My dear Dr. Weiderland:

The President has noted with a great deal of interest all that you say in your letter of June twenty-third. He wants your father to know that he is especially pleased to have the picture and that he is grateful indeed for the friendly thought and prayers which your letter conveys.

Very sincerely yours,

President Franklin D. Roosevelt
W a s h i n g t o n, D.C.

My dear Mr. President:

May I take the liberty of enclosing herewith, as a token of deep personal admiration, this hand picture which is the work of my father, a seventy years old Palestinian rabbi and artist.

May I express the hope that the humble picture, entirely composed of Hebrew inscriptions and biblical quotations, pleases you, since it represents, in its kind, a unique symbol of the hopes and prayers of millions of people all over the world for your health and the success of your heroic efforts to establish righteousness among all peoples.

Sincerely yours

William G. Niederland

Explanation of the Portrait

This unique portrait of Franklin D. Roosevelt, President of the United States of America, is entirely composed of Hebrew letters. It is the work of a Palestinian rabbi, Abraham Niederland of Rehoboth (Palestine), who after long and painstaking toil created this extraordinary testimonial in honor of the President and his heroic efforts to establish righteousness among all peoples.

The portrait contains the biography of the President and a homage to his third election, written in Hebrew letters. You start the reading at the head of the president, from right to left. It begins with the words: "חבב העמים" — loved by the nations" (Deuteron. 33.3), and expresses, in the classical wording of the Bible, the author's love and admiration to the American people and its great president.

The text is thoughtfully based on passages and quotations from the Sacred Scripts, and quotes, between others, Proverbs, 28, and Chulin, 4:

"משל מקשיב על דבר אמת כל משרתיו צדיקים" —

"A ruler who struggles for truth — a righteous people."

Dear Mr. President:

In appreciation of the fine cards which you sent to me in April of this year of 1942, I am sending today, by Express, a scrap book for your lovely grand children, the prettiest yet, I think, I have originated.

A note in the first page of the book to the children is self explanatory.

Hoping for the best in health and happiness for you, Mr. President and our First Lady.

LLEWELLYN, Major E. M.
Editor, The Stars and Stripes,
London, England,
July 21, 1942.

Mr. Early wrote saying the President was grateful for the copies (newspapers) of the Stars and Stripes for June 20th and June 27th. Mr. Early said the President is very much interested in this publication and would like to preserve a complete file for the Franklin D. Roosevelt Library, Hyde Park, N.Y. It would, therefore, be greatly appreciated if Major Llewellyn would sent the President a complete set of the issues up to date to the Library in Hyde Park. The President would like to have copy of each issue forwarded to the Library in Hyde Park. Mr. Early said that by this means the entire file could be preserved permanently in the Library, where it would have an increasing value in the years ahead.

Attached is file memo. "Copies of the Stars & Stripes for June 20 and 27 sent to Fred Shipman along with copy of the letter which Mr. Early is sending to Major Llewellyn".

President Franklin D. Roosevelt,

Dear Mr. President:

Although I am aware that the problems of our present great crisis weigh heavily upon you and that in these grave times you are crowded with decisions and indecisions, I am hoping for a few moments in which to be heard.

It isn't much that one of my age could say that would cause his words to be heard with eagerness or possibly great interest. But sometimes we like to be heard, if only for the comfort of knowing that we were listened to for only a little while.

I am an old man. My 85 years have been filled with events, and now, in the twilight of my fading days, are crowded with memories--some recalling happiness and times filled with the laughter and gaiety of youth--that glorious, intangible thing that men strive to cling to, yet lose so swiftly on the wings of time; some lingering briefly on poignant sorrows, best forgotten. I have seen Presidents of this great nation come and go.... one upon another. Guns of one great war have shattered the stillness of the evening around me....I have smelled the acrid smoke from the burst of shells that set the fires to light a nation to liberty and unity.

And, now, from my rocking chair, where I have been confined for two years, hampered by the misfortune of being stone blind, I watch again a nation plunged into the greatest strife in its history---WAR. A nation not only fighting for her mere existence, but fighting for all the little things that make that existence possible.

