My dear Mr. Early,

The other day at the Carlton, when Hugh Wilson and I were together that I did not have an opportunity of meeting you.

The enclosed key is something I had made for the President. Some the badge worn by aviators in the First Aero Squadron during the last War.

As the first Ace was the start I was in service, I hoped he would care to have it as a memento as well as the expression of our sympathetic loyalty to him in these times of strain.

I hope, that at some future time, it may be my pleasure to know you.

Dear Mr. President:

Not only the people of Minnesota are behind you but the chickens as well. In answer to your request for increased production for defense a leghorn hen on the farm of Mr. Ole Lerdahl, Jackson, Minnesota, got busy and laid the egg which we have mailed to you under separate cover.

It is the largest chicken egg we have seen in over 30 years in the produce business and the farmers in this vicinity agree with us. It is 6¼ ounces in weight which corresponds to the weight of four average size eggs. It is different from most oversize eggs in that it is perfectly shaped and contains a single yolk.

Dear Mr. Roosevelt, This letter is not to the President. It is to Mr. Roosevelt.

A little book, just coming out in its third printing, accompanies these lines. Please read its second chapter; " The Miracle of Faith."

The book was written by one fast approaching four score and it has brought Peace and Spiritual Comfort to tens of thousands of us in their hour of need. If you find that what I have said in the book helps you a little in carrying your heavy burden, I will be more than glad.

You have my heartfelt prayers and good wishes!

This book lists some of the factors both in leadership and following that lowered the morale of our unchastened and bombastic Democracy. Our Commander-in-Chief will recognize these factors and will know that the folly of our own need not be the folly of the new generation.

Many harsh things are said in this book-tho none unfairly-with avowed intent to awaken and harden the children of a war generation which in its day was ruined by too easy victory. Wars are not won by say-so or by American luck or other traditional magic.

It is a pity the new generation did not get hold of this, the American War Book, the text-book they have sadly missed. However, that is now water over the dam. If our President can get a couple of hours-with some moments of enjoyment--of recreational reading from Trifling With War, howwell we shall have been repaid.

Dear Sir,

Here is some reading matter for the recreational hour of our glorious Chief Magistrate. Mein Kampf of the Madman of Europe midst his generation of fanatics was an easy struggle compared to the task of our President who had to rouse a trifling and lethargic Democracy to its own needs and duties.

This book lists some of the factors both in leadership and following that lowered the morale of our unchastened and bombastic Democracy. Our Commander-in-Chief will recognize these factors and will know that the folly of our own need not be the folly of the new generation.

Our Dear President

Altho I know you have your hands and Hunt full but there is one thing I wish you would for me I would like most of any thing to have one of your Pictures and have you. Autograph it for me. That would make me happy. I have a full page of the song Star Spangle Banner with a flag draped on each side of it and I want one of your pictures to hang above it. There is a Squad of Soldiers near My house and I inviting 3 of the Boys over for Christmas dinner. I know they can't go to their home for Christmas and I can't go to My home in Georgia so I thought it would be nice to have some of the Soldiers over for a Turkey dinner I give them the daily Paper each day and they are over a grand lunch of Eggs and they are so fond of you. I was talking to one of them today and he said I know our prisidnt wont ask any more of us boys than he feels it is neccasary and we are willing to give our lives for our grand U..S.A.. I hope you have got the Lett I made you and it was the right size. Prisidnt Roosevelt I know you are busy but please will you please send me one of your pictures and please will you Autograph it for me. Each day I learn to love you more for you are the greatest prisidnt the U. Dear Mr President:

There is no doubt in my mind that you have been having about as much fun as a flock of mosquitoes playing Drop the handkerchief around the North Pole dealing with the isolationistsin our fair land the last year or so. And as I have at last found a picture of the Worlds Champion I am taking the liberty of sending it to you for Christmas. Now you know it isent good etiquette to rub it in and as a gentleman I know you wouldent do so but I might suggest that this picture setting on your desk might come in handy if you slowly turned it around once in a while if the right person was sitting on the other side.It will save a lot of words for you.

Bless you, our President.

I close with the thought of the lesson taught us in our unalertness in the Pacific. When we are dealing with double crossers we have to look not only to the East, but to the West, the North and the South continually. Over confidence is high priced. In the past it has cost several Empires. May we place our Trust in God and follow his guidence in this struggle. Merry Christmas to you and yours.

Sir:-

I take pleasure in presenting you with the enclosed midnight photograph, and history, of the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier.

