My dear Mr. Milikowski:

It was mighty nice of you to send that Christmas tree to the President and he wants you to know that he more than appreciates

" 'If you would win a man to your cause,' he said, 'first convince him that you are his true friend. Therein is a drop of honey which will catch his heart and which, say what you will, is the greatest highroad to his reason, and which when once gained, you will have little trouble in convincing his judgment of the justness of your cause, if indeed that cause be really a just one.

" 'On the contrary, assume to dictate to his judgment or command his action, and he will react within himself, close all avenues of approach to his head and heart; and though your cause be naked truth itself, transformed into the heaviest lance, harder than steel and sharper than steel can ever be made, and though you throw it with Herculean force and precision, you shall no more be able to pierce him than to penetrate the hard shell of a tortoise with a rye straw.' CHAIR

The original is now in the possession of descendants of the Donelson family, first settlers in Tennessee. The old chair was brought to Nashville by boat more than 100 years ago, when the Indians were plentiful in that section. The reproduction is beautiful, in all respects true to the original.

Just one of many interesting pieces.

WHEN the old Southern States were resplendent with magnificent Colonial homes, furnished with grand and beautiful furniture that since has become antique, the stage was set for hospitable gatherings, entertaining was easy with the assistance of the many and faithful slaves—life was at its best then.

The reconstruction days in the South, after the war between the States had taken its fearful toll, found many of the old mansions ruined and its proud customs changed or abandoned. The fine old furnishings were depleted and scattered, and as a substitute, a new era of furniture appeared—the folding bed of glossy quartered oak was much in vogue. The aristocratic furniture, bearing pedigrees, was in most cases despised and discarded.

There is a revival of appreciation now for the artistic. Time has proven that such will endure. The love for the old American and Southern traditions intensify a love and pride in the things of its time.

The pure Georgian architecture is reproduced in the building of homes today, and the old firm of Bradford's is building reproductions of the treasured old furniture, preserving the artistic traditions of an honored past, such furniture as adorned the home of Andrew Jackson and served in entertaining many of the world's immortals you may find at . . .

Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt,
President of the United States,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. President:

Your message on the state of the Union, delivered on the opening of the Second Session of the Seventy-fourth Congress, was clearly in line with the liberal thought of the country. To give unremitting battle to those who "gang up" against the people's liberties is undoubtedly the obvious thing to do.

The power and influence of the reactionaries is out of all proportion to their proper place in society. But they are very clever in erecting mental hazards in the minds of the people - very clever in the art of distilling fear of their supposed power.

If a proper measure of the strength of the reactionaries were to be taken, it would disclose to the light of day many vulnerable spots. Their alleged power is derived largely from their private control of the markets which all the people must use - the money market, the stock market and the commodity market. Their opwrations are, for the most part, beyond the pale of the law, but they are very clever at camouflage. The court decisions are against most of their practices, as one may discover on reference to the cases reported in 83 A.L.R. at pages 492 and 512 and the comprehensive annotation on subsequent pages.

How to check-mate the enemy's clever strategy is something of a problem for liberals to consider. I am just now bring out a book, SPECULATION AND GAMBLING, in which I discuss these matters quite freely. The matter of strategy I discuss in the latter half of the twelfth chapter. The book is distinctly a pro-Roosevelt book, although it was not written with that purpose primarily in mind. As soon as the book is off the press, I shall be glad to send you a copy with my compliments, together with a reference to the pages in which you will be most apt to be interested.

I am glad to know that you are determined that there shall be no retreat in this war against the public enemy. There will be a notable victory for the people's Cause, if we do not permit the enemy to out-maneuver us.

Very sincerely,

Ernest D. MacDougall

EL BAILE DE CUMPLEAÑOS DEL PRESIDENTE ROOSEVELT

Los preparativos en San Juan aseguran un brillante acontecimiento

En la mañana de ayer visitó nuestra Redacción la distinguida señorita Josefina Llobet, directora de la campaña pro baile de cumpleaños del presidente Roosevelt, cuyos beneficios son destinados al sostenimiento del Sanatorio de Warm Springs, Georgia, una de las instituciones más beneficiosas a la humanidad, puesto que se dedica a combatir la parálisis infantil.

La señorita Llobet nos informó que los preparativos para los dos bailes que habrán de celebrarse el día 30 del corriente mes en el Beer Garden del Hotel Condado y en el Escambrón Beach Club, continúan dentro del mayor entusiasmo; habiéndose recibido de la culta sociedad de San Juan y de la isla la acostumbrada cooperación para el tradicional baile.

Reputadas orquestas amenizarán ambos actos y además se presentarán varios números de variedades a cargo de artistas extranjeros y portorriqueños.