How soon we will smell the burning clouds of powder and tremble at the terrible swoop of the great wings of the enemy birds of death, we do not know now. But if, and when, that day shoulddawn upon us, we--your people--a nation indivisible, will, as one, be secure in our faith that you will lead us gloriously to the Victory.

It has been with a sort of reverence that I have watched your works and the achievements they have wrought. I remember, all too clearly, the days before you became our Leader: remember too clearly the naked hunger written on the pinched faces of thousands upon thousands of little children; how their ill-fitting and meager clothing did not hide them from the cold. These hunger-ridden children are today the men and the women--the youth--of America. You would not now know that they had tasted hunger. They are sure of themselves, they have been given the chance to rise above these sordid beginnings. You, through the measures of humaneness and sympathy, have given these children the incentive to live and to achieve. They have done both, and I am sure that, in their hearts, they know whom to thank for this: God, and You.

In this feeble heart springs a prayer of thanksgiving to the God of all mankind for your Mother, Mrs. Sara Delano Roosevelt, who now reposes in the recesses of your heart as your most precious and treasured memory. She must have known that, through herself, she would give to the world one who would snatch a Nation from the brink of disaster to place it in its rightful place on the pedestal of a great Destiny. To her, and to your Father, Heaven rest him, this country owes a debt of gratitude and homage. We can pay that debt only by believing in your principles, following the road of right that you have marked for us, and having abiding Faith in the One Who leads you by the hand.

They say that "hope springs eternal in the human breast". This America of ours needs hope now--more than ever before in its history. And we can hope, if that hope is based on absolute faith in Our Maker. I am old, very old, and I know that what we need is more and more faith in the good things, the just things, the pure things. And I know that we cannot hope to survive at God's pleasure by forgetting Him Who intended that we should remember.

That is why I am so feebly trying to thank you for helping us, as one great people, to remember. No other nation or country on the face of the Earth has acknowledged so openly and gladly their belief in God and the heritage of a life lived for Him as this America. No other one has been so willing to fight and to die for this belief and the right to worship as desired. May God look kindly and with compassion on you for striving to preserve these things for which we have fought and for which we are still fighting. Through that kind offFaith and trust we, with you as our Leader at the helm of our ship, shall voyage successfully and make the promised port, hearts leaping high with the joy of a job well done for Christ.

As a token of my own faith in your sincerity and your ability to carry us on to the Liberty which we seek so diligently, I send you something: the one thing on which rests and depends our fate and ultimate Victory. Without it, we are lost. With it, nothing and no one hostile can touch or phase us in our campaign. You probably have many of them. No doubt. But one more can only serve to make memory and determination stronger.

By way of explanation, I will say here, that for several months I have devoted my time and all the money at my disposal in distributing these gifts to all whom I can reach in this way. It has made life wonderful to know that, in this manner, I am able to do a little bit toward showing people the right road and helping them to remember things perhaps long since forgotten.

If an old man's ramblings have tired you, I beg forgiveness. I only hope that you have had a small opportunity to grant me permission to reach you thus for a few moments. I have enjoyed unburdening myself to you for a little while, and am sincerely trusting that it may be possible for me to see you at some time before the call shall come. If that should be denied me by the decree of that old Thief--Time---, then, it would make my remaining days much, much happier to hear from you, if only in a small way. If you would care to write me a line, or if your kind wife, Mrs. Roosevelt, who has stood by you and helped you carry on for so long, would care to, I would appreciate it highly.

Until that time, I want to wish you God-speed in your work and to tell you that we are standing by you for the day when we all can, as one great body of people, pursue in peace and contentment the things for which we are fighting so valiantly: Life, Liberty, and the Pursuit of Happiness!

Yours sincerely,

My dear Commander Kirk:

I have received the boat cape which the clothing workers at the depot under your charge have been good enough to send to me. It is a fine piece of workmanship and I am proud to have it.