The memorial may be no more than a grim reminder to a few, but it should also be an inspiration for all American citizens to continue the second phase of the World War. In reality the present war is just a continuation of the conflict of 1917-18, after an intermission of approximately twenty-three years. We are fighting for the same causes and principles that our soldiers died for in the last war.

Our comrades in whose memory this memorial was erected did not know their task would be but partially completed; wherefor it is up to all loyal Americans to see that the job is finished thoroughly and that we have no second intermission.

As a veteran and citizen I consider it an honor to offer my services in any capacity that I am capable of filling.

At your command, Sir.

My dear Miss Le Hand:

To keep a resolution made when the President's Mother died, I am sending to you several books which may prove interesting and valuable to Mr. Roosevelt. I ask that you glance over them, and if you see fit, please direct that they be placed on his bedside table and his attention called to them. Possibly all or part of this letter would give Mr. Roosevelt an understanding of my purpose and the value of these books, and thus impel him to peruse them.

I am told that you, Miss Le Hand, are a Catholic. If so, you will more readily understand and accept my explanation of the motives suggesting this present action. I have included two books which may appeal to you, particularly in view of your recent illness and suffering. Both Miss Tiry's work and that of Father Peter Lippert, S.J., are stimulating spiritual reading. You know, too many of us Catholics get so busy with vocal prayers - scads of them - that we neglect feeding our souls by good reading and quiet thinking. I had hoped to send you "Moondyne Joe" by John Boyle O'Reilly, an intensely interesting novel with an intriguing plot. I cannot find a copy now, but will send this work later.

The President's immense and tragic burdens at this time permit of little leisure; however, there will be odd moments of solitude, and if he became interested in these studies they could bring to him real solace and added strength. "Christian Apologetics" has a splendid treatment of the immortality of the soul, and a review of that matter would give him the only real and substantial consolation possible in the loss of his truly great Mother. Much other matter is covered in these two volumes, and in such fashion as to elicit interest and provoke salutary reflection. "The Hound of Heaven", by Thompson, is probably well known to you and to Mr. Roosevelt, yet this study by Father Le Buffe, is from a spiritual viewpoint and the "notes" in the back of the book afford one the deepest and fullest understanding of that magnificent poem. "A Night Out" is a little story, cleverly told, long out of print, so I apologize for sending an old copy. It is reported the President occasionally reads to the family and friends after dinner, and this would make a diverting and amusing interlude. "Apologetics" is not given with any thought other than to recall to his mind the powerful arguments from reason, and historical evidence, which are the basis of our common Christianity. He is, no doubt, secure and happy in his own Faith and religious convictions. Surely I would not presume to interfere or suggest a change in viewpoint; but I do know one can become engrossed in even the most casual study of the credentials of Christianity, and gain thereby a new and finer appreciation of the reasons back of one's Faith. Mr. Roosevelt has given repeated evidence of his belief in God, and he well knows the steadying power of firm Faith in such a crisis as we now face. He, more than anyone in our Country, needs and must have, at times, a complete turning of his mind away from the tremendous problems before him, and it will be of especial advantage if this diversion is toward subject matter which will bring him sound spiritual inspiration.

My interest in Mr. Roosevelt and his truly great administration is not of recent origin. I have followed his career and have been in agreement with the splendid objectives he has sought, and, thus far in a great measure, notably accomplished. When he passed through Pueblo in the last campaign, I had been invited by the late John Martin, member of the House, to accompany the party across the State. Mr. Martin had given me this honor, I might say, because he felt I had been singularly vigorous and effective in support of Mr. Roosevelt, especially during the dark, hard days when opposition was so general. However, with the single exception of honest old John Martin, the Colorado delegation was nothing to be proud of. It would require Mr. Cordell Hull's quaint language, or my own private brand of profanity to describe that gang, and we would hesitate to invite your presence at such a description! The tension that day was such that I left after greeting the President, as I felt there would be no opportunity to speak further with him. If not mistaken, you were on the train, so, unfortunately, I deprived myself of the happiness of meeting you.

I sincerely hope, God willing, you are making a real recovery, and that soon you will be back beside your Chief, as he needs the kind of assistance you have always given him. May God bless you with all those graces you implore. Please express to the President my very deep and abiding admiration for his splendid leadership in so many worthy causes. Tell him I will daily at the Altar beg God to guide and sustain him and to reward his noble efforts by permitting him to lay the foundations for a just and lasting Peace.

