Your Excellency, Mr. President:

Life and experience, distress and danger, guarantee a life of wise foresight and because of this, I told the world in my book, "Destiny", that your Excellency gave the world new directions which should not only lead mankind back to a true understanding, but should also grant personal liberty to the individual concerning his political as well as religious ideas. The book is published in English, French, and German.

My gratitude would be eternal would your Excellency consider reading it.

Sincerely,

Albert T. H. Hesselbein

His Excellency
President Franklin Delano Roosevelt,
The White House,
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. President:

On June 7th, 1937, your Secretary, Miss M.A.LeHand, acknowledged receipt of my book "Destiny" which I had the honor to present to your Excellency.

I would be grateful if your Excellency would state his opinion, especially so, as I stated on page 322 that the world should follow your example, your leadership concerning the world peace.

Up to now, your Excellency, I received hundreds of letters of recommendation from outstanding personalities from all over the world who read my story and praised it immensely. Among the many let me point out:

His Holiness Pope Pius XI,
Very many letters from Cardinals and Bishops,
Duke and Duchess of Windsor,
Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands,
Empress Hermine, wife of the former Emperor of Germany,
President of Argentine, signed by the President,
" " Austria, " " " " ,
" " Costa Rica, " " " " ,
" " Cuba, " " " " ,
" " Mexico, " " " " ,
" " Uruguay, " " " " ,
" " Peru, " " " " ,
the Royal Government of Italy,
Governor Lehmann,
Mayor LaGuardia, etc., etc.

With profoundest admiration,

A. T. H. Hesselbein

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt,

Sir:

As a member of the committee to suitably observe the 158th anniversary of the battle between the Bonhomme Richard and the Serapis, first American naval victory, which will initiate the President's Cup Regatta on September 23rd, I have noted how frequently the history of that battle parallels your own efforts on behalf of Democracy.

You will recall that the Bonhomme Richard was commanded by John Paul Jones. A description by Mackenzie, himself an officer of the Navy, states, "The situation of Jones at this moment was indeed hopeless beyond anything that is recorded in the annals of naval warfare. In a sinking ship, with a battery silenced everywhere, except where he himself fought, more than a hundred prisoners at large in his ship, his consort, the Alliance, sailing round and raking him deliberately, his superior officers counselling surrender, while the inferior ones were setting up disheartening cries of fire and sinking and calling loudly for quarter--the chieftain still stood undismayed."

You will also recall that when Captain Pearson of the Serapis called to Jones and asked, "Has your ship struck?" he at once returned the immortal answer:

"I have not yet begun to fight!"

Respectfully,

Melvin D. Hildreth

Dear Sir:

You will find in this book, a fascinating account of the usefulness of the chemical industry to the people of this nation. It is presented to you, a representative citizen, by the Chemical Industries Tercentenary Committee as its final act in completing the celebration of the three centuries of constructive achievement by chemical industries in America. Our hope is that you will find it entertaining and stimulating.

Your comments will be much appreciated.

Dear Sir:

At the request of the American Chemical Industries Tercentenary Committee, I take pleasure in notifying you that a copy of "MAN IN A CHEMICAL WORLD", by A. Cressy Morrison, will be sent to you in the near future with its compliments.

The preparation and publication of this volume was authorized as a result of the great success of the celebration of the Three Hundredth Anniversary of the founding of the chemical industry in the United States of America, in 1635, by John Winthrop, the younger, then Governor of Connecticut.

This book is designed to place before the public, in simple language, the unsurpassed contribution of the chemical industry not only to the well-being of the individual, but its unparalleled place as a contributor to human comfort, protection, the advancement of civilization and to the upbuilding of the United States of America.

The volume is to be distributed, without cost, to individuals of distinction, to public libraries, to the press, as well as to the great branches of industry whose very existence and progress is due to the advancement of chemistry.

If the address on this letter is correct, no reply is needed; but if incorrect or you receive a duplicate of this notice, be good enough to notify the Committee by return mail.

Upon receipt of the volume, your comments will be much appreciated.

Yours very truly,

CHEMICAL INDUSTRIES TERCENTENARY

I am forwarding you by mail today a book written by La Marquise de La Tourdespins who was an emigré from France during the French Revolution. This book, on a page which I have marked with an envelope containing a Spanish stamp, speaks of the death of two children from infantile paralysis on a farm near Albany, New York, on which these people had settled in 1795. These children played together and the article says that nothing was known of the disease at that time. I thought considering your interest in the matter that you might like to see this. The book itself is intensely entertaining.

I am the person who received the medal which you and Congress awarded to General Clarence R. Edwards through the late Congressman Connery. I have forwarded this medal to General Edwards' sister at Cleveland, Ohio. As I am one of the few relatives of the General left I deeply appreciated the kind thought and consideration in awarding this medal which was well deserved.

The Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

Mit Begleitschreiben

I am forwarding you by mail today a book written by La Marquise de La Tourdespins who was an emigrè from France during the French Revolution. This book, on a page which I have marked with an envelope containing a Spanish stamp, speaks of the death of two children from infantile paralysis on a farm near Albany, New York, on which these people had settled in 1795. These children played together and the article says that nothing was known of the disease at that time. I thought considering your interest in the matter that you might like to see this. The book itself is intensely entertaining.

Is enclosing some hand-loomed handkerchiefs, for Mr. McIntyre. Is superstitious about giving knives to those whose good will she values. -- The President wrote Mrs. Spencer November 11, thanking her for the barongs, and enclosing a penny which he thinks will even things up. -- Mr. McIntyre wrote Mrs. Spencer November 12, stating that he knows that Mrs. McIntyre and his daughter will be delighted with the handkerchiefs. Says the President certainly was interested in the barongs and in Mrs. Spencer's note telling about them.

Dear Mr. Haynes:

The President has asked me to be sure and drop you a little line of thanks for your thoughtfulness in sending him those grand photographs taken during his visit to Yellowstone National Park.

He is delighted to have them and greatly appreciates your thoughtfulness.

With all good wishes,

Sincerely yours,

M. H. McINTYRE

Dear Mr. President -

Please accept these photographs taken the second day of your recent visit to Yellowstone National Park, which with those taken the first day, and delivered to you as you left the park, complete the set.

Frank Jay Haynes, my late father, in 1883 photographed President Chester A. Arthur in the park. I took a series of pictures of President Coolidge (1927) and President Harding (1923) upon the occasions of their visits.

I hope this collection of views will pleasantly remind you of your first visit to Yellowstone National Park.

Thank you for your gracious cooperation.

Respectfully

Jack E. Haynes
