister of the Collegiate Church of St. Nicholas, New York City

This volume is so valuable and the message is presented in such a forceful way that it should have a place in every Christian home. We are indebted to the author and publishers for its real usefulness.

Waichman Examiner

This book, well written and well arranged, will no doubt hasten the day when a church may be founded upon the actual teachings of Christ.

Winnipeg Free Press

Jesus lives and moves through these pages. Our author becomes a guide and interpreter of more than casual ability. This life of our Lord is a most creditable one.

Augsburg Teacher

This book is one of beauty and such worth as to give us a new appreciation of our Lord.

SUBJECTS OF LECTURES

The Rev. Amos I. Dushaw, M.A., B.D., has preached and lectured from coast to coast, on ships, in colleges and universities, Open Forums, in Europe and in the Near East. He has written very extensively on the Mediterranean Lands, and was associated with the American Institute of Oriental Research at Jerusalem. He has prepared several lectures which are of a timely, educational and inspirational nature.

1. Why I wrote the book "The Man Called Jesus."
2. The Lure of the Mediterranean, illustrated with slides from pictures taken by the lecturer on his many tours of the Mediterranean Lands. In this lecture are to be seen the key places there with their present-day conflicting interests: Gibraltar, Spain, Algiers, Tunis, the French Riviera, Italy, Greece, Turkey, Egypt, Syria, and Palestine.
3. Palestine: Biblical and Modern, illustrated. Here the lecturer shows the places of Biblical interest, and the new influences shaping the future destiny of the Land sacred to Jews, Christians, and Mohammedans.
4. The BIBLE. WHAT IS IT?
"Amos I. Dushaw has contributed to the Christian Herald some notable articles on present-day Palestine, many of which have been reprinted not only in this country, but in England, France, Italy, and Germany."

The Christian Herald

"We the members of the Mediterranean Cruise on the S.S. Lapland, desire to express our hearty appreciation of the lectures on the Mediterranean Lands given by the Rev. Amos I. Dushaw."

The secular and religious press of the United States and Canada have acclaimed this work on the life of Jesus of monumental importance for these critical times. It will be of inestimable value to all ministers and teachers. Order your copy at once from, and also for open lecture dates:

My dear Mr. Early:

A few months ago I sent the President my book "The Man Called Jesus." My reason for sending it was that I appreciated his comment on the social objectives of primitive Christianity which I quoted on page 167. I did not get word that it was received. If it has gone astray I shall be glad to send him another copy. I am wholeheartedly in sympathy with the President's Foreign Policies.

P. 9-15
The writer, a former colonel of engineers in the Russian Imperial Army, submits to the President for his information, his book entitled "Reflections on Modern Fortification" which was published in Argentina in 1937. In it, he describes the old method of warfare and the new method which he predicts; he compares them. He says that no attention was paid to his work in Europe and hopes that the American Army will benefit thereby and will avoid the mistakes which brought on disaster in Europe.

He is always ready to collaborate.

Son Excellence

Monsieur le Président de la République des Etats-Unis d'Amérique du Nord.

WASHINGTON (U.S.A.)

Votre Excellence,

J'ai l'honneur de soumettre a votre attention mon ouvrage, "Consideraciones Sobre La Fortificacion Moderna", publié en Argentine en 1937.

Dans ce livre-comme vous pourrez vous en rendre compte-, me basant sur l'analyse des opérations de la Grande Guerre et sur la course aux Armements qui l'a suivie, j'ai exposé divers facteurs, que je citerai rapidement afin de ne pas abuser de votre temps :

- L'opportunité du système défensif de la Hollande et de la Belgique
- Les causes de la faiblesse de la Ligne Maginot
- Indication très exacte du lieu de rupture inévitable du Front Français par l'armée Allemande, dans une guerre ultérieure (Sedan)
- De l'impossibilité d'une lutte entre deux armées dont l'une serait organisée selon de vieux principes, contre une combinaison de forces mobiles d'une armée moderne.
- Tactique des armes nouvelles et principes stratégiques qui allaient naître de nouveau.
- Les proportions entre diverses armes ne correspondent pas du tout aux nécessités du moment; nouvelle formule à cet effet.
- Les forteresses, ces "places-points", ne pouvaient prétendre, ainsi que les positions fortifiées datant de la fin de la Grande Guerre, à leur rôle défensif.
- Les têtes de pont, étroites, sont des pièges pour leurs propres garnisons, étant donnés les moyens actuels de l'attaque.

