My Dear President:

I had the pleasure a year ago of writing to you congratulating you on your birthday, and I feel that you have done such noble work in the past year, and it would be only fair that I should lend whatever little encouragement I can in carrying out your future program.

I am sending a book, I have had in my Library, for many years, and there has been so much adverse criticism by the Chicago Daily Tribune and the Chicago Daily News, about the National Debt, that I am prompted to ask you to read about twenty pages of this little book by Macaulay, Pages 180 to 199.

I think you will find an analogy of our present day condition and the origin of the National Debt in England, in the seventeenth century. This will consume about fifteen minutes of your time which I know is very valuable.

It impressed me very much. Now when I hear some of our great financiers complaining about the National Debt, as they did in England, in the seventeenth century. The subsequent events proved that they were all wrong as I believe they will about the National Debt.

However, you may after reading this book pass it on or place it somewhere in your own library.

Wishing you health, success and a long continuous reign, I am

Dear Mr. Secretary:

The Ojai Valley Chamber of Commerce is joining with Mr. Bill Baker, famous cake decorator and the manufacturer of lima bean bread, in presenting to President and Mrs. Roosevelt, through you, a shipment of a new product recently introduced by Mr. Baker, namely, Lima Bean Waffle-Biscuit-Hotcake Flour.

This product, introduced for the first time but a few days ago, is meeting with enthusiastic demand and it seems likely that it will surpass in popularity Mr. Baker's wonderful lima bean bread which has become a dietetic necessity for thousands of users during the past three years.

Every ingredient used in Mr. Baker's Lima Bean Waffle-Biscuit-Hotcake Flour is produced right here in California and the lima beans which form its base are one of the principle products of our immediate community.

Will you please be kind enough to present with our compliments and those of Mr. Baker to the President and Mrs. Roosevelt this little offering from the Ojai Valley and California.

I am sending a small book of civilization it does seem a shame there is any one who has not got the thirst of blood out of his system. After all the years of talking peace, & the books, & preaching, to think we are facing years of untold misery, if some way can not be found to waken these souls, who seem bound on paths of destruction.

Does it pay us to do any more building? until we see whether the war clouds really pass us by. It to my mind is a waste of money. Better hold on to what we have, we may need it for more important use. Of course we need store houses for food etc. but any buildings we can do without, think of the waste in Europe after the last war.

Why do not the Drs take the men in hand, who are advocating war, & those who are stirring up strife? I think it is the only way to do need something of this kind of a book to read, to get back the sense of the "true spirit of Jesus". I feel Charles Laughlin is hurting himself in making reply to addresses in such a spirit, but if it is his true spirit, the sooner the public find it out, the better for them.

I am sending another clipping in this letter, it may be of interest to you seeing it is one of Grotius' landmarks. You may want to write a book on your years in Grotou some day, and it might come in handy.

I see in the "Post" things look quite serious in Europe, Cuba, & Mexico. I do hope we do not get drawn into this trouble. We have had experience enough in the past, to make us think well before we take any "foolish steps".

We must not get into any religious war if we can possibly keep out. In this age of so called away with war. When a man is called a "hero" for preventing a war, that day will issue in a deep glory to the nation who produced him.

I would there was some one who could get in touch with these leaders in Europe, who could cast out fear, teach them their duty to their people, who have long been suffering for leaders who are humane.

How can those children who saw the horrors of war, grow up to follow a leader who preaches more war.

You are a good writer could you not write to those leaders. No one needs a "World Court" to keep in touch with men. You have a voice that puts confidence in people, why not use it over the radio, on subjects that would do away with hard feelings between nations.

Groton Church One of Oldest in the State

FIRST PARISH UNITARIAN CHURCH

Established by Groton in 1662, Unitarian Church Is One of Oldest in State

Town Was Settled in 1655--Fitting Ceremonies Are Conducted--Original Structure Was Burned in 1676 by Indians, Second Was Built in 1680--Present in 1754

The town of Groton was settled in 1655. As originally surveyed it was to be eight miles square. This included not only all of the present town, but all of Pepperell, Shirley and Ayer and a part of Dunstable, Hollis and Nashua. When the Great and General Court made grants of land for towns and plantations there was a condition, usually, that a place of worship be established within a stated time. Church and state were not separated for about 200 years after the settlement of Plymouth. During that time all towns took charge of the affairs of their churches. In their town meetings they settled upon their ministers; decided their salaries, how much should be paid in money and how much in commodities; planned their meeting-houses, etc., and all money for these purposes was raised by taxation as we now raise money for schools, roads, etc. The parish meant a church maintained by all taxpayers within the town.

