My dear Mr. Anderson:

The President has asked me to thank you for your very nice letter to him of November third. He appreciates your thoughtfulness in writing as you did.

I am sorry that it will not be possible for Mrs. McClenny to present her quilt, "The Banner of Democracy," to the President in person as you suggest. Since the beginning of the war the demands upon the President have become so great that he has had to delegate to the members of his Secretariat the receiving of all gifts on his behalf. I will, therefore, be glad to see Mrs. McClenny if she wishes to make a trip to Washington under these circumstances or, if she would prefer to mail the quilt, to me, I shall see that it is placed before the President promptly. I shall of course await your further advice.

Mr. President:

The Democratic Party in this state counts among its members Mrs. C. B. McClenny, a very fine lady, now of advanced years, whose belief in the principles of Democracy and whose confidence in your fine leadership is a beautiful thing to see.

With her hands she has constructed a quilt, designed symbolically and prophetically, which has been widely exhibited and has now come to be known as, "The Banner of Democracy."

Her personal pride in this work, and her belief that it would be worth while for you to view the quilt, led her to request of me that, some time after election, she be granted a short audience. You may be sure that I shall appreciate your extending this courtesy to her. You will doubtless hear from her within the month of her plans for calling on you in Washington.

Secretary to the President
The White House
Washington, D.C.

Dear Mr. Early:

Today I have forwarded a letter and a portrait to President Roosevelt, which I would deeply appreciate your kindness in bringing this to his attention.

If there should be any changes desired to the portrait to better suit the individual taste of yourself or Mr. Roosevelt, if you will return the portrait to me I shall be very happy to follow out your suggestions to the best of my ability.

Due to wartime materials, I have had a little difficulty with the paint and varnish. There seems to be a tendency for dry spots or blurs to occur. If you will have the glass carefully removed and have the canvas gone over with a cloth dipped in cold water, wiping the canvas slowly in the same direction (up and down), I believe this will correct any imperfections. A few months later, if the dry spots or blurs continue to appear, an additional coat of varnish administered by an expert artist will probably permanently correct the trouble.

Thanking you for your personal kindness in granting me the favor of bringing this portrait to the President's attention and with good wishes to you, I beg to remain

Dear Miss Tully:

Your letter of November 4th has been received, acknowledging receipt of the portrait of President Roosevelt which I forwarded under date of October 26, 1944.

At the time I forwarded the portrait, I realized with all the pre-election activities, that the President and his staff would be extremely busy. However, now the election victory is over, I hope there will be a little more spare time for other matters.

I am very anxious for President Roosevelt to see both my letter to him and the portrait. After spending several months on this painting and trying to do the best work possible within my ability, I would like for the President to see the portrait and advise me whether or not he likes it and if he would wish to have any changes made.

I would appreciate anything you can do in the matter of bringing the portrait to the President's attention and having him write me a letter, telling me his reactions to the painting, also advising whether or not he would like to have any changes made to have it in complete accordance with his individual tastes.

Thanking you in advance for your kind efforts in this matter, I remain

My dear Mr. Matsakas:

Your letter of December twelfth to Secretary Early has been referred by him to this office and I hasten to explain that your oil painting of the President, previously acknowledged, was accepted by him in the same spirit of appreciation which prompted you to present it.

I feel sure that I need not emphasize the fact that these grave and busy times place unprecedented burdens upon the President which make it impossible for him to acknowledge personally the many splendid gifts that come to him. After bringing to his attention your portrait and your letter of October twenty-sixth, he asked me to extend his thanks to you which I did through my letter of November fourth. I am confident that you will understand the circumstances and I ask that you accept again the President's deep thanks.

On October 26th, just before the presidential election, I forwarded this portrait to the President, wishing him success in the elections and asking him to kindly accept the portrait as my tribute to his fine guidance and a token of my admiration for him.

On the same date, October 26th, I also wrote you a letter, explaining my motives in sending the President the portrait and giving you a few instructions to be transmitted to the person who has charge of the White House oil paintings.

I received no acknowledgment of my letter to you. I did receive a short note from Grace G. Tulley, private secretary, stating that the portrait had been received, but that it would be impossible to express any opinion as to the merits of the portrait.

