"We know that all things work together for good to them that love God."-
ROM. 8:28

And the Lords' Prayer, I can truthfully say I do not know what I would have done without it, after repeating the Ten Commandments, the first and twenty third Psalms and praying the Lords' Prayer, under the Spiritual stimulant in my child like faith I always was assured that the day was won for good in my life, I felt secure in God from whence cometh all my help, There was a desire in my heart to seek after righteousness my studies seemed easier. It gave me courage, and strength of character to press on and over come the obstacles that obstruct the path of every Childs life of toil and success. I wanted to honor my father and mother, also my teachers, I felt more friendly toward my playmates - When the clouds were dark there was always a silver lining to brighten the future. all through my life Gods Spirit and Word has become a strong tower in righteousness which is a lasting joy and a settled Peace because I know I am safe in the acceptance of God the Fathers' plan of Redemption in His Son Jesus Christ. in whom I have inherited Eternal Life.

There has been a heavy burden on my heart for many months - after much earnest prayer and meditation in the Word of God I was led to write this letter. For a number of years I used my spare - time to help some of these Children, mostly in New York City Where I spent 17 years. In giving them suitable scripture verses and a prayer, it was always a joy to see their little faces brighten up as they caught a glimpse of divine love - It was like the early morning dew on the roses, refreshing, sweet and fragrant.

I pray that you will consider this most important matter and voice your approval which will be a great help toward this worthy cause.

The Song of Solomon is descriptive of Christ and His Church - 4:16 is beautifully fitting for little Children as millions have been and are being added to His Church.

Awake, O north Wind, and come, thou south: blow upon my garden, that the spices there of may flow out. Let my beloved come into his garden, and eat his pleasant fruits. A prayer to prepare for, and be made fit for His presence.

"I will mention the loving kindness of the LORD." - ISA. 63:7

of the United States of America.

Dear President:

an earnest plea in behalf of millions of little Children in our nation who have reached the age of accountability and have no knowledge of the true and Living God, because they have no one to read the Bible to them, So many parents for the past 20 to 25 years have neglected and are disinterested in the Spiritual Welfare of their Children, until to-day this condition is tremendous and so evident everywhere that one wonders how it could be possible to reach such a state of Spiritual drought in a Christian Nation, Surely these parents have lost the vision of God's will concerning Bible reading to their Children.

In Prov. 29:18 We read - Where there is no vision the people perish, but he that keepeth the law happy is he. "He that keepeth the law of God in Spirit happy is he."

Jesus said, suffer the little Children to come unto me, and forbid them not for of such is the kingdom of God. this is a divine Command, which means at any cost bring them unto me, for Christ alone can satisfy the soul.

To a Child, as to everyone of us from time to time, there comes a sense of utter loneliness, our dearest friend is "stranger" to our joy, and cannot realize our bitterness, "There is not one who really understands, Not one to enter into all I feel;" Such is the cry of each of us in turn, We wander in a "solitary Way" No matter what or where our lot may be: Each heart, mysterious even to itself, must live its inner life in solitude. And would you know the reason why this is? It is because the Lord desires our love In every heart he wishes to be first, He therefore keeps the secret key Himself, To open all its chambers, and to bless with perfect sympathy and holy peace, Each

"No good thing will He withhold from them that walk uprightly."
Ps. 84:11

solitary soul which comes to Him. So when we feel this loneliness, it is the voice of Jesus saying, "Come to me"; And every time we are "not understood" It is a call to us to come again; For Christ alone can satisfy the soul and those who walk with Him from day to day can never have a "solitary way"

It is most unkind and a great injustice to these children when there is such a simple way of reaching every one of them in the public schools. Churches can only reach the children whose parents are responsive, and having the children only once a week for a short study period would not become effective in their daily living - they must have Bible reading every day, just like they need food for their bodies to give them health and strength. God's Word is like a good seed sown and becomes our refuge and strength a very present help in trouble, an anchor that holds both sure and steadfast, and creates a desire in their hearts and lives for good, in many it will keep them tender and receptive in Spiritual affairs as long as they live.

Prov 22:6. Train up a child in the way he should go, and when he is old, he will not depart from it. Also in Prov. 29:15. We have a definite warning - The rod and reproof give wisdom, but a child left to himself bringeth his mother to shame.

Prov 16:6. By mercy and truth iniquity is purged and by the fear of the Lord men depart from evil. It is said, there are over 12,000,000 children under the age of 12 years in our country who are receiving no Scripture reading. Now since this condition has grown so tremendous it seems it should become the concern of the leaders of our nation to do what can be done to justify in some measure the interest of the Spiritual welfare of these little ones.

My own testimony.

