MEMORANDUM TO: Mr. John Collier, Commissioner of Indian Affairs.

The accompanying plaque was given to me, while on a recent field trip, by Mr. John Phoebus, white Trader on the Papago Reservation, for transmission to President Roosevelt.

The Indian woman who wove this plaque explained the various designs as follows: The NRA Eagle has its talons fastened on the serpent, representing unscrupulous business interests, and the coyote tracks around the edge represent the general public waiting to see who is victorious before joining either side.

Dear President Roosevelt: ^{adp} 2/1/35

The first thing when we got back in the fall from vacation, our school teacher, Miss Mason told us that she had seen you. It was at Lake City on the Mississippi where the people had made a river harbor. She sat in the sun for four hours and a half, but she said she would have been willing to be roasted as brown as a Thanksgiving turkey to see you. We would like to invite you to Minneapolis next summer to go boating and fishing on our lakes and to see our Dowling School for crippled children and the Shrine hospital for them also. For your birthday I have made you a wall hanging of a clipper ship. I hope you like it. We all wish you a merry birthday.
Your little friend
Room 204, 5B. Martin Nordstrom

P.S. We all printed posters to remind our parents of your birthday party.
We liked to print them. We all know some crippled children who go from our neighborhood way across the city in a bus to Dowling School near Minnehaha. Your kind of birthday party is pretty good, we think. We asked our teacher if we could write to you, and she said sure we could, because you like children.

Dear Sir:

I am sending you a little whittled novelty for your birthday.

I live out on the prairies 20 miles from closest town, am not able to do much of any kind of work, so spend some of these cold winter days whittling. Have had 4 bad crop years and have lost every thing, suppose the farm will go next.

Congratulations for your "birthday" and the New Deal.

Yours Sincerely
