Dear President Roosevelt

I have just listened to your radio message. God bless you for your wisdom and courage.

While the urge is strong upon me. I wish to bring to your attention, a book written-for in advance of this time by my father, the Hon. L. E. Moulton on The Science of Money and American Finances. Dedicated "To those who do the work which produces the wealth of the world, and whose labor should be the standard by which to measure its value."

He shows the cause of depressions and unemployment.

How this can be remedied by the Government fulfilling its constitutional obligation of coining money and regulating its value.

To coin labor and make it legal tender for all debts public and private. would emancipate us economically.

GGT/ngm

OUT

This is all scientifically set forth with charts and tables of statistics, study of world monetary systems, court decisions &c &c.

"It is the only system of which the writer has knowledge that conforms fully to all the conditions of a perfect and stable standard of value as theoretically defined by the established philosophy of the schools.

It is a system far in advance of the present stage of civilization" (1880)

I am so deeply impressed with the soundness of the solution offered for the problem of unemployment. I wish to place the only available copy I have in the hands of some one who will give it careful and honest consideration

May I send it to you?

It is in the hope of being of some service to you and my country I bring this to your attention.

With deep gratitude to you our President I am.

Sincerely
Chas. Moulton-Jones

OUT

Excerpts from Hon. L. C. Moulton's Science of Money and American Finances.

"It is constitutional however, to issue an irredeemable, inconvertable paper currency, and Congress once having done so, it only remains as a moral obligation to provide for a proper regulation of its value.

"To regulate the value thereof, and of foreign coins," is necessary to enable the Government to "establish justice" and promote the general welfare," for as has been seen any change in the value of money, changes all contracts to pay money."

"Currency that always costs coin must always be of the value of coin; so also currency that costs anything else will always be of the value of that which must be given for it.

But with such an arrangement labor may be substituted for coin and a day of labor can as well be the standard as a piece of bullion. In this way an absolutely stable standard can be devised for our currency.

The details of such a system must needs be somewhat as follows.

1- Substitution of a day of labor for a certain amount of metal as the unit of currency, standard of coinage.

2- Free coinage of the same by the Government, receiving all labor offered at a fixed rate in currency.

3- A system of receiving and applying this labor distributed over the country, at such points as would be easily accessable and when public works was needed."

"Regulate" implies continuous action. This power cannot be fully exercised by changing the weight of coin from time to time. If such had been the intention the word "change" would have been the word used.

OUT

This system would be perfectly self regulating. Should the currency inflate, prices and wages would rise. This of course would shorten the supply of men offering at the fixed rate, and shorten the production of money.

Should there be from any cause an increased demand for money and consequent fall of wages and prices the opposite effect would at once result thus increasing the currency in an adequate manner.

Should any man or combination of men withdraw currency by hoarding, it would be supplied as soon as the effect was felt.

This system would solve the problem of able-bodied pauperism, or tramps, for all could find employment.

It would save a vast amount of labor that now goes to waste for want of opportunity to work.

It may be urged that it is

not the duty of the Government to furnish employment to any one. If by so doing it can "promote the general welfare", it becomes its duty to do so, more especially if at the same time it becomes an incident to the coinage of money and regulating its value."

"Congress shall have the power to "coin money and regulate its value" says the Constitution and it cannot either wholly or partially delegate this power to a corporation without delegating one of its most important functions."

"We do however regard that currency as most sound and honest which retains its purchasing power unchanged through the lapse of time. Such a currency must be made expressly for the purpose; No merchandise is sufficiently stable in value."

Dear Colonel McIntyre:

This little note is to thank you for the very great courtesy extended to me and my party at the Executive Offices of the White House yesterday. The more I see of you the more I marvel at your patience, tact, and courtesy.

Our interview with the President was most satisfactory, and I cannot but believe that out of it will come some very definite results. The President's willingness to hear various groups and opinions is all on the side of the angels, and the only way that the voice of the Protestant churches can be heard is through our Federal Council, which represents, as you know, twenty millions of communicants.

Colonel McIntyre, I am sending to your address at the Executive Offices a couple of copies of my new book, "Lords of Speech." Both of these are autographed and one is for the President and one for you. I would have handed a copy to the President direct yesterday, but it seemed to me it would be taking advantage of an opportunity, so I am, therefore, sending him a copy through you.

Among these lords of speech, my dear Colonel, you will find some friends from Kentucky; you will renew your acquaintance with Henry Clay and the Breckinridges, and you will meet also your old friend William Jennings Bryan, and the brilliant Woodrow Wilson.

Again thanking you for your courtesies, and with all good wishes for yourself personally and the Administration, I am,

Dear Mr. President:

Under separate cover you will receive shortly a copy of THE GREATEST SHOW ON EARTH.