Los programas de los dos bailes están preparándose y serán anunciados oportunamente.

La señorita Llobet nos informó además que los distintos Comités designados para los preparativos de los bailes vienen trabajando activamente y que a principios de la próxima semana quedarán ultimados.

El presidente Roosevelt, en cuyo cumpleaños se celebran bailes en toda la nación para levantar fondos destinados al Sanatorio de Warm Springs.

Dear President Roosevelt; —

I wish you had a very nice Birthday,
And hope you have plenty of future happiness,
in life, and while you are still president of U.S.A.
I am a true faithful Democrat, but not a Democrat, like former Al Smith.
I listened to his speech, but it was a mighty poor one, I think. Of all the good you have done since in office, and in which no other president as far back as I can remember, as done so much good, or at least tried to better every thing in general, as you have done.
Next Nov "President," If you don't run for reelection, I will vote for no other man, no matter who he or she may be.
As you the only one, who I think is fit for office of United States of America.
Even if Al Smith said, the White House was run by Red Socialists, that's what I'd vote a straight ticket, If you don't run as y ticket, will never go for any republicans.

y employer is a republican, and Dis worked for him 4½ yrs, at $4.00 a week, Lucy a House Keeper.
He says the reason is, Because you President,
But when Hoover was President, he only gave me
$1.50 a week, for doing this same work.
You Know Mr President, I think these republicans are full of Honey.
This Lobby, there who have been doing their best to have me change, to an elephant, but I'd rather be a Jack ass, any day, or donkey.
Mr President, I've had a Medal since I was 18 yrs old, a Priest from Buffalo, bring it back from Italy, and I want you to accept it, as a Birth day present, and with my heartiest greetings to you, for better health, better luck, and better Happiness, and I wish you the best luck in all the world, and I know this medal, will help you to carry on, if you wear it on your person, will you do this for me,
I thank you.

VIVAT ✝ JESU

Rosary of the Holy Wounds of Our Lord Jesus Christ, or Chaplet of Mercy.

(An ordinary five decade Rosary may be used.)

On the large beads say: Eternal Father I offer Thee the Wounds of Our Lord Jesus Christ—to heal the wounds of our souls

300 days' Indulgences each time.

On the small beads say: My Jesus, pardon and mercy—through the merits of Thy Sacred Wounds.

300 days' Indulgences each time.
(PIUS XI.—Sacred Penitentiary, Jan. 16th, 1924.)

At the end of the Rosary say three times:—

Eternal Father I offer Thee the Wounds of Our Lord Jesus Christ—to heal the wounds of our souls.

Sister Mary Martha Chambon, a humble lay Sister of the Visitation Order of Chambery, France, who died in the odor of sanctity, March 21st, 1907, received these two invocations from our Lord Himself, as she affirmed, and with them a double MISSION—to adore and invoke the Sacred Wounds unceasingly and to revive this devotion in the hearts of creatures.

I am the little girl who wrote to you a year ago. Do you still remember me who sent you a birthday preasunt? I am also sending you one this year. and I would like for you to answer my letter.

I am also sending you my picture. I wish I had a better picture, maybe I can send you one some other time. I may not think much of this picture as I am a little girl of 13.

And I would be glad if you would talk over the radio I would like for you to write and let me know when you was to talk, and speak of me over the raido and say a good word for me.

Since I wrote to you the last time there has been trouble in my home and my mother is now a widow and I am the oldest girl at home now, my mother mother has a big family to take care of and we have hard times here of getting work and things we need.

Dear Friends:-

Under seperate cover
I am sending a little token appreciation of the great work
you are doing.

We are nearing Lincoln Day
& the little book I am sending was written to portray through word picture, the soul of Abraham Lincoln.

During your years as President I have often drawn a comparison with the conditions you were battling against so similar to those of President Lincoln & you too hold a power of your own to win - which comes from the soul within.

You will never know the number you have given encouragement to, when to them all was lost - so beneath the dry humor of President Lincoln, he in his time was also working in the cause of humanity & the anicdotes in this little volume gives the true Abraham Lincoln, as some day in years to come some one will portray your work to the coming generations.

You & Mrs Roosevelt will have your own place in the hearts of the people just as President Lincoln has although he too stood alone at times.

Maybe these verses will give you renewed strength & comage even though at times the clouds gather.

I, with my family wish to add our thanks to the many others you have already received but when our souls are in accord with the Great Divine we accomplish many things which to others seem impossible, yet we get our satisfaction from within

Your friend

Stella Tyler Mathews.

