URN DAILY"

November 1, 1933

P. P. F.

My dear Mr. Paul:

I am deeply touched by your generosity in offering to give me the very beautiful wooden chest which you have carved with your own hands. Knowing something of your situation, of your advanced age and of your present unemployment, I do not feel that I could accept this chest from you. Let me make a suggestion. Go to some of the clubs in Dayton or some of the better furniture stores and see if they will not be willing to put the chest on exhibition for you and make an effort to sell it, giving you the full price it will bring. It is quite possible in this way that you will find a ready and profitable market for your future carvings. I hope you will.

I am returning the chest to you and I hope very much that you will understand why.

With very best wishes, I am,

Very sincerely yours,

THE SCOUT OATH

On My Honor I will do my best:

1. To do my duty to God and my country, and to obey the Scout Law;
2. To help other people at all times;
3. To keep myself physically strong, mentally awake, and morally straight.

THE SCOUT LAW

1. A SCOUT IS TRUSTWORTHY

A scout's honor is to be trusted. If he were to violate his honor by telling a lie, or by cheating, or by not doing exactly a given task, when trusted on his honor, he may be directed to hand over his scout badge.

2. A SCOUT IS LOYAL

He is loyal to all to whom loyalty is due: his scout leader, his home, and parents and country.

3. A SCOUT IS HELPFUL

He must be prepared at any time to save life, help injured persons, and share the home duties. He must do at least one good turn to somebody every day.

4. A SCOUT IS FRIENDLY

He is a friend to all and a brother to every other scout.

5. A SCOUT IS COURTEOUS

He is polite to all, especially to women, children, old people, and the weak and helpless. He must not take pay for being helpful or courteous.

6. A SCOUT IS KIND

He is a friend to animals. He will not kill nor hurt any living creature needlessly, but will strive to save and protect all harmless life.

7. A SCOUT IS OBEDIENT

He obeys his parents, scoutmaster, patrol leader, and all other duly constituted authorities.

8. A SCOUT IS CHEERFUL

He smiles whenever he can. His obedience to orders is prompt and cheerful. He never shirks nor grumbles at hardships.

9. A SCOUT IS THRIFTY

He does not wantonly destroy property. He works faithfully, wastes nothing, and makes the best use of his opportunities. He saves his money so that he may pay his own way, be generous to those in need, and helpful to worthy objects. He may work for pay but must not receive tips for courtesies or good turns.

10. A SCOUT IS BRAVE

He has the courage to face danger in spite of fear and to stand up for the right against the coakings of friends or the jeers or threats of enemies, and defeat does not down him.

11. A SCOUT IS CLEAN

He keeps clean in body and thought, stands for clean speech, clean sport, clean habits, and travels with a clean crowd.

12. A SCOUT IS REVERENT

He is reverent toward God. He is faithful in his religious duties, and respects the convictions of others in matters of custom and religion.

Dear Mr. President:

I am shipping you by express at this date, with my compliments, a box of choice pecans from my orchard, now leased to the Federal Government for experimental purposes. The nuts not used in experiments are turned back to me.

These are to strengthen the back and nerves of the wisest, most courageous, and most just of all the presidents this country has had in my time of sixty-five years if not, indeed, in the history of the country. You will need, Sir, as I am sure you realize, all the strength and courage you can possibly muster in the coming months if you are to save this badly confused nation, with your policy of justice, from serious riots, that will force resort to a policy of violence, with the outcome of a Hitler or a Stalin in the White House. The hogs and rats of our economic system are not going to become human as the result of any thing that you or anybody can say to them or do to them. The rats will have to be exterminated and I know of no way of changing the nature of swine except by turning them into bacon.

Please do not take me to be a violent extremist; I am not. I believe, as I am sure you believe, in social evolution, not revolution, but we must move towards a reasonable and just social order and if obstructionists block the evolutionary course, revolution is the only alternative. Isn't it strange that the Morgans, Wiggins, Mellons and Fords cannot see this?

For the sake of our Country, I wish you success with all my heart. May you enjoy the pecans.

Our dear President:

The male member of this partnership has always been of Republican persuasion, voting that ticket even at the last presidential election. He is glad to confess to a complete conversion to those principles of government which you are so ably carrying out.

We expressed to you last night a box of California Red Emperor grapes packed in Sawdust and trust that you and your family will enjoy them on Thanksgiving day. We firmly believe a better day is dawning for California viticulture, but, if possible, please keep an eye on it.

The democratic partner wants to add something.

"True to form"; the erstwhile Republican has taken more than his share (in this instance space) but the Democratic partner adds the good wish that God will continue to bless and sustain you and give every American a true appreciation of your great leadership.