- Indication de nouvelles méthodes de guerre de montagnes et de défense des cours d'eau.
- Avantages des régions géographiques fortifiées.
- Supériorité des voies de terre sur les chemins de fer pour la manoeuvre des armées.
- Nécessité et technique de la création des zones passives stratégiques.
- Caractéristique comparative des barrières tactiques, dites "infranchissables".
- Le système de défense contre des forces cuirassées avec champs de mine n'atteint pas toujours son but.
- Pour la première fois dans la littérature mondiale, j'ai décrit (avec croquis), les puissants systèmes anti-tancks.

Ma voix n'a été entendue par personne en Europe, à l'exclusion, certainement, de l'Allemagne qui suit très attentivement tout ce qui paraît dans la littérature militaire moderne universelle.

Malheureusement, les faits m'ont donné raison et mes prévisions se sont vues justifiées.

Tous les pays attaqués par l'armée Allemande, qui avait su adapter de nouvelles méthodes, ont été écrasés dans un délai étonnamment court. Les armées défendant ces pays, malgré un esprit de sacrifice et un héroïsme inouïs, ont été coupées en morceaux, écrasées et capturées. Toutes les lignes défensives et les positions fortifiées tombaient comme des châteaux de carte.

J'aurai voulu que la jeune armée des Etats-Unis ait entendu ma voix, devenue, hélas, prophétique et pour que dans son organisation et sa instruction les fautes qui occasionnèrent la débâcle de l'Europe ne soient pas répétées.

En outre, cette guerre nous apporte une nouvelle expérience et nous indique de nouvelles méthodes de lutte dans les conditions modernes, expérience qui ne sera pas reflétée dans la littérature militaire moderne jusqu'à la fin de la guerre, car celle-ci est étouffée dans le Vieux Continent.

Si mon expérience et mes connaissances militaires pouvaient vous paraître utiles dans la lutte, peut-être inévitable, pour la cause sacrée de la défense de la civilisation, des démocraties et de la liberté, vous pouvez à n'importe quel moment compter sur ma collaboration, et, si vous le désirez, je suis à votre complète disposition.

Ayant quitté le Paraguay depuis deux ans, je suis actuellement Ins-pecteur des Voies et Bâtiments dans une Compagnie de chemins de fer.

Avec l'expression de mon plus parfait dévouement, j'ai l'honneur de prier Votre Excellence de bien vouloir agréer l'expression de mes plus respectueux sentiments.

LEAHY, Hon. William D.
Ambassador of the United States
Vichy, France
April 26, 1941

Wrote to Miss LeHand stating that on a recent visit to Limoges he was told by Mr. Barrett, former Sec. Gen. of the Union Federale de Combattants de Limousin, an organization that has been absorbed by the Legion des Combattants, that in 1938 the Union Federale took up a subscription and purchased a beautiful dinner set of porcelain to be presented to President Roosevelt as a token of appreciation of his efforts in the interest of world peace. Dinner set was especially designed and made by the Theodore Haviland Company and was shipped by that company on May 17, 1939. It was addressed to Mr. Howard Fyfe, U.S. Despatch Agent, NYC, presumably with instructions from the American Embassy in Paris that it be delivered to the President. Donors of this present have not received an acknowledgment of its receipt, and Ambassador Leahy is unable to check the records. Asks Miss LeHand to look into this matter. -- Attached is Miss Tully's memo of June 2, 1941, to Mr. Ingling asking him to see if they thanked for this china. -- The President replied on June 17, 1941, that the dinner set was a munificent gift, and asking Ambassador Leahy to convey his hearty thanks to those responsible for the presentation of the set.