This book may be of particular interest to you not only because it treats of the economic-and-political scene but because it is the first book to analyze the workings of our economic system in continuous photographic treatment so that the mass-mind may comprehend.

The author states his hope as follows:

> "If America is to be saved from solution by violent methods, Right or Left, it will be only because America understands what its problems are. The great need is not for more interpretations of our troubles but for more clarification of our current interpretations."

Sent to Mrs Eber

So the author has striven to add nothing more to the profusion and confusion of existing economic ideas; but rather to synthesize and simplify them, to coordinate and compare them; to make them graphic by, in a literal sense, making them photographic.

Incl to Mrs Roosevelt

The novel technique is, of itself, at least as interesting as the subject matter. It ought to be of increasing value in a world not only burdened by real problems but by the pressure of high speed living and reading. The author, who has been working for over five years to develop this technique-for-the-times, would obviously welcome the criticism of those who like yourself help to mould public opinion.

Sincerely yours,

Frank Jenkins

Honorable Franklin D.Roosevelt,

Dear Mr.President:

I am taking the liberty to enclose herewith a booklet I have recently had published on the very great and important money question.

If you have the time and will read it I will consider it quite a great honor, for I know that you have time to consider only questions of great interest, and only for the general welfare, and while I would greatly appreciate hearing from you as to the merits of the little booklet, if any, this I am sure would be asking too much of your very valuable time.

In 1929, after Mr.John W.Philp, Postmaster of Dallas at that time, resigned to accept the appointment as Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, during Mr.Hoover's Administration, I with several other Democrats and Republicans applied for appointment and took the required Civil Service Examination, which I suppose is now in the records at Washington. I did not receive the appointment as this was most too important an office to be given to a Democrat when there were so many good Republicans applying for the position.

I suppose my age would bar the consideration of my name for the appointment at this time, as I was born October 9,1867, yet I am in good health and I believe as competent to conduct the affairs of the office as I was twenty years ago, and for your information will say that I served many years ago for twelve years as Assistant Postmaster of my home town before coming to Dallas, and my previous experience was the reason I applied for this appointment in 1929.

Hon.Thos.B.Love, of Dallas, of whom I wrote you several months ago suggesting his name for appointment to succeed Associate Justice Vandeventer, retired, and who does not yet know that I suggested his name knows me very well, and if the occasion arises I am sure he would be glad to advise as to what he thinks of my qualifications for this very important position.

Wishing you great success in your great fight in behalf of all the people in which you are so valiantly engaged, in which so many millions of people have such great confidence, for they know that you will not let them down.

Dear Mr.President:

I am taking the liberty to enclose herewith a booklet I have recently had published on the very great and important money question.

If you have the time and will read it I will consider it quite a great honor, for I know that you have time to consider only questions of great interest, and only for the general welfare, and while I would greatly appreciate hearing from you as to the merits of the little booklet, if any, this I am sure would be asking too much of your very valuable time.

In 1929, after Mr.John W.Philp, Postmaster of Dallas at that time, resigned to accept the appointment as Fourth Assistant Postmaster General, during Mr.Hoover's Administration, I with several other Democrats and Republicans applied for appointment and took the required Civil Service Examination, which I suppose is now in the records at Washington. I did not receive the appointment as this was most too important an office to be given to a Democrat when there were so many good Republicans applying for the position.

I suppose my age would bar the consideration of my name for the appointment at this time, as I was born October 9,1867, yet I an in good health and I believe as competent to conduct the affairs of the office as I was twenty years ago, and for your information will say that I served many years ago for twelve years as Assistant Postmaster of my home town before coming to Dallas, and my previous experience was the reason I applied for this appointment in 1929.

Hon.Thos.B.Love, of Dallas, of whom I wrote you several months ago suggesting his name for appointment to succeed Associate Justice Vandeventer, retired, and who does not yet know that I suggested his name knows me very well, and if the occasion arises I am sure he would be glad to advise as to what he thinks of my qualifications for this very important position.

Wishing you great success in your great fight in behalf of all the people in which you are so valiantly engaged, in which so many millions of people have such great confidence, for they know that you will not let them down.

Very truly yours,

R. L. Jeffers

Franklin D.Roosevelt,President
The White House
Washington D.C.

Dear Mr.President;

In order that you may taste the "first fruits" of the Northern Vermont maple crop,I am sending to you via parcels post,one gallon of the new crop of maple syrup.

North-eastern Vermont is the "Lake Region" of the State and has the reputation of producing the finest flavored maple products.

Incidently,this syrup is produced by one of those rare animals, ie:-rare for this section of the State,a perfectly good Vermont Democrat,Barney Dyer,by name of Albany Vermont and possibly that is the reason why he produces maple syrup that is just a little sweeter.