The first record relative to a place for public worship in Groton was a vote passed on June 23, 1662. "That the meeting-house shall be set upon the right hand of the path, by a small white oak marked on the southwest side with two notches and a blaze." The approximate location of this first meeting-house is marked by a tablet. "At a general town meeting held 24th 10th M. 1666, it was agreed. . . . that all the lower seats in the new meeting house, that now is, should be divided; six for men and six for women. . . ." Evidently the seating plan did not please everyone for just a week later another general town meeting was held at which it was voted that "wives are to be placed by their husbands."

This first meeting-house was burned by Indians in 1676 together with 40 or more dwellings and resulted in the inhabitants fleeing to Concord. In December of the following year they voted to return to Groton the next spring and "begin to repair our habitations."

Soon after the resettlement of the town, agitation was started to build a new meeting-house and this was completed in 1680 and its location is definitely known. It was used for about 35 years and on the completion of the next meeting-house the old one was converted into a school-house.

At a town meeting in March of 1714 it was voted that the third meeting-house should stand "at Green's" (approximately the location of the present church.) In 1733 it was "Voted, that such persons as desire it, have liberty to make glass windows in the meeting-house, for the conveniency of their pews, provided they maintain them themselves." Other votes gave liberty to individuals to build seats, to ornament and improve several parts of the meeting-house at their private expense.

William Martin, of Groton, by his last will and testament, dated Mar. 6, 1672, bequeathed to said town the sum of 10 pounds "towards purchasing a meeting-house bell for the town's use." Mr. Martin died about three weeks later, but the bequest was not paid for nearly 60 years. In 1731, one of the legatees of Martin, who had received his portion of the estate, was sued and the legacy was recovered. The next year the town voted to procure a bell for the meeting-house with the money given by William Martin and 100 pounds bequeathed to the town for the same purpose by Jonathan Lawrence. In 1752 the town "Voted that the selectmen take down the meeting-house bell forthwith, and that it be sent to Great Britain to be new run."

On May 6, 1754, the town "Voted that the meeting-house committee provide one hoghead of rum, one loaf of white sugar, one quarter of a hundred of brown sugar" and that the committee "provide victuals & drink for a hundred men." These preparations were made for the raising of the fourth meeting-house, which took place a few days after and this is the present meeting-house of the First Parish. A drawing made by John Warner Barber in 1838 shows the building facing the north and what is now a steeple was then a tower with an entrance through the base, which was closed in.

There are entrances also on the west and south sides. The pulpit was very high with an imposing sounding board, the pews were square and there were galleries on three sides. Many of the parishioners came from a distance and stayed from the morning to the close of the afternoon services, bringing their noon lunches with them. It was customary for those living near by to invite the others to eat their lunches by the open fires in their homes. There was no heat in the meeting-house, so many used foot stoves.

This fourth meeting-house was struck by lightning in July of 1795 and the steeple somewhat injured, but the fire was extinguished without great damage. A common notion of the time, that fire set by lightning could not be put out by water, led several to bring milk from nearby farms.

A deed of one of those old square pews is preserved and is very interesting. It is from "Joseph Taylor, yeoman," to "Moses Child, gent.," and assigns one pew "on ye lower floor . . . north of ye broad ally . . . being a wall pew . . . between ye pews now claimed by James Prescott and Lt. Ezra Farnsworth . . . to hold quietly and peaceably." It was "signed, sealed and delivered . . . ye twenty fourth day of February A. D. 1773 in ye thirteenth year of his majesty's Reign" (King George the Third).

In 1839-40 the building was turned one-quarter around to face the west. Two of the galleries were removed, the rear gallery remaining for the organ and the singers. A floor was built between the two tiers of windows which were above and below the galleries, making a two-story building. On the lower floor as one entered from the front were entry and stairs, as now, with a door opening into what is now the vestry. The rest of the lower floor was used as a town hall, the entrance being on the south side. Central heat consisting of a wood stove encased in brick was installed and

The rest of the lower floor was used as a town hall, the entrance being on the south side. Central heat consisting of a wood stove encased in brick was installed and this was the first building in Groton to be so heated. An entry in the old records reads: "Parish Meeting, March 7, 1853. Met according to the warrant at 3 p. m. and voted to adjourn till half past four of the clock this afternoon on account of the town meeting in the other part of house." In 1859 a Town House was built and the lower story of the meeting-house was altered for social purposes and the various activities of the parish.