When a child going to country schools, I feel greatly indebted and thankful for school directors who had the vision of the value of Bible reading - The day was never started without Scripture reading

BETTER FARMS

So The Dutch Will Still Have Barnevelders

MAY a commoner aspire to correspond with a queen? Certainly, if he is a breeder of Dutch Barnevelder chickens in America and the royal lady is Queen Wilhelmina of Holland. Of course, there are certain amenities that must be observed, such as not sending the letter direct but through the proper diplomatic channels.

Walter C. Dobe of 8 Viola Park, Buffalo, recently dispatched the following message to the Honorable Dr. A. Louden, Netherlands minister, in Washington:

"Sir—It may interest you to know that several years prior to the present world conflict the writer became interested in and obtained some Barnevelder chickens. You probably will recognize their nativity as the town of Barneveld, Gelderland Province, Holland.

"American poultrymen have learned with great sorrow and regret that the Barnevelder breed in Holland has become extinct through the invasion of the Nazi military forces. Nevertheless, the work of poultry breed improvement is being carried on in America as part of our patriotic duty.

"I am one of several poultry breeders who has established a fine foundation flock of Barnevelders and at Newfane, N. Y., am carrying on a breeding program which includes rigid selection for type, color, productive qualities, and also all birds are carefully blood tested against pullorum disease.

"May I solicit your aid to convey to Her Majesty, Queen Wilhelmina, the assurance that poultry breeders of America are prepared to help restock the depleted flocks of Barnevelder chickens and to co-operate with the Netherlands poultrymen until complete normalcy has been established after the war?"

In reply he has received the following letter from L. A. H. Peters, agricultural attache of The Netherlands embassy in Washington:

"On behalf of The Netherlands ambassador I beg to acknowledge receipt of your letter concerning the restoration of the Barnevelder breed in The Netherlands after the war.

"Your interest in this matter is greatly appreciated, and you may rest assured that in due time a call will be made upon your assistance.

"In the near future this matter of postwar reconstruction of the livestock industry in The Netherlands will be considered by a special committee, and your letter undoubtedly will be placed at the disposal of said committee for further consideration."

This letter which a commoner sent to a queen (through the proper diplomatic channels) just about tells the story, except to introduce Mr. Dobe to the few poultrymen of the Northeast or poultry fanciers throughout the world to whom he needs to be introduced.

Since he was a boy of 12, Mr. Dobe has been "messing around with chickens," he he tells it. Born in Buffalo and city-bred, yet he has raised chickens that have brought home honors from the far corners of the world and he has received as high as $15 a dozen for his eggs—or more than $1.00 apiece—when ordinary poultrymen were getting 30 cents a dozen.

Don't get the idea from this that Walt Dobe is a fancier and showman to the exclusion of all other interests in poultry. In the late 20's he helped to organize and for several years was president of the Buffalo and Western New York Poultry Association, comprised chiefly of commercial poultrymen.

He has had pens of chickens in the official egg-laying tests since they were started some ten years ago. Until this year he has served for several seasons as chairman of the poultry exhibit at the Erie County Fair in Hamburg, N. Y. A few years ago, when the World Poultry Congress was held in Cleveland, the state poultry interests made him chairman of the Western New York division to raise funds to put the big show over.

During his chairmanship of Erie County Fair poultry exhibit, Mr. Dobe introduced three show innovations which promise to make poultry history.

Left: The little Dutch girl is Joanne Oldstrom of Buffalo, and the chicken is the 1942 All-American Barnevelder Hen owned by Walter C. Dobe. At the right is Mr. Dobe and a pair of his prize-winning Barnevelders, which he is now breeding to replace those killed by the Nazis in the invasion of Holland.

He pepped up the judging by revising it along the lines of a dog show conducted under American Kennel Club rules. Under such system the process of elimination is given full sway. It's bird against bird until the best bird in the show or grand champion is selected. By this change, Mr. Dobe was able to pack 'em in on the ringside seats for the final judging, whereas previously the judges visited the chicken coops before the show opened and pinned on the ribbons.

Another new wrinkle was the "Battle of the Breeds," a laying contest in which pens of different varieties laid for the record and the grand prize. Last but not least as far as being a fair crowd puller was concerned, was the sundown rooster crowing contest which now is a standard fixture at the Erie County Fair.

Mr. Dobe became interested in Barnevelders years ago when he saw some Barnevelder eggs exhibited at an egg show in Buffalo. This is not to be wondered at, as this Dutch breed lays the darkest of all eggs, the color ranging from a coffee brown to a deep chocolate mahogany. He forthwith obtained the best foundation stock possible from American and Canadian breeders, much of which had been imported direct from Holland, and went to work. He now has probably the bigest Barnevelder flock in the Northeast, if not the entire country.