Very Sincerely,
(Miss) Paul A. Buck and J. R. Pinkham

Dear Mr. President:

Sending you by express today a working model of my invention, a window display attraction, the reason why is that I fear am about to loose it. sewing machine and a few other tools, can make a machine in about a week.
Myself and wife are managing with the help of a garden to live on the one dollar a day so it would not take long to get enough money to pay the necessary fees, and we could go to work with lighter hearts if we felt secure in holding on to this invention, while it is nothing extra ordinary P. T. Barnum said the American people liked to be fooled and that was certainly the case in Valdosta for two days, they liked it and said so.
It was sure an attraction because there are a great many people all around us that believe some one will sooner or later invent perpetual motion, and when they see this machine working they are sure it has been done.

We will not have a turkey dinner thanksgiving day but a letter from you will make our pork and turnip greens taste mighty good.

With best wishes for an enjoyable thanksgiving, I am.

Dear Mr. Perry:

Replying to your letter of recent date, will say that applications that lapse because of failure to pay the final government fee, may be renewed, but the renewal must be filed within one year after the date of allowance.

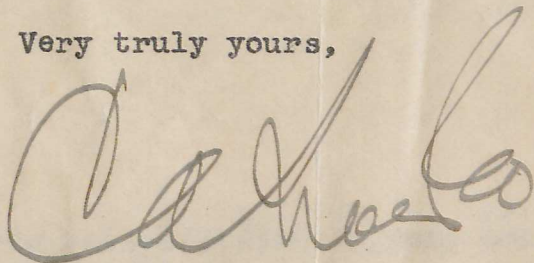

In view of the fact that your application was allowed October 15, 1930, you will see that the time for filing a renewal application has elapsed, and the renewal will not be accepted by the Patent Office.

You state in your letter that you have made changes or improvements in the original construction. In view of this fact, it is suggested that you file another application, embodying the improvements with the original disclosure.

If you wish to file another application to cover this invention, kindly let us have your check for $50.00 on account, whereupon the papers will be prepared and forwarded to you for your signature and approval. When you forward the fee, it is suggested that you forward a sketch and description of the improvements, so that we may embody them in the new application.

My dear Mr. Howe:-

It was kind of you to acknowledge receipt of my letter of September 27th, in which I made certain comments and suggestions.

During the War I came into very close contact with Mr. Hugh W. Sanford of Knoxville, Tenn., who was connected with the War Industries Board and was the medium of communication between that Board and the unofficial Alloys and Ores Committee which met regularly in New York once each week to allocate these necessary commodities to the various steel companies. As a consequence I saw Mr. Sanford every week either in Washington or New York. Some of the materials in question were absolutely essential in the manufacture of all kinds of steel. Other rarer alloys were needed for special steels and entered into the construction of armor plate, armor piercing projectiles and large guns (cannon). It was chiefly because of my familiarity with the production of these materials and the sources of the ores from which they were made that I refused the position of Chief of Chemical Warfare, concerning which I wrote you in my last communication.

Mr. Hugh W. Sanford had an older brother who was appointed as Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court, but I think has since died or retired.

After the war was over, in 1920, 22 and 23 Mr. Hugh W. Sanford wrote a book on economics published in two volumes in 1924 by the American Branch of the Oxford University

Bel
Press entitled, "The Business of Life". I have not seen Mr. Sanford since 1925 when his daughter graduated at Westover from which institution my daughter subsequently graduated. At that time he told me he had written this book and he presented me with the two volumes autographed. I have just ordered and received a second set of volumes 1 and 2 of this work, which I am reading again and find intensely interesting under present day conditions. I am taking the liberty, which I trust you will pardon, of sending these two volumes to you, thinking that you probably may not have seen them, but feeling that if you are interested in this subject you will read them with great interest. I don't know whether or not the President has time to read books of this character, but if he does I think he would enjoy getting Mr. Sanford's point of view, in which I concur substantially. If neither you nor the President have the time or the inclination to read these two volumes, I think they might be interesting to the Secretary of Agriculture or the Secretary of Commerce, or the Secretary of the Treasury, but if none of them care to be burdened with these two books I should think they would make a very valuable addition to the Congressional Library, as I assume there are some economists in Congress.

I wish the farmers as a whole could be induced to take steps which are essential to their own well being. In other words, if the farmers would reduce their acreage voluntarily by 1/4 to 1/3 they would have just so much less work to do and would receive more money than they now receive for what they produce at present and without any expense to the government for plowing parts of their crops and making other disposition of same. The land itself made idle could be allowed to rest for a time to advantage or it could be re-forested at their own expense provided the governmental authorities could give them some inducement for lands which they reforest at their own expense. This country is short of timber and if all the standing timber in the country was put under the control of a conservator or national forester, who would permit no tree to be cut down without his consent (as is done in France and perhaps other countries) and no tree to be cut down unless another one is planted, it would only be a generation or two before this country could produce its own timber.

However, I had a friend who inherited a small farm in New Hampshire and he, being an engineer, made a calculation that he could not afford to pay the taxes on the land in question if he reforested it and waited for the trees to grow.