Will you be good enough to convey my deep appreciation to those who made this gift possible? Please assure them as well, that I am grateful for their message of loyal assurance and abiding faith in the success of our country's aims.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Sir:

Inspired by Your leadership and eloquence, by the heroic deeds of General Douglas MacArthur, I have written two pictures, the first printed copy of each I am herewith enclosing.

Please accept them as a token of my boundless faith in the final victory of our country, not because I hope that God is on our side, but because I know we are on God's side, which is liberty and peace for the whole human race.

Praying that You may endure in good health the immense strain and responsibility of Your office, I remain,

MEMORANDUM
October 24, 1941

Sec'y. Hull's office phoned to ask if the Pres. would shake hands with Mr. Thomas J. Davis, Pres. of Rotary International, Butte, Montana. Pencilled Notation: "Mrs. Eben explained that when Tom Davis saw the President, he presented him with a Gold Model of a Ship. One part was broken, so it is now in the local jewelry shop being repaired. It will go to Hyde Park Library with original of this memo. EBE"

Letter to Miss Tully, from Treasury Department, signed by Stanley W. Prenosil, dated July 9, 1942, enclosing letter which was handed to him by Captain R. Drace White, our Naval Attache in Lisbon. This letter dated 6/29/42 is addressed to Mr. Early enclosing card of a gentleman, Manual Santos Mendonca who along with his wife is an ardent admirer of the President and when Elmer Davis was in Lisbon some time ago, they sent to the President a fine old model of a Portuguese Carevel, such as were used in the Worldwide discoveries in the 14th and early 15th centuries, and they never received any acknowledgment of this gift. Captain White thinks that it would be ~~hurt that they see~~ a good idea to send these people a photograph of the President in as much as they feel hurt that they received no acknowledgment of this gift and it would tend to foul good will to us in Lisbon.——— Notation: "Answered by phone for the time being. MLT"——— Another letter from Mr. Prenosil, dated 9/3/42, enclosing letter he received from Capt. Drace White, which clears up the mystery of the missing ship model. Captain White states that the model was entrusted to Thomas J. Davis, not Elmer Davis and asks for an autographed photograph for them. Add. 9/11/42.

Franklin D. Roosevelt
President of the United States
White House
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. President:

Your stirring address to the youth of the nation and your interest in their welfare which both you and Mrs. Roosevelt have shown on many occasions prompts me to mail you a few prints taken from a large collection submitted by high school students for the third National High School Salon of Photography. These original prints, somewhat the worse for wear after having been exhibited in eight of the principal cities of the United States, were selected by a group of distinguished artists and have been reproduced in many newspapers and magazines, among them the September issue of U S Camera.

The National High School Salon of Photography is an extra-curricular, self-supporting, non-profit undertaking conducted by the Stuyvesant High School Camera Club of New York City. All the work in connection with the salon is done by students thus giving them splendid training in photography and business administration.

This year with the nation at war the slogan was, Prepare yourself for duties to come; turn a pleasant hobby into a useful pursuit and prepare to serve your country. The results speak for themselves. The glowing tributes paid these young artists were most encouraging.

It may seem rather presumptious on my part to burden you with non-essential trifles, but the contemplation of the work of the youth of the nation and their eagerness to help may give a moment of realaxation and greater strength to carry on.

Should you decide to retain these prints; you will confer a great honor upon these young people.

Very respectfully yours,

Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. President:-

Unfortunately, it's just physically impossible for every American manufacturer to convert his factory to the high-speed production of tanks, ships, planes and guns for the prosecution of the present war.

While armanent and munitions cannot be made on paperboard machines and printing presses, we are making millions of boxes, also special packaging materials, which are essential to our armed forces and civilians. As a matter of general information I think you may be very much interested in an example of this type of essential service which is aimed particularly at conserving war materials.