"My biggest problem with Barnevelders," Mr. Dobe says, "was that of resistance to disease. I found they were not a very hardy bird. I babied them along for a few seasons, then said the heck with such stuff, they've either got to learn to take it or else."

So he took all his roosters, healthy ones as well as the sickly, and tossed them into a "pest" or isolation pen. Those that survived at the end of the season, he used for breeding purposes. After three or four years of such breeding for disease resistance, he had the situation pretty well cleaned up.

He began his serious breeding of Barnevelders before the outbreak of the war in Europe in 1939, as he anticipated even in those days of the "phony war," that the Lowlands were scheduled to be overrun and the Barnevelder destined to become extinct in its native home. "I wanted," he said, "to preserve this ancient and honorable poultry breed for posterity."

Although Barnevelders are his latest love, Mr. Dobe is probably best known through his work with Blue Andalusians. This was the breed which first took his fancy as a boy. Through the tutelage of Wiliam O. Jennings, one-time famous judge and poultry writer, he built up one of the world's finest Blue Andalusian flocks and popularized the breed to such an extent through exhibitions and egg-laying contests that commercial hatcherymen took it up.

Breeder at Buffalo Has Largest Flock of Barnevelders in This Country

RELAYED OFFER TO QUEEN

Netherlands Government-in-Exile Replied It Will Call on Fancier for Birds

BUFFALO, Dec. 26 (AP)—Walter C. Dobe hopes that when the war is over his flock of Barnevelder chickens will help restock Holland with the breed for which it once was famous. Dobe already has told the Netherland Government-in-exile of his plans and has received assurance that he will be called upon to help in the post-war restoration of the livestock industry in Holland.

Widely known as a poultry fancier and breeder, Dobe became interested in Barnevelders several years ago and obtained the best foundation stock available in the United States and Canada, as well as importing some from the Netherlands.

He began his serious breeding of the fowl in 1939 on the poultry farm he operates in Newfane with Ray Hoy, anticipating that with the outbreak of war the Lowlands were destined to be overrun and the Barnevelder to become extinct in its native home.

"I wanted," he says, "to preserve this ancient and honorable poultry breed for posterity."

When, by last Summer, Dobe had one of the largest Barnevelder flocks in the country, he sent word to Queen Wilhelmina via the Netherlands Embassy in Washington expressing his sorrow that the breed had disappeared from Holland because of the Nazi invasion and assuring the Queen:

"Poultry breeders of America are prepared to help restock the depleted flocks of Barnevelder chickens and to cooperate with the Netherlands poultrymen until complete normalcy has been established after the war."

The embassy replied that "you may rest assured that in due time a call will be made upon your assistance."

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE,

Europe's Barnyard of Tomorrow

Information on what has happened to the great meat and dairy resources of the occupied countries of Europe is extremely sketchy. However, judging from what news has trickled through, we may assume that the Nazis have made a pretty thorough job of eating up everything in sight. When the war is over we shall not only have the task of feeding the populations of these countries, but it will be mostly up to this country to provide the seed herds and the seed flocks for the restocking of France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark and Norway.

It will be a fascinating and highly important job. Take one little item alone: It is reported that there are no more of the famous Barnevelder chickens left in Holland. What a tragedy this is can be appreciated only by those who have observed these excellent fowls in their home country. Well, it so happens that Mr. Walter C. Dobe, a chicken fancier, of Buffalo, became interested in Barnevelders some years ago and obtained the best foundation stock available. For the last two or three years he has had one of the largest and best flocks of Barnevelders in the United States. He has sent word to the Netherlands Embassy in Washington assuring them that at the end of the war he will be ready to cooperate with Dutch poultrymen in restoring their flocks. His offer has been accepted with gratitude.

It is safe to say that what Mr. Dobe has done will be matched by many other American breeders. In addition to chickens, we are well supplied with the best strains of the beautiful Dutch-belted cattle, and we have literally millions of blooded Holstein-Friesians, the great milkers which originated in Holland. We can supply the best geese to build up once more the fine droves in France.

Is it not time that our government, possibly under the direction of Secretary of Agriculture Wickard in collaboration with former Governor Lehman, should start a program looking toward the intelligent restocking of the overrun countries? We might make plans for some of the fine sheep strains of Ohio to be set aside and earmarked for export. So with the dairy cattle of New England, the fine Aberdeen Angus strains of the Hudson Valley, the Herefords of the American West, the swine—Duroc-Jerseys, Chester Whites, Hampshires, Poland Chinas and so on.

WALTER DOBE'S BARNEVELDERS SET WORLD'S RECORD FOR BREED IN PEN AND PULLET CLASSES

When the Twenty-first Annual New York State Egg Laying Test at Farmingdale, Long Island, closed on September 22nd, highest honors for pen production, all breeds went to J. J. Warren of North Brookfield, Mass. His pen turned in a score of 3319 points with 3101 eggs for the fifty-one week period of the Test.