PLEASE

In presenting this MYTHOLOGICAL STORY as a Symbol of Mankind's Adversity and Final Purpose, I want to state that I have been urged to do so by a few well-meaning persons who think it has value, and since they think that, I have "what is what" about it, I have decided to submit my story to you as a public.

- : M A N : -

A CHRONO-ANALOGY SYMBOLIZING MANKIND'S
STRUGGLES, CONFLICTS AND GAINS
THROUGHOUT THE CENTURIES WITH AN INTRODUCTION

ALLEGORICALLY EXPLAINING
THE CREATION OF WORLDS AND LIFE
IN LIEU OF ACTUAL KNOWLEDGE THEREOF.

- : * : -

In writing the MYTHOLOGICAL STORY, I borrowed a few of the standard myths of the world - those which were the lower portion of the world and later portions in the later periods of the world. The majority of people who interest themselves in the world are myths. It is not those who may not know what I have written. But in the world, people who are not the world, are the world. But the world, all of the world will use the world, to explain the world. The world is just an allegorical "world" of the world. I have gathered up a few of the world. It probably will have no value for a knowledge of the world. They will be the world, and the world of the world. But, as it is, you will have to be content.
My concepts are very limited in all things, and as they are, they are not offered in explanation of the world, as reflected from the world and the world of "what is it all about" and how it all began.

P R E F A C E

In presenting this EMBLEMATIC SHIELD as a Symbol of Mankind's Achievements and Final Purposes, I want to state that I have been urged to do so by a few well-meaning persons who think it has merit, and since they think they know "what is What" about Art, Beauty and "Fish", I have yielded to their urgings to present it to the public.

I make no claim for any of the finer grants of knowledge in ART, or of things "ARTY" (if there be such a word and, if so, whatever may be its meaning, or if ART has any meaning or purpose at all). Consequently, I do not concern myself one iota as to whether it meets in technical and artistic detail the conventional and orthodox requirements supposedly attendant and essential to approval, acceptance and appreciation. It is solely my own concepts done in my own way to please myself: I like it, and if "John Public" does not - "So What"!

However, I am cognizant of the fact that the majority of people who view a painting or piece of sculpture do so in the hope and expectancy that it will add to their knowledge, and unless some effort is made to cater to this inherent and common desire of the lay public, which seldom is done, the object of a painting or piece of sculpture becomes just so much adornment and nothing else. Therefore, I think it only consistent to make some attempt to explain what the Emblem and Symbol endeavors to portray and tell.

In creating the Emblematic Shield, I borrowed a few of the standard, orthodox symbols of Art - those which grace the lower portion of each column, and those contained in the side panels in the center of the emblem. The majority of people who interest themselves in Art know what these symbols represent. It is for those who may not know that I make explanation. BUT, in the panel directly beneath the Wreath, where is pictured Primitive Man and the Dragon, all of the public will need the significance explained. The explanation which follows is just an allegorical "hodge-podge" of knowledge I have gathered as I traveled the years. It probably will have no more value from a standpoint of Literature than will the painting have from a standpoint of Art. But, such as it is, you will just have to be content. My concepts are very limited in all things but, such as they are, they are now offered in explaining this Emblem of Man, as reflected from my ideas and thoughts of "what it is all about" and how it all began.

