

Uncomplicated UI Simplifies the Process

Marcel Heeremans is the head of software engineering at Itarmi—an on-demand IT service provider that connects businesses worldwide with top-class technical talent.

Challenge

When you're looking to provide others with engineering talent, the last thing you want to do is get bogged down by too many npm packages. Marcel learned quickly that it's unfortunately easy to lose a huge amount of time navigating a complex set of packages. So, he looked for an alternative and found one in the form of Syncfusion® Essential Studio®.

Solution

To find the perfect grid components for Itarmi's app, Marcel sought a component library with a user-friendly interface made for all kinds of developers. He found that Syncfusion had a "very comprehensive suite with high-quality controls," which meant that Itarmi could complete their app and build a network of engineers for worldwide use.

Impact

After making the switch to Syncfusion controls, Itarmi was able to simplify its development process and complete its SaaS platform for engineering resources.

Featured Quote

"Very comprehensive suite with high-quality controls."