The second highest pen and the best New York State entry all breeds, was the team of Rhode Island Reds from Wayside Farm, Middletown, New York. These birds had 3174 points scored on 3069 eggs.

Harry A. Schnell's Leghorns from Huntington, Long Island, with a total of 3122 points and 3024 eggs were third highest entry, all breeds, second highest New York State pen, highest White Leghorn entry and best Long Island pen.

Fourth place in the Test went to Ben Brower of Merrick, Long Island, with White Leghorns, scoring 3088 points and 3033 eggs. These birds earned the honor of being third highest New York State pen, second highest White Leghorn team and second best Long Island entry.

Fifth place went to Wayside Farm of Middletown, New York. This pen of Rhode Island Reds laid 2850 eggs with a point score of 2993. These birds were third highest Red pen and fourth highest in the New York State division.

Fred Heuer of Sayville, Long Island, had the highest pullet, all varieties in the entire field of 949 birds. His White Leghorn 21-C had a score of 338 points with 319 eggs. This is the first time in eight years that this high honor has come to a Long Island breeder. It is also the first time in the same number of years that a White Leghorn has taken the honors away from Rhode Island Reds. The record made by Mr. Heuer's 21-C has been beaten only twice since the point system started with the 1929-30 Test. Records of other high pullets will appear in a later report.

One of the most interested persons in the progress of the Test has been Mr. Walter C. Dobe of Buffalo, New York, owner of an entry of Barnevelders. He now becomes the holder of a World's record in both the pen and pullet class in so far as official records are concerned. His pen of this breed laid a total of 2343 eggs, scoring 2426 points. The previous record was 1680 points and 1710 eggs, made at the Maine Test in 1933. Mr. Dobe's pullet 66-C turned in a total of 249 points with 228 eggs. On a basis of points this record sets a new high beating that of 236 points and 249 eggs at Maine in 1934.

"Background" 1/11/43 11:15 p.m. Gregor Ziemer

Recently, an editor in a sedate city newspaper, The New York Herald, published an editorial entitled, "Europe's Barnyard of Tomorrow". It set us thinking. When this war is over, we Americans, and especially the farmers of our nation will not only be called upon to feed the populations of the countries where today millions are dying, countries like little Greece where men, women and children are wasting away on the streets of Athens to the tune of more than a thousand a day; countries like Norway which is being deprived of its chief sustenance, fish, because the Nazis are not letting them out in boats, lest they escape. No, there is another problem; that of restocking France, Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Norway, Greece, perhaps a dozen others, will be so depleted of herds and flocks, there won't be enough to raise new herds and new flocks.

We would like to mention only one particular example. Holland is the home of the famous Barnevelder chickens. We used to watch these beautiful brown birds with their bright yellow legs, strutting about in all their glory in the countryside of Holland. But, according to reports from that country, there are no more Barnevelder chickens left in Holland to lay those wonderful, dark-brown eggs. In fact, there are no eggs of any sort in a country that used to export millions of them.

But the Barnevelders did especially well in Holland, better than any other breed of chickens Holland ever had. After the war will Holland's farmers have to go through a long period of readjustment with other breeds of chickens? Not necessarily. Permit us to give you an example of what might be done. We have in our country a gentlemen, Mr. Walter C. Dobe of Buffalo, New York, an expert poultry breeder, who years ago obtained directly from Holland the best foundation stock available. For the last few years he has had a fine flock of Barnevelders. He has cross-bred them and improved them. Now he has sent word to the Netherlands Embassy in Washington assuring them that at the end of the war he will be ready to co-operate with the Dutch poultrymen in restoring their flocks. His offer has been accepted with gratitude. We can well imagine that it would be. That gesture was more effective no doubt than lots of others we could think of. We contacted Mr. Dobe about his Barnevelder chickens. He is proud of them, and assures us that he will spare no trouble to keep his flock healthy and even improve them. He considered that a service not only to his country, but to the world. He feels that he can return to Holland even better chickens than the original flock. That sort of thinking and that sort of acting will certainly do much and go far to bring this world back to its senses.

We, in this country, are well=supplied with the best strains of the beautiful Holsteins, the great milkers, which we have seen in herds both in Denmark and in Holland------The Nazis have destroyed those herds. We may have to return to those countries pure stock after the war. It seems little enough as thanks to Denmark for having given us those magnificent black and white animals in the first place. And the same could be done with some of the fine sheep strains of our mid-west, with the Duroc-Jerseys, Chester Whites, Hampshires, Poland Chinas, now grunting their happy way through life on our farms..... All of which has made us hungry. With your permission we're going home to have an egg sandwich. We're grateful we still have eggs. And with that, until tomorrow, and to all of you a very good-night. THIS IS GREGOR ZIEMER.

