THE NEWS

220 East Forty Second St.

New York

December 31, 1935.

Hon. James A. Farley,
Postmaster General,
3 East 84th Street,
New York City, N. Y.

Dear General Farley:

At the suggestion of my brother, Raymond J. O'Sullivan, and with my compliments, I am enclosing two (2) copies of a monetary treatise, written back in 1908 by my now deceased Father, recently reprinted with a new title and a foreword by the writer.

I come with no conceit, General, when I declare that my esteemed Father, who consumed a life-time in the study of money, and its application to peoples, undeniably had come to know considerably more than most men of his time. The book has stood up for more than a quarter of a century.

When revising it all that was necessary was to change the tense. It is now prepared as a text-book. A great part of the "Q" and "A" was the work of my Father and I have added to it with material he left with me. Incidentally, all, not some, but all of the various points now raised about gold and silver, and their employment as moneys, are discussed and answered in that portion of the book. The book is devoid of tables. We make no claim to continuity but we do claim a sequence for the book.

Here, General, is a Monetary Bowdich which furnishes a truer course; meanwhile, while not scoffing at the theories of other men, furnishes answers to a majority of the questions now raised by the Felix Frankfurters, the Dr. Spragues the Alfred E. Smiths and others. And the book plows deeper into the subject of Social Justice than our esteemed loveable radio speaker at Detroit. I say that respectfully, for the crusade he has started will interest thinking men for decades to come.

If it is not an imposition on your time and energies, may I say that I will appreciate it if you will personally see that the enclosed extra copy reaches our distinguished President, with the suggestion he be not startled by the title. A glance at the book's index may furnish him with some very interesting material in the days before him. Say to him that I tender the book as a true American.

With Ray's best wishes as well as my own, I am,

Respectfully yours,

/s/ Arthur J. O'Sullivan

Dear Mr. Roosevelt,

I have written a booklet and put pictures in it of you. The title of the booklet is "One Who Saved The Nation." I am sending the booklet to you this morning.

I made a booklet last year of you and I gave it to my school teacher.

I have been saving pictures of you ever since you were inaugurated President of the United States. In my booklet of last year are some of the inauguration pictures.

I am fifteen years old and in the first year of high school. I am the daughter of a Republican family. I am very sorry that I will not have an opportunity to vote in this election. But I can hope and wish that you will be re-elected President of the United States.

I have kept up with every important detail and topic of this Administration since March 4, 1933 and I find it very satisfactory.

I heard both the Republican and Democratic National Conventions over the radio. At the Republican Convention Herbert Hoover spoke. He was given a demonstration but this demonstration was not that they really wanted Hoover. It was just to try to convince the American people listening over radios that a Republican would be elected President.

The Democrats had as speakers Senator Alben Barkley who told the honest truth. Senator Joseph F. Robinson who did the same. Judge Mack's nominating speech was much better and more sensible than that of John Hamilton. Gov. Lehman did a very nice job of seconding your nomination and Mr. Farley is one of the best campaign managers this country ever had.

In my district we have a very fine and most remarkable gentleman as our Congressman Mr. Scott Lucas. He was in Hardin this month and made a very fine speech. I thought Mr. Lucas has secured for my school a W. P. A. grant for a school gymnasium. He secured this under the Democratic Administration. Under Hoover what could we get? Nothing but depression. Under Landon what would we get. He would go back into depression and that would ruin America.

In closing I want to say that you the 32nd President of the United States has saved the lives of millions of people and you have brought back prosperity to all Americans. I don't care what kind of business they carry on they have been brought out of depression by you. I trust in the American people that they will reelect you Franklin Delano Roosevelt President of the United States.

Dear Mr. President:

May I have the pleasure of giving you the inclosed engraving of Hyde Park as it was seen by the English engraver, Bartlett, in 1839.

As a fellow collector I trust you will bear with me in asking for an inscription in my copy of "Looking Forward".

Like Oliver Twist, I know of no collector who does not ask for more, the "more" in this instance being a desire to know whether the famous expression "New Deal" did not come from Mark Twains' "Connecticut Yankee". Twain used the same words when he disapproved of the way King Arthur was running the government, recommending a "new deal".

I do hope you will think one with the temerity to ask an inscription on such a silly subject is deserving of one-especially in a first edition.

With kind wishes from one who easily qualifies under dear Eugene Fields' classification of "dofab", I am,

Truly yours,

ADMINISTRATOR

Wheeling, West Virginia,
December 23, 1936.

Hon. Franklin D. & Mrs. Roosevelt,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Roosevelt:

The women of Ohio County, West Virginia,
Sewing Projects are most appreciative of the interest
you have taken to formulate and continue our program.

This work, for the past year, has enabled them and their families not only to have the necessities of life, but it has been the means of raising their morale,
and an incentive to bring out their creative ability.

The rugs which we are sending you, by parcel post, were designed and made by them during their educational hours from materials which had been donated.

The "Eleanor Roosevelt" rug is carried out in our State colors of gold and blue, the rhododendron, as you know being West Virginia's flower.

With the very best of good wishes to you and your family for a Happy Christmas and a continuation of your successful Administration, we are,

Respectfully yours,

Ohio County, West Virginia Sewing Projects,
