Former State Senator Dell Hill Launches Alabama Values PAC
To Fight for Conservative, Alabama Values

Talladega, Alabama – Today, former Alabama State Senator Dell Hill officially launched the Alabama Values PAC. Hill made the following statement:

I am proud to announce the Alabama Values PAC. Funded exclusively with donations from Alabamians, we will defend the traditional Christian principles that have made Alabama the best place to raise a family, start a business, and build strong communities.

In recent years, we've seen our so-called conservative leaders sell out these values by voting to give in-state tuition to illegal aliens, parole violent criminals early, restrict our Second Amendment and property rights, erase the voices of our veterans, and harm our neighborhoods by bringing in casinos and turning every cell phone into a slot machine. They've even fought to lower the standards for their own conduct by legalizing bribery.

The Alabama these politicians are trying to create is not the one I grew up in and not the one I want to leave to future generations. Alabama Values PAC is going to make the voice of all true conservatives in our state heard loud and clear.

ABOUT DELL HILL

Dell Hill, born in 1942 in Talladega County, stands as a strong example of Alabama leadership. An Auburn University chemical engineering graduate and U.S. Army veteran, he has lived a life of discipline, integrity, and public service. Elected to the Alabama State Senate in 1994, he served seven years fighting for rural families and businesses. He later served as Talladega County Probate Judge, earning respect for his fair and effective leadership. With his wife Carolyn, Hill operates Selwood Farm in Alpine. He turned the family property into a thriving agritourism destination that welcomes thousands of visitors each year. Deeply guided by Christian faith and family, he recounts his journey in the book My Struggle, His Glory, and is active in his church, using his testimony to call others to faith and service.