Your friend in Christ,

"Father Joe" Higgins.

MRS. STETSON'S BANNER

by

James P. B. Hyndman, ~~Esq~~.

MRS. STETSON'S BANNER

Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, C. S. D., was a student of Mary Baker Eddy, discoverer and founder of Christian Science. She was born in Maine and was descended directly from the Pilgrims, counting both John Alden, Priscilla Mullins, as well as Miles Standish among her ancestry. She had an intense love for her native land, a love which grew into a spiritual understanding of the destiny of both America and Great Britain -- that is, the unfoldment of the Anglo-Saxon peoples as leaders of a new and redeemed world, the new heaven and new earth foretold in Holy Scripture. Mrs. Stetson spiritually perceived Mrs. Eddy's interpretation of the Holy Bible, the explanation of the Spiritual Universe, which Mrs. Eddy declared to be the only universe since God, the Author of it, is Spirit. Mrs. Stetson's consistent adherence to Mrs. Eddy's premise and conclusion was the outstanding characteristic of her Christian life.

Through her spiritual lens and her persistent study of the Bible and of Mrs. Eddy's writings, Mrs. Stetson discerned the events at this time, which would bring about in this world the supremacy of the Anglo-Saxon peoples as the representatives of God throughout this, the seventh Millenium in the world's history on whose threshhold we now stand. The marvelous events of the opening of our Federal Republic were, as one author puts it, guided by an unseen Hand. The pilgrim fathers, and later the founders of our nation, were led by God in a spiritual awakening that has had no parallel since the world began.

"The event," said George Washington, referring to the writing of the Constitution, "is in the hand of God." The spiritual history of the people of Great Britain is next to our own equally remarkable. These two nations have spread the Bible, the whole Bible, from Genesis to Revelation, throughout the four corners of the earth, and by their effort the name of Jesus Christ, the Universal Saviour of Mankind, is known in every quarter of the Globe and by all peoples. Through the common work of these two nationa, the leaven of the sublime teachings of Christ Jesus has permeated the whole earth in fulfillment of the prophecy, "I will overturn, overturn, overturn, until he come whose right it is," said the Lord, "and earth will be clothed with righteousness as one covers himself with a vesture."

The deep spirituality of the American nation, as expressed and revealed through its founders evidences the hand of God throughout its entire history, past, present and future. During the first upheaval known as the first World War, Mrs. Stetson conceived a symbol to illustrate the part which God had prepared for the Anglo-Saxon peoples to play, the unfoldment of a new heaven and new earth. This symbol was the banner which appears on the face of this picture.

The deep spiritual symbolism of the American emblems as they were given to us by the early fathers runs through the banner, from the top to the bottom. Mrs. Stetson has used the all-seeing eye, a fundamental masonic emblem, because the Nation was dedicated by George Washington in his official capacity and regalia as a Mason as recorded on the bronze tablet in the Capital in Washington. The words of Christ Jesus are from the Sermon on the Mount, the Latin phrase, Novus Ordo Seclorum are given a free translation from Virgil. In the discussion of arrangement of the stars in the original design of the flag, General Washington remarked, "We take our stars from heaven," and the point was raised as to whether the emblem as developed was a copy of the ancient symbol Lyra. The decision was arrived at, that our symbol was entirely fresh and represented a new order in the earth. Quite separate and distinct from all the orders that have preceded it. The advent of the new Nation was taken to mean a new spiritual awakening on earth which would begin with the United States of America, and be written into her sacred documents. This is born out by the text from the Bible, which Mrs. Stetson has quoted: "I am the Lord your God which have separated you from other people. Thus a mighty heritage embodied in our documents is ours, and ours alone. The pyramid, the chief emblem of the reverse of the seal over which Charles Thomson and his herald William Barton worked for six weeks under orders of the Continental Congress, symbolizes the final event in this spiritual drama, "When the unfinished pyramid" (the words in quotation used in the Act, authorizing the seal) point to the final event in this spiritual drama, in the unfoldment of the new heaven and the new earth to which

George Washington prophetically referred when he said: "The event is in the hand of God."