Louis McH. Howe, Esq.

10/13/33

It seems to me that lands privately reforested might very well be exempt from taxation until the tree crop is harvested and then the governmental agencies might receive say one half of the net proceeds and the owner of the land the other half. Such activity would increase the fertility of the soil, curtail erosions thereof, prevent floods and droughts and be of great economical value to this country in a generation or two.

Trusting you will pardon me for the liberty I am taking in sending you the books and making further suggestions, I beg to remain

BRITISH - ISRAEL AND FOREIGN NATIONS

"The Doctrine of the chosen people does not imply the possession of an independent civilization. Britain is the nucleus of a World Kingdom which can hold together in unity many nations and many civilizations. The chosen people are an important thing. But "all the families of the earth" are the all-important thing. The chosen people are an essential instrument in the Divine plan. But their importance is in relation to other nations. Apart from the other nations their significance as a chosen people does not exist."

* * *

"It would be preposterous indeed if the acceptance of the Anglo-Saxon ideal—or idea of the Kingdom—involved the complete ignoring of the contributions to culture and civilization of all non-Anglo-Saxon communities. But the Kingdom-ideal involves no such negative condition. The whole peculiar construction of the Kingdom-organization is completely unappreciated if it is imagined that the free and full development of foreign civilizations is not provided for.

The coming Kingdom, or Universal Brotherhood of Nations, will not be a melting pot, but a harmonious orchestration.

David Posner, Esq.,

2406-82nd Street,
Brooklyn, New York.

Anglo-Saxon civilization is a specialized type of civilization specifically created to serve as a nucleus around which all other civilizations may unite and progress in free and full development.

Like the members of a body, each individual member of world-civilization has its own peculiar gift. The peculiar talent of each is essential to the lasting glory of civilization as a whole.

The peculiar contribution of Anglo-Saxon Civilization is Law and Government. If Anglo-Saxon power is destined to rule the world it is only to the end that all the families of the earth may be blessed as a result of this world dominion.

Only ignorant people talk of supremacy and domination. The expansion of the Kingdom will not spell the Anglicization or Americanization of the world. The Anglo-Saxon Race is not called to hold dominion in the sense of domination. It is called to serve."

"Anglo-Saxondom represents a nucleus in which the civilizations of every nation can find a common centre. The Anglo-Saxon Race forms a biological basis for a truly international Kingdom. Dominion not domination is its destiny. It influences all but compels none. It represents the outline of a Kingdom the glory of whose unity is in its diversity. All civilizations are invited to bring their own peculiar glory into it."

His Excellency
Franklin D. Roosevelt,
The White House,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

The jewel case which accompanies this letter contains a watch charm which I tender to you both as an individual citizen and as the President of the United States.

I hope you will accept this gift as it has a special significance for you.

The five stars on the outer surface of the cylinder stand for the Presidents of the United States upon whose lives attempts have been made. The red stars symbolize the Presidents who have been assassinated, while the blue ones represent the Presidents who have escaped unharmed in spite of the cowardly attacks of assassins.

Within the watch charm is a scroll upon which has been inscribed a six pointed star or "Shield of David". In the upper and lower points of the star you will note four Hebrew Characters. These stand for a prayer in Hebrew that the Lord shall watch over and protect you from all harm. The three characters in the middle are F. D. R. translated into Hebrew, thus designating the individual in whose behalf this prayer is being invoked.

I have conceived and made this watch charm myself, and I respectfully offer it as a token of the esteem in which I hold you both as a man and as a leader of men.

Sincerely yours,

DAVID POSNER

History of Minitque cane and the Antique Knot that is mountain sweet vine
I am paralyzed in my legs and was out in the mountains last June for a days outing and for exercise I came up on a wood chopper and when he cut down an old oak tree I saw a funny knot and managed to get it, and being an old antique fan and having had quite a bit of experience in finishing as I am a Painter & Decorator I saw I had something very unusual, and that the knot was probably tied 2 or 3 hundred years ago maybe by an Indian maid out talking with the Fairies. so I put myself to thinking how I was going to match a Cane to that Knot for and keep in line with it. so I found a dog wood that was twisted up with a vine, so I seasoned it out and worked it all out with a pocket knife & sand paper then finished Cane to match the Knot (over) as the knot is finished natural and has antique coloring from age

I am very proud of the cane and had a big kick out of producing something unique. I saw our Honorable President in a news Reel and I thought I discovered him leaning on a stick, and knowing what a fight he has put up to come back, as I have put up a big fight myself, I said right that cane must go to our worthy President as it is so valuable to go on the market as you wouldn't find that knot again in many years travel or hunting.

I hope you appreciate it as much as I do in giving it, as it is from my heart.

Very Truly yours

Jas. V. Purcell, Jr.