A CHRONO-ANALOGY OF MAN

AN ALLEGORY

("ex proprils")

Our Universe is surrounded by an unlimited mass of Indefiniteness called Space. It is also called "COSMOS", but only by those who have been worn and wearied by virginity, or those who have given up all hope of finding joys and pleasures through materiality. COSMOS is one of the chief figures and "villains" of our tale, so I thought it best to explain just who, what and where it is, that its color is black, and that it serves as the base for the Emblem. Black is ever synonymous with mystery and, when one deals with mystery, one explanation is as good as another. Hence my right to the following explanation of the Emblem:

In the vast, unlimited depths and expansiveness of COSMOS, veiled behind gray and black mists, are hid the essence and forces from which emanate the Substances of Worlds and Life. These emerge into Forces and Forms apart, and Forces within Forms, all of which are ever at constant struggle and conflict with one another, each striving for domination and mastery over the other through absorption or annihilation.

In the lost score of aeons, before Time began, the Essence of Light within the Cosmos successfully waged war with the Darker elements therein and, overpowering these Darker elements and forces, escaped, driving before it in its flight from Cosmos some Substance and Force. But, Substance, being weighty and bulky, could not travel with the speed of Light and Force, so Light and Force became One, without Substance. So swift the flight of Light and Force there is ever a constant powerful momentum in their wake into which is attracted and pulled the Essence and Matter of Substance, and these all partake lightly of Light and Force's energy. This results and produces a constant conflict and friction between Force and Matter, from which occur an ever growing and constant change of Force and Matter into varying Forms.

These varying Forms are Worlds and Life. The more solid, stolid and heavier Forms, whose dominant essence is Matter, represent the Inorganic or the inanimate and immobile Forms. The soft, absorbing, resilient and flexible Forms, whose dominant essence is Force, represent the Organic, ie. the animate, moving and living Forms. The more numerous and balanced the essence of Force and Matter within a Unit of Form the more constant and virulent becomes the Animation, Conflict, Change and Endurance, all of which are verities of LIGHT, channelled to Direction and Purpose with Light. Direction and Purpose beget both Understanding and Will, and these in turn beget Intelligence and Spirit. The outstanding exemplification of Intelligence and Spirit contained in one Form is to be found in MAN - Light's Greatest and Most Prized Creation.

COSMOS, angry over the escape of Light with some of the Substance and Forces from Cosmos, planned revenge and reprisal. He gathered together all the most powerfully destructive elements and forces within Cosmos and moulding them into the created form of a Dragon sent it forth to destroy Light and Light's creations. Cosmos, being fearful that its own creation, the Dragon, might also escape, spiked his tail securely into the deep-rooted recesses of its domain. Thus he could be fed all the destructive elements of Cosmos and belch forth this destruction to the World and Life as created by LIGHT.

The DRAGON embodies all the five (5) most potent forces of destruction, ie. Earthquake, Fire, Flood, Famine and Tornado. These destructive forces are all represented by a separate fork of the tongue in the mouth of the Dragon, each fork being free to work its power of destruction, or to work in unison with the other forks of the tongue in venting their havoc and fury on the World and its Life.

Using all the foregoing allegory as the basis for the Emblem and its inspiration, I make further explanation of its meaning and portrayal.

A CHRONO-ANALOGY OF MAN

THE EXPLANATION

THE BLACK BASE:

This represents COSMOS from which emanates all the essence that surrounds the Universe.

THE CENTER BASE PANEL:

This depicts Man's struggle and fight with the Dragon. He has a spear, representing his courage and spirit, and a firmly grasped stone-bladed cudgel (primitive hunting axe), held aloft in his left hand, crudely fashioned in the shape of a cross - symbolic of Faith.

More Allegory

Man eventually subdues and subjugates the Dragon but is kept at constant alertness, struggle and labor to thwart his growing and regaining the full strength of his powerfully destructive forces. This constancy of alertness, struggle and conflict begot in Man an extension of his forces and the development of faculties which added to his resources for survival. Through the necessity and compulsion of utilizing these newer faculties, he began to develop and progress. This Progress has been both material and spiritual - being Substance with Force, and Force without Substance. The spiritual aspects and achievements of Man are represented in the Left column, while the material aspects and gains are represented in the Right column. Both columns showing an ever widening expansion as they emerge toward the Light.