Writes the President enclosing gift of $25.00 in dimes for his birthday - to be used for the Infantile Paralysis Fund. (Mrs. Dows used the expressing DIMES but there is a notation on the President's letter to Mrs. Dows saying CHECK was sent to the IPF.)-- Mrs. Dows said she was sending the President some booklets that Olin Dows had sent from England, which she thought the President might like to put in the Library at Hyde Park. Mrs. Dows said she and Deborah Dows were staying at 1801 Mass. Ave., N.W., and would be here until Feb. 9th and would like to see the President. Mrs. Dows sent a cover letter to Miss Tully asking if she and Deborah could attend one of the President's Press Conferences.----The President, Jan. 31st, wrote to Mrs. Dows thanking her for her gift to the IPF and asking her to thank Olin for him and saying he hoped to see her and Deb while they are here.

The President wrote to the Pasha thanking him for dates and telling him how much they were enjoyed. Said this thoughtful kindness is one of the pleasant recollections of a memorable trip. The President said he had hoped to have the pleasure of meeting the Pasha in December on his way back from Tunis, and he explained why he was unable to do so. Said he will look forward to seeing him some day in the future, either in Marrakech or in Washington. Sent good wishes for his health and happiness. ---- The President's letter is as per draft supplied by Mr. Summerlin, 1-27-44 in response to Miss Tully's request, 1-14-44.

DAVIES, Hon. Joseph E.,
Washington, D. C.
(Undated) - Filed 2/4/44

Card to the President from Mr. Davies indicating that he is sending him, with Christmas Greetings, some gifts for his "Krum Elbow" historical collection.--Attached is a memo to Mr. Simmons, 12/21/43, from Mr. Early's Secretary, to the effect that Miss Turnbloom, Mr. Davies' secretary, advises that office that Mr. McRae, Mr. Davies' caretaker, will bring, on the following morning to the White House, as gifts to the President, a Soviet Tommy Gun, a (light hand) German Machine Gun, and a large flat package containing a photograph. She asks that Mr. Simmons clear Mr. McRae at the gate. --Notation in ink on this memo to the effect that there is a letter in Russian from Molotov, which is framed, in connection with above. (Letter has been translated into English); also ink notation indicating that Mr. Hassett received the above-mentioned gifts on Dec. 22nd, and turned them over to Secret Service, and that they were returned by Secret Service on Dec. 23rd.--On 2/2/44 the President wrote to Mr. Davies stating, in effect, that he was thrilled with that Soviet Tommy Gun and the German Machine Gun, and that they are a real addition to the collection in the Hyde Park Library. The President also stated that he is pleased to have the letters to complete the story which Mr. Davies was good enough to have framed for him.--(Pencil notation: "Guns at the Library".)

Hon. Franklin D. Roosevelt
President of the United States
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

The late Yovan Duchich, one of the greatest of Serbian poets and man of letters, member of the Royal Academy of Sciences; and Yugoslavia's first Ambassador with over 40 years of diplomatic service in various capitals of Europe, represented his country in Madrid when it was overrun by the Nazis. When General Franco recognized Pavelich's puppet so-called "Independent State of Croatia," Yovan Duchich left Madrid in indignant protest for Lisbon, and later came to America to seek haven and freedom.

During his 20 months stay in this country, he published a book in the Serbian language, the last of his ten volumes. Five governments contributed official documents and many public and private libraries were diligently searched for authentic data to complete the recording of the amazing career of his fellow Serb who left his native land for Russia to become the dominant figure in its diplomatic history for four decades during the reign of Peter the Great and Catherine I.

My cousin was a keen student of the classical world and spoke many languages. He had a deep appreciation of the spirit of freedom and democracy prevailing in this country and had a special reverence for you personally, which prompted him to state on several occasions: "President Roosevelt would have been a credit as a ruler of classical Greece or ancient Rome during the height of their power and glory."

Desiring to visibly express his appreciation for the privileges and hospitality extended him during his stay in our country, with childlike eagerness, he took special pains to engage a noted artisan of the bookbinding craft to design and execute an original Eastern Orthodox art-motif for this volume which he intended to present to you personally. But fate decreed otherwise. He died on April 7, 1943, the very day the book was delivered by the bookbinder, and therefore could not be autographed by him. Therefore I, as his closest relative in this country and as executor of his will, take great pride in carrying out this part of his wish on your birthday.

Permit me, Mr. President, to add my personal felicitations and best wishes on the occasion of your birthday. May the good Lord keep you healthy and inspired to carry out your great task successfully. And may you ever be the champion of the rights of smaller nations, who look to you for their independence and salvation.