Commencing the day with some genuine Vermont maple syrup on "flap jacks" may help to sweeten up the trials and tribulations which you must encounter daily,but through which you courageously "keep your chin up" and determine matters of state for the best good of the average American.

North-eastern Vermont extends you hearty greetings.

Very sincerely yours

I am mailing you a pair of suspenders of my own make. I carded, spun and knit them myself at the request of friends at Marion and at the McDowell County Fair. I am 72 years old and have carded and spun all my life and am able to do all my work. It was your party that gave me this little job spinning at the fair and advised me to send you these suspenders which you may be able to use on your fishing trips. I won't forget you.

I showed the President your letter of June thirteenth and he has asked me to tell you that he would like very much to have the mounted marlin. He said to tell you further that when he leaves the White House, he will give it to the Smithsonian for their Presidential exhibit.

As you know, the President will be away from Washington all of the month of July so I would suggest that early August would be a good time.

I do not know whether I can arrange to have a personal presentation or not but will if possible. Will you get in touch with me about that time.

Mr. M. H. McIntyre,
Sec. to the President,
White House,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. McIntyre:-

I wish to thank you for giving us an audience relative to arranging a fishing trip for the President.

As you advised us that the President's time was all alloted until the first of Aug. as soon as Congress adjourns, which most of us expected to be this past Saturday.

Being aware that Congress gets tied up, and they don't always adjourn as per schedule, and that marlin might be running good, and Congress still in session, and that the President might have to slip away for the change of environment on week ends to get refreshed and new vigor, and as Ocean City is only four hours from Washington, so should such occur, I will keep posted and telephone you.

Or should the President arrive back from his trip per schedule around the 1st of Aug. and marlin are running good, the writer will get in touch with you.

If the President will use our boats, which have two and three engines in them, but which are not as large or palatial as the Patomac, then we can give him a quick call when marlin appears in schools, if the President is in the territory.

While waiting to see you, we noticed in the waiting room a mounted tarpon caught by James Roosevelt, another mounted tarpon presented to President Roosevelt by the St. Petersburg Angler's Club.

The Game Fishermen's Association of Ocean City would like to know whether the President would accepted a mounted marlin from them for either in the room that we waited in or the President's private room, whichever he would choose to place the same.

HAVE PARTS IN VOTE FRAUD TRIAL—As the eleventh vote fraud trial moved through routine testimony and other statements more startling in nature, these pictures of persons having parts in the current showing of the election irregularities drama in federal courtroom, catch some elements of the situation. Mrs. Ruth Tucker, Democratic clerk, is shown whispering to Sam Brenner, Democratic judge, both defendants, about some particular bit of government testimony. James Daleo, defense lawyer, discusses the case with Herman Supofsky, Democratic challenger and a defendant. Mrs Elva O'Byrne, Republican committeewoman from the Twelfth ward who pleaded guilty, refreshes herself at the water fountain outside the courtroom. My dear General Hines:

The President has asked me to acknowledge the receipt of your letter, which he has noted with interest. He was glad indeed to have that fine Utah celery and wants you to know that your courtesy in its presentation is very much appreciated.

A note of thanks has been sent to Commissioner C. Clarence Neslen, direct.

Very sincerely yours,

M. A. Leland

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The President,
The White House.

My dear Mr. President:

Mr. C. Clarence Neslen, Commissioner of Insurance for the State of Utah, and also one of the advisers of the Japanese American Citizens League of Salt Lake, recently asked on behalf of that League if I could arrange to distribute a few bundles of Utah celery to certain distinguished people in Washington, not only as a feature of "Utah Celery Week", but also in appreciation of their inspiring leadership during these trying days. It was the desire of this group of American born Japanese that this celery be presented to the President, to the Secretary of State, to the Secretary of Agriculture and to the Japanese Ambassador.

The consignment of celery has just arrived and I am transmitting a carton of it to you in keeping with the desire of the Japanese American Citizens League of Salt Lake.

Mr. Neslen advises me that some of these young people who form this League are leaders in the University, some are merchants, and quite a group engage in raising the famous Utah celery. I am advised that the celery I am sending you is the finest product available in Utah.

American Citizens League of Salt Lake, in his letter to me concerning his organization writes as follows: "Our organization is composed of the American born Japanese of this vicinity and is interested in Americanization projects. It is our purpose to combine the best of the East with the best of the West, so that we Japanese Americans may be a credit to the heritage that is ours as Americans. We cooperate in such civic movements as the Community Chest Drive. We encourage and sponsor such programs as are calculated to increase our knowledge of, and interest in, American ideals and institutions."

Being a citizen of Utah, may I join with the hope of the members of this league that you will enjoy their gift.

Very sincerely yours,

Frank T. Hines
