

CSU Professional Education Product Management Bootcamp

Gain in-demand product management skills to help advance your career—all live online over 12 weeks!

According to Lightcast™, product management employment in the U.S. is projected to grow 22% over the next decade.

Businesses and organizations in every major industry are actively seeking product managers, including local employers like Dish Network, Dell, and Charter Communications.

Graduates of the CSU Professional Education Product Management Bootcamp will have the skills to qualify for these jobs and more.

What You'll Learn

- Identify basic functions of product management, the stages of the product development cycle, and how product companies work.
- Learn how to use essential product management tools and software, including Jira, Balsamiq, Figma, Google Analytics, Strategyzer, and more.
- Build key assets to drive product development and hypothesis validation.
- Understand best practices for building a product strategy.

Entry-Level Roles You'll Be Ready For

Product
Manager

Solutions Manager

Product Owner

Product Analyst

Average Entry-Level Product Manager Salary

$81,931*
in Denver

*Glassdoor (2023)

Tuition Cost

$6,750

Scholarships and Payment Options Available

Format

Part-Time, 12 Weeks Live Online

Skill Level

Beginner