Respectfully yours,

M. M. Duchich

It was kind indeed of you to send the President a copy of the book written by your cousin, Yovan Duchich, to which you refer in your letter of January twenty-seventh. He has asked me to thank you for your courtesy and to express his deep appreciation of your birthday wishes.

I have taken the liberty today of mailing to you one sample copy of a book by His Excellency, Dr. Ezequiel Padilla, Minister of Foreign Affairs of Mexico, entitled "Free Men of America". I send it for your express enjoyment and hope you will do me the high honor to accept it with my compliments and best wishes.

This literary classic is a masterful plea by Mexico's venerable statesman for warmest friendship between the Americas as the only assurance of postwar happiness on our side of the water, and it has been described as the greatest single contribution toward Pan American unity in publishing history.

×87

It is desired to circulate "Free Men of America" widely to business leaders, statesmen, clergymen, educators and others in high position throughout all of the Western Hemisphere and with this in mind it is being printed in English, in Spanish and in Portuguese.

In this connection large concerns are being invited each one to purchase quantities at $2.50 each for their own personnel or, if they wish to follow the example of numbers of others, they may authorize me to distribute the books as I deem expedient. I offer it for sale strictly on its merits alone at $2.50 a copy and, thanks to the moral backing given me by Hon. Mario Lasso, Consul General of Mexico at Chicago, the response has been gratifying as you will note from the attached list of buyers.

I hope you will enjoy "Free Men of America" which I truly believe is a medium for the comfort of humanity in these trying times.

One of The Greatest Contributions To Pan-Americanism In Publishing History

...Now, when the need is greatest!

A PAN-AMERICAN PATRICK HENRY

"Ezequiel Padilla, Foreign Minister of Mexico, is that kind of man . . . You may as well learn to pronounce it now (Aze-e-KILL Pa-DEE-ya). Because as . . . people everywhere search for men to restore decency and dignity to the world, you will have more and more occasion to speak that name."—Eric Sevareid, LOOK Magazine.

"Ezequiel Padilla . . . the symbol of the coming of age of the American Republics."—TIME Magazine

Ezequiel Padilla brings into full view the true relationship between American nations. He vigorously shows how, in the light of historic facts, the United States and its brother Americas are bound together by indissoluble ties of creed and ideals, and blends this with an epic presage of their future. He advocates the Doctrine of Pan-Americanism as the greatest power for democracy and national freedom that the world has ever known.

EXCERPTS FROM REVIEWS
"FREE MEN OF AMERICA"
by- EZEQUIEL PADILLA

DALLAS MORNING NEWS, Dallas, Texas
Lon Tinkle (April 11, 1943)

"This book is a splendid omen for the future of the Western Hemisphere...a 'must' book for all men of good will who are sincerely committed to a world of freedom, of justice, of international order."

MIAMI FLORIDA HERALD - (May 16, 1943)

"We in Miami have been talking Pan Americanism. Ezequiel Padilla, Mexican Foreign Minister, has been practicing it. FREE MEN OF AMERICA mirrors the character of this American and supplies the basis for hope that a new statesmanship in truth is approaching. It is seldom that writing can achieve the power, depth and drama of the spoken word, but Sr. Padilla has done it by the simple expedient of straightforward sentences of unassailable logic."

CHICAGO SUN - Louis Zara (April 11, 1943)

"...when one comes upon a piece of work that bears the indelible stamp of a creative statesman -- there's a treat and a discovery to be celebrated and shared with the world! "FREE MEN OF AMERICA" by Ezequiel Padilla, the Minister of Foreign Affairs of the Republic of Mexico, is such a work. I want to shout it to the skies. For I get a good, warm feeling from this book. It is a frank and honest work, diplomatic and yet outspoken in its discussion of the future of the American hemisphere. I like it enormously for its bright faith and idealism, for its vigorous message and for its dignified style. I wish the Americas had more foreign ministers with Dr. Padilla's courage and convictions. I know this book will be read from the Arctic Circle to Cape Horn, but I hope it is read most carefully from Maine to California. "Free Men of America" is a work of creative statesmanship. Statesmen, large and small, should read it. Free citizens must read it."

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE - Hubert Herring (May 9, 1943)

"A book by the Foreign Minister of Mexico is an event...Mr. Padilla explains and defines his faith in democracy, his hopes for a free America. Mr. Padilla writes against the background of slavery which once gripped all America. He reassures his fellow Latin Americans on the decline of imperialism in the United States. He finds ground for faith in increasing democracy in Latin America...will prove definitely reassuring to many skeptical Americans to discover that a leading Mexican has social and national hopes not unlike their own."