Great Britain shares with us this heritage -- the system of this nation so spiritually conceived soon had its effect in the old world, the Unity of America and Great Britain was evidenced in a time of crisis, when James Monroe, President of the United States of America, in 1823, proclaimed his doctrine, since known as the Monroe Doctrine. In this he was aided by George Canning, Prime Minister of Great Britain. This Doctrine was referred to by a prominent Austrian Statesman of that period, von Goetz, as having separated Europe from America for ever. The information and data embodied in the foregoing brief notes were gathered by considerable research in the Libraries of Congress and in the New York Public Library, as well as from Government documents such as the brochure on the Seal of the United States written and published by the Government Printing Office, by Honorable Guillard Hunt, as well as from an exhaustive study of the works of Lieutenant Professor C.A.L. Totten of the United States Army and Yale University.

James P. B. Hyndman, [redacted].

Dear Mr. President:

Within the covers of this history, a saga is told of the efforts of some 16,000 men and women who in the year of 1940-1 designed, built, equipped and turned over for operation the largest shell loading plant in the world. Its pages, voided of military information, in part describe the tireless, relentless drive in mud and snow and burning heat of those thousands who labored day and night in preparation for the defense of their country.

Only in this great democracy would one find on its pages the names of Divjak, the Yugoslav; Vidlak, the Bohemian; Kish, the Hungarian; Lucha, the Swiss; Dusseau, the Frenchman; Schultz, the German; Kujala, the Finn and Dimitroff, the Bulgarian; Americans all and all for America! Truthfully is this record dedicated to John Doe.

It is the wish and desire of each of these men that this record of achievement be presented to you, Mr. President, as a token of what we have done and will continue to do for you in this emergency and may it be placed somewhere in Washington where it may tell of our efforts after the products of its loading lines forever have smashed the diabolical plans of the Axis dictators and bring back to this world, peace and contentment.

Faithfully yours,

Dear Eva:

A thorough search has again been made in the files for the "ring". The one Anne and Marian remember - apparently has not been returned to file. I called Charlie Norris again and he said that the ring from Hughes was a bone ring and that he threw it away. At the time it was received there was also a letter from Hughes which was sent up to the Staff room for acknowledgment by Charlie Norris. To date — that letter from Hughes has not come to file and we have no record of it. Sorry.

Miss Tully wrote saying the President wished her to thank him for his letter of Jan. 25th and his kind offer to give the President Mr. Richard Connell's silk hat. Miss Tully said the President was delighted to have it for the Library at Hyde Park and that Miss Margaret L. Suckley would get in touch with Mr. Mullen re the hat.--Attached is Presidential memo. to Miss Suckley, Jan. 30th, saying he thought it would be a rather nice idea to get this hat because Mr. Connell ran for Congress when he (the President) ran for the State Senate the first time. The President said that incidentally Mr. Connell was the only Democratic Congressman elected from Dutchess County since about 1870. (Mr. Connell is deceased)

January 26, 1942

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt,
President of The United States of America,
White House,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

We are sending you for your personal use a special dental unit; an electrically operated toothbrush that is different in design and we have reasons to believe it to be more efficient toward the promotion of health than anything used up to this time. This unit will be delivered to you within the next few days and has been developed thru the efforts of Mr. N. F. Huber of Louisville, Ky. and the writer during the past four years.

x P.P.7.9-T

We are likewise sending one of the units to Brigadier General Leigh C. Fairbank, Commander of the Army Dental Corps and to Dr. Daniel F. Lynch of Washington, D. C.

We remain,

Yours to Command,

DID YOU KNOW?

Best results are always obtained from any article if it is used and applied in the way that its' designers intended. Nace's New Electric Toothbrush is no exception.

Remember the rotary rubber brush was designed to conform to the contours of the mouth and the operating mechanism is as simple and hygienic as possible.

For best results insert brush in holder, hold under either a faucet or dip in a glass of water, then apply a liberal portion of powder or paste to rotary brush. RUB AND APPLY VIGOROUSLY to all portions of the mouth and teeth before starting motor just like applying soap to the hands for washing. The reason for this is that most people apply a portion of powder or paste to the hand brush they are using and contact the front teeth first and the cleaning ingredient is practically all lost and very little if any ever reaches the inside or the rear molar's. Start the brush revolving by turning on the motor switch and brush the teeth and gums inside and out, front and rear.

You will have massaged the gums and cleaned the teeth—REMEMBER the brush cleans VERTICALLY as well as in a HORIZONTAL position and by switching the brush from hand to hand a massaging and cleaning action is obtained in both an up and down direction on the upper and lower teeth and gums.

CAUTION: Have the motor set at a minimum speed to begin with. As the gum tissues attain their natural firmness the unit can be operated at a greater speed.

The revolving of the brush is stopped, at any time, by pushing up on the knurled knob and holding as long as desired.