The presidential elections being on at the time I sent the portrait I naturally understood that you and the President were both extremely busy. However, I did hope to receive a letter later under the President's personal signature stating his opinion of the portrait, for I would then know that he had personally seen the portrait and if any changes regarding colors or otherwise were desired, I hoped that I would be permitted to make such changes.

A few years ago I painted a portrait of John Rockefeller, Sr. He was kind enough to accept the portrait and asked me to change the color of the necktie, which I was delighted to do. Mr. Rockefeller had a preference for a certain shade of blue in his cravats and he sent me one of his ties in order to have the exact color duplicated.

Owing to the war conditions, I had considerable difficulty in securing the proper materials for the President's portrait and if possible I would be very glad to go over the portrait later when materials are again available, also I would be glad to make any changes in color the President might desire. The only prayer to be recited is the inscription surrounding the Heart on the reverse of the scapular, Immaculate Heart of Mary, pray for us now and at the hour of our death. This should be repeated daily. If the person for whom the scapular is intended does not recite the prayer, this should be done by the one giving it.

This scapular may be distributed everywhere, and wonderful graces are attached to its use; but these graces are in proportion to the confidence with which it is given. This is signified by the rays of different length which in the last apparitions issued from the hands of the Most Holy Virgin.

An exact and authentic account of any conversion or cure, which it is believed may be attributed to the Green Scapular, should be sent to the Sub-Director of the Réparation, 95 rue de Sevres, Paris. In these accounts, all circumstances of time, places and persons should be carefully given. Names should not be withheld under pretext of humility, for there is question of the Glory of God and His Holy Mother.

IMAGE OF THE IMMACULATE HEART OF MARY ON GREEN CLOTH, COMMONLY CALLED THE GREEN SCAPULAR

In Origin

The Green Scapular or Scapular of the Immaculate Heart of Mary is improperly so called, as it is not the habit of a Confraternity but simply two pictures affixed to a single piece of green cloth, which is suspended from a string of the same color.

This object of devotion to which many extraordinary conversions and cures have been attributed, originated under circumstances which savor of the supernatural.

The following simple account is from reliable sources, the autograph notes of the Seer herself, her Director, Reverend Father Aladel, C. M., and her Directress, Sister Buchepot:

November 27, 1839, the Seminary, or novitiate of the Daughters of Charity, 140 rue du Bac, Paris, received a young girl[1] whom Divine Providence destined to make known this devotion. It was on January 18, 1840, during her first retreat, that the young Sister Bisqueyburu was first favored with a celestial vision. She was at prayer in the room used for the exercises of the retreat when the Blessed Virgin appeared to her. Our Lady was clothed in a long white robe, reaching to her bare feet, over which hung a bright blue mantle. Her hair, which fell loosely over her shoulders, was not covered with a veil, and in her hands she held her heart from the top of which issued brilliant rays. To the dignity of her bearing was joined the dazzling brightness of celestial beauty. At the sight, the young Sister, seized with admiration and fear, could hardly repress an exclamation.

The same apparition was repeated four or five times during her seminary on the principal feasts of the Blessed Virgin. The favor at first seemed to have no other end than to increase in the Sister herself, tender devotion to Mary Immaculate; but God had other designs which were soon manifested.

Being clothed with the habit, Sister Bisqueyburu was sent to the house at Blangy, and shortly after her arrival, on September 8, 1840, feast of the Nativity of the Most Holy Virgin, she was again favored during prayer with an apparition of the Mother of God. This time she held in her right hand her heart surrounded by flames, and in the left a sort of scapular, consisting of a single piece of green cloth suspended from a cord of the same color. On one side was seen a picture of the Blessed Virgin as she had shown herself in the apparitions; on the other a heart all inflamed with rays more brilliant than the sun, and clearer than crystal.

[1] Justine Bisqueyburu, born at Mauleon, Basses Pyrenees, November 11, 1817; died Superioress of the Hotel Dieu of Carcassonne, September 23, 1903.

X4166-C

This heart pierced with a sword, was surrounded by an oval inscription, surmounted by a cross. The inscription read: Immaculate Heart of Mary, pray for us now and at the hour of our death. At the same time an interior voice revealed to the Sister the meaning of this vision. She understood that this new Scapular, through the medium of the Daughters of Charity, would contribute to the conversion of those who have no faith, and above all, procure for them a happy death, and that it should be immediately distributed with confidence.

