

Jesus Calls Us to Love Others

Keep these ideas in mind as you study Unit 5, Session 24.

The Seventh through Tenth Commandments help us be good members of society.

PAGE 98

Neighbors are not just the people who live in our neighborhood. They are all those who are affected by our actions. We want to make decisions that demonstrate to our neighbors that we are Jesus' followers.

PAGE 98

The Seventh Commandment teaches us that stealing is wrong, and it requires us to honor the promises we make.

PAGE 99

The Eighth Commandment calls us to be truthful in what we say, what we do, and how we live.

PAGE 99

The Ninth and Tenth Commandments warn us not to envy or covet the good fortune or possessions of others. To covet something means to have an excessive desire to possess something that belongs to someone else.

PAGE 99

Temperance is a virtue that can help us when we feel envious. This virtue helps limit our desire for things that give us pleasure.

PAGE 99

After 40 years of wandering in the wilderness, Moses and the Hebrews arrived near the land God had promised to them. Before the Hebrews entered this new land, Moses reminded them that the Covenant was written on their hearts—God would be their God, and they would be his people.