Emerging out of Cosmos contains three of the standard symbols of Art I borrowed, namely, ART, EDUCATION, SCIENCE.

ART:-

Appearing in the lowest position of the column is an Artist's Palette always symbolic of Art. It was in Art or drawing that Man manifested his first cultural or mental advance - he drew before he had a language to write.

"I pictured his fall
On the cavern wall
That Men might understand, ***"
"Evolution"

It was from such drawings that, in time, Man begot:

EDUCATION -

Represented by the Book and Lamp. Education was the next forward step in his advance, which led him to:

SCIENCE -

Represented by the Chemist's Retort. The elements of Art, Education and Science combined make for:

KNOWLEDGE -

Symbolized by the Torch of Knowledge, as shown in the circular panel to the left of the column. The Flame from the Torch of Knowledge lights the way to Peace, Progress, and Prosperity.

PEACE -

Crowning the ever-expanding column representing Man's cultural and spiritual advancement - makes for:

PROGRESS -

Crowning the panel, denoting Man's struggles and conflicts, - makes for:

PROSPERITY -

Crowns the ever-expanding column of Man's Material gains and achievements through his physical labors and struggles.

These physical and material achievements of Man are symbolized by the Art Symbols of:

LABOR

LABOR -

Represented by the crossed pick and shovel. Man's early primitive labors were devoid of permanency, being governed solely by his wandering and predatory habits. It took many hundreds of years before he acquired the intelligence to dedicate his labors to a planned purpose, and when he did his first application was in:

AGRICULTURE -

Represented by the standard Art symbol of the Plow. It was through Agriculture that Man began to utilize the forces and elements of Cosmos, (the elements he heretofore had learned to fear), and from this utility of Labor and Agriculture was begot:

COMMERCE -

Represented by the standard Art symbol of a Freighter ("tramp") Ship. It is through the combined efforts and fruits of Man's Labor, Agriculture, and Commerce, when equitably weighed and meted on the

SCALES OF JUSTICE -

(RIGHT CIRCULAR PANEL)