But as the execution was for various reasons long delayed, the Blessed Virgin, in several apparitions between 1840 and 1846, complained of this to the Sister. In those of 1846, the hands of the Blessed Virgin seemed to send forth rays some of which reached to the hem of her robe.

Its Efficacy

Gradually obstacles were removed and the Scapular was disseminated, producing wonderful conversions and sometimes even bodily cures.

The following accounts are from autograph notes of Father Aladel:

Among the persons to whom the scapular had been given, was a sick man, a declared enemy to all religion[1]. The very sight of a priest was, as he acknowledged to me in my first interview with him, September 8, 1842, sufficient to throw him into a state of frenzy.

"On the nineteenth of the same month, a scapular was offered him which he accepted and wore under his vest. About seven o'clock on the evening of September thirtieth, eleven days after receiving the scapular, he suddenly arose from table where he was at dinner with his wife and several other persons, and withdrew into an adjoining room. Here falling on his knees, he took out his scapular which he looked upon as an intermediary agent—these are his own words—kissed it, and bathed it with tears, promising the Blessed Virgin to go to confession within a week. But this delay seemed too long, and the next day he received the sacrament in the most edifying dispositions. His sentiments of piety, fervor and heroic patience in the midst of the excruciating sufferings he afterwards endured deeply impressed all who approached him."

"In 1844, the scapular was given to a child of fourteen years of age whose depraved morals were a source of inexpressible affliction to his pious mother, who had exhausted all endeavors to reclaim him. The eagerness with which he received the scapular inspired confidence, and in a few days, grace triumphed and the youthful penitent attributed his conversion to the scapular."

"At Constantinople, a Greek schismatic, one of the most inveterate of his sect, was converted by means of the same scapular and also cured of a hideous leprosy. He constantly proclaimed both by word and an edifying life, that he owed to Mary his conversion and cure."

Many similar examples might be cited, but among them none is more remarkable than the conversion in 1859, of the assassin of Mgr. Affre, eleven years after the immolation of his sainted victim. This was attested by the Daughter of Charity who assisted him in his last moments and by her Superioress, Sister Dufès, who has left us the account signed by her own hand.

Its Approbation by Pope Pius IX

The green scapular was twice approved by Pius IX. Father Guarini, Procurator of the Congregation of the Mission to the Holy See, in his letter of December 19, 1863, to Father Aladel says: "Your petition has just been granted. The scapular is approved, but the formula is desired; kindly send it to me as soon as possible.

Father Borgogno, who succeeded Father Guarini, is our authority for the second approbation. This he mentions in two letters, one of April 3, 1870, the other of September 20, 1876. He thus expresses himself: "The Holy Father, having listened to my account of the green scapular, said: 'Show it to me,' and having examined it attentively replied distinctly in Italian: 'Questo scapolare é molto bello e divoto. Come si possono distribuire altre immagini, non vedo come non si possa esso distribuire. This scapular is very beautiful and inspires devotion. I do not see why it cannot be distributed like other images. Write to these good Sisters that I authorize them to make and distribute this scapular'."

It must be remarked that as there is no question here of a scapular properly so called, nor of the establishment of a new confraternity in the Church, but simply of a medal in cloth, this approbation is more than sufficient. Previous to the year 1894, the Miraculous Medal itself did not enjoy so explicit an approbation.

Manner of Using It

The following is the manner of using this scapular as indicated by the Blessed Virgin herself, at the request of Father Aladel.

Not being like other scapulars, the badge of a confraternity, but simply a double image attached to a single piece of cloth and suspended from a cord like a medal, the same formalities are not required for the benediction and imposition. It suffices that it be blessed by a priest and worn by the person over whom it is desired to exercise a beneficial influence. It may be placed in the clothing, on the bed or simply in the room. The only prayer to be recited is the inscription surrounding the Heart on the reverse of the scapular, Immaculate Heart of Mary, pray for us now and at the hour of our death. This should be repeated daily. If the person for whom the scapular is intended does not recite the prayer, this should be done by the one giving it.