Under separate cover, you will receive a new package of "HALF and HALF" that delicious, fragrant tobacco millions of pipe smokers enjoy daily. Formerly in metal you will note it now appears in an attractive paper box. Working from scratch our research, engineering and manufacturing departments originated this "Click Top" box and perfectly adapted it to our customer's automatic packaging machines. By adopting this paper package, American Tobacco Company performed a real patriotic service by releasing which may now be used for the fabrication of vital "implements of war". Furthermore, transportation facilities, sorely pressed with the movement of war goods, are relieved of 75% of the load they formerly carried for the

"CLICK TOP" PAPER BOX WEIGHS ONLY 25% AS MUCH AS THE METAL CAN!

As you enjoy the pleasant aroma of "HALF and HALF" we would leave this thought with you - if you are now using critical materials in your present packages, National's packaging engineers may be able to show you how to secure equally practical packages made of non-critical paperboard, and thus make available additional quantities of needed materials for the war effort.

Yours cordially,

Walton D. Lynch

The world's first rose was white and weak, no strength, so Jesus asked his Heavenly Father if he will give him power to change this rose from white to red with one drop of blood from his heart because Jesus felt so sorry for the people on earth who really had great chances, but not will power enough to carry it through. So through this rose he had the power to change the person; we must have power to do what Jesus tells us to do; if Jesus say do this for me now, and someone else tells me no, don't do that; we must keep our promise to the Lord. So through this rose he had the power to change the person; we must have power to do what Jesus tells us to do; if Jesus say do this for me now, and someone else tells me no, don't do that; we must keep our promise to the Lord. Jesus says if he can't trust us, we have no right to trust Him; so that is the reason for the white rose.

Dear Senator Maloney:

The President asks me to thank you ever so much for your courtesy in transmitting to him the two volumes of the "Victory Book of Connecticut" together with the letter addressed to you from Mrs. Horatio H. Armstrong, President of The National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Connecticut.

A little note of thanks and appreciation is being sent directly to Mrs. Armstrong.

Very sincerely yours,

GRACE G. TULLY

December 16, 1942

The Honorable Franklin D. Roosevelt
The President of the United States
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. President:

I am sending you herewith a letter which I have received from Mrs. Horatio H. Armstrong, President of The National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Connecticut - and with it two volumes of the "Victory Book of Connecticut."

These books, as you will note, were especially bound for you. They contain the history and the record of "Victory House", and its successful undertaking in connection with the sale of stamps and bonds at Hartford, Connecticut. In this book, in their own hand, are the names of those who subscribed.

Mrs. Armstrong asked that I deliver these books to you in person, but I have an appreciation of the constant burdens with which you are confronted - and the magnitude of your responsibility in these uncertain days - and I am sure that I will be excused as I send this letter, and these books, to you by special messenger.

Faithfully yours,

Francis Maloney

Dear Mrs. Armstrong:

The two volumes of the "Victory Book of Connecticut", sent to Senator Maloney by you for presentation to the President, have been received by him and the President asks me to be sure to send you this little line of thanks.

He is pleased to have these books as evidence of the fine spirit of cooperation, on the part of the people of Connecticut and the National Society of the Colonial Dames of America in the State of Connecticut, in connection with the sale of War Savings Bonds and Stamps.

Very sincerely yours,

GRACE G. TULLY

The Honorable Francis T. Maloney

Dear Senator Maloney:

I am now sending you two volumes of Victory Book of Connecticut about which we had some correspondence last summer.

On September 4th Miss Marie Wilson wrote me that as soon as the book arrived she would bring it to your attention. The delay has been due to the fact that "Victory House" which has been traveling throughout the State for the purpose of the sale of U. S. war savings bonds and stamps just recently returned to Hartford where it is continuing to do business in front of the Old State House.

It developed that two volumes would be necessary in order to bind the signatures of the purchasers. Rather than send you one book at a time I waited for the second to come from the printers, Case, Lockwood and Brainard. My first letter to you dated July 6th, explains the project.

The War Savings Staff of Connecticut and the Connecticut Society of the Colonial Dames of America appreciate very much your willingness to present these books to President Roosevelt.

Sincerely yours,

/signed/ Marjorie E. Armstrong