Dr. EZEQUIEL PADILLA, the Man

A direct descendant of the Aztecs who suffered under Spanish conquistadors, Mexico's venerable Foreign Minister has come to symbolize the will toward hemisphere cooperation against modern political tyranny. Educated at the University of Mexico, the Sarbonne in Paris, and Columbia University in the United States, he has represented his Country in many international parleys. Going back to the Rio de Janeiro Conference of January, 1942, it was the eloquence of the distinguished Dr. Padilla which became the keynote of the American bloc of Nations in opposition to the Axis and which swayed that historic Conference to support the United Nations in the present war. Thus he has proven his friendship toward the United States in terms far beyond the realm of mere dollars and cents.

ROTARIAN of March, 1944 says: "Free Men of America" by Dr. Ezequiel Padilla deserves wide and careful reading."

HON. NELSON A ROCKEFELLER, Co-Ordinator of Inter-American Affairs for the United States Government writes: "I am glad you are putting forth such vigorous efforts to obtain wider distribution for Dr. Padilla's excellent book "Free Men of America" and I hope you will be eminently successful."

SAN FRANCISCO EXAMINER - Howard Lowe (May 9, 1943)

"The book is not big in size--but it is big in content. FREE MEN OF AMERICA by Ezequiel Padilla is immensely stimulating... offers a middle way along lines of practical formula for international live-and-let-live. Only 173 pages, FREE MEN OF AMERICA contains more real thought than many volumes four or five times its length recently issues---including those of a number of American 'statesmen'."

NASHVILLE TENNESSEE BANNER (May 5, 1943)

"For a Secretary of State to write of contemporary international affairs is not news, but for such an official to be as frank and blunt as the Mexican Secretary in his book, is a new and refreshing e-xperience. Dr. Padilla might have made a 'brain truster' of the New Deal, if he had been born north of the Rio Grande. We Americans will like his style...truth in his criticisms and judgment in his analyses. And I believe his is the first official voice of Latin America to discuss ways and means of postwar inter-American cooperation.

WASHINGTON, D. C. POST (May 9th, 1943)

"Dr. Padilla is known as one of the foremost orators in the Spanish language. He is likely to say what he thinks, and to say it well. That is exactly what Dr. Padilla has done in this book...unpretentious, readable by anybody, but highly instructive; a true guide to our own diplomacy as well as that of two continents. Don Ezequiel Padilla knows American history better than do most of us, as well as Mexican and European history. All Americans can profit by reading his FREE MEN OF AMERICA with full knowledge of who the author is and what he stands for."

PHILADELPHIA BULLETIN (April 26, 1943)

"...discusses frankly and with a fine , idealistic, humanitarian perspective the role of the new world in the coming era. With leaders such as the Mexican Foreign Secretary the frustrated hopes of men could be realized and the good-neighbor policy, reaffirmed by President Roosevelt's recent visit to Mexico, integrated into reality. With a keen appreciation of today's problems he lifts his head to higher, brighter ground ahead.

CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER (April 25, 1943)

"Padilla has very definite ideas about the future. They are worthy of careful study by Americans. Fortunately he has written a book which, in its close reasoning and precise logic, reflect his legal training, and in its vista of the future bespeaks the mind of a man of action...a gold mine of ideas on Latin-American relations. The temptation to quote from it must be limited and with it we leave a man about whom the Western Hemisphere and the World will hear much more in the future."

4/8/44

NEW YORK JOURNAL AMERICAN (April 25, 1943)

"...the best yet written on the relations of the United States, Mexico and the Latin American Countries...written in a calm, thoughtful manner, with perfect frankness in regard to the shortcomings and errors on the part of all Countries concerned, this book reveals Senor Padilla, to my way of thinking, as Statesman No. 1 of the Western World, a man who preserves a perfect balance between a practical realism and a common sense idealism. Sane and inspirational -- a trumpet-blast to all lovers of liberty from Chile to the Arctic Circle."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE MONITOR, Boston (April 23, 1943)

"...inspires human hope...In FREE MEN OF AMERICA"...Dr. Padilla steers a straight course by the lodestar of liberty. His words sum up the actual course of relations across the Rio Grande."

WASHINGTON, D. C. STAR (April 18, 1943)

"The Mexican statesman's book...is a very good one indeed. Every thoughtful American--whether a citizen of the United States or of one of the other Nations on this side of the globe--owes it to himself to read it."