This scapular may be distributed everywhere, and wonderful graces are attached to its use; but these graces are in proportion to the confidence with which it is given. This is signified by the rays of different length which in the last apparitions issued from the hands of the Most Holy Virgin.

An exact and authentic account of any conversion or cure, which it is believed may be attributed to the Green Scapular, should be sent to the Sub-Director of the Réparation, 95 rue de Sevres, Paris. In these accounts, all circumstances of time, places and persons should be carefully given. Names should not be withheld under pretext of humility, for there is question of the Glory of God and His Holy Mother.

Dear Mr President.

My family has always been an ardent admirer of yours. We all love you, it hurts us deeply, when we hear those lies and falsehoods over the radio, by your opponent. You have the best President we ever had, or ever will have. I have my family making novenas, and praying nightly for you.

I am enclosing a miraculous medal to you, and hope you will always keep it on your person, for a victorious election.

I have spoken to a number of people where I am employed, and they have told me, that they are merely saying they are voting for Dewey (I don't think he deserves the title Mr) because the firm is for him, but on election day, Mr Roosevelt is getting our vote.

I have children in service, one is not old enough to vote, but the other is 100% for you.

X4166-C

This was not acknowledged because it was 4th term.

I am also sworn in under the U.S. Army as as guard, and my husband is in defense, so my whole family is trying to do their share.

Mr President please do not publish this letter, as I am not writing it for that purpose. I just had to write to personally, as I said before, we all love you so much, and were depending on you, for four more years.

Wishing you the very best of Good luck on Election day, and that God may spare you for many more years to come,

Sincerely

Mrs L.A. Cavanaugh

P.S. Mr President -

This is a personal letter to you only. Please do not publish it. I have that much faith in you, I know you wont.

Please do not take to heart, all those mean things people are saying about you.

Dear Mr. President,

Congratulations! I rejoice with you in your hour of triumph. God has chosen you to lead us out of this world of chaos. You can only do it through earnest prayer, and I know you can pray.

Go to the Sacred Heart of Jesus through the pure heart of Mary. I am sending you a miraculous medal that she herself caused to be struck like it is. So the graces that flow from those hands to her clients. Turn it over and see how her heart and that of her Divine Son are always together. So the sword of sorrow that pierced her heart at His death; as His mother she has no other will but His.

She is our loving mother whom Jesus gave to St. John (who represented the human race at the foot of the cross) who took her for his mother as Jesus told him to do.

Guard this medal as you would your own life. Take it with you everywhere. Ask our Blessed Mother to tell you how to conquer Communism so rampant in this country. Prove to Lenny that you are no Communist. Take the badge of the Sacred Heart and put with the medal over your heart when you go into the council room to decide the peace of the world. And you will be surprised how you will have the grace to do the right thing with this petition for divine grace.

The badge of the Sacred Heart as well as the miraculous medal are of divine origin. That is why they are so efficatious.

Sincerely your friend,

Mrs. S. Murphy.

The Sacred Heart of Jesus

"O, Sacred Heart of Jesus,
I place my trust in Thee,"
Whatever may befall me, Lord,
Though dark the hour may be.
In all my joys, in all my woes,
Though naught but grief I see,
"O, Sacred Heart of Jesus,
I place my trust in Thee."

When those I love have passed away
And I am sore distressed,
O, Sacred Heart of Jesus,
I fly to Thee for rest.
In all my trials, great or small,
My confidence shall be,
Unshaken, as I cry, dear Lord,
"I place my trust in Thee."

This is my one sweet prayer, dear Lord!
My faith, my trust, my love,
But, most of all, in that last hour,
When death points up above,
Ah! then, sweet Saviour, may Thy Face
Smile on my soul set free.
Oh! may I cry with rapturous love,
"I've placed my trust in Thee."

The Honorable Franklin Delano Roosevelt,
1600 Pinnsylvania Ave., N.W.,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

Enclosed you will find a Roosevelt Campaign Button worn by me through four campaigns. I believe it is the only one of its kind now to be found anywhere. I bought it here in Atlanta, when you first ran for President twelve years ago, and I thought at the time I would be wearing it through several campaigns to come, so I took very good care of it as you can see. I thought you would like to place it with your other campaign curios of past years. It deserves the best, as does its namesake. We, (this pin and I), have had several good arguments, not many here in the south, but we always came out victorious.

