Faculty Affairs and Development

To learn more about the ATI’s team of AT and ICT accessibility specialists, visit pshephe@gmu.edu or ckreitze@gmu.edu.

Diversity, Inclusion, and Well-being

We want to reach out to you in light of the events that have been taking place over the past week. We are grieving with our black community.

We want you to know that Mason is here for you, and we are here for the Mason community.

Provost’s Announcement

The keynote speaker, Dr. O’Neil, will discuss learning models that have emerged from the COVID-19 disease. The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

In This Issue

Assistive Technology Initiative

Mason’s Assistive Technology Initiative (ATI) is ready to support Mason faculty, staff, and students with all their assistive technology needs.

In Accessible Toward Tomorrow: Virtual Learning, Distance Learning, and the New Normal, Dr. O’Neil will discuss learning models that have emerged from the COVID-19 disease. The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

COVID-19 disease. The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.

The first session will focus on the effects of the pandemic on higher education, followed by sessions on Mason Online Pandemic Series.