My dear Mr. President:-

It gives me great pleasure to present to you this historic pen which has been sent to me from Puerto Rico. Please accept it as a token of the affection in which my people hold you.

The pen is the one with which my father, Luis Munoz Rivera, as Premier of Puerto Rico in the autonomous government granted by Spain just before the Spanish American War, signed the first papers of that Government.

To His Excellency, the President of the United States

Sir:

In keeping with ancient traditons, the High Priest of the generation has received the choice, first sample of each product of a new enterprise. May we therefore, offer our first product, a dozen linen handkerchiefs with your own autograph embroidered in the corner, by hand.

This art is now being developed by us in the Isle of Puerto Rico, where we employ several hundred United States citizens, to bring out the art of hand needle work of all descriptions on handkerchiefs.

We had intended that these handkerchiefs reach you on your last birthday, but they were tardy in arriving from Puerto Rico. Will you kindly accept this humble token of our esteem and admiration. This will gratify us, as well as the workers of Puerto Rico, and serve as an added inspiration in our new venture.

We are, Your Excellency,

Yours very sincerely,

Dear Mr. Secretary: -

Many thanks for your letter of February 12th. The autographed picture of the President arrived and now occupies a prominent place in my private office. It is a prized possession of which I am most proud.

I would not presume to make an expensive gift to the President, but being aware of the fact that he is interested in ships and as a slight token of my high esteem and devotion to his leadership, I have taken the liberty of sending addressed to you for the President, an original etching of the "Ship Columbia" whose commander, Captain Gray of Boston, discovered the Columbia River in May, 1792. The "Ship Columbia" entered the river at that time and since then the river has borne the name "Columbia". The President will, of course, recall having sailed the same waters on the cruiser "Houston" in August, 1934.

Reciprocating your best wishes, I remain

Sincerely yours,

E.B. McGovern.

Dear Mr. Secretary: -

Please accept my belated but nevertheless sincere appreciation of your most courteous attention when recently calling at the White House as chairman of the Fishery Advisory Council of the Department of Commerce. I am sure you will be happy to know that the activities of the Fishery Advisory Council have received very favorable comment from the various branches of the fishery industry throughout the nation as well as from distributers of fishery products in every state of the Union.

It is perhaps needless to advise you that I have left no stone unturned to let the fishermen, processors and distributers of fishery products know that the Administration at Washington is doing everything possible to better their condition.

It was indeed a great honor to have had the pleasure of meeting the President personally and discussing even for a short time, the problems confronting the fishery industry.

You will recall perhaps that when I last called on you, Friday, January 17th, I left with you a photograph of the President with the suggestion that he might autograph it for me. I feel that my request is not presumptuous in view of the fact that "before Chicago" I was heart and soul behind the President, have always been an ardent admirer of his and deeply sympathize with his sincere efforts to bring about recovery.

Trusting that my request to have the photograph has not inconvenienced you too much, and thanking you for your good attention to the matter, I remain with high esteem

Faithfully yours in the cause,

25 February, 1936.

My dear Mr. President:

I am taking the liberty of sending to you, as The President of the United States and the Commander-in-Chief, U.S.Navy, under separate cover, a little souvenir which played a part in the Inauguration of the Philippine Commonwealth. The part was a very modest one but, nevertheless, of important significance for history in the making, for it is the powder case of one of the rounds of the first gun salute fired at Cavite Navy Yard to the new-born Commonwealth of the Philippines. Of added interest is the fact that at Cavite Navy Yard itself the American flag was first raised over the Philippines by Admiral George Dewey, U.S.Navy, on May 3, 1898, and at this yard were made the first Commonwealth flags to be saluted by the American men-of-war on Inauguration Day, November 15, 1935.

I trust the inscription thereon is appropriate and that this little token will be a pleasant remembrance of a great event in Philippine history in which you played such a prominent part.

The nineteen rounds of this first salute to the Philippine flag, each appropriately engraved have been presented in accordance with the enclosed list.

Dear Mr. President:-

I am taking the libert^y of sending you, by express prepaid, a complete sample of my new invention, the AUTOPLOW, upon which letters patent will be issued next month.

I am sending it to your Hyde Park home, in the hope of your having the opportunity, in person, of seeing it in operation, since it is utterly impossible to get any idea of its merits in any other way.

The autoplow has already been adopted in some of the larger institutions of agriculture and horticulture. A member of the faculty of the University of Tennessee says, " It will aid in relief from the depression as no other impliment or tool has ever done."

With best wishes for you continued good health, and hoping that you may, also continue to direct the destinies of the American people for another four years, and you will know that I mean just that, when I am able to tell you that my father served under General N. B. Forrest, in the civil war.