Dear Mr. President:

You are being mailed under separate cover a Democrat Mule, who since 1932 has strived conveniencely, to keep a grand and most competent man as our President, and in his small way carried you into the Whitehouse for the fourth term.

He has served the purpose faithfully and we would recommend that he be placed upon the retirement list, with an honored seat on your private desk for the rest of his days. Believe he will certainly be a good luck piece and except for a broken leg, seems to have weathered the ordeal just fine. He is looking forward to greeting you and the close association which will follow.

Pete is being sent to you by Mrs. Geneva Mc Millan, one of your ardent admirors, who wishes you health, success and feels confident that you will carry all of us safely through the coming critical four years.

Says People Understand

It is my profound conviction ...at the American people as a ...hole have a very real under... ...anding of these things.

The American people know ...ode to press forward confidently with its plans. We are seeking to avert and avoid wars.

The very fact that we are now at work on the organization of peace proves that the great nations are committed to trust each other. Put this proposition any way you want, it is bound to come out the same way; we either work with the other great nations, or we might some day have to fight them and I'm against that.

The kind of world order which we, the peace-loving nations, must achieve, must depend essentially on friendly human relations, on acquaintance, on tolerance, on unassailable sincerity and good will and good faith. We have achieved that relationship to a very remarkable degree in our dealings with our allies in this war—as I think the events of the war have proved.

Building the Peace

It is a new thing in human history for allies to work together, as we have done—so closely, so harmoniously, so effectively in the fighting of a war, and—at the same time—in the building of the peace.

If we fail to maintain that relationship in the peace—if we fail to expand it and strengthen it—then there will be no lasting peace.

I digress for a moment, as to Ge... ...that tragic pe...

—or even the faith—that in all peoples, without exception, there live some instinct for truth, some attraction toward justice, some passion for peace—buried as they may be in the German case under a brutal regime.

We bring no charge against the German race, as such, for we cannot believe that God has eternally condemned any race of humanity. We know in our own land in the United States of America how many good men and women of German ancestry

The Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt
President of the United States
Washington, D.C.

Dear Sir:

Because it was through your foresight in making possible the creation of the Civil Air Patrol that a valuable arm was added to the Nation's coastal defenses during the dark days of 1942, and knowing of your profound interest in all thing pertaining to naval warfare, I thought you might be interested in my recently-published book, "Sank Same."

I am taking the liberty of sending you, under separate cover, an autographed copy of the book, which tells the story of coastal patrol with a wealth of anecdotes which even you, with the many sources of information available to you as Commander-in-Chief of our armed forces, probably have not heard.

It is a story of heroism and devotion to duty by civilian volunteers, many of the veterans of the last World War, which cannot be topped even by our regular armed forces, and it is my hope it will make the people of these United States just a little prouder that they are Americans.

I hope you can find time, when the burdens of your present war duties become less onerous, to read it. I think you'll enjoy it.

Congratulations, incidentally, on your re-election. I did not vote for you, solely because I do not believe one man or one organization, be it Republican or Democratic, should remain in the saddle so long. But 24,000,000 Americans can't be wrong.

Yours very sincerely,

William B. Mellor, Jr.

My dear Mr. President:

br

With your millions of loyal friends, I rejoice in your election to the presidency of the United States for the fourth term.

My constant prayer shall be that the Lord of the universe may continue to guide your mind and your heart and to sustain you with the physical strength you need to meet the burdens of our country, which will rest upon you in bringing complete victory to the United Nations and in establishing a just and lasting peace.

I am presumptuous in sending you under separate cover, a little volume of mine, named by Dr. Julian Morgenstern in the foreword: "Chronicle of An American Crusader." Perhaps some night when you are especially tired and when you have run out of detective stories, which bring you and me such relaxation and stimulation, you may wish to read my last chapter entitled: "A Rabbi Fights a Political Machine." In it I tell the intimate details of the fight I waged from 1932 to 1940 against the vicious Pendergast machine here.

The little volume has had an amazing sale here and a second edition is about to be issued. I am astonished because I thought only the members of my family would want to read it.

With every good wish and with additional congratulations upon the fact that my friend, Harry Truman, is elected to stand shoulder to shoulder with you, I am