NEW YORK SUN (April 15, 1943)

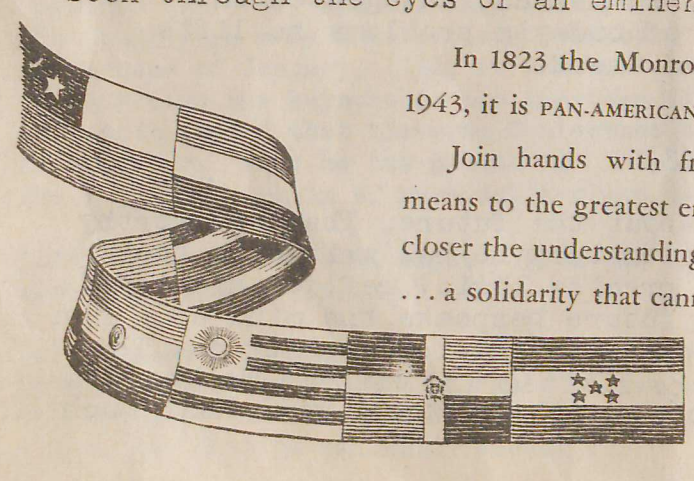

"Ezequiel Padilla...one of the few constructive idealists whose feet are firmly planted upon historical and political facts while his mind soars into the realm of spirituality...FREE MEN OF AMERICA is an important book which should be read by everyone who seeks to follow world affairs."

OMAHA WORLD-HERALD (April 18, 1943)

"...compact and complete...reveals a particularly penetrating and close study of social, economic and political conditions...in the whole American hemispheric scene."

SPRINGFIELD, Massachusetts, UNION (April 17, 1943)

"...forceful declaration for unity and brotherhood among the many Nations on this side of the Atlantic. It is the viewpoint of our fellow Allies as seen through the eyes of an eminent Latin American official."

In 1823 the Monroe Doctrine began a new era in civilization. Now, in 1943, it is PAN-AMERICANISM. From unity will arise true democratic strength.

Join hands with free men everywhere in making Pan-Americanism a means to the greatest end. Every copy of FREE MEN OF AMERICA sold will bring closer the understanding, the solidarity between ALL Americans ... a solidarity that cannot fail.

Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Roosevelt;

Under separate cover I am mailing you a drawing of yourself made by a young Chinese student in our school.

The picture was made as an entry in an art exhibit here in this school last year. It has taken some persuasion on my part before he would consent to send it. He is very modest and timid about his ability. The boy made the picture from his impression from likenesses displayed in the news, and his personal idea of how you might appear.

This boy has been in this country only since December, 1940, and in that time has completed the first eight grades of schooling in a very creditable manner. He could not speak English upon his arrival, but now he has a very good vocabulary. In fact, his vocabulary is much better than our average eighth grade American students. His cheerful and kind disposition has endeared him to both faculty and student body. His conduct and scholastic ability have given him a place in the honor society of the school.

Chu Kuey, (this is his name) came from Canton, China. His father is in the laundry business here in our city and is well respected. I had another member of Chu's family in school five years ago; a very fine lad who is now in the service of our country.

I know you are a very busy man, but I also think this might be an inspiration to you in these trying times. This boy is an ardent admirer of you and of our country. I hope it will be possible for you to send him a short message. I thank you.

Very truly yours,
Mrs. Laura Dispennette

My dear Mr. Blauvelt:

I am sorry for the delay in acknowledging your letter of February twenty-fourth, but I waited for an opportune time to place it before the President together with that trade copy of NEWS OF THE NATION which you sent him with your compliments. Both your letter and the publication interested the President very much and he asks me to thank you for your thought of him.

Dear Mr. President:

Mrs. Roosevelt was kind enough last week to give me a few moments to look over our new publication venture called NEWS OF THE NATION. It is a 350,000-word story of the United States done in newspaper style and format. It is made up of forty-one issues and covers our history from 1492 to Pearl Harbor days. It carries over five hundred photographs - some of them very rare; and our edition for the schools and educational centers will be sold in one folio in forty-one loose issues, so that teachers can assign them for individual study as they wish.

I told Mrs. Roosevelt that I should like so much to send you a copy for your personal use, and she said that I certainly could do this with her approval. We are therefore sending you a trade copy with our compliments and we hope and believe you will find it both interesting and amusing.

I am glad to tell you that my interest in the arts and in education has found a happy outlet in my new connection as Assistant to the Editor of the Garden City division of Doubleday, Doran.

I am so happy to hear from Mrs. Gordon Crawford and others that everyone likes the Library so much in your former 65th Street home. You and Mrs. Roosevelt were very gracious to let me do this.

Respectfully yours,

James H. Blauvelt

Miss Grace Tully,
Secretary to The President,

Dear Miss Tully:

On my return I find your very kind note. We are all delighted, of course, that you took the opportunity to show The President the NEWS OF THE NATION.

How you or The President find an "opportune time" to do these things, I am sure I do not know. However, this does not keep us all from being very grateful to you.

Sincerely yours,