In 1877 the interior was again altered. The remaining gallery was removed and the organ lowered. The high pulpit was removed and the astrol lamps for burning sperm oil were removed. A centre aisle was made with two rows of seats on each side and an aisle against each wall. Some of the doors to the pews which followed the old square box pews can be seen today as part of the panelling in nearby houses.

In January of 1916 a committee of the parish set out to raise $10,000 "to restore the interior of the building so that it will be in harmony with the exterior." How successfully this was done is still evident, as very few changes have been made since then.

Over the main front door is a tablet with an inscription written by Dr. Samuel A. Green—"Fourth Parish Meeting House—Built 1755—Remodelled and partially turned around 1839—Here was held all the town meetings from 1755 to 1859. Here also sat the Court of General Sessions of the Peace and the Court of Common Pleas for Middlesex

I am sending you a picture of two of my new trains. I do not think that there is any like them on the tracks. I am naming one the Roosevelt after you. I am very interested in the new trains.

I would like to have you send me a picture of yourself & the White House. We have a neighbor by the name of William C. Anderson who was to visit the White House & he told me all about it. I sure would like to see it.

I am also enclosing you a picture the Zephyr. It runs through Hager City, Wis. about 20 miles from where I live. We were down there one Sunday to see it go through. I drew this picture as I remembered it.

I wonder if these new plans that I am sending you could ever be used as patterns. I am very interested in drawing plans of trains, airplanes & cars. and I hope that someday it will be of some use to me. I would like very much to attend a Mechanical School next fall if my

We are mailing, under separate cover, a name plate carved by two of our clients in the McAlester Division of the Oklahoma Transient Bureau.

This gift was carved by way of expressing their appreciation and gratitude for the security and comfort they are receiving in our camp and for the assistance you have given the Federal Transient Bureau.

We have established a Recreational and Educational program in all of our camps in the state. In addition to Educational classes, we are holding classes in Vocational Training. We are doing everything in our power to raise the morale of our clients, for we do not feel that we have accomplished anything if we merely house and feed them.

A number of our clients are going back to private industry and we hope that their associations with the Transient Bureau have made better men and women of them.

My dear Governor:--

Enclosed please find copy of letter I sent to Judge J.J. Burns, General Counsel, SEC, relative to the Hearst Consolidated Publications, Inc., which is self explanatory.

I was very much interested in Walter Lipman's article that appeared in the Los Angeles Sunday Times, July 21st, 1935. He covers much, particularly his statement with reference to the bad government record in handling most of these cases. In other words, his inferences were, I believe, that we had an awfully good case but handled by poor attorneys.

Personally, I quite agree with him. These cases should be put into stronger hands. Someone like the late Senator Walsh. Isn't it too bad that Senator Hiram Johnson can't be persuaded to handle these issues in his own way? We need someone like him who can deliver solid punches, properly directed.

I am trying to purchase a book that has been called to my attention, that I believe will cover much with reference to the Supreme Court's decisions for the past fifteen administrations. This book is a resume and was completed about 1931, and should be invaluable, perhaps you may have this book, but rather than take any chances I will forward it immediately upon receipt.

Trusting that you will not think me too presumptuous with reference to the above, I remain,

Sincerely, your friend,

Re: Your File GC:SIH

Dear Sir:--

I read with much interest yours of July 10th, relative to my wire June 27th to the President.

Since sending my wire I have not been able to find the "colored gentleman" in the Hearst financial setup. My only suggestion now, for the time being, would be to have someone to indirectly encourage him to avail himself of this cheap money. In other words, suggest that he start refunding approximately twelve million 6 1/4s due serially that are now outstanding for a 5% coupon at a saving of approximately 1-1/4%, or $150,000.00 annually.

He no doubt will avail himself of this opportunity, which would naturally force him to register under the Securities Exchange Commission and would give you a clearer picture of what his financial structure really looks like.

In the meantime I will keep you posted in the event that I run on to any other angles that will help solve this most annoying problem.

Respectfully yours,

Dear President and Mrs. Roosevelt Inasmuch as I cannot be at home for the unveiling of the Georgia Bicentennial tablet, and as I was the Georgia Bicentennial Commission's research student in London libraries in 1932 for the celebration material to be used in 1933, I hope you will accept these apples as my Thanksgiving gift of you mean to Georgia

You have always been first in the hearts of Georgians, and you will always be.

Please enjoy these apples, both of you. They came straight from the heart of Georgia just for you
all. They grew in Habersham County immortalized by Sidney Lanier's
"Song of the Chattahoochee" - I gave Miss Perkins some like these when she was in Georgia in the autumn of 1933, she liked them and I hope you will