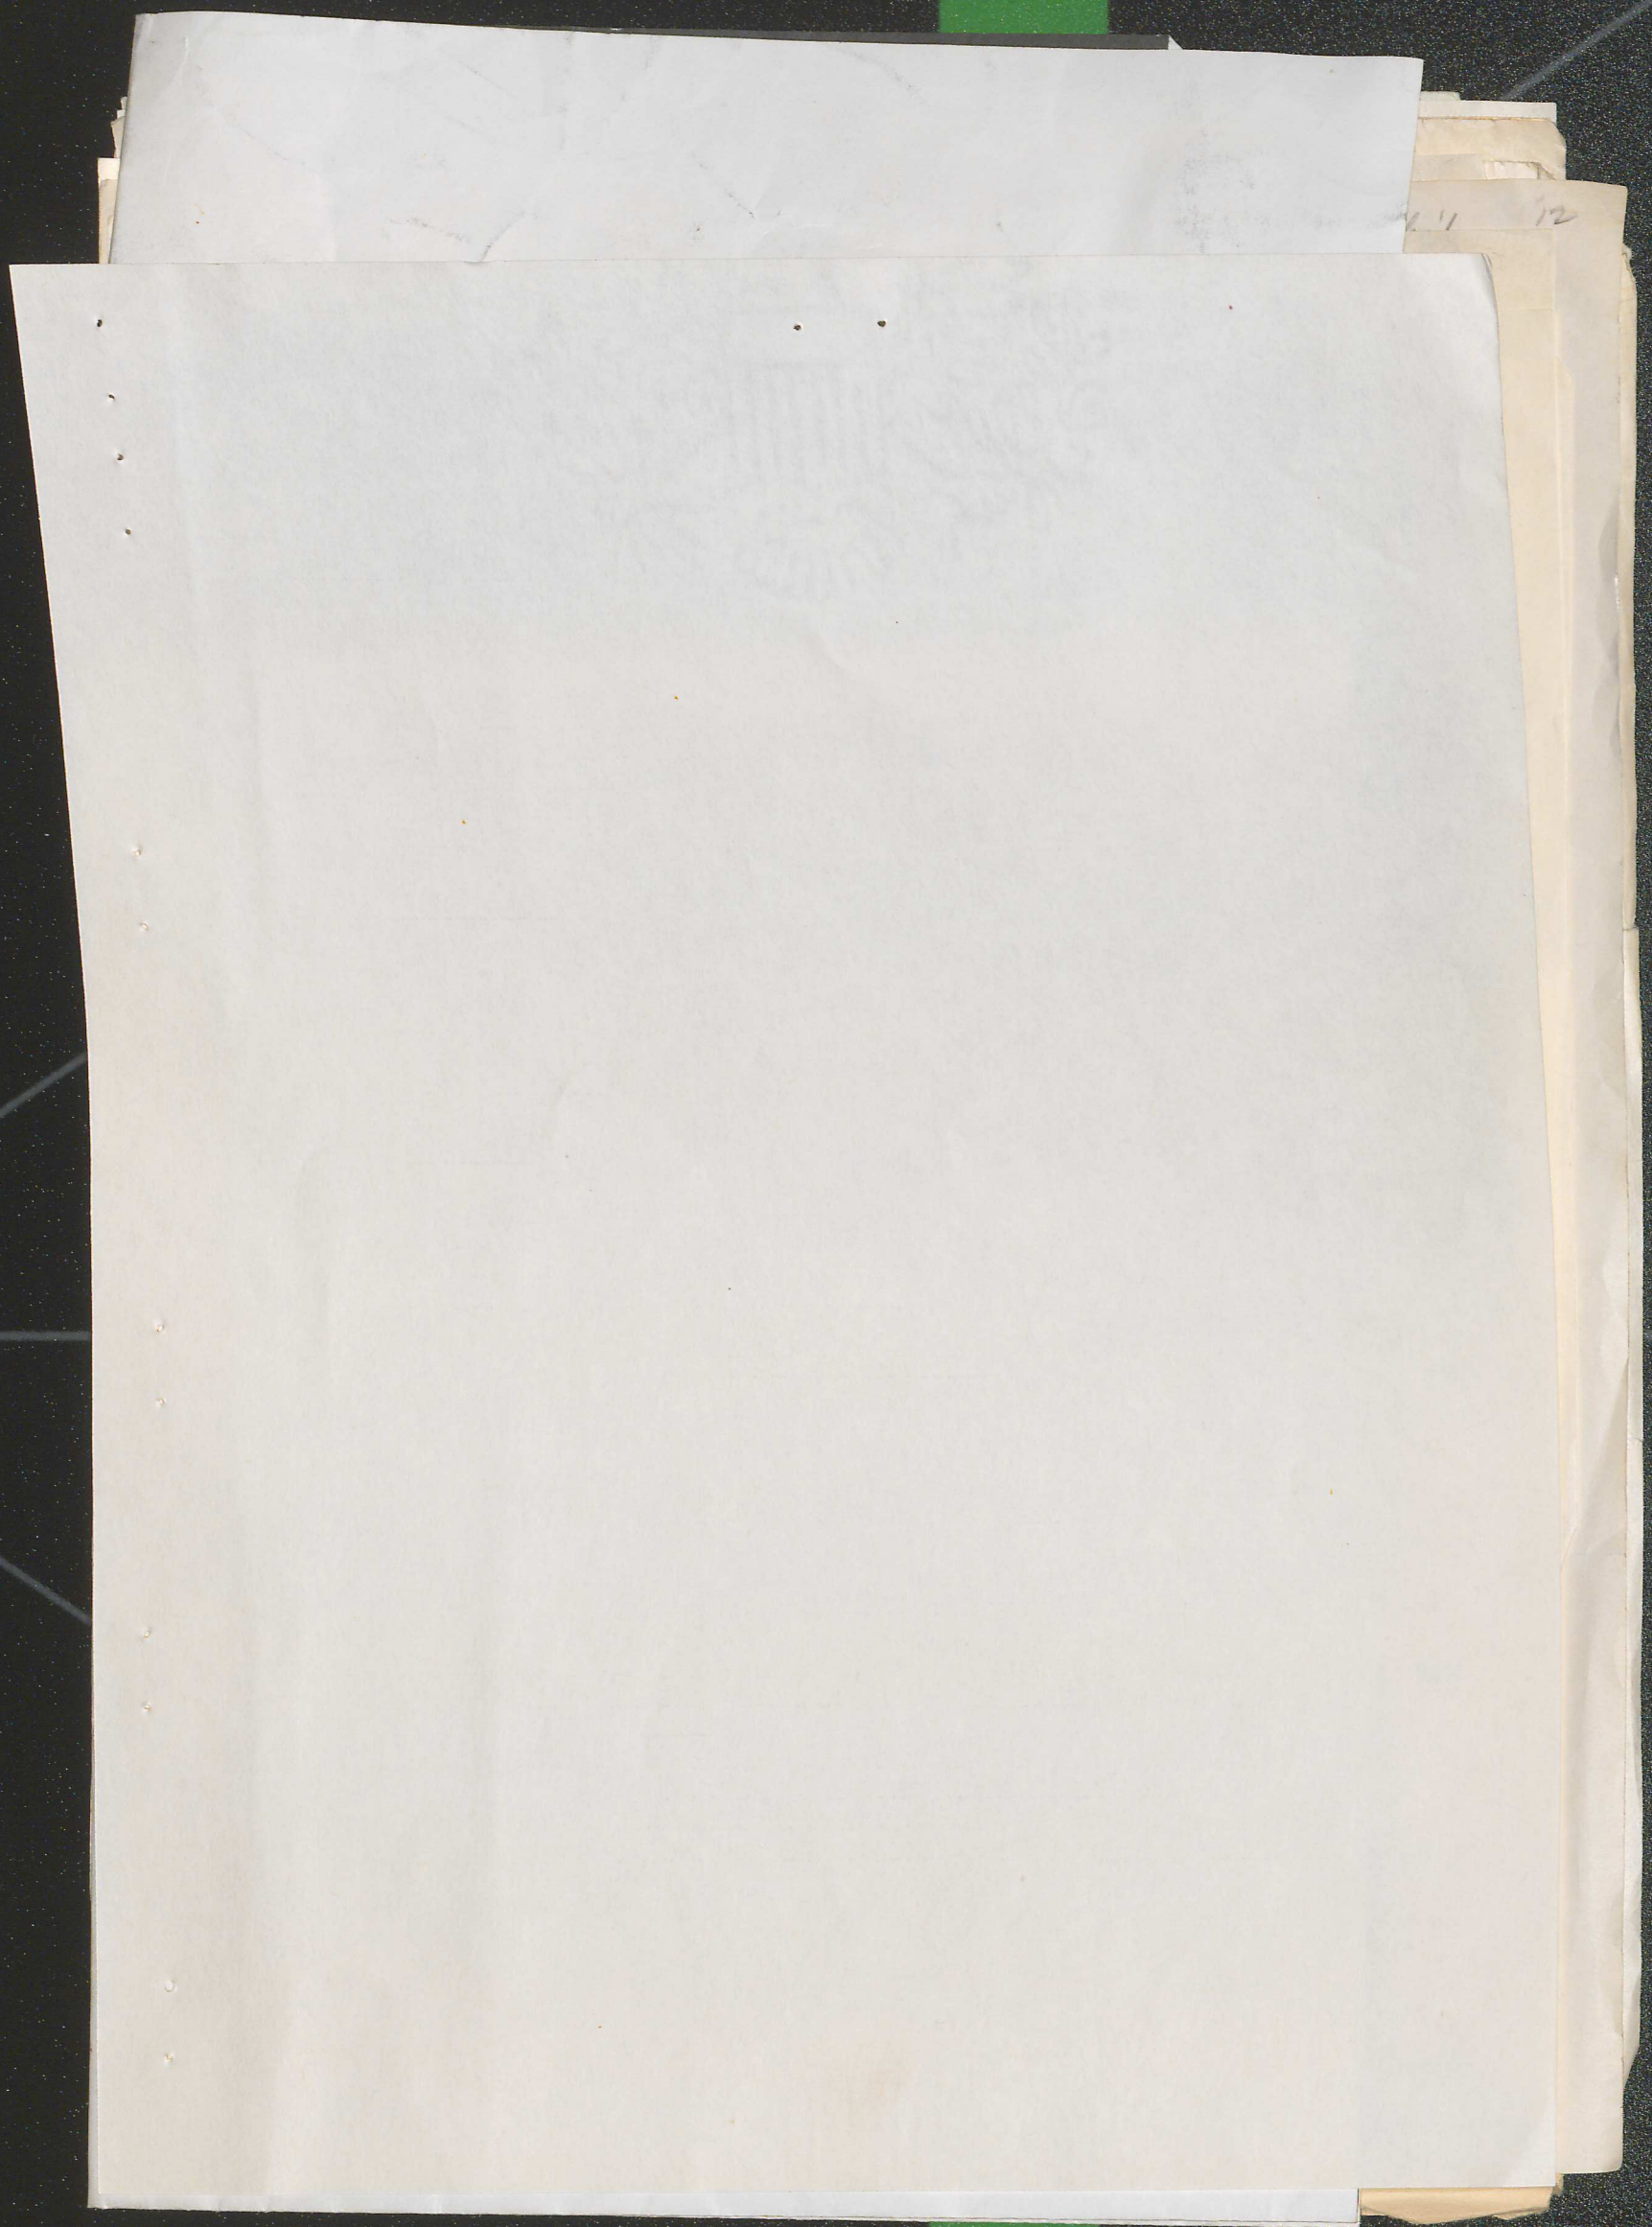

THAT WE COME TO KNOW PROSPERITY, which crowns the pillar of Man's physical and material labors and gains.

IT IS PEACE which serves as the seed for the growth of DEMOCRACY, the true manifestation of "The Brotherhood of Man";

IT IS PROGRESS which makes for a stronger and deeper understanding, which is reflected in a healthier aspect toward HUMANITY;

IT IS PROSPERITY which promotes a more wholesome appreciation and joy in Living and which, if healthfully and righteously lived, enrobes man with the essence of Godliness. Beyond GODLINESS there is only INFINITY.

Mr. President:

The copper spike herewith is from the Granite State, a United States Naval vessel, made of wood, which burned at its pier in the North River, New York City, on May 23rd, 1921.

When built at the Portsmouth Navy Yard, (N.H.) in 1818, it was a ship of the line, and was originally named Alabama. Rebuilt in 1863, it was renamed New Hampshire. In 1904 it was renamed Granite State and its status was unclassified.

At the time the Granite State burned, it was being used as a training ship.

Respectfully,

Fred Delavan-

Dear Mr. President;

Please accept the two enclosed baits. I figured them out myself and have had excellent results using them. They are very good for Wahoo, Dolphin, Tuna and Marlin. The fish skin becomes very pliable in the water and gives the baits a swimming motion. Best results when trolled at a speed of 5 to 6 miles an hour. Enclosed is a picture of a Marlin I caught using these baits and a clipping.

Wishing you luck on your fishing trips and you remain in good health.
